... I have tried to bring some reason among the human beings in this regard, but the newspapers and magazines, etc. have neither noted nor published my articles. They just cannot make any money with the truth, which is why they only set forth senseless and false prophetic nonsense of pseudo astrologers, pseudo clairvoyants, and other charlatans and conjurers, whereby they also still mistakenly involve Nostradamus among and with these and maintain that he already prophesied the same nonsense even then, even though not a word of this is true and his gloomy prophecies that include planetary phenomena relate to completely different events, which still lie far in the future. But over and over again, these twits and would-be experts of Nostradamus' prophecies appear, who then claim that they have found the key to unraveling his prophecies, particularly because certain events of the world are repeated again and again, and so then, these lunatics are misled to accept that a prophecy had been devised for such an event. This is best seen with the events of Napoleon's time, with the events of the First and Second World War, and with the running time since then. Nevertheless, every possible and impossible prophecy of Nostradamus is actually pressed into these events, even though they do not describe these incidents at all and these are to be found in other centuries. But the cunning fraudsters make millions with this and become stinking rich through this. It really is a shame, and indeed, a rather damned one.

Billy:

And in sectarian circles, this will probably again be an occasion to make a doomsday scenario, as this will certainly also be the case with the solar eclipse appearing in Europe on the 11th of August, 1999, about which even Nostradamus has written, but which is misunderstood, unfortunately.

Billy:

During the last time I have dealt a little more thoroughly with Nostradamus as well as with his so-called prophecies. I never had any reason to do so before. Recently someone asked me about Michel Nostradamus and other visionaries. So I tried to do these things. My knowledge was this: Nostradamus was indeed a seer who foresaw many things. But many of his statements are not actual prophecies, as it is generally so gladly seen, because often they are so to speak prophylactic warnings, if I may say so. With this insight I have also found out that so far in fact none of those persons have found the key to the Nostradamus statements who claim that of themselves. Moreover, the realization of the Nostradamus statements depends on the fact that in world politics no improving situations are created which would change the course of world events etc. for the better, as this must be the case with prophecies if they are to be fulfilled. This fact also applies to statements of other visionaries etc., which appear in large numbers. ...

... The religious fanatics and all kinds of religious sectarians are now in high season again. But these are also mainly the ones who transform purely prophylactic warnings of seers and real prophets into enormous threats and blasphemous assertions, as well as the statements of Michel Nostradamus, who was actually Medicus, healer, astrologer and alchemist of his sign. Truthfully not many of his prophecies have arrived yet, but only just 14%, which is why one has to be extremely careful with the term 'seer'. What will come out in terms of his prophylactic statements for the future will be proven in the time to come. According to his statements, if all his warnings and also the prophecies are true, a great deal will be changed in this world. With a review of Nostradamus' way of working I also found out that only after the 1st of March 2055 the actual great events should occur, whereby this should also be the point in time from which the key for his statements should possibly be found and fathomed. Somehow, it seems to me, Michel Nostradamus also wanted to set a monument to himself with his works, because he wanted to remain in people's memories. Nevertheless, a seer and prophet cannot be denied him to a certain degree, as is the case with the most diverse other seers, whose statements I have examined and clarified.

...

Billy:

... We already talked about Nostradamus. About him certain people say that some of his warnings and prophecies are tendentious Jewish-Arab.

Ptaah:

202. There are indeed some things true, but this is not surprising when you know that his parents were of Jewish faith and that he was also taught in the Jewish religion as well as in Islam.

203. Nonetheless, Nostradamus was strongly attached to the Christian faith and was quite unobjective and misguided in this regard.

Billy:

Actually, I did not want to talk about tomorrow, the 11th of August 1999, but a question was put to me about that day. You know that many false prophets who deal with astrology and Nostradamus predicted a lot of disaster tomorrow, even the beginning of the Third World War and the end of the world, which is of course all nonsense. The starting point for all these gloomy false assertions and prophecies is Michel Notre-Dame alias Michel Nostradamus and his prophecies respectively, whereby in particular Centuria X (10/72) is used, which explains the following, as I read here:

"L'an mil neuf cent nonante neuf-sept mois,
You ciel viendra an grand roy d'effrayeur:
Résusciter le grand Roy d'Angolmois,
Avant et après Mars régner par bonheur."

Translated into German, it means something like:

"In the year nineteen hundred and ninety nine
A great king of horrors comes from heaven;
Angolmois' great king resurrected
Before, after Mars, the kingdom shall be happy."

Another translation:

"In 1999, the seventh month,
A great king of horrors will appear in the sky:
He will awaken the great king of Angolmois from the dead,
Before and after, Mars will rule at a good time."

As you hear, some things emerge from these two translations that do not exactly coincide, and the more you read such translations of the Nostradamus verses, the more you encounter inconsistencies. Also with regard to the interpretations or interpretations of the prophetic verses, a great salad prevails, for there are attributed to events that have taken place some Nostradamus verses, which in reality have completely different reasons and took place at different times than the 'deciphers' and 'unravelers' of the Nostradamus prophecies claim. So far, in truth, only a few prophetic verses written by Michel Nostradamus have really been deciphered, such as the part of centuria X/72 that refers to the eclipse of the sun of the 11th of August 1999. But all the nonsense of the false prophets, who refer to their astrological 'abilities' and to the centurion X/72 of Nostradamus, has absolutely nothing to do with his prophecies. Also that tomorrow's eclipse of the sun is supposed to cause some disaster in the short or long term, or that a 'spiritual' change of the world results from it, or even the Third World War or the end of the world, this corresponds not only to a nonsensical assertion, but also to an effective nonsense, and that no matter by which false prophets the idiotic statements and assertions are made. Solar eclipses, both partial and total, have existed for millions of years, for as long as Earth, moon and sun have existed. And never did a solar eclipse have any influence on earthly world events or on the changes of consciousness of man. The only influences that appeared were those of faith and delusion, although these were not triggered by the eclipse itself, but solely by the fear and delusion of the people themselves, who always saw something dangerous, terrifying, disastrous and frightening behind an eclipse event. And although Nostradamus was somewhat more knowledgeable and enlightened than his contemporaries, he also saw in an eclipse of the sun all those horrors which the other mad believers of his time also saw and as there are many such still today; first of all the false prophets and prophetesses of astrological and Nostradamian as well as similar nature. I just wanted to have said that. But now to the question that I actually wanted to address to you: How did Michel Notre-Dame or Nostradamus actually come to his prophetic verses? Was he clairvoyant or did he have inspirations? Was everything based on astrological calculations or did he have visions? For my part I cannot answer this question exactly, why I need your help. I am also interested in myself, which is why I think that you can certainly help me by answering the questions correctly. Since my interest has also been aroused, it is not exclusively a question from other people. What do you mean?

Ptaah:

1. First of all I would like to agree with all what you have explained concerning Nostradamus and the false prophets, and I think that this was good, because surely you will write down and publish our present conversation as a contact report, whereby also all interested persons in this relationship receive the correct information.
2. Secondly, I think that it is correct that I can answer your questions, as the interest in this is mainly with you.
3. So it has to be explained that Nostradamus compiled his prophetic verses in different ways, namely by performing astrological and astronomical calculations, but also by having visions and clairvoyant abilities.
4. But he mixed all this with so-called means of expanding consciousness, because he was addicted to drugs and opium.
5. However, this did not prevent him from grasping real prophetic moments and dressing them in verses.
6. More cannot actually be explained, because you yourself have brought up the further necessary issues.

19. You are surely still able to remember that in autumn of last year, a flying object unknown to us appeared, which responded to none of our calls.

20. To this day, we still have not been able to get a hold of it either, even though it still moves in the earthly space.

21. So far, if we tried to get a hold of this object, it regularly escaped by retreating into a dimension unknown to us.

22. This same object, in the course of last autumn, has now done some things that are incomprehensible to us, and we expect that the same or similar events will happen again.

23. Thus, this flying object, with which it undoubtedly concerns a small spaceship, caused some devastation in Russia last autumn.

24. Thus, this approximately 100-meter wide ship ventured in broad daylight over the Russian city of Petrozavodsk and shot down on the Earth with already well-developed laser cannons, whereby some damage was caused.

25. Of course, the inhabitants of the city were moved into fear and fright through this, and everything did not exactly serve to produce a friendly disposition toward all those who come from outside of the Earth to this planet.

26. It was on Tuesday, on the 20th of September, 1977, at 4:07 PM.

27. The object – no doubt a small spaceship, as I already said – came over the city of Petrozavodsk at Lake Onega, shot out of the clouds, paused for more than 11 minutes over the port area, and then, suddenly and for inexplicable reasons, set its laser cannons in function.

15. And what can be said about the so-called Philadelphia Experiment, about which first of all an author named Berlitz wrote an imaginative book:

16. There has never been such an experiment, neither in the USA nor anywhere else on earth.

17. The whole fantastic story is basically based on the fraudulent claims of a man named Kal Allen regarding an alleged experiment with a ship called the 'USS Eldrige'.

18. The man thought that his tall tale would enhance his image and make him rich.

19. When he did not succeed and the situation became too precarious for him to be exposed as a liar, he disappeared without a trace.

It is on account of the new Pope in Rome: when will this twit be elected, who will he be, and how long will he remain in his office, etc.?

Quetzal:

103. ... the new Pope will not exercise his office very long.

104. The new Pope will be determined by means of a very short voting period and by only 111 cardinals, who will appoint a cardinal by the name of Luciani as the new Pope by the conclave on Saturday, the 26th of August.

105. His new name will be Pope John Paul I.

106. As brief as the time for his appointment will be, so brief will his term of office also be.

107. After the mentioning of his name in the conclave, it will then take exactly 33 minutes before he is appointed as the new Pope by the conclave.

108. This 33-minute consultation time will also be exactly the number of days, during which he will exercise his office as Pope, then to finish his life on the 28th of September, 1978, at exactly 11:07 PM, without anyone being with him; therefore, he will part from this world alone.

109. His death, however, will not be a natural one but a forced one, which will in turn be caused by a poison that stops heart activity, which then gives the impression of a heart attack.

110. The new Pope will be assassinated because he will shock the aristocratic rule of the Vatican and even horrify it by his behaviour and his lifestyle.

111. But so will he also make deadly enemies among the cardinals and many others, for he will break the tradition of the Pope's coronation with a papal crown and only allow a fairly simple ceremony.

112. But the new Pope will be too people-friendly in the eyes and thoughts of many authoritative Vatican officials, which is not good for the Vatican because it would lose power through this.

113. So already a few hours after his appointment, a conspiracy will be forged, which will have the goal of removing this Pope John Paul I very quickly from his office, and to be sure, by an assassination of the same.

Asket:

167. Just as with Stalin, the same very rapidly volatilising from the body poison will be used to murder Pope John the Twenty-third in the year 1963, who will hold his office for only a very short number of years.

168. But also his successor, Pope Paul the Sixth, will be eliminated in the same manner, through machinations of the cardinals, in collaboration with extremists hostile towards Zionists and Jews, who have already forged their murderous intrigues at the present time and are already putting the things to come on track.

Billy:

Asket once said that Pope Paul VI would be poisoned shortly after he took office. In contrast to other statements that have always been confirmed, this statement of hers did not come true. Can you tell me why not?

Semjase:

74. It has occurred, and two years after his appointment as chief pastor.

Billy:

You speak in riddles. How am I supposed to understand that? Pope Paul VI is still alive, and yet he has been poisoned and is therefore dead? So this really goes beyond my 'spiritual' horizon.

Semjase:

75. I want to explain it to you, but you cannot make it public yet. ...

79. ... Two years after his appointment, Pope Paul VI was recognised by a Vatican Council decision of the Catholic bishops and cardinals as being opposed to their purposes on secret matters, which meant that he was not suitable for their dishonest might-seeking purposes, which is why it was recognised in a secret ballot that the chief pastor should be brought to death by the hand of assassins and replaced by a doppelganger faithfully devoted to the bishops and cardinals.

80. So Pope Paul was murdered by poison and replaced by a cardinal of striking resemblance.

Semjase:

4. Through the Vatican Council, a Cardinal named Pietro Pavese was appointed the new Supreme Pontiff of the Catholic Church, who, however, was not willing and unaccommodating to the plans of a certain few bishops and cardinals.

5. By this decision he, Cardinal Pietro Pavese, was given the name Pope Paul VI.

6. But by intriguing machinations of said few Bishops and Cardinals, his appointment as Supreme Pontiff was revoked still in the same hour in a secret circle and in his place a Cardinal with the name Giovanni Battista Montini, who looked deceptively similar to him in appearance, was then officially proclaimed Pope Paul VI, because he was submissive to the will and desires of the few, but very powerful and radical-conservative Bishops and Cardinals.

7. But the real Pope Paul VI Pietro Pavese, who was fundamentally innovative and revolutionary in his convictions and wanted to modernise the Catholic Church in accordance with the times and bring it into line with the current state of modern knowledge, was deprived of his freedom because of the danger that he would make the Council's intrigue known, and was imprisoned in the Vatican for two years, up until the last degrees of his familial ties, etc. of Pietro Pavese's were known, through further ecclesiastical intrigues.

8. Of course, everything was researched in secret, as is characteristic of the Catholic Church.

9. After the most exact knowledge of all kinship-factors, all the relatives of the imprisoned were murdered abruptly by hired assassins, in fact by different methods.

10. Then, when the certainty reigned that no relatives, etc. were among the living, Pope Paul VI was also murdered, by poison.

11. And to be absolutely sure that this enormous intrigue and series of murders would never become known, the ecclesiastical power of the Catholic office erased all records in the birth registers, etc., so that today nothing points to the former existence of the real Pope Paul VI and his relatives, etc.

Since 1903, anti-Semitic neo-Nazi groups, organizations, individual fanatics and other anti-Jewish circles have officially been working around with the so-called 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', which are ascribed to Jewish-Zionist circles or wise men. Since then they have given and continue to give rise to persecution and hatred of the Jews. But what really corresponds to the truth with regard to these 'protocols'? In a few words – as the Plejadier/Plejaren explain – it is a tremendous work of lies, an incredibly bad forgery or plagiarism, which originated from earlier novels, which were written after the middle of the 19th century. According to the Plejadisch-Plejarischen data the highest boss of the Russian secret service in Paris, Pyotr Ratschkowski, created from it in the years 1897/98 the final version of the slanderous work, which was published then for the first time in the year 1903 in Russia in the magazine 'Znamia' (The Banner) – with the lying claim that the 'protocol' is genuine. The actual dissemination of the protocol, however, did not take place until 1919, quite explosively as the work of Russian opponents of the 1917 revolution. The intention was undoubtedly to turn anti-Semitism into a weapon against Bolshevism by publishing the alleged protocols. In NSDAP Germany, the 'Protocols' were then adopted – brought here and introduced by a Ukrainian officer and fighter against the Russian Revolution, named Fjodr Winberg, living in exile in Germany.

The slanderous work is still in circulation today and continues to cause racist damage, claiming that the Jews created a secret world government and hoarded all the gold; the 'Wise Men of Zion' and the Jewish people are to blame for wars and political and economic crises, etc. Such slanderous allegations exist in many variations of 'protocols', which of course is a found food for anti-Semitic Nazi and other right-wing extremist racist circles. ...

Today, the anti-Semitic neo-Nazi and other racist and right-wing extremist circles are using all governments and high-ranking government figures as well as all banks and their bosses – first and foremost the Rothschilds and the business magnates, etc. – in the slanderous machinations of the 'Protocols' in order to stir up hatred especially against the Jewish world and its alleged world government.

During the Nazi era, the anti-Semitic inflammatory writing 'Protokolle der Weisen von Zion' (Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion) was spread by the Nazis with proclamations and cheers, not only in Germany, but also wherever Nazis were active in other countries. In Switzerland, these were the Fröntler who circulated the Lie Protocols when Adolf Hitler finally seized power in Germany in the spring of 1933. This led the Jewish organizations in Switzerland to take legal action against the defamatory protocols at the Bern District Court. The trial attracted worldwide attention, and it was made clear that the alleged protocols were a forgery or a work of lies. Unfortunately, a few years later, the verdict was trivialised and, so to speak, overturned again by the Supreme Court, which meant that the lies and slander against the Jews were once again outlawed.

The 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are nothing other than lies, deception and deception in truly international criminal form. They are a tremendously slanderous work of irresponsible, criminal anti-Semites; an evil work of genocide and insult to the people, with which Adolf Hitler and his henchmen also functioned and which contributed immensely to the fact that in Hitler's Nazi Empire millions of innocent Jews and also of people of other races and of other faiths – men, women and children – were tortured, tortured and handed over terrible deaths.

Billy:

... Book works and writings such as the so-called 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are the worst slanderous works. They are invented conspiracies for the purpose of slandering, persecuting and destroying the people of the Jewish faith. Virtually all writings and books of this kind bear witness to a confused Nazi, political, extreme right-wing and religious fanaticism of the most degenerate kind, generally aimed at denigrating the Jewish faithful and fomenting hatred for Jews and the destruction of Israel. ...

The 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are based on a malicious forgery, which is the basis of modern anti-Semitism. This forgery circulates under various names, but the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion' is the best known and most enduring document of modern international anti-Semitism. The term 'forgery' must be used with the utmost caution, however, because it is in no way appropriate for this case, because there is no genuine original, because, in the sense of the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', it was not a Jewish 'wise man' who produced such a document. But a forgery would be that a genuine document would have had to be fraudulently reproduced as closely as possible to the original in order to pass it off as genuine. With regard to the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', however, there has never been a real original that could have been copied, but it was from the very beginning a pure and smooth invention or a freely found fiction without any truth content. If we dispense with a few half- or incomprehensible allusions to French or Russian politics at the turn of the century, the protocol fiction lacks any reference to reality.

In fact, it should be possible to think that every reasonable and unprejudiced person should have noticed the absurd, frivolous and fantastic nature of the text of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' from the very beginning, because the whole thing is extremely badly written and full of extremely tiring repetitions, with no recognizable and logical structure, except for a rough three-theme sequence in relation to liberalism. This is supposed to correspond to the intention of Judaism to seize world domination and create a utopian empire under an absolutist Jewish monarchy. Otherwise, the discourse is lost in contemporary historical jugglery and economic whims. The tiresome repetitions are to be seen purely from a psychological point of view, because through constant repetition man learns, or rather 'drops fill the glass', because through the endless repetitions the whole thing hammers itself in, whereby man – just like when learning through constant repetition – memorizes everything. In the case of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', however, everything is hammered in by the tiring repetitions in such a way that it evokes thoughts of fear and feelings of anxiety and thus involuntarily the delusion of a Jewish conspiracy to dominate the world and mankind. ...

Ptaah:

12. Already at the 280th contact conversation on the 3rd of March 2000 and at the 445th of the 8th of March 2007, we talked about the falsified 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', which are based on malicious lies and slander and have conjured up dramatic events.

13. Basically, this work of lies and slander, created at the beginning of the 20th century, can be traced back to the Russian secret service.

14. Lying and slanderous, this book claims that a secret world conspiracy has been uncovered, which originated with Judaism and had the aim of achieving world domination.

15. This is to be achieved through capitalism and with the help of Freemasons and communism.

16. These alleged 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' were processed into a book that sold like hot cakes and was considered to be the undeniable truth, and is also still considered to be the real truth by all conspiracy believers today.

17. This did not and does not leave the believers in this forgery in any doubt, although shortly after the book was published it could be proven beyond doubt that it was a common forgery, intended to malign and discredit the entire Jewish world and to incite an inflammatory hunt against the widespread Jewish people.

18. The evidence was of no use, however, because after the book had been sold it was too late to be able to satisfy the truth about the forger's file, which was the false 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion'.

19. The whole thing was printed and sold en masse in the 20th century as a lying and slanderous smear book in large editions, and Germany in particular was literally flooded with it, and also became a basic work for Adolf Hitler and for the Nazis, whose anti-Jewish propaganda was based on this slanderous work.

20. Hitler, who himself was partly of Jewish descent, took the false 'Protocols' and used them to fulfil his lust for power, for his criminal work and to trigger the Second World War.

21. With the help of the falsified 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' he incited himself and the German population against the Jews, finding particularly diligent supporters for his anti-Jewish propaganda among those who glorified him and with whom he was able to build up the Nazi system.

22. And it is a fact that Adolf Hitler's plans for world conquest, which were criminal to humanity, were only discovered through the wrong 'protocols', with the old Thule Society supporting him in his mania for war and world domination.

23. Only through this it was also possible, against false 'chroniclers' and false 'factual experts' in the matter of Adolf Hitler etc., that this fanatical and insane criminal of humanity could lead the world into the Second World War and the Holocaust.

24. But fanatics and lunatics in the matter of Jew-hatred existed and exist in many countries on Earth, whereby nowadays especially the neo-Nazis in Germany, Russia and the USA have to be mentioned.

25. But even before the Second World War, the USA made a big name for itself in terms of hatred of Jews as a result of the book of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', whereby the automobile giant Henry Ford stood out in particular, who had malicious and hateful inflammatory writings against Judaism printed in huge editions and spread them everywhere. ...

32. Osama bin Laden regarded the false 'protocols' as the truth and built his anti-Semitic hatred on them, which he then extended to the USA and the Christian world as well.

Asket:

1. You wonder about the age of the pyramid.

2. In truth its history is somewhat confused, because its origins lead back to very early times.

3. Were I to tell them to you now, their meaning and the history of its origin would lead much too far.
4. So I will only tell you the required data, according to which you can form a picture for yourself.
5. This, and also a few other pyramids on the Earth, was constructed when the constellation of Lyra (Lyre - Explanation of September 4th, 1975) was positioned in the sign of Cancer.
6. That results in a time span of  $2 \times 36,650$  years and therefore 73,300 years in total.
7. You must calculate  $2 \times 36,650$  years back from the time of the Hegira in order for you to obtain the correct figure.
8. Until shortly before the great deluge, about 9,545 B.C., the pyramids here in this land remained abandoned to their fate and nobody bothered anymore about them.
9. But they acquired a significance again 300 years before the deluge, even if not in their original sense, which unfortunately, for many kinds of reasons, may not be named.
10. But it still has to be explained that the erroneous assumptions, of all of the Earth scientists, about the time of the ark-deluge are just as very wrong - by umpteen thousands of years - as are the erroneous calculations, to which they have succumbed, about the times of various kings and emperors who lived thousands of years ago.
11. The actual time, which was handed down to you [Earthlings], of the deluge of the ark, is also greatly falsified, because it occurred nearly 100,000 years ago and therefore must be calculated to be very much earlier than the lifetime of King SAHLUK who had taken over an important role in regard to the pyramids.
12. King Sahluk lived about 300 years before the great deluge.
13. He had a son named SAURID, who in large measure had the ability to see into the future.
14. In this way, in a dream, he saw a great comet which pulled along seven smaller comets behind it, which collided with the Earth with terrible roaring sounds, whereby darkness came upon the world.
15. Saurid saw countless humans die because of that, because they were killed by the seven impacting comets.
16. The few survivors did not know where they could save themselves in order to escape a hail of projectiles from outer space - which accompanied the catastrophe - as well as the resulting stinking and hot bodies of water.
17. Saurid reported his bad dream to his father who summoned all the astrologers and scientists in the land.
18. By means of difficult work and written records they found out that, in the course of three hundred years, a gigantic comet would fall to Earth, throwing it out of its orbit and turning it in its course.
19. In order to keep from having the survival of terrestrial humanity put into question by this expected catastrophe, King Sahluk ordered that the already existing pyramids be prepared as protection stations and survival stations for the humans of the still distant future.
20. He also directed that underground villages and stores of goods be established and non-perishable food be stowed in the pyramids and underground villages.
21. His descendents, as well as the later rulers of the land, also were faithful to these directions.
22. Over the following three hundred years the pyramids were maintained and also their outer sides were covered with very thick layers of lime in order to keep the water out.
23. In the writing of that time they also fabricated signs in the layer of lime which told of the coming events so that they would not be forgotten by anybody.
24. When the gigantic comet actually came - which penetrated this universe and the solar system from another space-time configuration, and is still today named The Destroyer by many life-forms - the humans made their way to the pyramids and underground villages and shut themselves into them.
25. The comet turned the Earth, flooded it with all the bodies of water and destroyed and annihilated everything which was at its mercy.

26. Only a few masses of humans and animals of all kinds survived without the constructions for their protection and once again Earth humanity had to find a new start after this catastrophe, as had already repeatedly been the case in earlier times.

27. Originally the pyramids and their construction lead back to the sons of heaven - those who travel among the stars - those who were actually the original settlers of this world.

Semjase:

52. When the pyramids were built, the astronomers at that time were already calculating the further fate of the Earth.

53. According to the data derived from that the measurements of the pyramids were worked out.

54. The calculations revealed that many thousands of years in the future a catastrophe would once again threaten the Earth from the cosmos, like at the time of the construction of the pyramids.

55. For indicating the impending catastrophe to the Earth's inhabitants of later millennia, the obtained measurement data of astronomical nature of the distant future was therefore built into the pyramids.

56. That means that they were constructed according to the data and measurements, which will precisely then match with the astronomical data, when the catastrophe from space begins to loom anew.

57. Astronomy was very capable in those days, and thus calculated the dates very precisely.

58. They even observed several world crashes in their calculations and were able to calculate the dates with extremely accurate precision in that manner.

59. As precalculated the Earth did then actually crash and proved the science of those days, meanwhile long gone, to be right.

60. And now the time is slowly fulfilling, since the astronomical measurement data which, as explained, served and were decisive for the construction of the pyramids, are gradually corresponding with the astronomical values of the present time, and announcing the thus more than 70,000 years ago prophesied happening.

61. And that occurrence will precisely be then, when the sunlight of a far away star passes through the tube-like opening of the revelation, which stretches from outside the Giza pyramid to the centre, in a straight uninterrupted line and illuminates a particular point.

62. I am not allowed to explain more about it. ...

Billy:

... But now how about certain secrets, claimed to have grown up around the pyramids, and how had they been built, perhaps with machines?

Semjase:

67. There are no actual secrets to be mentioned, besides these of the existence of the Giza intelligences, as well as the issues around the measurement data in the context of the looming danger and the issue of the starlight which will shine at the given time through the opening of the revelation.

68. The pyramids were not built by telekinetic 'spiritual forces', as certain earthly fantasists claim, but through tried and tested techniques, as you however already know, so I need no more to tell about it.

Billy:

... Is it right that the total number of elements is 280?

Semjase:

58. How did you come across this result?

Billy:

It was not me, my child, but Guido. For my part, I have only calculated that this number must, indeed, correspond to the correctness because it has been found that this number, multiplied in a sevenfold form with the original height of the Giza Pyramid, results in the current speed of light to the tenths place exactly.

Semjase:

59. You are simply unbelievable.

60. The number of the elements is just as correct as also your calculation with the sevenfold multiplying of the original pyramid height.

61. The end result actually yields the exact number of the present light constant.

Billy:

How Guido actually came across the number 280, that I do not know exactly. He only wrote me a calculation formula. It is important there, however, that the base number 280 is right, with which I could calculate further and do some checks. So I simply applied the pyramid height number to this 280 and then multiplied the result in a unique sevenfold form, from which then the result of the speed of light arose.

Semjase:

62. You should not make these results known too much yet, however.

Billy:

You mean that I should remain silent about it?

Semjase:

63. Sure, at least about the numerical values of the real original pyramid height.

64. Up to now, this is still unknown to the terrestrial scientists of certain fields of knowledge, and it would not be good if they would get to know these already now.

65. In two to three years, however, to make this number known will not play a large role anymore.

66. Until then, however, you should be careful.

Billy:

So far, those who deal with these things reckon with completely incorrect data regarding the pyramid height, resulting in false conclusions and new, incorrect results.

Semjase:

67. Sure, but all these things are much more widely branching than you might imagine at the moment.

68. The data of the pyramid extend into physics and into many other sciences.

69. And these data provide basic formulas for very specific calculations, which lead to tremendous inventions of all kinds and to enormous progress.

70. But if these inventions and progress would already be initiated now by revealing the true data, then the determined path of evolution would be disturbed, by which means an even very much greater catastrophe would be triggered on Earth by the human beings of Earth than what might be the case in the coming future.

71. The mentioning of the true data would lead to calculations and insights that would point the terrestrial sciences to ways and possibilities, of which they are not yet master and which could, therefore, only end in a hopeless catastrophe.

Quetzal:

479. The moon, the former planetary fragment, already joined the Earth as a satellite a few million years ago, while the much slower Destroyer that followed it first entered the SOL-System about 970,000 years ago, causing a tremendous Earth catastrophe.

480. A large part of the Earth-humans at that time, however, found protection and survival because they had been warned by our ancestors regarding the coming of the Destroyer and the impending disasters, consequently, they built themselves structures like the Pyramids and also other shelters.

Billy:

Another question about this: here, you have only given me the primary data; therefore, there still should have been other incidents of lesser importance.

Quetzal:

73. That is of correctness, but on the one hand, they really are not very important, and on the other hand, they are part of a much earlier history, such as the destruction of the planet Malon, over which you are oriented and have also received information about it.

74. The Earth was also slightly affected at that time, when this inhabited planet exploded, having been destroyed by human hands.

Billy:

When was that anyway?

Quetzal:

75. At the time of the building of the pyramids, so about 73,000 years ago.

Billy:

... But tell me, what is actually going on now with what you told me about the building of the pyramids, namely that human powers, respectively human muscle power, had accomplished the building of the pyramids. Years ago, I was told that telekinetic forces had been in play, by which means the large cubes should have been moved through the air by thought, respectively consciousness powers, which are and have always been mistakenly referred to as mental powers. But now, you have said something else. How does that reconcile itself?

Quetzal:

295. My recently given explanation is just as correct as that which you were given a few years ago.

296. Both recently as well as before, you only asked for a certain explanation, but not for one that should be complete.

297. So now, however, I will explain to you that both human muscle power, which accomplished most of the work, as well as telekinetic powers were used in the building of the pyramids.

298. The human muscle power was used by the human beings of the Earth, who worked on the building, while the telekinetic powers were used by the foreigners from the star systems Orion and Leo, and of these foreigners, however, only a few had powerful telekinetic powers, thus, only small works were settled in this manner.

Billy:

Then I once again have a question regarding the Egyptian pyramids, as I was also asked about them. Unfortunately, I no longer remember exactly what Ptaah, Semjase, and Asket explained to me, but somehow, I think it was said to me that the first pyramids were built around 73,300 years ago or so, but later dismantled again because they fell to decay, namely through rotting in the interior as well as through the weather. In particular, this refers to the Pyramids of Giza but also to many other pyramids all over the world. Afterwards, everything was rebuilt, which should have happened around 10,800 or 11,000 years ago. At this time, about 300 years before the Great Flood, a certain king Sahluk was the person of power, who ordered the dismantling and alteration of the Great Pyramid of Giza and allowed this to be carried out. But again, everything moldered over the course of the following millennia and fell to decay, so about 4,500 years ago, an enormous pyramid work resulted once more, as everything that was moldering and decaying was torn away, removed, and replaced; thus, accordingly, new stone blocks were cut and then dragged and set up by human power. At the same time, the main pyramid completely lost its internal structure and organisation, and it was built anew under the strict power of Cheops and completely revamped. Therefore, one can very well say that the current pyramid of Giza can actually also be called the Pyramid of Cheops, even though its actual origin traces back to other and partly Earth-foreign builders from the constellation of Orion, and indeed, to a time of two stellar ages ago, one of which is reckoned as around 36,650 years, and thus, in a 2-times form, yields a time of 73,300 years, whereby this time must be set before the Islamic Hegira, however. And when we speak of the Pyramid of Giza, we always speak of the pyramid that must be seen as the original pyramid, even if today, the new production is addressed, which is, of course, already about 4,500 years old and is exposed to rotting and decay, and which also no longer exhibits its original measure of 152.5 metres in height but only 146 or 148 metres. This great pyramid, together with the others, is aligned in its formatting to the constellation of Orion, while the Khafre structure, I mean the Sphinx structure, was aligned to the constellation of Leo. The new pyramid, as well as all the others and the Sphinx structure, were built in more recent times, so about 4,500 years ago, solely by Earth-humans, by their own personnel. The builders were early Egyptians, like also the largest part of the workers, who were free people and artisans to a certain part, while many others, who came in small numbers as slaves from other countries, had to perform their hard work, together with a small number of domestic slaves. That majority of the workers, however, was based on free Egyptians. For the purpose of the nourishment of all workforces, a veritable industrial food-city was built near the pyramid, and also mass campsites were provided for resting and sleeping, as well as tombs for the many deceased, who were at work there. That is how I remember it being explained to me by you. Now, is this right, or did I fall into a fallacy?

Quetzal:

41. Everything is of correctness; so therefore, no further explanation is necessary.

Quetzal:

121. Beyond Pluto's orbit there are also two different belts of comets and wandering planets, many of which enter the inner solar system at regular, periodic and also sporadic intervals. ...

123. The first belt, a zone, is measured from the sun to more than 150,000 astronomical units away.

124. One astronomical unit corresponds to the average distance from the Sun to the Earth, i.e. 149,597,870 kilometres.

125. In earlier times, when the pyramids of Giza were built, this distance was 152.5 million kilometres; a figure that is also of enormous importance in relation to the calculation of the total universal 280 elements.

Billy:

You once explained to me that in the entire universe their 280 elements existed – after Guido came across them through calculations. I then calculated that the original pyramid height of the pyramid of Giza was 152.955347 metres, which you confirmed to me. You also said that today's height of about 136.8 metres was due to the fact that the ancient Egyptians etc. had removed so much material from the pyramid that it had shrunk so much. Well, Earthly scientists claim that the great pyramid of Giza originally had a height of 146.6 metres, but according to my calculations and your statements this does not correspond to the truth. The original height was actually 152.955347 metres, which was renamed in kilometres and corresponds exactly to the distance earth-sun and thus to an AE, an astronomical unit. A fact, which contradicts the inaccurate distance indication of earth-sun by Earth-astronomic science. Interesting is now the further computation, which I made at that time, namely that from the exact pyramid height and/or from the exact distance earth sun and with the number of the total elements of 280 the today's and very exact speed of light can be calculated, if one consults the multiplication factor 7. The calculation then reads as follows:  $280 \times 7 = 1960 \times 152.955347 = 299\,792.48012$

So the end result is today's speed of light, which is 299 thousand and 792.48012 kilometres per second. At that time I was not allowed to publish this calculation, nor the exact number of elements. The question is now whether these calculations made by me must still be subject to secrecy or whether one may speak openly about it now?

Ptaah:

122. There are no more reasons for further secrecy.

Billy:

... I would like to ask you something about the pyramids, which cannot only be found in Egypt, but around the world. Asket told me during her time, that these were originally created under the direction of extraterrestrials. She explained at that time, 1956, that the pyramids were built two times 36,650 years ago and therefore thus 73,300 years ago. Since then, 40 years have passed, so the time of origin of the pyramids must have been 73,340 years ago. But it is precisely in this respect that our scientists claim something else, because they set the time of construction as much later, that is just a few millennia before the birth of Jmmanuel.

Ptaah:

21. I am aware of this misrepresentation and miscalculation.

22. If you calculate from the present time, the pyramids were indeed built about 73,340 years ago, and actually not just those in Egypt, but all around the Earth, which at that time had a distance to the Sun of 152.5 million kilometres.

23. The pyramids were covered with a dense layer of limestone and lime mortar in the exterior form and were therefore also higher than they are today.

24. So the great Cheops pyramid measured 152.5 metres in height at that time, which corresponds to one metre per 1 million kilometres of Earth-Sun distance.

25. But these exterior layers were removed again in the course of the millennia, as well as parts of the pyramids themselves, and specifically by weathering on the one hand, and by the human beings who used the material to construct other buildings, etc., on the other hand.

26. The purpose of the pyramids also underwent changes from time to time, and in the end, they were used as gravesites as well as otherwise also as cultic temples.

27. Originally, the pyramid buildings, as well as the subterranean rooms that were often connected with them, were built under the direction of human beings who were of extraterrestrial origin and who at that time came from the regions of the constellation Orion, which is why the Egyptian pyramids were also formation-wise constructed as image of this constellation, while the Sphinx structure was aligned to the constellation Leo.

28. The found hieroglyphs and the use of the pyramid chambers as gravesites, etc., traces back to the more recent times before Jmmanuel, and specifically from around two thousand years ago to the past of slightly more than thirteen thousand years.

29. The subterranean chambers, which were part of all pyramids, reached considerable proportions and created subsurface villages of various sizes, which were used by the human beings to get themselves to safety in the face of dangers looming from Earth or outer space.

Billy:

... Recently, I was working on an old contact report and I came across the pyramids, in terms of how they were made, the how. On the one hand there was talk about human muscle power and on the other hand there was talk about telekinetic powers playing a role

Ptaah:

11. Both are correct, but we actually gave you an enlightening answer about that at earlier times.
12. On the one hand about 200,000 human beings were involved in the construction work with their physical strength and efforts, but on the other hand there were also a few extraterrestrial humans from the constellations of Orion and Leo who had telekinetic powers and used them to a small extent in the construction of the pyramids.
13. However, this telekinetic involvement of the extraterrestrials was really only small, even if it is emphasized, but this is only for the reason that it was based on consciousness and not on muscle power.
14. The human beings who had to do the hardest physical work at the pyramid constructions were often prisoners and slaves, and many thousands died of complete exhaustion during the hard work.
15. However, the miserably deceased were replaced again and again by new prisoners and new slaves as well as by other laborers who had been brought in.
16. In total, 40,738 human beings died during the construction of the pyramids and in the partly underground quarries where the large stone blocks were chiselled out.

Ptaah:

16. This is also interesting, but with time more things will surely be found in connection with the pyramid construction.
17. However, the finds will only move in more recent times, when the pyramids were partially renewed.
18. For the likewise large construction periods before, which took place about 12,000 and also about 70,000 years ago, no more evidence will be found.

84. Khafre resp. Chaefchufu or Chefren is the Greek name for Chafre or Chaefre, which means "Chaefre is big".
85. He was the fourth pharaoh of the 4th Dynasty in the Old Kingdom of Egypt.
86. Pharaoh Chephren was the half-brother of his predecessor Radjedef and the half-brother of Kawab, and he was buried in Giza, as was his father Pharaoh Cheops, who was actually called Chufu.
87. His reign lasted from 2567 to 2534 before Jmmanuel resp. before the Christian calendar.
88. He was also the originator and responsible for the construction of the temple and 12 statues, which showed the hours of daytime by sunlight.
89. In addition, he was also the originator and responsible for the construction of the second and second highest pyramid in Giza, as well as for numerous outstanding statues in the vicinity of the Sphinx, some of which have been preserved to this day.
90. With regard to the construction of the Giza pyramids, however, it should be noted that the first pyramids were built around 73,300 years ago, but were later demolished again, because they had deteriorated more and more due to the weather and the climatic influences.
91. 10,800 years ago they were then rebuilt, which was due to the initiative of a king resp. pharaoh Sahluk, who ordered the dismantling and modification of the Great Pyramid of Giza.
92. Once again the pyramids fell to decay, because the weather conditions and the depletion of the pyramidal material had become so rampant in the course of the next millennia that about 4500 years ago, when Cheops and Chephren dealt with the construction of the new pyramids, a complete rebuilding was necessary.

93. Everything had to be torn away, reassembled and thus rebuilt, whereby the large stone slabs were also carved out of the hard underground around the Sphinx and used to build the temple, the statues and the pyramid.

94. So new square stone blocks were cut and used to build the temple and the Pyramid of Khafre.

95. The Cheops Pyramid was, of course, created under the direction of Pharaoh Cheops, who had it completely rebuilt and remodeled, while 73,300 years ago it was traced back to partially non-terrestrial builders, when non-terrestrials from the constellation of Orion were present in ancient Egypt, participated in the construction of the first pyramids and set themselves up as gods.

96. The great pyramid was together with the others already in the early days and then also for the last recreation aligned on the Orion constellation, but the Sphinx according to the guidelines of Chephren on the Leo constellation.

97. 4,500 years ago, the pyramids and the Sphinx were built solely by human beings of the Earth, whereas in the first construction 73,300 years ago, non-terrestrials were also involved, partly using telekinetic powers.

Billy:

Yes, you already told me this in the 1980s, as well as that the actual Egyptians, who built the pyramids 4,500 years ago, were mostly free human beings and craftsmen, while only a small part of them had to work as slaves. The food for all the workers, who comprised a small army, was, so to speak, provided by a food-city not far from the pyramid, as well as facilities with dormitories were given for the workers.

Ptaah:

98. Yes, that had been so.

Billy:

... But what I still have to say with regard to the land of Egypt in early times and thus long before antiquity and the time of the Pharaohs, is the following: At that time the country looked completely different from what it does today, for on the one hand I can remember that the Nile had another large river branch to the left of its course, which flowed through a very large and long valley, whereby the Nile itself also ran much more westwards than is the case today. There was also a large city in the great valley, where I also saw 'long skulls'. From the Nile and also from its tributary, far into the western land, there were countless pyramids of various sizes, as also everything was full of life, whereby also villages and cities were many huge palm forests, fertile gardens and fields, and so at that time everything looked completely different from today. There were also many animals in the vastness of the land and in the forests and vast green areas, such as antelopes, giraffes, elephants, lions, crocodiles and all kinds of other animals and creatures, before the desert areas formed and these life-forms moved away or died out. Over all the millennia, all the villages, cities and pyramids and the fertile gardens, fields and palm forests that at that time reached far into the western land and as far as the Mediterranean Sea also disappeared. Most of what existed at that time has been buried metres deep under the desert sands advancing from the west over the last millennia. ...

Now, in another large city than the one in the great valley of the Nile tributary, I could observe other 'long-headed' as well as 'normal-headed' people who were the actual rulers of the land of 'Kemet', to which Sfath explained to me that their early ancestors had been coming to Earth for millennia, probably for more than 75,000 years, when they also built the first great pyramids, which were then repeatedly dismantled and rebuilt in the course of time, which I could observe for myself through another journey into the past with Sfath. The last time this happened was around 5,000 years ago, but before that it was also 6,000 years ago and more than 12,500 years ago. This also happened with the peoples in South America and Asia, where the 'long-skulled', the Earth-foreigners and the other Earth-foreigners, who were physically 'Earth-foreign', 'normal-skulled' or small and 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed', but also giants, as for example in South America, were also involved and had a culturally completely different influence on the Earth-peoples on all continents. As a result, different buildings, villages, cities, cult objects and pyramids as well as sites with large menhirs were also created all over the world, such as Stonehenge in England, near Avesbury in Wiltshire, about 13 kilometres north of Salisbury, and in Armenia the Stonehenge or megalithic fields in Zorakarer, near the mighty mountain ranges of the Caucasus, whereby the techniques of the Earth-foreigners were used in transporting and erecting the megaliths, which weighed many tonnes. ...

Under the direction of the 'long-skulled', villages, cities and pyramids were also built in early Egypt, as were also a few areas in Europe, where there were still huge forests at that time, although the northern regions of the Earth were for the 'long-skulled' and the other Earth-foreigners, such as the small 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed' as well as for the 'normal-headed', because, on the one hand, they preferred warmer climates and were therefore dependent on fertile land in warmer areas, as well as on many human beings whose help they needed as labourers and whom they could also dominate and rule. ...

Billy:

... The huge area of Huetap alone and the great city of the same name, Huetap, which existed 3,500 years ago in what is now Honduras, was monstrous as far as I was concerned, whereby the long-skulled also worked there and had a pyramid built, just as the long-skulled did in Egypt, in the Balkans and in Asia, and so on. ...

The Greek philosopher Pythagoras, born in Samos around 570 B.C., probably died in Metapont around 500 B.C., founded in Kroton in Northern Italy, as I wrote there, a union with religious, scientific, political and ethical aims. This was the Pythagorean alliance. From Pythagoras comes the teaching that the essence of reality is the number, as well as the teaching of the so-called transmigration of souls. Mathematics, astronomy and acoustics owe important insights to the Pythagoreans. Pythagoreans were especially Eurytos, Archytas of Taranto, Hippasos of Metapont, Ekphantos and Hiketas. – The long explanation short question now is whether you know whether Pythagoras was a pure earth-born or an immigrant from the depths of the world space, by which of course I do not mean Pythagoras as a person, but his spiritual form?

Ptaah:

61. His spirit-form was of extraterrestrial origin and came from the Henok lineage, from the lineage of the ancient Lyrians.

Billy:

... The question was asked, who was Quetzalcoatl? And is Quetzal identical to him?

Semjase:

181. I can answer the second question by "no", nor do any of Quetzal's forefathers belong to Quetzalcoatl.

182. Quetzalcoatl had been, in Earth terms, a very high officer or a high supervisor of an extraterrestrial group, which was active in the region you today call Egypt.

183. But he was very knowledgeable and wise, and thus was often assigned special missions, of which one brought him to South America, where he became venerated as a god by the Aztecs.

184. Since he owned a small ship this impression of the Aztec people was strengthened, but this was not his intention.

185. When he first met together with another commissioner, a certain Huitzilopochtli, he changed his conduct.

186. Huitzilopochtli was one of the leading Giza Intelligences, and he exercised a bloody sacrifice-based rulership over the Aztecs.

187. He was insatiable in this respect, and demanded human blood as sacrifice, while Quetzalcoatl was against such.

188. Thus an evil enmity rose between them, and each of them sought to gain leadership over the peoples.

189. By wicked deceit and deceptive machinations Huitzilopochtli succeeded in expelling Quetzalcoatl, in consequence of which he fled and returned to Egypt.

Grigori Rasputin murder

Billy:

Rasputin did not lead a dissolute life as is attributed to him. This story is malicious slander, however it is true that his murder could barely have be surpassed in terms of its brutality when, in 1916, he was murdered with a .455 Webley pistol by a British agent by the name of Oswald Rayner. Although he was married and had a family, Rasputin was an itinerant monk, that is to say, an itinerant preacher, who, through suggestive influence, carried out "miraculous healings" which were truly self-healings of the sick. Thereby he also reached the court of the Tsars, where he had much influence as a friend to the Tsar's family, especially because, through a "miracle healing", he had saved the Tsar's son from death. That did not please many sectors of the Russian nobility, for which reason they became Rasputin's sworn enemies, sought to take his life and named him "Holy Devil". On the 17th of December, 1916, he was then actually also kidnapped and murdered whereby his murderer was, however, the aforementioned British agent who acted in the commission of the nobles and England. The reason for the murder was Rasputin's political objectives, which endangered the victory of Great Britain in the First World War, which raged at that time. But the murder of Rasputin still had other reasons, because, through the nefarious deed, the already long-planned Russian revolution could also gain ground and be carried out and the Tsar's family could be captured and murdered. Rasputin was the most important adviser to the court of the Russian Tsar's family. As already explained, he was kidnapped on the 17th of December, 1916, whereby the main role was played by a conspirator by the name of Felix Yusopov, who had a friendly relationship with the British agent, Oswald Rayner. Rasputin was dragged into a palace cellar in St. Petersburg, where he was tortured and also poisoned, whereby he was, however, able to counteract the poison, and therefore it did not have the desired effect and he survived the poison attack and was able to flee. But he did not get far because a revolver was taken and he was shot two times in the back from behind, which he, however, also survived. So the murderer took his weapon again and shot Rasputin in the forehead. Rasputin then died immediately. Therefore, he was first seriously injured by the British agent Oswald Rayner with several shots which, however, Rasputin survived because he simply did not want to die. Only the shot in the forehead really killed him. Consequently, therefore, in this way, a professional execution ultimately occurred. After that, the giant of a man was bound up by the noble conspirators and dragged to the icy Neva River, where they threw him in the icy water. Naturally, the assassins were quickly found, yet the Tsar stopped the police investigation. The conspirators asserted that they had murdered Rasputin because he had exercised too great an influence on the family of the Tsar. These statements from the assassins were, however, not the actual reason why the Tsar did not intervene in the matter of the murder and its investigation, rather it was the fact that it was not a Russian but a foreigner – the British agent, Oswald Rayner, to be exact – who was Rasputin's real murderer. The true reason for the murder was that Rasputin – peace-loving as he was – was active in pressing for an armistice, in order to thereby end the state of war between Russia and Germany and in order, additionally, to also avoid a defeat. And his chances of implementing his desire were, in this regard, very good, because the Tsar – due to Rasputin's enormous influence on the Tsar's family – was willing to bend to Rasputin's wishes and to declare an armistice. But the British, who saw their plans and the victory in the First World War endangered by Rasputin's peaceful political aims, did not like that. Consequently, they introduced into the plan, as murderer, an agent, who worked hand in hand with the conspirators, and whose murder plan fitted theirs exactly, because the nobility were also not keen on an armistice. Had this come about then the entire history of the world would have changed, because, namely, an end to the war with Russia would have enabled Germany to transfer an army of 350,000 soldiers to the Western Front. It would have thereby been possible for the German Kaiser to position his armies against the armies of France, Great Britain and the USA and to overcome them and to be victorious. So, Rasputin's murderer, with his licence to kill, committed a cold-blooded murder in the commission of the British Crown, so that, in the First World War, the Allies could obtain victory over the German Empire.

5) Grigory Yefimovich Rasputin was a herbalist and in this form a healer, but also an itinerant preacher, who was wrongly called an itinerant preacher, which has survived to the present day. As a herbalist who was disregarded by the medical profession and the population of the time, Rasputin was summoned to the Tsar's court in the hope of stopping the bleeding of the Tsar's son and Tsarevich Alexei, who was suffering from haemophilia, by means of herbal mixtures, which, however, was falsely and misleadingly described by so-called contemporary witnesses as 'prayers', because in his treatment he taught the young Tsarevich Alexei the form of self-mastery and self-influence, through the self-prayer form of self-address:

- 1) Through the power of my consciousness, I alone, with my mind and with my reason, exercise omnipotence over my knowledge, truth, ability, love and truthfulness.
- 2) My might alone spreads within me, but no other, if I am always aware of my own thoughts and feelings and unfold and use my knowledge, my wisdom and my ability and thus lead everything to true love, freedom, harmony and peace within me.
- 3) The power of my consciousness is a determination for me, so I use it for my own good for my thoughts and feelings and psyche as well as for my body.
- 4) Daily I unfold and use my power of consciousness, so that it constantly works in me and lets me meet my ignorance, whereby I nourish my knowledge and wisdom with love, compassion as well as with understanding and reason.
- 5) Through the power of my consciousness I recognise my own mistakes and correct them, and avoid committing new ones, so that none can hinder me in my development and progress.

6) The power of my consciousness lets me recognise false teachings, wrong ways of thinking and all dangers of faith addiction as well as of harmful material and worldly things and avoid them.

7) Through my power of consciousness I am powerful even of my mind and reason, and through the omnipotence of my consciousness I am always aware of my power, ability, peace and knowledge, as well as my wisdom, love and harmony, and I control everything.

It was a fact that the successful work of Rasputin – whose task it was to instruct the people through his work as a herbalist, healer and herald – with the young Tsarevich Alexei was also confirmed by contemporary witnesses – as also confirmed by doctors and critics, among others – that Rasputin had an extraordinarily great influence on the Tsarevich at that time and that he also had an inexplicable positive effect on his life-threatening haemorrhages.

Billy:

Then a question about Rembrandt. It is said over and over again that not all of the paintings attributed to him come from him. Do you know anything about this, since you still concern yourself with the earthly art of painting?

Quetzal:

55. Around Rembrandt, whose real name was Rembrandt Harmensz van Rijn, different stories grew, even during his own lifetime.

56. He was born in Lieden on 7/15/1606, and he died in Amsterdam on 10/4/1669.

57. Already at the youthful age of 15, he took painting lessons with the well-known history painter at the time, Jacob van Swanenburg, after which he gained further inspiration from various other painters and, from this, developed his own painting direction and created various works in his typical fashion.

58. In 1634, he married Saskia van Uylenburgh, who already died, however, in 1642.

59. She was a woman who was extremely talented in the art of painting, but she did not appear publicly with her ability but only exercised it in secret, together with her husband, whose style fascinated her and whose style she adopted.

60. In this form, she created quite a number of very good works, which were indistinguishable from those of her husband and which also will not be distinguished for all times.

61. She also made etchings in this manner, for which Rembrandt gave his name, as well as for the paintings made by his wife.

62. So for example, the alleged self-portrait of Rembrandt, the related etching of 1639 {link}, was not sketched by himself, as also several others were not, but by his wife, Saskia, who mastered his style perfectly.

63. Also, concerning the double portrait with Saskia {link}, only half of this comes from his art, for only the portrait of his wife traces back to his hand, while his portrait beside her is the work of his wife.

64. In addition, there are various works that are imitations of Rembrandt's style on the part of several of his students.

65. Several have been recognised in modern times as such style-imitations of expertise, but some of the surviving imitations are so perfect that they cannot be recognised as such.

66. This especially applies to those works that trace back to Rembrandt's wife because she mastered his style and technique perfectly.

67. As an example, it is to be said that out of all existing Rembrandt etchings, only 178 of these trace back to his own art, while a further 111 must be attributed to his wife.

68. All the rest trace back to imitations of students and counterfeiters.

69. Concerning the alleged Rembrandt drawings, the number is still much higher.

70. Also, the most diverse painted works, so the paintings that are attributed to Rembrandt, do not truly trace back to him but, instead, to his wife, Saskia, who lived in deep humility in relation to her great skill and left all the fame to her husband.

71. Also, there are several imitations of his students, as well as obvious forgeries, but these are known as such.

Billy:

... There is the well-known painting 'The Man with the Golden Helmet' {link}, which is attributed to Rembrandt, but of which your daughter Semjase already said that it was not the work of this man, who was born sometime in 1606 and turned just over 60 years old. He died in 1669, if I am not mistaken.

Ptaah:

59. That is true, and the painting you mention is in fact not the work of Rembrandt Harmenszoon van Rijn, but that of his student Willem van Kampen, who more than perfectly imitated Rembrandt's painting style and even made it his own.

60. His works, however, were selfishly signed by Rembrandt with his own name, just as he signed many other works of his other pupils, in order to pass them off as his own works and sell them fraudulently as his own works.

Billy:

And the man wearing the gold helmet in the painting, which is probably a portrait, do you know who he was?

Ptaah:

61. I know that, Yes.

62. The man was the father of the Rembrandt pupil Willem van Kampen and his name was Jacob van Kampen.

Billy:

Thank you, then this solves a mystery that has also been causing problems for art experts for some time now, who for years have been repeatedly recognising so-called Rembrandt paintings as not being produced by him, even though they bore his signature. Yes the paintings are real, only that they are not by Rembrandt, but by his students. The forgery is only the signature by which Rembrandt fraudulently used the works of his students to represent them as his own paintings.

Billy:

I still have a few questions, one of which concerns an alleged medium called Ingo Swann as well as a major of the US Army called E. D., who operate the so-called PSI-TECH, an alleged technical remote sensing, by which even the most secret things are supposed to be recognised and discovered from afar, as is claimed. At least such thing is claimed in "Magazin 2000", from page 81 onwards. It is thereby also clarified that one would be able to get to know the said E. D. in Germany who would over there provide a three-day seminar at an outrageous price of 1,800

German Mark. First, do you know anything of this story? Second, is this E. D. to be taken seriously? Thirdly, what about the Swann medium? Fourth, what to make of this remote sensing?

Ptaah:

36. The man E. D. is one of many who, with dishonest means, pull the money out of the pockets of the faithfully and stupidly believing human beings.

37. The long-distance perception training course he has initiated is an infamous fraud, just as the alleged long-distance perception corresponds to pure charlatanism.

38. It is true that the USA and the Soviet Union have carried out studies of the same kind and are still carrying them out today, but this has already for a long time been no secret anymore, because a lot of secret material has leaked to the outside via the so-called remote viewing.

39. The efforts of the secret research of the USA and the Soviet Union brought about certain, but no high value successes, which can however in no way be connected with the charlatanism of E. D. –

40. PSI-TECH, this is not the alleged remote perception, but a name of a company called that way.

41. With regard to Ingo Swann, it must be said that many things are with him too very dishonest and that things are being pushed onto him which do not correspond to the truth.

42. Everything is thus to be classified in charlatanism, lies and fraud, if the facts are really investigated.

43. Excluded from this are only certain secret attempts and secret successes of the USA and Soviet Union in terms of remote perception i.e. remote viewing, as the English term for it is.

Billy:

... On the 17th of February 2005, Quetzal and I talked privately about the conspiracy books of various scribblers, such as Zacharia Sitchin, David Icke, Jan van Holey alias Jan van Helsing as well as Andreas von Rëtyi and others. ...

Ptaah:

5. All in all, these kinds of nonsensical writings are commercially oriented to make the ruble roll, as you say, so that the scribblers – if I want to use your expression – can fill their pockets with money.

6. The whole of all the conspiracy theories described in all the countless books are based on sheer nonsense, as are the writings in books containing supernaturalism and assertions about the alleged infiltration of earthly governments by extraterrestrials.

7. Conspiracy theories of all kinds, as well as supernatural, occult and esoteric nonsense, are in great demand among the believers in these drivel.

8. In fact, all the many books of this kind are based on silliness, senselessness, folly, as well as blooming and higher nonsense, as you always say so aptly.

Billy:

If you will allow me to interrupt, I have a few other terms for the whole thing, such as noble baloney, bullshit, hooey, stupidity and folly, torchlight, ridiculousness, simple-mindedness, gibberish, folly and folly, etc. I would also like to say that, with regard to all this nonsense, there are special bookstores which, for good money, bring the rubbish books among the people, from whom the roaring rubbish is eaten like hot cakes. With very many people on earth the unreal, untrue, fantastic, occult, esoteric, religious, sectarian, supposedly supernatural and supernatural is not only considered to be more than truth and reality, but effectively everything.

Ptaah:

9. These are all good terms I will remember.

10. And your explanation hits the truth.

11. Furthermore, these humans are sectarian and esoteric, as well as occult and supernatural, and move in their thoughts and feelings, as well as in their delusional beliefs, in illusory worlds and other unreal imaginings.

12. The entirety of this matter of faith and fantasies has developed into a delusion in them which already moves in schizophrenic forms, whereby they no longer perceive the truth and reality and consequently also can no longer recognise it.

13. And in this delusional form they infiltrate the humans with their absurdities which they imagine and also adopt them from other scribblers which you call 'abkupfern'. [copying?]

14. Thereby the readers of the entire nonsense are seduced to believably accept the lies, slanders, the swindle and the fantasies of these irresponsible scribblers as truth while they assess the reality and the real truth as unrealistic, unreal and as untruth.

15. Belief is just very much simpler than investigating the effective truth through one's own seeking and one's own cognitive work.

16. Furthermore the fantastic and illusory will sooner be accepted by the Earth-humans than even the truth and reality which appears banal compared to the fantastic and illusory.

17. Therefore it is so that standing on the firm ground of the facts, truth and reality is proscribed while the untruthful, fantastic, and illusory and all the swindling, lies, deceit and slander which is bound with it – which, since time immemorial, have always been booming business – effect the Earth-humans like sweet balm which stills the delight and demand for that which is fantastic and illusory.

18. So lying, swindle, falsehoods, deceit and slander are means through which the human allows himself to be very easily beguiled, because everything is only swallowed and does not have to truthfully be contemplated, while the search for the effective truth and its processing is bound with very much effort and cognitive work as well as with a sense for the recognition of reality.

19. However the irresponsible scribblers – who invent the crazy and unreal as well as unrealistic conspiracy theories, copy the entire nonsense from each other and throw everything to their believers as fodder, and therewith earn much money – know exactly that.

20. That is also the case with the books of the hacks named by you who, without conscience, spread their horrendous nonsense of their dim-witted conspiracy theories and thereby lead their faithful readers into error, convey to them a completely wrong picture of the world and hound them into angst and terror.

22. Truthfully, from the complete contents there are no things at all to name which could be designated facts of truth and reality because basically it deals with nothing other than freely invented fantasies and illusions which are irresponsibly given a coating of truth in order to thereby take those Earth-humans into their power who believe the dim-witted nonsense and allow themselves to be taken prisoner by it.

23. From the entire exposition of all books of such a kind no letter may be considered as true because everything is only built on deception, lies, deceit, slander, fantasies and illusions ...

27. Yet in every regard believers do not, as a rule, let themselves be impressed by the truth, rather they faithfully remain in the prison which they themselves delusionally imagine because that is simpler than having to grapple with the real truth.

28. The truth is just simply and somehow banal, as you tend to say, for which reason it only addresses humans who consciously use their reason and understanding, while the others, who depend on the fantastic and illusory as well as that which pertains to belief, are not willing to free themselves from the nonsensical and the unreal as well as from their not making use of reason and understanding.

Billy:

Good, then I have a question regarding so-called UFOs, which are truly none at all. As I know from you, the so-called flying objects that are considered UFOs are often observed in the day as well as at night. At night, it is often observed that these so-called UFOs light up and are vibrant in their intensity and also variable in colour. On the one hand, you were able to make it understandable to me, with tangible evidence and through my personal observations, that these sometimes deal with bio-organic flying bodies that are truly other-dimensioned life forms that, as a rule, can be captured on infrared film and that penetrate from other dimensions into our dimension area, in order to romp around here somehow in earthly airspace for playful and whimsical reasons. You also explained to me that these bio-organisms are completely harmless and that they always return back to their dimension. But on the other hand, you have also spoken of the fact that similar phenomena appear in terrestrial airspace, but these are purely terrestrial in origin. At that time, you spoke of the fact that it can also concern huge swarms of insects that let themselves drift through the air at great heights. During the day, these insect swarms can be seen as dark and form-changing UFOs that often even glow. At night, the same can be observed, and these UFOs then glow from weak to very strong and often even pulsate. Those are the two forms of UFOs best-known to me, which are truly not extraterrestrial ships and which are composed of living forms. Although, you have explained that other such forms exist ...

Ptaah:

81. In contrast, however, it is more common for bioorganic flying objects to appear in this space-time continuum, not only on Earth, but also on many other inhabited and uninhabitable world spheres.

82. So we can observe such bio-organisms, as we call them, also on our worlds, whereby we do not know however yet exactly which kind these life-forms are now.

83. The dimension changers, as we also call them, are larger and smaller airworthy, bioorganic life-forms, which are often fluorescent or very brightly radiating and located in a parallel space or parallel universe.

84. In their way they are absolutely harmless and even playful.

85. They often appear individually or in smaller groups, ranging in size from a few metres to several hundred metres in diameter.

86. They live in a parallel space that we have not yet been able to access, whose data we know well, but into which we have not yet been able to penetrate in form in order to establish communicative contact with these forms of life.

Ptaah:

133. The film and photo material of UFOs made in all the years worldwide and especially in America and South America as well as in England etc. does not always show extraterrestrial flying objects, but also such strangely working flying machines, which are manufactured since several decades by terrestrial humans on earth, as well as flying bodies, which come from the terrestrial future or which are known as bioorganic flying bodies with us, which are the so-called dimension changers, life forms, which penetrate from another dimension into the terrestrial airspace.

Billy:

... The bioorganic flying objects; can these life-forms take on human form and in this form, for example, come into contact with terrestrial humans?

Ptaah:

83. No, this possibility is not given to them.

84. Nor are they of any human-like nature, but pure energy bodies capable of transformation and dimensional change, which appear as floating forms of light energy in one or the other dimension, are able to change their light intensity, but do not have any form of conscious consciousness.

Ptaah:

21. Nevertheless, I cannot exclude the possibility that they could have been bioorganic missiles of different dimensions, which, as you know, are harmless life forms from a neighbouring dimension and which can usually only be photographed by infrared cameras or recorded on infrared film.

Billy:

... Apart from the differently dimensioned bio-organic missiles there are similar species on earth, which show the most different forms. Through your observation devices I have seen some that look like giant strange snakes or insects etc. and are flying through the atmosphere as fast as an arrow. In addition, there are innumerable disk-shaped and disc-shaped energy formations and bio-organisms of various sizes, which overshoot the boundaries of the atmosphere and also gather around space debris of the earthlings and often accompany them for a while. Also rockets are sometimes accompanied by these things and somehow 'examined'. Now the question whether these things are not seen by the men in the rockets or in the so-called space stations; you do not hear anything about it?

Ptaah:

35. The existence of these bio-organisms and energy entities is well known, but no public explanations are given about them, because the 'astronauts' and all those who are involved with them do not know what these forms are, which have a certain energy intelligence, but are completely harmless.

36. As I know, these bioorganisms and energy entities are called RODS by observers.

Billy:

So: For about 10 or 15 years or so, there's been footage haunted by what are called rods. ...

...

These rods are bio-organic flying objects? In my opinion they should be, because the bio-organic flying objects I have seen on monitors in your ships look very much like the ones I have seen on TV lately.

Ptaah:

23. It is known to me that for some time now, Earth-humans have been filming rods, as they call them, which are actually bio-organic flying objects.

...

Billy:

... Once upon a time – it must have been years ago, if I am not mistaken – our Earthly would-be astronauts lost a long cable from their space station, which became independent and floated away, surrounded by dozens or hundreds of glowing objects of various sizes. Do you know anything about this?

Ptaah:

55. Yes.

56. What do you want to know about that?

Billy:

There was a movie about it on TV. In my opinion, these white glowing flying objects were nothing else but bioorganic flying objects or rods, as they have been called by the earthlings since they were able to film them.

Ptaah:

57. Your assumption is correct.

Billy:

... Is the term Orb respectively Orbs familiar to you?

Ptaah:

81. Yes.

82. Why do you ask?

Billy:

They are luminous spheres that are seen and photographed all over the world, I have been told.

Ptaah:

83. That is true.

84. They are another form of RODS, i.e. bio-organisms of electromagnetic form, which are actual energy formations, possess an energy intelligence and which also react to human consciousness respectively to thoughts and feelings.

Billy:

... Does the American government have spaceships and alien corpses in their possession?

Semjase:

57. They are in possession of certain destroyed materials from spaceships as well as some dead bodies of dwarf alien human life-forms.

58. Intact spaceships and the like, however, are not in their possession.

59. The available materials are kept under strictest secrecy, and only a few insiders are informed and oriented about them.

Billy:

Is there not a danger that these things can be used to their advantage?

Semjase:

60. Everything is so destroyed and deformed that no significant findings can be derived from it – at least not yet.

61. It is very strange to them.

Billy:

... Is it true that there are 10 to 16 glass coffins or glass shrines in the American Pentagon in which dead extraterrestrials are found and which are supposed to be about 120 cm tall? ...

Semjase:

70. It could be an assertion without any truth.

71. Nothing is known to us regarding such an incident that would suggest a crash of a beamship of foreign origin, in which 16 extraterrestrial life-forms are to have been killed and stored in glass shrines in the Pentagon.

72. In another case however, something similar arises, with the deposit of extraterrestrial dead bodies, etc. which does not concern the Pentagon.

73. So in the Roswell case.

Quetzal:

13. That is also true, because in this case hardly a possibility exists that the secret activities will one day come to the light of truth and the humans will be enlightened over the actual truth.

14. Quite the opposite – the future will prove that the responsible ones in America will always invent new lies in order to shroud and deny the truth about the Roswell case.

Billy:

Then now a question about the so-called Roswell Case. Did a UFO actually crash there? Even though you have already confirmed this once, there are still some things that remain unclear, even with regard to the UFO crew, concerning which you said that they were androids. So what were the occupants really, and from where did the aliens come?

Quetzal:

74. The Roswell Case is a reality because the UFO crash actually took place there, but this is denied up to the present day and will continue to be denied in the distant future by the American military and secret services, as well as by all government agencies, namely with flimsy, changing, stupid, and ridiculous excuses that will only surely testify to the fact that everything actually happened.

75. With the crashed object, it concerned a beamship from the Reticulum systems.

76. The crew did not consist of natural human life forms but of human androids of a bio-organic nature, which means that they were artificial human androids, which the US-Army also got a hold of, some living and some dead, and these were secretly kept in secret stations.

77. With the bioorganic androids, it concerned effective artificial life forms, so not robots or the like, but independently thinking beings, in every way self-capable of making decisions, made out of living material and living organs, bred in accordance with the human beings who are located in the Reticulum systems.

78. In Earth-human terms, these bioorganic androids bred by the Reticulum human beings are actual life-forms, and as such, they are respected by the Reticulum people and are also appreciated and treated, for the androids are, indeed, artificial human beings.

79. As such, they stand under the command of the real humans of the Reticulum systems, on whose behalf they also carry out excursions, etc. to foreign star systems and planetary systems.

80. And such artificial human forms were associated with the crash, as I already explained.

81. The intelligence of these android beings stems from a bio-organic consciousness of an artificial form, which is just as capable of development as the consciousness of the normal, natural person; therefore, it can also be creative and inventive.

82. The type of consciousness is designed uniformly and collectively in each android, which means that all of the androids have a uniform consciousness form, and so, they are collectively like-minded, and thus, they have a collective form of telepathic communication.

83. The form of consciousness of these artificial life forms is built on an artificial consciousness, which does not correspond to an actual personality but rather to an artificial form, which can think quite independently, act, and decide, as well as develop itself further, but which is not arranged into conscious evolution but only functions in a conscious-instinct based manner.

84. This means that there is, therefore, probably a capacity for the development of the consciousness form, whereby ideas are created and thought processes can take place, which are creative, inventive, and progressive and, thus, capable of being developed, but all of this just deals with conscious-instinct based matters, and has nothing to do with conscious evolution.

85. In any event, the form of consciousness of these bio-organic androids is an artificial-organic element, which has no inherent creational spirit-form.

86. The form of consciousness of the androids is formed in such a wise that it has a certain independence, in spite of the collectivity, whereby a degree of individuality is given, which cannot be compared, however, to an actual personality in a consciousness-based sense; nevertheless, it has its own individuality, which may seem like a contradiction to the Earth-person because they cannot understand these things in the tiniest part of their mind and still cannot make any conceptions of this.

87. He/she will only gain these conceptions and the understanding as well as the knowledge relating to such android beings in the distant future.

88. The bio-organic androids of the Reticulum human beings contain an authoritative programming in their artificial consciousness, which prevents that the artificial beings could ever rise over their designers, respectively their creators, but the time of their lives is limited to 300 years of devoted servitude to these.

89. Nevertheless, they are entirely free and can in every way decide as to what responsibilities they undertake, exercise, or decline and, thus, whether they want to focus on a task or not.

90. So they are in no way subject to compulsion by their creators.

91. In the kind and wise in which they are biologically created, they are incapable of performing sexual acts and also of reproducing themselves.

92. Their own and appropriate kind of consciousness is contained in their artificial brains, and as I already mentioned, the artificial-bio-organic consciousness does not contain a creational spirit-form, which would drive and animate this by its own energies.

93. Animation is provided by the artificial brain, which is constructed in such a form that it can absorb and use the cosmic-electromagnetic life-energies, so that the existence of life is guaranteed.

94. It is this cosmic energy, by which the artificial life forms are animated and also made alive.

95. All this, however, could not be recognised by all the doctors, surgeons, and pathologists, etc. in the American secret stations, where the crashed android beings were taken.

96. But how could they, since their knowledge relating to this was not in place yet?

97. In fact, it will still take many centuries and even several millennia before the terrestrial scientists arrive at the possibility of creating such beings like the bio-organic androids.

98. Therefore, these beings will remain an unsolvable mystery to them for a very long time, as it is also the case for them with regard to the crashed beings in Roswell.

Billy:

Now that was really detailed. Thank you for your explanations. But one thing still interests me: with you, I have also seen androids, so artificial life forms that can think and act independently. Are these the same as the android beings of Reticulum?

Quetzal:

99. On the whole, yes.

100. Only the appearance of our androids is different in nature, for they are created after our likenesses, while the Reticulum androids resemble their creators, who are, in spite of their high technology and various sciences, still very unknowing in terms of really spiritual and creational interests, yet still arranged into a high and liberal culture with expressed human rights.

101. Nevertheless, our directives forbid us from maintaining deliberate physical or telepathic contact with them.

{Note: This may or may not refer to the Roswell UFO crash.}

Billy:

... Recently I was asked which genera or types of life forms would have a sexual life. This happened in connection with allegations that the US Americans had captured alien human life forms in a crash of a UFO or interplanetary missile, whereby these alien life forms had no sexual organs, no excrement outlets, no visible food intake, etc. ...

Ptaah:

155. Which of course is complete nonsense, for any material form of life, wherever it may be in the entire universe, requires a possibility of food intake, a possibility of the ejection of indigestible products, etc. and thus of excrement ejection.

156. But with all materially existing forms of life of a higher kind, and so especially with human forms of life, it is given that they have a sexual organ or a reproductive organ.

... Are you familiar with Area 51 and the Roswell-New Mexico incident in 1947, then a UFO crash in Aztek, New Mexico, similar to the one in Roswell, but a year later, then a third crash at the Mexican border in 1949 or 1950, and further that the Americans in Area 51 are supposed to hold various bodies of aliens as well as a living alien there?

Ptaah:

136. I have stated on several occasions that these things are covered by my duty of confidentiality because they fall under the jurisdiction of the government, the military and state security.

137. So I am not allowed to talk about this officially, but only in confidence with you - in private, as you like to say.

138. On the other hand, such knowledge would be dangerous for you - if you officially knew about it.

The darkening, slandering and obscuring machinations of many governments, militaries and secret services, etc., of different countries, began therefore already very early, and indeed much earlier than would be generally accepted by the real UFO researchers. According to the explanation of the Plejadian/Plejaren, however, especially the Americans were leading in this respect, whereby these were also those who held the proof of the existence of extraterrestrial flying objects tight in their hands already early, and indeed not first since the Roswell case. Truly, already earlier the Americans had parts of wreckage from crashed extraterrestrial flying devices fall into their hands, as well as mutilated extraterrestrial corpses, which, however, fell under the strictest nondisclosure and whereby, as the Plejadian/Plejaren explained, also undesired UFO crash and UFO recovery observers, as well as recovery workers were "erased" or forced into silence under the gravest threats. But that was not enough by far, because the longer the UFO appearances in the new age were observed, the more secretively these were dealt with, and indeed not the least on that account, because the arrival of the extraterrestrials, and the enslavement of the terrestrial humanity through the invaders was feared by the American government and their military as well as secret services. ...

Ptaah:

64. What happened in 1947 in Roswell in the USA, as the investigations have clearly shown, was a special case, which was the result of an unpleasant coincidence.

65. A case which is vehemently denied by the US military and the government.

Ptaah:

57. What has to be said concerning Roswell is that we and our federation and all beings foreign to Earth, and who were flying into Earth's space, and then joined our federation, did not have anything to do with this incident.

Ptaah:

3. On the other hand, Florena asked me to watch a recording that she made according to your request, which was about the Roswell case, etc. ...

Billy:

... As I informed Florena, I had learned that a TV programme was to be broadcast late at night on 24th of December in relation to the Roswell case, etc. I asked her to record it for you to watch, so that you could also watch it and then tell me what you think. I also watched the TV programme myself, which was supposed to prove with old film footage of disc and bell-shaped and other futuristic flying apparatus and balloons of the USA, especially from Area 51, that there was no extraterrestrial but a secret futuristic American flying apparatus or balloon that crashed in Roswell. At least one American test pilot was allegedly seriously injured and taken away in an ambulance, and the debris from the flying apparatus was also taken away in a misused ambulance. In this context, several elderly men were interviewed who appeared as allegedly involved military witnesses, but who appeared to me to be rather suspicious and therefore did not exactly make a trustworthy impression on me. They all talked in such a way as if someone had rehearsed something and then reeled off what they had learned. ...

But let's get back to the TV show and the shown pictures of futuristic flying apparatuses and balloons. It is also possible that everything is just a concoction to prove something that is a lie, namely that not an extraterrestrial but a secret US military test flying apparatus crashed near Roswell. If that is the case, then it is clear to me that the military eyewitnesses are only bought elements that have rehearsed their lies. ...

Ptaah:

7. What I can say is that the black and white film sequences you mentioned really do correspond to original footage and show secret US flying apparatus that was further developed according to Nazi plans.

...

17. With regard to such flying apparatus, even today a secret further development is still underway, which is why the USA is also still trying to portray the Roswell case as an illusion and as an accident with a balloon apparatus.

18. This in order not to have to admit that they gained important technical knowledge from the crashed object, which they have been evaluating since then, in combination with the plan documents they have from the Nazi flying discs and Nazi flying bells they acquired in Germany at the end of the war.

20. And what more is to be said about the military eyewitnesses who appeared on the TV recording, you have seen their role correctly, because they were only alleged eyewitnesses who rehearsed and replayed their statements and had nothing to do with the Roswell case.

21. The whole recording, which actually includes original recordings of flying disks and bell-flying machines as well as balloons as US developments, serves only to take the Roswell case ad absurdum and make it appear as fantasy to those who are responsive to the US secrecy and cover-up lies and believe their nonsense.

Billy:

Will the truth about the Roswell case ever be cleared up by the USA?

Ptaah:

22. That is unlikely to be the case, because the whole thing is so secret that shortly after the Roswell incident such a blockade of information was set up that only a few insiders learned the truth, while those involved were silenced under death threats.

23. In addition, many written documents and statements recorded on audio carriers were destroyed, as well as much of the photographic and film material.

24. Furthermore, a large number of those involved in the Roswell case were put under a hypnotic compulsion to forget.

25. This means that their memories of what they had experienced were erased and replaced by unreal memories.

Billy:

... Again and again there are articles and explanations etc. on television about the Roswell case and about Area 51, and it is always vehemently denied that there has ever been a Roswell case concerning an extraterrestrial flying object. Such broadcasts also include alleged 'eyewitnesses' of a military nature who deny and ridicule everything and always claim that it was a test balloon of a company called 'Mogul'. Most of the presenters of such TV programmes are singing the same tune. ...

Ptaah:

5. The Roswell case is based on true events, but you know that.

6. However, the flying apparatus that crashed at that time was not controlled by human life-forms, but by bioorganic androids.

7. However, the secret files created at the time about this incident were kept secret from the public and even from the entire government and were made to disappear by being kept in a very safe place to which only a few people have access.

8. So there is little chance that the real truth will ever really come out, and consequently there will probably never be any education of the USA government and the public, either in the USA or worldwide.

9. The truth is that the rulers in the USA were not informed about the real events, but everything remained with the military intelligence and the FBI as well as with other US intelligence services, such as the CIA.

10. The 'Mogul' lie stories about the Roswell case are also based on intelligence ...

11. And as far as the debris from the crash of the extraterrestrial flying apparatus near Roswell is concerned, it is to be said that all accessible debris was collected by members of the US Air Force and brought to Patterson and then to Area 51.

12. Despite thorough examination of all the debris, the technicians were not able to make much use of it because only a few things were understood and could be put to little use.

13. Nevertheless, it is a fact that top-secret flying apparatus is being created and tested in Area 51, not only in the area of that base, but also in other areas and even worldwide. ...

17. This is also a reason for the paradox that, especially in the USA, those in charge of military and air force intelligence and other intelligence agencies involved in the case are denying that an extraterrestrial flying apparatus has crashed, as happened in Roswell. ...

21. The fact is, as we informed you decades ago in silence, that the USA knew how to get hold of Soviet MIG fighters, the technology of which the aircraft designers at Area 51 had acquired and made great use of, but also how they could make use of certain small items from the crashed Roswell flying object, which in reality was of very little importance.

146. This crash actually took place, but for reasons of state security the whole thing was declared a state secret, all facts, reports, records and factual reports were put under lock and key and were largely lost over the decades.

11. what is true about the Roswell UFO case? Etc. ...

Billy:

Answer: The crash of a UFO was and is reality and had nothing to do with a weather balloon and Project Mogul. All military and scientific as well as secret service representations and claims that it was a weather balloon research enterprise and that the crashed object was a balloon, correspond to nothing more than a theater of lies and deceit, which is intended to cover up something that must not be made public for a very long time. And I am not allowed to talk about that either, so I have to keep quiet.*

Billy:

You are right about that, because I just wanted to ask you if you have read any notes in the annals of Sfath that refer to the military man Ramey. The man who was in Roswell. You know.

Ptaah:

There is not much to say really, because you know what transpired at that time. There is also nothing written in my father's annals other than that the man Ramey told him and you that he had no option but to lie to the press. But to you, he had to admit that everything published by the army and the state leadership was nothing but bare lies and that what was photographed was nothing but extra metal foil. This had been described as the remains of a balloon, but this corresponded to a fraud. Real materials from the very flat and plate-shaped object that had crashed over Tikaboo Peak and been severely damaged were not present as individual pieces, but it was still on site as a whole object, as Ramey explained to my father Sfath and you at the time. It was also transported away as a whole by the military, including the still living bodies of the object's crew. So everything was immediately secretly seized, removed and taken to Homey Airport (note Billy: Area 51) in the Nellis Air Force Barrier Area. Nonetheless, the news immediately got out to the press, following which the news of a crash by an extraterrestrial spaceship went around the world very quickly.

Billy:

Right, at that time I read in a newspaper myself that an extraterrestrial spaceship had crashed somewhere in the USA. I cannot remember which newspaper it was. I can still remember this military man Ramey, because he was scared as hell when Sfath and I suddenly materialised in front of him, about the same as Adamski when Asket and I suddenly stood in front of him, where he was giving his lying lecture in a big hall at Helvetiaplatz.

52. Only this name here is known to me, this Saint Germain; a quite malicious person, who did many things deceitfully, supposedly in order also to fulfil dangerous things for the Freemasons, through which they in turn allegedly could seize control of the world, if not, as would be falsely asserted, order had been troubled for from the other side.

53. Everything is naturally not correct, rather it is based on a pure invention of Freemason-unfriendly elements.

135. Saint Germain's real name is RAKOCZI, whereby he also assigned himself other names as, for example, Aymar or Marquis de Betmor, and so forth.

136. The name Saint Germain was only used by the adventurer in his self-appointed status as Count Saint Germain.

137. Born in the sign of Aries in the year 1711 in Collonia, you call it Cologne today, although a Portuguese origin was attributed to him.

138. He died in the year 1784 at the age of 73 years.

139. In his lifetime he was the greatest deceiver, charlatan, liar and spy, and indeed in the service and commission of a sect in Germany which was obsessed with world domination at that time.

140. He passed himself off as being a thousand years old, whereby however he was often got entangled in his own statements and so differences of up to 300 years age variation came about.

141. In and of himself he was of quite low intelligence, which he, however, through his enormous cleverness, cunning, manual skill and alchemistic knowledge, and so forth, could again offset, and even attained extraordinarily good results in slight of hand that [he] then passed off as magical powers.

142. He was subsequently named a wonder man and no one even suspected that he was the worst deceiver of his time.

143. Only a European Christian sect was oriented about this, because he was indeed a man who stood in their service and who also thereby endeavoured to take counts, princes and kings, as well as clergy and other dignitaries, into his power in order thereby to make them amenable to the sect, whose members sought, and thereby hoped, finally to realise their plans for world domination.

144. Therefore he also primarily concerned himself around the high-society of France which, in keeping with the plans of the sect, was to be the next land annexed by Germany through which already the greatest part of Europe at that time was to stand under the sect's control.

145. The initiates of the sect at the time quite consciously spun a fable-intertwined legend around Saint Germain in order to have him to appear in the light of an immortal and a master, although he did not belong as a member of the sect at all, which did not hinder him, Saint Germain, from portraying himself as master of the sect and therewith as an initiate.

146. He knew very well to expand the legend spun about him by the sect and to provide enormous fame for himself.

147. It was only thereby astonishing that the sect had actually included him in their plans, in this form, as an outsider.

148. A fact that we, from our side, also could not clarify.

149. He received quite personally, from King Frederick the Great, the awarded honorary title of an Immortal, after which Saint Germain implanted in him, [with] the power of his uncommonly high hypnotic capabilities, [the notion] that he, Saint Germain, was already 2004 years old.

150. Frederick the Great was himself not conscious of the employed hypnosis and was of the belief that he had obtained this knowledge about the age of Saint Germain through higher spirits, so also the knowledge thereby, that the 'Magician' had an immortal-making elixer at his disposal that Saint Germain also manufactured after a corresponding discussion with Frederick the Great.

151. In truth however the mixture was an evil broth (made) out of various hallucinogenic poisons and drugs, that called-forth deep euphoria.

152. Through the widespread sect he was also privy to European history from which he retained any 50 small details with his truly phenomenal memory, with which he astounded and quite terrified them that he was the best connoisseur of history and deluded them that he was, through this, all-knowing.

153. Through his uncommon shrewdness and cunning he reached also into the most intimate secrets of the various kings' families and of many other humans, that he then revealed again as 'secret knowledge' which often shifted the people into angst and terror, or allowed them to presume he had supernatural powers and capabilities.

154. Many times he obtained such intimate secrets through secret dealings with female servants, who he paid off with material things of value and with bodily love, which was not a burden for him because, on the one hand, he had at his disposal very enormous material wealth, and on the other hand, he was very sexually potent.

155. A favourite means of obtaining secrets was, however, his hypnotic capabilities that he especially brought into engagement with highly-positioned personalities, especially females, and thereby unlocked the ultimate and most intimate secrets that he then, at a later point in time, revealed to them again, after he had taken the memory of the hypnosis from them.

156. Thereby he appeared as a giant among all the magicians of the time.

157. So it was no wonder that he was raised to the position of a real master.

158. He occupied himself yet however, with many kinds of other things, so, for example, also with diamonds and with other kinds of precious stones and minerals, etc.

159. He could also produce fake gold, a chemical covering of metal that then behaved like gold.

160. And the deceived people believed, in their delusion and ignorance, that he could manufacture gold.

161. Also he knew how to purify 'contaminated' precious stones through his magic.

162. These, however, he regularly retained for a longer time because he was not able to work on them himself.

163. So he always brought them to a cousin in Holland who then 'purified' these precious stones for him, in that he ground off the cloudiness which existed in this material.

164. He asserted, or did, yet many other quite secretive things, so for example, also that he simply transmuted himself into invisibility, [which] was again, however, based on nothing other than his hypnotic powers, through which he let his observers live in the delusion that he had transmuted himself into invisibility.

165. Also he claimed to have often been in China.
166. Yet also that did not correspond to the truth, because he never left the European area.
167. When he explained again that he must now travel to China, then, in his journey, he went only to Berlin where he had to give an account of his deeds and works in the stronghold of the sects and where he then also received new orders.
168. Very astonishingly, the sect alchemists instructed him also, in these times, in alchemistic matters whereby they rejuvenated him many times, also through their best means and through small and fine facial operations, whereby he also always awoke the impression that he did not age, but rather was constantly about 40 years old.
169. This was brought about in Berlin in the stronghold of the sects of that time, but which no longer belonged to the actual mother sect, rather it was a splinter group that had established its seat there.
170. The high seat of the real mother sect was namely in Vienna, and Saint Germain also worked for that.
171. So he worked for four different masters at the same time, namely for France, for Friedrich the Great in Germany who was his best and most benevolent defender, for the splinter sect stronghold in Berlin, and for the actual mother sect stronghold in Vienna.
172. As Saint Germain died at the age of 73 his alleged immortality could only thereby be saved by the Berlin sect always again and again seeking suitable men who resembled the appearance of Saint Germain.
173. They performed fine face-alteration operations on them so that they were even more like the deceiver.
174. These (men) stepped into appearance then after his death, to appear personally as Saint Germain, after which they were instructed over long years by the sect members in all kinds of knowledge and abilities.
175. Out of these splinter sectarians then developed, in the course of time, a fanatical-religious sect that still today secretly drives its mischief and has also founded sister societies, and so forth.
176. But the founding sect has not, up to today, left off seeking out suitable men which they make compliant with horrendous amounts of money, and whose appearance resembles Saint Germain's, and that they then changed and made into "initiates" through engagement of operations on the facial characteristics and through alchemistic and magical teachings, who are, however, in truth, only better conjurers, who they then allow to present themselves as Saint Germain, and indeed until the current time.

I know that you have already informed me about this at an earlier time and explained that Peter never held the papal office. This statement of yours, however, has never been recorded in writing, which is why I am now once again officially asking you for the answer.

Ptaah:

104. It has its correctness with what you said.

105. Peter never held the office of pope.

Billy:

And what is it about the Vatican's claim that Peter's skeletal remains were found in the Vatican or something?

Ptaah:

106. This assertion corresponds to a deliberately created lie, because the mortal remains of Peter were then cremated by delusional Christian enemies because they were of the belief that he could return.

107. The matter with the found skeletal remains can be clarified by the fact that they belonged to a man who was a church servant during his lifetime, who had to maintain the church buildings and ensure order.

Asket:

130. But the time will pass very quickly for you because, at that point in time in which you will emerge {1975}, further dangerous things, which spring from the power-greedy forces, will already take their course.

131. At that time, and also even later, it will be America, Russia and China, that very strongly push for enslaving world domination, so it will not be at a later point in time the Jewish Zionists, as many people presume, who sharpen their blood sword through mass-murdering acts of violence and with the help of the Christian religion, to subjugate the Earth, rather smaller powers and various malignant sects, whereby one such really malignant one leads back to a certain Ron Hubbard.

132. In this regard they are already preparing the first decisive strikes in order to expand their power and to create dangerous country-controlling positions.

133. The Earth human should protect himself from providing any help to such power-greedy sects and rulers, because they cause the smallest help to become a deadly weapon against the helper, in order, therewith, to come closer, step by step, to the fulfilment of their addiction to world domination.

134. Sectarianism is just as much aligned only with greed for money and power as certain holders-of-power are aligned with enslaving world-domination.

135. Sectarianism likewise serves, for its believers and followers, only as a means to an end, as is peculiar to every actual religion, every ideology, as well as every secret society which demands world domination, and every political ruler.

Billy:

... But what do you think of the Scientology sect?

Ptaah:

117. It is an illusory false religion that strives for a financial-political world power and even wants to become world-dominating, whereby any mumbling means of a material kind is just as right for it as any psycho-destroying act against people who succumb to the sect.

118. Brainwashing is a common process, as are death threats and assassinations of members who have jumped out or of persons who are hostile or simply disapproving of the sect.

119. Any malicious means is just good enough for the sect to achieve its bold and exploitative and psycho-slave goals.

120. Thus they also carry out questionable machinations regarding drug programs in order to bring even drug addicts into their power.

121. Thus these undertakings are also only means to an end, whereby unstable, illogical thinkers and people incapable of living are led astray, deceived, exploited and thus misled and turned into scientific handlers, whose power of judgement and ability to recognize truth is not only suppressed, but is also underdeveloped.

This already brings us to L. Ron Hubbard and Scientology: What about the Scientology guidelines that exist today; were these actually created after his death by his cult heirs, as is repeatedly claimed, or were they fundamentally produced in their entirety by himself?

Ptaah:

151. First of all it must be said that this sect is one of the worst on earth, because it indulges and exists in an inhuman ethic.

152. With this sect, everything is directed towards making the human being cold in feelings and emotions through a deep-reaching brainwashing.

153. The sect guidelines were devised and established in every respect by the founder of the sect, Hubbard himself.

154. Everything is structured according to its meaning and is handled according to it worldwide today.

Billy:

Well, we already dealt with this organization years ago and got the book from Mrs. Hartwig until we were told that it had now been incorporated by the Scientologists and was now talking and working at their mill. However, we could not find out whether this is really true. But now that we have seen the film 'The informers of Scientology' [{Die Spitzel von Scientology: Der Sektengeheimdienst OSA \[Scientology's Spies: The Cult Secret Service OSA\]}](#), the whole thing topples us off again and shows us how this psychosect has evolved maliciously in the meantime, which has nothing else in mind but the establishment of a totalitarian world social order, which is also designed to exploit people both financially and in terms of labour. And when people who belong to the sect do not trace according to Scientology laws, then they are badly punished, not only physically but also psychologically. There are also testimonies of people who were cult members and turned away and liberated themselves from Scientology, but many of them have been harassed and psychologically harassed by Scientology spies for years, sometimes all their lives. And as the film shows, bribery, fraud, threats, blackmail, forgery and coercion are part of the everyday life of the psycho-sect, as well as the torture of delinquent cult members, which can probably be described as torture, in which the OSA or sect secret service also plays a major role. All this in addition to the fact that the cult infiltrates the authorities and organizations etc. and has established itself in the USA in their highest government as well as in the individual states in their authorities and their governments. The hammer was already in early sectarian time that Hillary Clinton, the wife of Present Clinton, was worried that Scientology would not have to pay taxes, while Clinton himself wrote and published articles for the Scientology newspapers, suggesting something about Clinton membership of the Scientology psycho sect.

Ptaah:

22. Since I have been involved with the machinations of this criminal organization since its inception, I can only confirm what you say.

23. The whole of the Scientology sect's endeavor, however, is not based solely on the establishment of a totalitarian world social order, but on the fact that a secret striving for effective world domination is prescribed, which is to encompass absolute control over all governments and authorities as well as armies, secret services and the entire economy.

24. And in order to achieve this, this sect regards no means as too small, too difficult or severe, consequently even the worst capital crimes have to be considered.

Billy:

I am aware of that, but as long as the governments and authorities and the economic bosses and so on reach out to this cult and allow it to go ahead or even belong to this criminal organisation themselves, nothing will improve and everything will only get worse. If all these responsible persons were to turn to the spiritual doctrine and learn the real, what life and evolution demand, then neither religions, sects, false philosophies, false world views and especially such criminal psycho-sects as Scientology would no longer exist. ...

Billy:

Well, and if we are already with England or the English, then I would like to ask you about the English playwright and poet William Shakespeare or about his private life, of which not much is known. Semjase once told me a lot about it, in terms of his faith and one of his secret activities, which was in no way praiseworthy – in connection with the Vatican.

Ptaah:

22. Shakespeare was not born on 23.4.1564 on the one hand, as is generally assumed today among Earth-humans, but on 19.4.1564, after which he was baptized on 26.4.1564 and died on 23.4.1616.

23. At his time, pure Catholicism was forbidden in England, which is why William Shakespeare officially confessed to Protestantism, which, however, was tantamount to a fraud, because in truth he was very strict and almost fanatically addicted to Catholicism and thus a strict and fundamentalist believer of this religion.

24. However, he knew how to hide this so well that only his wife Anne, née Hathaway, who was eight years older and married to him in 1582, knew about it.

25. The wife had fallen for him, which is why she remained silent in spite of many marital quarrels and in spite of his jealousy, even when she learned through dream conversations on his part that he was treacherous and spying for the Holy See in Rome with regard to the Anglican Church – Church of England, State Church.

Billy:

Do you know anything about William Shakespeare?

Ptaah:

37. Of course.

Billy:

Then you also know that even today his real date of birth is not known, so it is still a mystery. Can you help there, because I was asked about it?

Ptaah:

38. That is possible for me.

39. According to the old calendar calculation he was born on the 21st of April 1564 and was baptised somewhat unusually late, on the 26th of April 1564.

40. He then died on 23rd of April 1616.

Billy:

By the 'old calendar calculation' you probably mean the one that was used before the Gregorian calendar, or? The Gregorian calendar was introduced in England in 1752.

Ptaah:

41. What you say is correct.

Billy:

... Then again, a question about Shakespeare: It has long been said that he did not write all his works himself, but had a ghost writer. Is there any truth to this?

Ptaah:

40. Indeed, yes, because certain works were written for Shakespeare by the 17th Earl of Oxford, a poet and playwright called Edward of Vere, and a certain Christopher Marlowe.

Billy:

And that is all?

Ptaah:

41. Yes, because no further explanation is needed.

Billy:

Good, it says 'Marlowe'. And then the question of how this man is in relation to what you said on the 19th of November about this man who, like Edward of Vere, also wrote for Shakespeare. How much did Shakespeare himself write, and why did the other two even write works for him? It also raises the question of who wrote 'Hamlet' and who wrote 'Romeo and Juliet'; were they really written by Shakespeare himself?

Ptaah:

4. 'Hamlet' and 'Romeo and Juliet' were not written by William Shakespeare but by Christopher Marlowe, as were various other works, although the 17th Earl of Oxford, Edward of Vere, also wrote various works for Shakespeare, who himself was not so good at writing in the manner attributed to him that he could have written the works attributed to him today.

5. From his own writing came only very trivial and insignificant things, which he also did not bring to the public, and so all the 38 known dramas, comedies, poems and histories attributed to him came from the pen of Edward of Vere and Christopher Marlowe.

6. Both used Shakespeare during 1589 to 1613 only as a makeshift to publish their works.

7. Edward of Vere was not so good, but Christopher Marlowe was a very good poet and playwright.

8. Both of them, however, had profound reasons to use Shakespeare as a makeshift, especially Marlowe.

Billy:

I am sorry, by makeshift you mean straw man, that Shakespeare gave his name to the works written by Edward of Vere and Christopher Marlowe, so he used them all under his own name and also took credit and honor for them. But what I do not understand is that they were both 'ghost writers' for Shakespeare.

Ptaah:

9. Edward of Vere was, as I said, not a particularly good poet and playwright, so he used Shakespeare for some of his works, so that he would not have to appear himself, because he feared bad criticism.

10. Christopher Marlowe, on the other hand, had to flee because he put his life in danger with regard to his faith.

11. So, in the spring of 1593, he arranged a well-considered brawl with friends in which he was allegedly stabbed to death, which allowed him to escape unrecognized.

12. The truth is that he fled and went to Italy, where he could live under a different name and without the danger of persecution.

13. It was there that he wrote most of the works he had sent to Shakespeare until 1613, who then used them under his name.

14. However, he was not allowed to do so under his own name, nor was he allowed to do so under his false name, because otherwise he would have been recognised, persecuted and handed over to the courts.

15. Christopher Marlowe himself died at the age of fifty on 28 May 1614, so that Shakespeare naturally did not receive any more works from him during the last two years of his life and nothing else became known under his name.

The shroud of Turin - I am asked again and again about its origin and whether it is real, whether actually Jmmanuel is depicted on it. You have explained to me that the shroud is probably a real burial shroud and a deceased person is depicted on it, but that it is not of Jmmanuel.

Ptaah:

79. This corresponds to the facts.

Billy:

Okay, then still the question about the shroud, the so-called Shroud of Turin, which is claimed to be a shroud that carries the image of Jmmanuel alias Jesus. However, about this you once told me that it would be an image of an Italian merchant.

Ptaah:

9. That is correct, because the shroud does not show the image of Jmmanuel, but that of a merchant from Turin/Italy, called Caesar Canova.

10. The shroud was made by the brother of the deceased, Luciano Canova, an alchemist.

11. The process took place on 7 June 1324 and lasted until 10 June, ie 4 days.

12. During this, the procedure was not such that the shroud was placed on the deceased and the latter was rubbed with chemicals, as is often claimed, but it was a very early form of photography, whereby the corpse was placed vertically in front of a large glass lens, through which the image was then projected for four days through an effect of sunlight onto a large fabric surface soaked in chemicals in a dark room, after which the shroud was then treated with silver nitrate and the image became in that way visible and retained.

Billy:

... But look here, a certain Paul Badde wrote a book called 'The Divine Face' and subtitled 'The Adventurous Search for the True Face of Jesus'. "... sensational discovery ... image of Jesus on shell silk ... original relic of Christianity found again ... Pope travels to Manopello ... 'A Vatican crime novel'". The 'Welt' editor Paul Badde is certain to have solved the mystery of the 'veil of Veronica', which has been missing for 400 years. Badde: "We now know what Jesus looked like!" In his book, the Rome correspondent of 'Die Welt' describes how the mysterious shell-silk veil was tracked down, and what a complex puzzle he had to put together, in an extremely exciting way. In his analysis of the possible meaning of the recovered shell-silk cloth, Paul Badde meticulously strings together circumstantial evidence: The cloth shows the face of Jesus! How the image of the Saviour on the relic was created, however, remains a mystery ... The book comprises 318 pages, 16 colour illustrations and is bound in 14x22 cm format.

Cardinal Joachim Meisner of Cologne is said to have looked at the cloth in Manopello and said: "Do not doubt that it is genuine." Benedict XVI has informed himself extensively about the discovery of Paul Badde. The Pope is even considering visiting the mussel silk scarf in Manopello – and worshipping it as a great relic of Christianity. Do you have any idea what is behind all this? For my part, I myself have never heard of this shell-silk cloth.

Ptaah:

47. I do have some knowledge of it, yes, and it is explained very briefly:

48. As with the Shroud of Turin, this assertion that the image of Jmmanuel is supposed to be on the silk shroud is also an absolute nonsense.

Billy:

Many people with a Christian touch try to prove by all possible and impossible means that the Shroud of Turin as well as the Tunic of Argenteuil and the so-called Blood Cloth of Christ would actually trace back to Jmmanuel, whereby also blood traces on the shrouds are supposed to prove this, etc. Can you perhaps say anything more about this?

Ptaah:

58. All these machinations are very well known to me, and they are machinations that have been falsified in the name of the Christianity.

59. Therefore, counterfeiters who had come into possession of the shrouds sold them as Jmmanuel relics to the believing Christians.

60. During the whole deception, a Jew was involved whose name we could not determine, but who inflicted a wound on himself in order to fabricate the forgery and caught the blood that was used to prepare the relics.

61. On this basis the false claim is now built up that the relics were indeed those that would belong to Jmmanuel and that the blood was that of Jmmanuel, which, however, does not correspond to the facts.

Billy:

That way thus. And do you know what blood group Jmmanuel had?

Ptaah:

62. Indeed, we know that:

63. It was blood group 0 negative.

Billy:

And the cloth of the Shroud, for example, do you know who had woven it?

Ptaah:

64. No, this is unknown to me.

65. Our very difficult investigations only revealed that the merchant Caesar Canova, depicted on the cloth in his death, had acquired this as an old piece in Syria to serve as a robe.

66. And because he cherished the old robe, he wore it on his commercial journeys to various countries, such as Israel, where he also traded at the Dead Sea and travelled through the Palestinian mountains.

67. But he also wore the robe in Turkey and when he was pursuing his trade in France and Italy etc.

68. When Canova then died, his brother paid his last respects by using the robe for the merchant's image.

Billy:

Then, I estimate, it is possible that soil, plant leaves, and plant pollen from all these places were able to deposit in the robe during his travels. Am I right with this assumption? If so, then that should be detectable.

Ptaah:

69. You are not mistaken, because that was actually the case.

70. And all these things can still be found today in the relics, therefore these are used for Christian-directed false analyses and false Christian-belief-based claims.

Billy:

... I was asked what wound the man had inflicted on himself in order to use it to smear the cloth that is now known as the Shroud of Turin? Are you able to say anything more specific about it?

Ptaah:

6. That is indeed the case, yes.

7. The man was a Jew responsible for the traces of blood on the shroud, which had been created by a man named Luciano Canova, an alchemist, in 1324.

8. However, this man already died a little more than a year later, hence his entire legacy was sold, whereby the shroud then fell into the hands of the man who put the blood traces on the shroud.

9. The man was of Jewish origin and a fraud, counterfeiter, liar and swindler. 10. Since our last conversation on this matter, held by two of us in 2008, I have also been able to fathom its real name and further details.

11. He was a man of about 180 centimetres in size, just about as tall as the deceased merchant Caesar Canova, who was depicted on the cloth in his death.

12. He was called Jizchaq bin Nun, and he was a man who – as explained – spent his life with swindles, lies, counterfeiting and fraud, whereby nothing was of sufficient dignity and value for him not to eke out his criminal life through cheating, falsification, lying and swindle.

13. When it came to passing off the cloth as a shroud with regard to its name as that of Jesus of Nazareth, it was not too much for him to let an accomplice inflict the so-called Christ marks on all the right areas under the pain-killing influence of a drug, after which then immediately the shroud was laid very exactly on him, whereby the blood impressions resulted exactly at the precisely determined locations on the cloth, which was then in the year 1352 sold for a high price to the French King Jean II le Bon.

14. These are the facts that I was still able to fathom in relation to the facts of the falsification of blood.

Billy:

... Yesterday on television I saw a program about the so-called 'Veronika welding cloth', which we already talked about in the 418th contact conversation on the 6th of May 2006 ('Plejadisich-Plejarische Kontaktberichte', Volume 10, page 413), about which you said that the whole thing was nonsense. The aforementioned alleged sweat cloth, which is supposed to contain the image of Jmmanuel alias Jesus, exists in several copies and of course as alleged original also in the Vatican, but also as original in the church of Manoppello, where it is known as 'Volto Santo' of Manoppello. It is an icon on a wafer-thin cloth of mussel silk that is revered as a relic in the small Italian town of Manoppello in Abruzzo. The cloth became famous because of the mysteriousness of its origin, its material and the face on it. The wafer-thin cloth consists of byssos or mussel silk, which is also called sea silk. ...

This, then, with regard to the mussel silk and the veronica image, which, as you have said, is absurd, precisely with regard to the assertion that the image represents the face of Jmmanuel and Jesus respectively. Whose face is depicted on this picture of mussel silk? That is one question, the second of which refers to what you once privately mentioned, that the name 'Veronica' was invented in relation to the woman who is said to have touched Jmmanuel's face with the sweatscarf.

Ptaah:

10. You seem to have misunderstood me or forgotten what I really said, because I did not say that the name Veronica was invented, but the person Veronica, because this woman never existed.

11. We've clearly clarified that.

12. So in principle we must say that there was neither this invented Veronica nor any other woman who gave Jmmanuel one of the several so-called sweat cloths or touched his face with one of them.

13. Even when he was unconscious in the tomb, no such cloth was laid on his face.

14. The origin of the picture, which is supposed to be traced back to a woman named Veronika, who neither existed nor Jmmanuel handed in or put on a so-called sweatscarf, as is traditionally claimed to be an invention, goes back to a painter named Caecilia, who lived in central Italy in the Tuscany region, which corresponds to today's Tuscany.

15. This woman made the face of her husband Marcellinus on a shell silk scarf which she had received from Sicily and which was bought only a few years after its completion by a Catholic priest named Fufetius, who called it the 'image of Christ'.

16. I do not know what happened to them, except that they were used to make images and were admitted to church circles.

17. That is what our notes make clear, but unfortunately not more.

Billy:

... what was it with Sodom and Gomorrha; what actually happened there – how were these two cities destroyed?

Quetzal:

117. Several factors are to be mentioned:

118. On the one hand, a meteorite fell to the Earth and exploded high over the area of the two cities, which would now actually be designated as larger villages.

119. This led to devastating destruction of both cities, triggering a massive earthquake, by which the Earth was torn open – like in Petra – and by underground volcanic activity, small and larger chunks of sulphur were flung high and across the country, which also naturally caused much disaster, and by this – as also by the exploding meteorite – many human beings were killed.

120. The remaining part of the total destruction was caused by the megalomaniac and crazy God of the Hebrews, an extraterrestrial who had his headquarters deep under the pyramid of Giza.

121. His punishment for the disobedience of the population of Sodom and Gomorrha, against his commands, was that he let two small atom bombs ignite over the two cities, which finally levelled everything to the ground, killing all humans and animals.

Billy:

... Hence the question was asked how the Dead Sea came into being, on whose shores the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah were located. And it was asked where the volcano had been, and why no ruins of the two cities have been found so far, and so on.

...

Quetzal:

526. However, in order to explain the events of the volcanism and the invisible ruins of Sodom and Gomorrah in more detail, the following shall be said:

527. The events with the meteorite, the ignition of the two small nuclear bombs of the irrational God as well as the volcanic eruption and the earthquake took place within a few hours and thus in rapid succession.

528. There were two earthquakes, the first of which had a magnitude of 6.3 according to the terrestrial Richter scale and the second a magnitude of 8.6, which resulted in devastating consequences.

529. Since the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah were built on very unstable and loose ground in the near shore area of the Dead Sea, both cities slipped due to a huge landslide into the Dead Sea and sank on its bottom.

530. The landslide was caused by an enormous water pressure from the ground, from which water was pressed up, causing the layers of the ground to liquefy and slide.

531. From the beginning of the landslide to its end and until everything disappeared in the Dead Sea, a time of just 27 minutes passed.

532. This is the reason why practically no ruins of the cities can be found in the shore areas of the salt lake.

533. Only scattered ruins, which were located outside the cities, remained and were buried under sand and dust.

534. The fire, however, which rained from the sky before the two cities were completely destroyed and sank into the Dead Sea, consisted of glowing chunks of sulphur and glowing soil, whereby everything was flung up from within the ground by enormous volcanisms and rained down on the cities.

535. This volcanism, however, was not of the usual kind as it appears with normal volcanoes, because it was truthfully a methane volcanism, which means that methane gases ignited inside the Earth in large chambers.

536 This led to tremendous explosions, which tore open the ground in several places, eventually forming smaller craters from which the sulphur chunks and the glowing earth were ejected, thereby causing so to speak fire to rain from the sky.

Ptaah:

145. This is regulated with us by a law, and indeed, in the way that wives and descendants resulting from the marriage bond, in each case, always bear the surname of the husband, respectively the father.

146. This is regulated in such a way because solely through this, confusions in the degree of kinship as well as in the family tree can be avoided.

147. Even at very early times, our ancestors made the discovery that there were incredible confusions when female spouses retained their premarital surnames or even transferred them to their descendants.

148. From this, there arose much disaster and confusion, from which incest emerged on a massive scale, as this happened in Sodom and Gomorrah with the ancient Jews, when the two cities degenerated into pure herds of incest.

Billy:

Did your ancestors have something to do with Sodom and Gomorrah?

Ptaah:

149. Not the ancestors of our own lineage but those of diverging lineages, for these interfered in the affairs of the ancient Jews, who degenerated – for example, in Sodom and Gomorrah – into wide-scale incest, for which they were punished with a total annihilation by nuclear fire, etc. by the one who was angry about these unbelievable activities.

Spartacus

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Spartacus>

Billy:

Well, then the following: Spartacus was a warrior for the oppressed. Despite all ancient reports, his origin is still unknown today, as is his death. It is said that he died in the Battle of the River in 71 B.C., but his body was never found. The Romans had united all their military legions in this battle and thereby defeated the army of Spartacus. As punishment for the slave revolt the victors then crucified more than 6,000 defeated slaves, namely along the Via Appia from Capua to Rome. In Capua too was the gladiator school, run by a certain Gnaeus Lentulus Batiatus, where Spartacus also learned his gladiator craft, before it came to an uprising in the spring of 73 B.C. by a few more than 200 gladiators in Capua when they stormed the prison kitchen – armed with all sorts of things they could just get their hands on. So the prison itself became the arena. I know some things about Spartacus, but if you know more about it, then please let me hear.

Quetzal:

...

269. The term gladiator is based on the main combat tool of gladiators, the sword, which was called Gladius in Latin language.

270. Gladiators were not amateurs, but fiercely trained fighters.

271. A gladiator training center was in Capua, and being a gladiator meant practicing a veritable craft to perfection as any other craft was.

272. The gladiators were true masters of the art of fighting and true fighting machines, whose only destiny was to kill the opponent in the fight and to remain victorious, and not only in the fighting arena.

273. Truthly gladiators in special legions were actually also used for war purposes, which, however, has remained largely unknown to this day.

274. The gladiator school of Gnaeus Lentulus Batiatus, whom you mentioned, was a strictly guarded prison with thick stone walls in which slaves were trained to become gladiators.

275. Already the training often resulted in deaths, because ultimately, they also fought with sharp weapons, which, however, were only given out for practice fights and then kept under lock and key again under strict guard.

276. There were great and glorious heroes among the gladiators, but as a rule they were still no more than slaves without rights who were the property of slave owners, who used their enslaved fighters for betting, or who had to duel to the death for their owners over love affairs.

277. The unbreakable rule of gladiators was simple:

278. Every fight was to be fought for life or death; for death or victory; whereby even for the best fighters there was no hope for a better or even a free future.

279. Ultimately, every gladiator ended up in his own blood when he was killed by his enemy and sank into the dust of the arena.

280. Some gladiators managed up to ten, twenty, or rarely even twenty-five or thirty fights, but then they were so worn out and exhausted that they could not endure another fight and were killed by their opponent.

281. And since there was no hope for the gladiators that they would ever be free and have a better life, the thought of insurrection was thus constantly smouldering among them, which was also known to the owners of slaves and the operators of the gladiator schools as well as the guards, which is why they took enormous security measures against a revolt.

282. This was also a reason why the gladiators were for security reasons only given sharp weapons when they had to fight in the arena or, which was rare, had to pass a special final test of combat training with sharp weapons, in which case there were already deaths.

283. Otherwise, in the gladiator schools, only the guards were heavily armed, whereby every outbreak and revolt was already nipped in the bud.

284. Nevertheless, the thought of an uprising was constantly smouldering among the gladiators, until in the spring of 71 B.C. what was considered impossible by the slave owners and their guardians actually happened:

285. 217 gladiators stormed the prison kitchen in Capua in the gladiator school and armed themselves with kitchen utensils suitable for fighting, such as skewers, meat axes, chopping instruments and knives, etc., with which they then attacked their brutal guards.

286. They fought against the guards with the courage of despair and used all the skills they had learnt during their training and until then had applied in hopeless fights for life and death in the arena.

287. However, the revolted had only limited chances against the heavily armed guards, which is also why 146 gladiators were killed by the guards before 71 of the insurgents were able to flee.

288. The guards themselves became prisoners, for they could not flee through the closed doors and over or through the thick walls of the prison, and so many of the guards were massacred by the revolting slave gladiators.

289. Their leader was the slave-gadiator Spartacus, who originated from the Indo-European folk of the Thracians and was enslaved by the Romans when he fell into captivity.

290. He belonged to an aristocratic family who were descendants of the tribe of Spartans and he therefore had great fighting experience and warfare qualities even before his enslaved gladiatorial life, so it was understandable that he could take over the leadership role during the escape and keep it after the escape.

291. Years prior to his enslavement and forced recruitment as a gladiator by the Romans, he fought in the war against their legions.

292. The Thracians and various other folks stood up against the Romans when they were incited by the Pontic king Mithridates VI, and it was precisely during this war that Spartacus was captured and brought to Rome as a slave.

293. Thus he changed from a fighter for freedom to a fighter in the arena – to a gladiator who had henceforth solely to fight for his life.

294. And since he was as good as a perfectionist in the handling of weapons and in combat, had enormous physical strength and a high intelligence as well as a brilliant intellect and a good education, his destiny was sealed.

295. Such persons were unceremoniously taken by the Romans to the gladiator elite school of Capua, where they, being experienced in weapons and combat, besides fighting, also had the task of acting as gladiator trainers, which from then on was also Spartacus' fate.

296. The revolt and the escape of the gladiators from the gladiator prison in Capua was certainly very annoying for the Romans, but at first nobody cared much about it, except for those legions who were chasing them.

297. Actually, the 71 gladiators were now free, but they still could not lull themselves to safety, because in fact they always ran the risk of falling back into the hands of a fifth part of a Roman legion, about a thousand men, who followed and chased them.

298. In Roman times, an entire legion comprised 4,000-6,000 men on foot and about 300 horsemen and the entourage.

299. The legion was divided into 10 cohorts, that is to say 400-600 men each, as well as 30 manipels, with 133-200 men, and 60 centuries, with 100 men each, and formed the highest unit of the Roman army.

300. Then in the late antiquity a legion was made up of only about a thousand men.

301. Although the gladiators had seized various weapons from the killed guards, so they had also in that regard quite a bit at their disposal in addition to the kitchen instruments, but nevertheless their chances of staying alive were much smaller than just before, when they were still enslaved gladiators and had to fight for their lives in the arena.

302. Thus 71 slave gladiators were on the run and always in danger to fall into the hands of the bloodhounds, who outnumbered them several times.

303. So the refugees had no choice but to keep on fleeing in order to escape the Roman legions chasing them.

304. In so doing, however, they managed to raid and plunder a weapons transport destined for another gladiator school, so that the escapees could better equip themselves.

305. Word got around, of course, and wherever the escaped gladiators appeared, slaves fled time and again from their owners and joined the Spartacus Legion, which is how the gladiator troupe was now popularly known.

306. And more and more joined in, also impoverished farmers and escaped prisoners, so that in the following weeks a small army assembled itself.

307. This required that as soon as possible new weapons were obtained, and more armed men were sought and also found in large numbers and trained in the handling of weapons and in combat, which of course did not remain hidden to Rome, which now slowly began to feel uneasy and to worry, because now it was foreseeable that a slave war might loom.

308. This was all the more dangerous because the Roman Empire had major domestic and foreign political problems and the majority of its legions were engaged in warfare at practically all borders of the Empire and beyond.

309. Therefore, there was a lack of time and the necessary army to follow and fight against the increasingly rebellious gladiators and all their companions, the escaped slaves and prisoners, as well as the peasants and adventurers, and figures who had struggled for all sorts of reasons.

310. Moreover, it was not glorious for the legions to militarily fight escaped slaves and prisoners, gladiators, peasants and all sorts of rabble, in contrast to the situation when through successful military campaigns at the borders of the empire or beyond, much fame and spoils of war could be gained.

311. And exactly this attitude as well as the lax chasing of the Spartacus Legion led to the fact that Spartacus was able to move through Italy almost unchallenged with his army and to gather more and more people around him.

312. Thus, for Rome, the size of the Spartacus Legion grew to become an ever more encompassing and dangerous threat, and many Romans were confronted with anxiety.

313. Then Spartacus set up a large camp in the volcanic crater of Vesuvius, where he felt safe with his army at least for the present situation.

314. From there, raids were carried out in the immediate vicinity and further afield to obtain food, but also new equipment and weapons for all the many new slaves who had escaped and joined the gladiator group and its Legion, impoverished peasants, adventurers, escaped prisoners and criminals.

315. Also further escaped gladiators as well as further asocial rabble of all kinds joined the Spartacus Legion, so that it finally comprised 11,803 men, which was roughly equivalent to two large Roman legions.

316. The raids thus became bigger and bigger, extending farther and farther and, of course, posed an ever-increasing threat to the security of the Roman citizens.

317. Thus the Roman Senate finally decided to take action against the two Spartacus Legions.

318. Thus the propraetor i.e. the proconsul Gaius Claudius Glaber was instructed to confront the threat with 3,000 military men provided to him and to destroy the two Spartacus Legions.

319. So a forced march to the volcano Vesuvius was undertaken by foot in the hope of blocking and occupying the only access from the valley to the Vesuvius crater and to encircle Spartacus with his two Legions, which however ultimately failed profoundly.

320. This because he underestimated Spartacus' intelligence, prowess and war tricks and carelessly waived to erect a palisade fence around his own camp.

321. This was seen by Spartacus and he took advantage of this grave error of the besiegers by at night having ladders made from wild vines, on which all the heavily armed Spartacus men rappelled down from the crater rim and raided the oftentimes sleeping Roman soldiers, who simply sought their salvation by fleeing.

322. In this way Spartacus defeated half a Roman legion with his Legions and came into possession of the whole camp, including many food supplies, weapons and all other Roman equipment.

323. This made it all the more clear that one was no longer dealing with just a small slave uprising, but actually with a great threat.

324. Therefore, haste was suddenly called for, and under the command of the Senate and under the leadership of the praetor Publius Varinius, a new army was newly equipped.

325. However, the Senate was mistaken about the newly-grown army of Spartacus, which had in the meantime increased to several legions and thus to 43,719 men due to further influxes, amongst them many Roman defectors.

326. An enormous military power that therefore also defeated two legates sent out by the praetor and their legions.

327. Legates were deputies or envoys of the emperor or the praetors as well as permanent assistants of the military commanders and vicegerents.

328. The praetor Publius Varinius barely escaped capture by Spartacus' warriors during the failed military campaign.

329. Although the mighty Spartacus army had many successes, the more time went by it became increasingly clear that it was only a community welded together by adversity, consisting of many members of different folks.

330. Thus Spartacus was originally eager to bring all of them back to their homelands because he knew that there was no future for any of them in the Roman land.

331. Therefore, he also wanted to cross the Alps, from beyond which many Teutons and Celts in his army originated.

332. However, a fellow sufferer named Krixos, who had been in Capua with Spartacus and stood by his side as leader, was not of the same opinion because he wanted to stay in the Roman land and lead the immense army against Rome.

333. The two, however, could not agree to forge a joint action against Rome, which is why the two separated together with their personal supporters.

334. Krixos remained in the south of the country in Apulia, whereby 9872 followers gathered around him.

335. As Spartacus made his way north, 35,416 men from the army that had grown further moved with him.

336. The Romans' anxiety grew enormously, as it was feared that Spartacus would now attack Rome.

337. Therefore, the Senate decreed that a Gewalt-strike against Spartacus and his Legions should be led, in order to get rid of the danger, hence a total of four large legions as well as a considerable number of other troops, altogether little more than 30,000 men, were ordered under the command of Gnaeus Cornelius Lentulus Clodianus and Lucius Gellius Poplicola, who in the year 72 BCE were both consuls and had therefore also the supreme command during times of war and authority over the legions.

338. Of course, the Romans learned of the separation of Spartacus and Krixos, so they set out to take out Krixos and his fighters.

339. This then took place at Mount Garganus in Apulia.

340. Krixos had no chance, was defeated devastatingly and died himself during this.

341. Only a few survived the heavy fight and then made it to Spartacus, whose situation was very unpleasant as he had lost a quarter of his troops because of Krixos, which put him in a critical situation.

342. The two consuls knew this, of course, and now they were deploying their troops against Spartacus and his legions.

343. Thus, with might, Gnaeus Cornelius Lentulus Clodianus obstructed the way to the north for Spartacus and his men, while Lucius Gellius Poplicola, with the help of Quintus Arrius' legions, ensured that the way back was blocked.

344. Another time the fate of Spartacus and his companions seemed to be sealed, but again he proved his strategic genius.

345. He led his legions with those of the consuls to an open field battle, won and put the enemies to flight.

346. Then he commemorated his friend Krixos, who had been killed by the Romans, and had a pompous funeral service organised for him, in that Spartacus chose 311 captured Roman legionnaires who had to fight as gladiators with each other until death.

347. Thus the Romans became aware that the former slaves, the peasants exploited and impoverished by the Romans and the slave gladiators had not forgotten their former ignominy and now transferred it to the captured legionnaires who had to fight for their lives as gladiators.

348. Spartacus' action was a clear act of revenge, which did not appeal to the Romans at all, however, and was by them regarded as proof that Spartacus and his men were infested with the worst cruelty.

349. They did not think about it, and it did not occur to anyone that the whole thing was nothing other than what they had done themselves.

350. The Romans were so stubborn that they could in no wise comprehend the act of revenge.

351. Spartacus, however, advanced further north with his legions and soon crossed the northern border of Umbria.

352. Thus, he soon managed the difficult crossing over the Apennines and marched towards the Po Valley, where he was opposed by the praetor Gaius Cassius Longinus with two legions, with 10,413 Roman legionaries, while Spartacus with his legions defeated the Romans again.

353. So the time had come that he could now have crossed the Alps, but that did not happen, because no one was in favour of this plan any longer, because now all the Spartacus warriors wanted to march against Rome, because the steady battles with the Roman legions had stirred up the hatred in the rebels in such a way that they now wanted to destroy the Romans in their own country.

354. Thus the march southwards was resumed, while in Rome the situation became more and more complicated and confused for the Senate and the population, and the anxiety grew more and more.

355. In the autumn of 72 BCE, it was only with the greatest difficulty that the Senate was able to entice a volunteer to set out against Spartacus and his legions, namely via Marcus Licinius Crassus, who had become very wealthy during the reign of the dictator Lucius Cornelius Sulla (who also had the nickname Felix).

356. Crassus armed any man who was able to hold a weapon and thus assembled six new legions, irrespective of the fact that many were war invalids, hardly able to fight.

357. He also incorporated the remains of the four beaten legions and thus brought together an army of 53,608 legionnaires who set off with the slogan: "Total annihilation of the rebels".

358. Under the command of Mummius, the legate appointed by Crassus, two Roman legions were sent out to follow Spartacus and his fighters, whereby Mummius was however ordered not to engage in any fight with Spartacus and his legions.

359. But Mummius was ambitious and thought that he could win with his legionaries over the rebels, which is why he attacked them, whereupon he was defeated devastatingly.

360. There were only a few survivors, and those took flight.

361. Mummius too was among them, whose unauthorised actions led to the end of his career.

362. The defeated and fleeing legionaries were called to account by Crassus and disciplined by determining and executing every tenth, namely in front of all legionnaires, which was meant to serve as a deterrent that no one any longer would flee and show cowardice vis-à-vis the enemy.

363. And Crassus was boundlessly angry, which is why he now wanted to annihilate Spartacus and his legions with a single, mighty strike.

364. But Crassus was also mistaken, because when he and his army met the one of Spartacus, the victory went again to the rebels, which also continued to be so, this not least because Spartacus always knew how to avoid a direct encounter.

365. Thus they moved both armies slowly southwards, namely all the way down to the southern tip (note Billy = 'boot tip') of the Roman mainland e.g. Italy.

366. And that appealed to Crassus, because now he could cut off Spartacus and his legions' return to the north.

367. For this purpose, his legionnaires had to build a wall with a length of just over 30 kilometres, thereby locking in the Spartacus army.

368. At the narrowest point of the peninsula, moreover, a four-metre-deep ditch was dug, which was additionally protected on the back with a barricade.

369. However, since Crassus knew Spartacus' war tricks and the fighting power of his legions, he requested support from the Senate in Rome by Gnaeus Pompeius and Marcus Licinius Lucullus.

370. So a wearisome waiting period began on both sides of the armies ready for battle, whereby Spartacus forged plans to escape the looming annihilation.

371. And since the land route was completely blocked by Crassus' troops, only the sea route remained open and that would be the one over to Sicily.

372. Thus the plan was forged that the crossing by ship should take place by Cilician pirates, because these dominated the strait between the Roman mainland and Sicily.

373. Negotiations were also conducted in this regard, with the pirates demanding a very high price, which the Spartacus men had to pay in advance.

374. However, the pirates were fraudsters, because they disappeared with all the money and left the rebels behind, but this only because Crassus paid the pirates three times the price.

375. Spartacus, on the other hand, sent a scout to Sicily, who was however captured and crucified by the Romans and put on display directly at the harbour entrance.

376. Spartacus and his legions were finally locked up and could flee neither across the strait nor across the land, and so Crassus could simply wait with his army until the plight of hunger drove the rebels out of their holes.

377. And he did not want to enter into a compromise with Spartacus when the latter sent a messenger to him, so that he had to return to the camp of the rebels without having achieved anything.

378. Thus Spartacus not only ran ever shorter of time, but also of the food for the hungry men of his legions.

379. Also more and more diseases spread in his army, and many of the weakened fighters died away.

380. He had their corpses secretly thrown into the ditch created by Crassus' army, along with tree trunks and stones, etc.

381. Then Spartacus ordered a storm attack, which became a real massacre, in which 12,719 of his fighters were literally slaughtered by the Roman legions.

382. Only a part of the Spartacus army was left and was able to flee, however, haunted by the legions of Crassus.

383. During the flight there were renewed disagreements among the rebels, hence Spartacus separated several thousand fighters another time and went separate ways with them.

384. Obviously this was welcome for Crassus, who chased the splinter group and attacked them as they set up their first camp.

385. Still close together, Spartacus came with his main army to the aid of the attacked and could only just prevent that the defectors were completely exterminated.

386. Nevertheless, this no longer welded the breakaway men together with the main army, since after their rescue they continued to go their own ways.

387. Thus they moved to the north, where they were taken up only a short time later by Roman legions and destroyed to the last man.

388. And Spartacus knew that Lucullus was on his way with his legionnaires, namely with ships to the port of Brundisium (note Billy: today called Brindisi) on the east coast of the boot, which is why he was very worried.

389. Thus, three years after his escape from the gladiator prison in Capua, he ordered the last and desperate attack on the chasers, whereby the two armies then collided for many hours and, in addition to a real bloodbath, also left behind a field of deaths on which lay many thousands of Roman legionaries and umpteen thousands of rebels, all of whom had to fight tired and power-wise exhausted.

390. The Spartacus fighters had no realistic chance, and Spartacus himself too suffered a severe stab wound that forced him to the ground.

391. Nevertheless, he continued to fight against the legionnaires attacking him until he received a blow to the head with a sword, which, however, did not split his skull, but only tore a flesh wound open, causing him to fall to the ground, covered in blood and unconscious, and was left lying there, believed to be dead.

392. Then, when everything was over and the night had arrived, Spartacus regained consciousness and left the battlefield half walking half crawling and thus fled from the Romans, whereby he was lucky that a helpful peasant found him, who took him in and cared for him for about two months, until he was well again.

393. Afterwards Spartacus set off unrecognised to return to his homeland, which he eventually reached after several months and lived there as a free man until the end of his life, also unrecognised, and died at the age of 61 years.

Billy:

This is a long story. So, because he was able to flee, Spartacus was not found when they then searched for him on the battlefield. ...

... the Khafre structure, I mean the Sphinx structure, was aligned to the constellation of Leo. The new pyramid, as well as all the others and the Sphinx structure, were built in more recent times, so about 4,500 years ago, solely by Earth-humans, by their own forces. The builders were early Egyptians, like also the largest part of the workers, who were free people and artisans to a certain part, while many others, who came in small numbers as slaves from other countries, had to perform their hard work, together with a small number of domestic slaves. That majority of the workers, however, was based on free Egyptians. For the purpose of the nourishment of all workforces, a veritable industrial food-city was built near the pyramid, and also mass campsites were provided for resting and sleeping, as well as tombs for the many deceased, who were at work there. That's how I remember it being explained to me by you. Now, is this right, or did I fall into a fallacy?

Quetzal:

Billy:

... Well, another problem, for palaeontology, seems to be the Sphinx in Egypt, which is again and again reported about, just as it has recently been again, whereby all sorts of guesses are made and impossible things are claimed about the creator of the Sphinx . On that Quetzal told me, as you however also said already in the 1980s, that according to your records Pharaoh Chefren resp. Chephren was the builder resp. originator for the building of the Sphinx. Can you explain a little more about that?

Ptaah:

83. Which is really like that.

84. Khafre resp. Chaefchufu or Chefren is the Greek name for Chafre or Chaefre, which means "Chaefre is big".

85. He was the fourth pharaoh of the 4th Dynasty in the Old Kingdom of Egypt.

86. Pharaoh Chephren was the half-brother of his predecessor Radjedef and the half-brother of Kawab, and he was buried in Giza, as was his father Pharaoh Cheops, who was actually called Chufu.

87. His reign lasted from 2567 to 2534 before Jmmanuel resp. before the Christian calendar.
88. He was also the originator and responsible for the construction of the temple and 12 statues, which showed the hours of daytime by sunlight.
89. In addition, he was also the originator and responsible for the construction of the second and second highest pyramid in Giza, as well as for numerous outstanding statues in the vicinity of the Sphinx, some of which have been preserved to this day.
96. The great pyramid was together with the others already in the early days and then also for the last recreation aligned on the Orion constellation, but the Sphinx according to the guidelines of Chephren on the Leo constellation.
97. 4,500 years ago, the pyramids and the Sphinx were built solely by human beings of the Earth, whereas in the first construction 73,300 years ago, non-terrestrials were also involved, partly using telekinetic powers.

Billy:

Yes, you already told me this in the 1980s, as well as that the actual Egyptians, who built the pyramids 4,500 years ago, were mostly free human beings and craftsmen, while only a small part of them had to work as slaves. The food for all the workers, who comprised a small army, was, so to speak, provided by a food-city not far from the pyramid, as well as facilities with dormitories were given for the workers.

Ptaah:

98. Yes, that had been so.

Billy:

My knowledge is that the spontaneous combustion of the body concerns life processes, respectively physiological and functional operations of the whole body, where the basic factors are the consciousness and the subconsciousness, the thoughts and feelings, the emotions, the nerves, the sensibility and sensitivity, and naturally also the psyche. Thus, it is an aggregate physiological condition, through which a spontaneous combustion of the body is triggered, by what means the vibrations, energies, and forces of the aforementioned factors are developed, which also attract certain cosmic energies, together with the fact that chemical reactions are caused in the body, through which gases develop, which spread throughout the whole body and into the individual cells. Depression, nerves, pain, suffering, delusions, sorrow, deep depression, and schizophrenic factors, along with many other factors, can fundamentally contribute to the process, by giving rise to the aforementioned vibrations, forces, and energies, which will then lead to the spontaneous combustion of the body, in that the gases produced ignite yourself. As a rule, combustion occurs from the inside out, more rarely from the outside, whereby a heat of up to 1500 degrees or more is created. Thus, the spontaneous combustion energies, etc. are generated by the person himself, together with the fact that during this process, he also attracts cosmic energies to himself, by what means a spontaneous combustion becomes final. But this does not mean that in every case, a fatal self-combustion must take place because depending on the psychological and consciousness-related condition of the person, also just external burns on the body and on the limbs can become visible or even mild or severe blistering. In such cases, the self-combustion processes can be stopped if the thoughts and feelings are arranged correctly, but usually, professional and good psychological or psychiatric help is required for this. Concerning a released self-combustion of the aforesaid kind, it is the case, with certain exceptions, that the combustion heat only appears centrally, and thus, the burning in the body only appears and lasts for a very short time, as the body disintegrates into ashes. This means that in general, the nearer and further surroundings are not affected by the combustion, respectively by the heat, or are only affected very little. That's what I know. Now, I would just like to know, to what extent all of what I said is true.

The supernatural exists only in the ignorance and the incomprehension of man, because he has no knowledge about all those things which he cannot understand and cannot explain himself. Truthfully everything so-called supernatural is absolutely natural and thus also classified according to the corresponding laws of spirit or matter, which are able to give an explanation for everything and everyone, whereby something supernatural becomes a fact of non-existence. Everything that can be grasped and perceived, everything that can be seen and heard and everything that can be felt, recognized, experienced and experienced, etc., is always real, real and natural in every case, regardless of whether it takes place on a spiritual or material level or on a medium level between spirit and matter, which is so often called the level of the supernatural or the supernatural by parapsychologists and esoterics who do not understand it.

Billy:

Which, of course, is neither in one case nor the other.

Ptaah:

144. True, because the skull corresponds to nothing more than an earthly human skull anomaly.

145. The mother and father were Earth-humans, and the human to whom the skull belonged was a hermaphrodite, that is, a bisexual, in which both sexes were approximately equally pronounced.

146. The skull is very strongly deformed by the anomaly and looks a little strange, but this is not uncommon with skull anomalies.

Billy:

... And the fact that so-called 'sanctified ones' or 'casteites' appear at the same time, and make the faithful even more nonsensical, by causing stigmatization or the five wounds of Christ on their bodies through their broken psyche or through clear self-mutilation, further encourages all this nonsense.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy\_Meier/FIGU\_Bulletin\_003

The stigmatization phenomenon, during which the wounds of Christ materialize as bleeding wounds on the back and palms of the persons' hands, as well as their loins, insteps, possibly also on their forehead, the head (from the crown of thorns) or on their backs (traces from flagellations), is a form of religious-sectarian manifestations of self-flagellation based on a psychogenic effect. This signifies that human beings who suffer from a stigma are ensnared in their religious-sectarian belief structure to the extent that the psyche rebels in a form whereby the bleeding wounds actually appear on the body and elsewhere. This occurs in the identical manner in which the religious-sectarian believer envisions the "wounds of Christ" to be, according to the examples presented in countless paintings of saints, along with various representations in Christian churches and so forth. The truthfulness of this statement is demonstrated by the fact that all stigmatized people display these wounds on their hands or the palms of their hands, respectively, just as they were depicted and presented on paintings and statements by the Church. Albeit they are fundamentally wrong. The fact is, it was extremely uncommon in those days for crucified individuals to be nailed to a cross with 8" to 10" long, handcrafted nails. Such cases were rare indeed because the doomed victims were usually tied to the cross. "Nailed" individuals, as they were called in those days, were nailed to the cross by their wrists. In other words, no nails were driven through the palms of the victim's hands but always, and without exception, through the wrists only, a fact which was falsified by the Churches and all their sects since time immemorial. Paintings and assertions have incorrectly rendered this information, and even the faithful today believe that Jmmanuel (who is falsely identified as Jesus Christ) was crucified with nails driven through the palms of his hands. This statement and falsification of facts holds no truth whatsoever, for even with Jmmanuel nails were driven through his wrists. This practice of nailing through the wrists was performed because the nailed victims' own bodyweight (in contrast with those who were tied to the cross) would have ripped them from the y-shaped structure since the palms and backs of their hands, that is, the hands in general, were too frail to hold the nailed person's weight for any length of time.

It also becomes clear that, by way of their psyche and their consciousness, these self-generated wounds of Christ manifest themselves in the same way and in the same place the stigmatized individuals envision them to be -- even though the manifestations fail to correspond to the actual truth in any way.

Christian religion-influenced stigmatizations must be taken for what they truly are, namely, religioussectarian Christian materializations of psychogenic origin which influence all material substances; indeed, they can cause blood to flow upward instead of downward as would be the case according to the laws of physics. Likewise, hammer blows may be observed, indeed heard, as the wounds manifest on the person's hands and feet. The facts are plain and offer proof that physical matter is not the driving force here but, instead, the powers of the consciousness and the spirit, whereby it is not the Creational spirit that is at work during stigmatizations but the individual's material-consciousness, in conjunction with the psyche, which generate the fundamental forces within the person. As a rule, stigmatized persons are deeply religious, even sectarian, and they claim that God or the "Savior" afflicts them with the wounds and pain, so to speak as a token of his love, etc. How bloody a God or "Savior" it would be who tortures his faithful with such acts! Unfortunately the religious-sectarian delusion of the faith in Man knows no bounds, however, and such inadequate, idiotic claims will continue to spread, thereby influencing the faithful and luring them from the path of reason and reality. The following can be said: Whoever allows him- or herself to be influenced by the religious-sectarian nonsense that claims stigmatizations are "a gift from God" or the "Savior" is truly beyond help. May rational individuals live in cognisance of the fact that stigmatization is purely the human, psychogenic handiwork of those people who have fallen prey to stigmatization, from which they could liberate themselves if only they were to put aside their religious-sectarian thinking and feeling, and live according to bona fide reality.

While in their psychogenic condition, strongly stigmatized individuals are also capable of experiencing visions of living in the past, which enable them to register and define actual events from Jmmanuel's crucifixion. Furthermore, while in this state, they may be able to accurately describe the local sites, mores and customs from Jmmanuel's days; indeed, they may even have the capability to speak his or other ancient languages, which they achieve through the pertinent Akashic Records as well as through the terrestrial, human sub-consciousness-collective. It is therefore totally erroneous to view all of these matters from a "God perspective", as though God had wanted and caused all of this. This unreal view of the world must finally be revised so we may realize that forces are active within Man's consciousness which are quite capable of influencing matter and moving and producing feats termed "spiritual" even today. Of course there are spiritual worlds and forces beyond the material realm as well, but anything that transpires on the material plane is influenced, produced and guided by the laws within a material plane, i.e., through the level of material-consciousness which has nothing whatsoever to do with the imaginary God who is praised by the faithful as the Creator -- and who truthfully was nothing more than a human being, an extraterrestrial. This God and the material consciousness, which can produce and effect stigmatization and numerous other things, have no direct links whatsoever with the spirit and spiritual powers, let alone Creation itself. All of this is based upon the consciousnesspowers of the material consciousness, and Heaven knows that this is nothing mystical, but something that can be entirely explained through reasoning and judgment, although the faithful view all of this differently and compress it into religious-sectarian, mysterious, inexplicable, paranormal and godly aspects. The result is that for them nothing remains realistic or normal any longer, and reality is intended, therefore, to be understood only with the heart and faith, instead of reason and judgment.

As I have previously explained, stigmatization is a psychogenic phenomenon induced by a religioussectarian delusion, whereby the psyche and the consciousness collaborate and trigger the phenomenon.

This reaction has nothing to do with auto-suggestion in the prevailing sense, but with a religioussectarian delusional auto-suggestion which normally does not manifest itself externally. It forms within the material consciousness in the depth of the person's unconscious, through religious, delusional beliefs that occur in the conscious and then transfers itself onto the individual's own unconsciousness as well as the unconsciousness of the psyche, where a delusional dream is produced that wreaks its effects with incredible power in the wakeful state and triggers the stigmatization and delusional visions. These visions may release events and all forms of information with incredible accuracy as though the individual experiencing the vision were standing in the precise location of the event and giving a live report from that vantage point.

144. However, just like the Stonehenge structures - ie the megaliths, located to the north of Salisbury, Wiltshire in southern England - the Nazca layouts also served as general meeting places as well as judgment sites and sites of execution.

Billy:

... But may I now still ask whether you are well versed in the original Stonehenge circumstances. By that I mean the megalithic monument north of Salisbury in England. The enormous ruins are partly still allowing to recognise quite accurately the arrangement of that time. The whole originally consisted of 30 mighty pillars, which were arranged in a circular row, whereby these were connected at the top with likewise large, stone horizontal beams. Within the large circle there was at least originally a second, smaller circle. In latter's central middle was something like an altar or sacrificial stone, but what it represented has hitherto remained a secret. Also the actual sense of the monument has not been clarified until today. It is generally assumed that it was originally a religious building, but there are many different interpretations, especially towards the occult.

Florena:

27. I have indeed dealt with the megalithic facility of Stonehenge.

28. The site, located in the Wiltshire area of southern England, was built in several construction phases, whereby almost concentric circles of mighty stones were inserted into an original trench and wall ring with radial extension.

29. There were initially in fact 30 stones, as you said, namely in the outer ring.

30. This one consisted of 4-metre-high stone pillars connected by capstones i.e. by horizontal beams, as you call them.

31. In this ring i.e. circle there was a horseshoe-shaped settlement consisting of five large gate-like trilithons.

32. In the centre of both circles there was in fact a structure, a large carved stone, which served as an altar as well as a sacrificial site and central observation and analysis point for astronomical calculations.

33. Furthermore, the whole was a place of worship of religious-barbarian form, whereby the altar played an important and very special role, because on this altar sacrifices were also offered, which were not rarely of human nature.

34. The altar was therefore also a sacrificial stone.

35. Moreover, the same altar and cult sacrificial stone was also used as an execution stone, which means that not only human sacrifices were offered on it, but also executions took place on it with regard to those sentenced to death.

Billy:

Then the whole thing was a site of cultic worship as well as place of astronomy and site of blood at the same time.

Florena:

36. That is right, whereby however, it must not be forgotten that at that place there was also taught and decided about right or wrong and thus also about life and death.

... This also happened with the peoples in South America and Asia, where the 'long-skulled', the Earth-foreigners and the other Earth-foreigners, who were physically 'Earth-foreign', 'normal-skulled' or small and 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed', but also giants, as for example in South America, were also involved and had a culturally completely different influence on the Earth-peoples on all continents. As a result, different buildings, villages, cities, cult objects and pyramids as well as sites with large menhirs were also created all over the world, such as Stonehenge in England, near Avesbury in Wiltshire, about 13 kilometres north of Salisbury, and in Armenia the Stonehenge or megalithic fields in Zorakarer, near the mighty mountain ranges of the Caucasus, whereby the techniques of the Earth-foreigners were used in transporting and erecting the megaliths, which weighed many tonnes. The earthlings at that time were not capable of doing such work themselves, quite contrary to the assumptions of the so-called 'clever' researchers and scientists of the new age, who think up all kinds of fantastic things concerning the creation and working of monoliths etc., which could have been brought about by the earlier earthlings with manpower. This, like e.g. also the heads on the Easter Islands, which were transported and erected there with the help of Earth-foreigners, as also happened in other places, where it is seriously claimed that not Earth-foreigners, but the Earth-foreigners themselves transported the enormous weights of tons rolling on tree trunks and then also lifted up the monoliths weighing many tons with tree trunks and other wood and multiple man-power, etc. ...

76. But now, we should turn again to other things because a question from you is still open, which you already gave us a long time ago, but which we could not answer to your satisfaction because we first had to fathom and clarify everything.

77. By this, I am referring to the question that you asked in the name of Helmut Reiz, with regard to the book "The Chronicle of Akakor" and the one who appears in it, TATUNCA NARA, chief of the white Indian peoples known as the Ugha Mongulala, written by an ARD correspondent named Karl Brugger.

78. The entire history of the alleged Chief Tatumca Nara is based on lies and deception, just like the one named Tatumca Nara, who, in truth, was born a German.

79. His real name is Hansi Richard Günter Hauck, who has learned the trade of a bricklayer and who was born on the 5th of October, 1941 as a son of Johann Hauck and Meta Hauck and who was born in Grub am Forst in Bayern.

80. Married on 15.2.62, he disappeared a few years later, after which his marriage was ended by divorce by the district court, Nürnberg-Fürth, on the 10th of January, 1966.

81. After his willful abandonment of his wife, he worked for a short time on a ship named DORTE OLDENDORF, from which he soon departed, however, and disappeared into South America, where he entered into strange connections with the Brazilian Secret Service SNI, then conspired with the military there and then settled down in the jungle under a fanciful pack of lies, in order to appear from then on as Chief Tatumca Nara and to make talk of himself.

82. Thanks to the fantasists Erich von Daniken and Peter Krassa, as well as the correspondent Dieter Kronzucker, his pack of lies has been carried out and distributed into the world, which entailed that various people fell into the murderous clutches of Hansi Hauck, whom he then treacherously murdered in the depths of the jungle, in order to get at their money and valuables.

83. Unfortunately, through the fault of the money-greedy fantasists and believers in the matter of Tatumca Nara, it also will not be avoided in the future that other people will fall victim to his murderous sense and greed, such as the correspondent Karl Brugger, whom Hauck will allow to be shot by an assassin in Rio de Janeiro in the year 1984.

84. Also a Swiss named Herbert Wanner from Zofingen will become one of his victims, as well as a German living in Sweden and who bears the name Christine Hauser, but also an Englishman by the name of John Ried.

85. However, these will not be the only murder victims in the life of Hansi Hauck because by the time of the murder of Karl Brugger in Rio, Hauck will already be a 12-time murderer.

75. Underground tunnel systems from the past exist all over the world, including Ecuador.

76. There, however, many of these tunnels collapsed due to the recent earthquakes in Guatemala.

77. However, various Earth-humans claim that these Ecuador tunnels are inhabited and connected to underground cities where extraterrestrials and other human life-forms live.

... But what do you think about these recordings here another time, which you have already seen and said that they are probably real. They also remind me very much of what N.T. told me on a return trip with Sfath before he was murdered in the hotel in 1943, but which was then made out to be suicide. One moment, please ... So here again ... What do you think about it today? Michael beamed the film material onto my computer ...

...

Ptaah:

Now, if the recordings I see here again are genuine, and they seem to be, they clearly show what you have known since the time you saw with my father Sfath, that the invention of N.T. had fallen into the hands of the NAZIs and was further developed by them. That means – which you knew – that N.T.'s plans of the invention were found and further developed by the Allies at the end of the war, just as the plans were passed on through espionage and their data further developed, from which they came to fruition. If the Nazi researchers who were working on it at the time had been able to complete the invention entirely, and before Hitler, together with his wife who had married him shortly before, was shot by his servants in his bunker in Berlin, then he would have become the ruler of the world with this weapon.

Billy:

So that means that what was filmed here is real.

Ptaah:

Yes, that's how I see and appreciate it. But you should know that the plans were secretly copied and passed on as a result of espionage, so that today two states have this weapon, although not even the highest leadership of these states knows anything about it, but only the military and possibly the secret services. But if this is really the case – and it seems to be reality – then only certain few people are privy to it, including those who know how to operate this weapon, are unbound by friendship or marriage, and are monitored in such a way that they are killed immediately if they make the slightest noise to other human beings. We have seen this method in secrecy projects and therefore know about it. Everything was handled in this way even before the last war, as well as that not even the leaders of the state found out about it, but everything was concealed from them. This happened because the ... .. who have their people even in the state leaders direct everything secretly.

Billy:

... We have some writings from a group in Berlin who are dealing with this Asthar {Sheran}. ...

...

Semjase:

72. I already said that we know the name very well.

73. But we also know of the writings you mentioned and more of various other things.

74. Despite all our efforts, which we have been doing for years, we were not able to connect with these life forms.

75. We could neither find them in the places mentioned nor ever locate them.

76. We searched countless systems of normal time and countless dimensions for them, but nowhere was there a clue from them.

77. Everything is very mysterious, and interestingly enough the traces from all systems of this and other times and from all dimensions lead back again and again to the Earth, especially to Germany.

78. There the traces bundle together and concentrate in a very specific place and on a very specific entity.

79. This is a centre of a very powerful secret organisation, which you certainly do not know and which calls itself the Thule- or Arus-Society.

80. In years of work we have not been able to clarify why all this is so, why we continue to research in this relationship.

81. However, it is absolutely clear that all impulses undoubtedly emanate from this centre.

82. The initiators of these impulses possess great knowledge and many powers.

83. They are also in possession of few primary telepathic powers and many kinds of knowledge about extraterrestrial technologies, events and about extraterrestrial intelligences, etc.

84. We have established with absolute certainty that they transmit this knowledge through primary telepathy via impulsives and thus influence many Earth-humans who are sensitive to it.

85. But we have also established with absolute certainty that in the originators of these impulses a goal prevails with the aim: Preservation and elevation of the white race on this Earth from the descendants of the Arus race.

86. Up to the present time we have not yet been able to clarify what the meaning of the whole should be and which actual powers are hidden in the originator.

87. Everything is very well shielded through powers that are very difficult to penetrate.

88. At any rate, one thing is certain:

89. The primary telepathically radiated impulses are captured by various groups of humans and recorded in writing.

90. These are sometimes very good transmissions and explanations that come astonishingly close to the truth or even state it in fact.

91. But the reason for this was so far inscrutable and unclear.

92. However, we have certain values about it, which I am not allowed to name officially, because they do not yet give an overall picture.

93. However, it is clear that everything is concentrated around the Thule-Arus-Bund, but where it is actually controlled from is still unclear.

94. Traces of this lead into a foreign galaxy, and it seems that behind the 'Asthar Sheran'-group there is even more than what we currently know and that it is also quite evil.

95. Surprisingly, the writings mentioned contain an enormous amount of knowledge about valuable and good things and about facts that are quite unknown on the Earth.

96. Mixed in with these truths, however, are also very strange, unreal and untrue as well as quite negative and evil lies and things that seem like an evil foreign body in the block of good.

97. Thus, for example, gross falsehoods are interspersed, such as the naming of false contact persons who appear or have appeared on the scene in a fraudulent form.

98. These are also immediately noticeable as evil foreign bodies and do not make any sense in their naming.

99. It could not be clarified so far by us, why these falsehoods are interspersed and asserted as truth and what is the actual and quite obviously very malicious purpose of the whole.

100. On the whole, it is certain that the primary telepathic transmissions are very valuable and sometimes even truthful in relation to things that appear unusual to the earthly man, but to which the evil falsehoods manoeuvred in do not rhyme in any way.

101. The whole thing simply makes no sense, for the logic of the very many truths is interestingly overplayed again by an unusually great illogicalness and falsehood.

102. It is undoubted that the primary telepathic impulses of truth seekers were and are partly truthfully recorded in written form, because the persons doing this are or were very truthful.

103. But it is incomprehensible that the real truth is in short again destroyed and made questionable by untruth as well as by lies and falsehood.

Billy:

Is it possible that perhaps some alien people have their hands in the game? You spoke of the Thule Arus Society and of another galaxy or of the Arus allies. Arus was an alien after all.

Semjase:

29. Via the then leaders of the Thule Society and their clairvoyant Hanussen I {see Erik Jan Hanussen}, the Giza intelligences managed to take possession of the being of Adolf Hitler and to abuse him for their dark and malicious purposes, without him resisting it, because a delusional greed for power had flared up in him himself.

...

33. Adolf Hitler had succumbed to a delusion of power and was also maliciously abused by the Giza intelligences, with the old Thule Society playing a not inconsiderable part in this, which, however, cannot be transferred to the society of the same name of the new form.

...

35. A few days ago, through painstaking research and surveillance, we were able to gain a clear understanding of the fact that Ashtar Sheran actually exists and that the only reason we could not recognise him was because he fraudulently wrapped himself in this name.

36. A part of his real name is ARUSEAK along with another sequence of names, and he is a cousin of the supreme Giza intelligence.

37. On their behalf he controlled the old German Thule society, in which he introduced two strong telepathic factors, but which also influenced many Thule society members and various outside groups on a telenotic basis, including those who received the pseudo-messages of Ashtar Sheran.

38. Sheran's machinations in this regard continue today and will continue in the future, but no longer in connection with the reorganised Thule Society.

Ptaah:

110. The reason for his {Adolf Hitler's} wrongly chosen path developed quite early on, when he secretly came in contact with the Thule Society of that time, in consequence of which he also came in contact with Hermann Steinschneider, who also belonged to the Thule Society and supported its unfair goals and who called himself the clairvoyant, Eric Jan Hanussen.

111. Steinschneider, i.e. Hanussen, moved in all circles of major Nazi figures, among whom he had many clients, so even also Adolf Hitler, who became enslaved to him, and indeed, even before he seized the leadership for himself.

112. Steinschneider/Hanussen emerged as a middle man between the Thule Society and Hitler, and, so to speak, directed Adolf Hitler according to the Thule Society's leaders' will.

113. The efforts of the leaders at that time of the Thule Society went out for the acquisition of world domination; consequently, already very early on, they allowed Steinschneider to influence and shape Hitler in this direction, by what means this then began, in accordance with their will, with terror and murder, to trigger World War II in the end.

114. At the same time, Steinschneider became ever more powerful in the course of time, with respect to his domination over Adolf Hitler, which didn't appeal to various people who were against Hitler and his machinations.

115. The consequence of this was that they allowed Steinschneider, alias Hanussen, to be murdered in 1933, but this didn't change anything in Hitler's attitude and course; therefore, he became more and more of a monster, as you would say.

116. It's interesting to know that Adolf Hitler was born on 4/20/1889 in Braunau, Upper Austria, and Hermann Steinschneider, alias Eric Jan Hanussen, was born in Vienna, also in the year 1889.

117. Thus, both were Austrians. –

... The term New Age is however much older than the current trends and leads back into the 19th century, and indeed to occult and esoteric world-views, which, as said, were also influenced by Helena Blavatsky. Influenced by that were indeed also the national-socialistic [NAZI] Rudolf Hess and Sebottendorf, who, together in 1918, respectively, 1919, in Munich, founded the secret Thule Society, a lodge-type association which was constructed on the principles of Lamaist teaching. This alliance functioned as an umbrella organization for Old German, fatherland-orientated and ethnicity-orientated societies of Munich. The alliance pushed predominantly anti-Semitic propaganda, whereby the crowning joke of the matter is that from out of these assimilated ideologies, which were popular at the time, the founding of the United Nations came forth in the year 1945. The entire thing came forth out of the 1912-founded German Thule sect which was connected with the 1910-founded Hammer Alliance and with the radical Peoples' Old-German Association. Their symbols were the swastika, respectively, the hooked cross and the Germanic runes. The association had its own newspaper, the "Municher Observer". The Thule Society was comprised of 1,500 members who had connections with broad sectors of Bavarian society. Along with Rudolf Hess and Sebottendorf, many other National Socialists also belonged to the Thule Society, who also contributed to the development of subversive plans and promoted counter-revolutionary groups, as for example, the German Workers' Party and the NSDAP [NAZI Party, byname of National Socialist German Workers'

Party, German Nationalsozialistische Deutsche Arbeiterpartei (NSDAP)] which had come out of it. Then, in 1919, the Thule Society organized a militant fighting union which decisively took part in the Free Corps to strike down the Bavarian Council Republic. That, my friend, correlates to that which I still know in regard to the history, whereby, however, I have still read up somewhat to freshen my memory.

20. Hitler, who himself was partly of Jewish descent, took the false 'Protocols' and used them to fulfil his lust for power, for his criminal work and to trigger the Second World War.

21. With the help of the falsified 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' he incited himself and the German population against the Jews, finding particularly diligent supporters for his anti-Jewish propaganda among those who glorified him and with whom he was able to build up the Nazi system.

22. And it is a fact that Adolf Hitler's plans for world conquest, which were criminal to humanity, were only discovered through the wrong 'protocols', with the old Thule Society supporting him in his mania for war and world domination.

23. Only through this it was also possible, against false 'chroniclers' and false 'factual experts' in the matter of Adolf Hitler etc., that this fanatical and insane criminal of humanity could lead the world into the Second World War and the Holocaust.

The land of the Norsemen was barren at that time and food for the peoples became increasingly scarce, which is why various Viking leaders emigrated as a result of the food shortage and sought a new home, which was to be found far across the North Sea in the land of that time, which is called America today, but which the Vikings called 'Thule', which they also used for Greenland, among other things, and which actually meant 'new land' as well as 'new home' at that time.

Sfath {1945}:

145. You shall already now know that the successor to my person, will, as at 1953, be a young woman from the DAL universe, where you will certainly be taken someday.

146. The name of your contact person will be Asket.

147. She belongs to one of the branches of our peoples, others of which still reside in the Lyra and Vega systems, however, shifted a split-second from this space-time plane, just as is our space-time configuration in which our Plejaren systems exist.

Asket:

3. And to fulfill our mission, we have to neutralize the spacetime connection barrier between our and your universes, so that we can achieve a harmonious passage through without damage to ships and universes.

4. Because our home world lies in the DAL universe, in the AKON system, in a system foreign to you Earth-humans, of a universe just as foreign to you, of which several surround the universe known to you, on the seventh outer belt.

5. Many of these universes lie in other time planes, and in, for you, expanses of utter foreignness.

6. Our universe is a parallel sister universe to yours, respectively a twin universe, and, calculated according to your concepts, it lies in a similar plane.

7. The difference between your time and ours is only very slight.

8. The reason for our coming into this, your DERN universe, lies in earlier times, that are calculated in several centuries, and, indeed, in the urge to explore, and in a fulfilment of an obligation of our race, who, from the earliest times, came from your DERN universe.

...

15. Certainly, today, the actual direct decedents of the terrestrial forefathers {the Plejaren} no longer populate the territory and spaces and systems around the Ring Nebula and the Vega and Lyra heavenly bodies in a spacetime shifted configuration, rather they live today on space and time shifted world bodies far on the other side of the system that you name the Seven Heavenly Bodies "Seven Sisters", respectively, the Pleiades, approximately four hundred light-years distant.

Asket:

3. I have already explained to you the possibility of time travel into the past or future.

4. In accordance with our technology, we are in a position to undertake such trips and to now also employ them for the benefit of your coming mission.

Asket:

41. First we will fly out to a great height, in order to, from there, effect a transmission into the past.

{Billy:}

(And already the ship took off and shot ragingly fast into the sky, out of the Earth's atmosphere, ever higher up, up into open space, where suddenly a multitude of stars sparkled. ...)

42. We will be that far along in a moment. The transmission takes only a split second.

{Billy:}

(Asket busied herself with her apparatuses and quite suddenly I seemed, for a split second, to no longer physically exist. I suddenly seemed to have been simply "extinguished" corporally. ...)

...

Jitschi:

But now I still want to put a question to you, Asket: Jechieli has giving me some things which I would like to take back into our time, because they would, with certainty, have a very high antique value there.

Can I take the things back with me?

Asket:

66. If you want to, naturally.

67. But the value of the things would not be great for your time, and indeed, because the gifts from Jechieli are clearly from his epoch, from the Thirteenth Century, yet, in your time, will not be older.

68. We require only a tiny split second to go from this epoch back to your time, during which everything in my ship and these things will also only age by just this time.

69. If Jechieli's gifts are to become antiques, then you must bury them somewhere or deposit them in some other way, and arrange for them to endure in the normal time-span of centuries so they then really age.

70. With our ship, if I may so speak, we bridge space and time by way of a transmission through parabolic space, whereby space and time become finite and shrink to a denominator of a split second.

71. That means that we can, in this way, bridge time-spans of billions of years in a tiny split second without becoming older than that specific split second.

Jitschi:

The mathematics are too high for me.

Asket:

72. It is an equation.

...

74. But let us go now, because we still want to change to another time today.

{Billy:}

(We did as she ordered. Some half hour later the ship again sped with us into the sky, then, for a short split second, I again felt that I simply no longer was.)

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy\_Meier/Asket%27s\_Explanations\_-\_Part\_4

The required procedure, leading up to the time-travel transmission, took about 10 minutes, whereby, however, the actual jump, required to go from one epoch to another, only lasted a split second.

All that which appertained to the technology and the procedure was not explained by Asket. With the launching of the transmission a quite weird thing happened in the form that the entire surroundings of the ship slowly shimmered and then quite suddenly simply no longer existed. I also observed the same process in regard to myself, and in the moment of the "jump" it was, to me, actually as if I suddenly no longer corporally existed.

Somehow I felt transferred into something which I sensed as being eternity itself and in which an indescribable silence and endless, calming peace and enormous love ruled.

The actual procedure, from a technical viewpoint, remained a puzzle to me, and certainly I will also never be able to solve this because I am unfortunately completely ignorant in regard to technology.

Asket:

24. When the gigantic comet actually came - which penetrated this universe and the solar system from another space-time configuration, and is still today named The Destroyer by many life-forms - the humans made their way to the pyramids and underground villages and shut themselves into them.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy\_Meier/Asket%27s\_Explanations\_-\_Part\_6

Then we still made several special small preparations before Asket took us into outer space again with her ship and then carried out the transmission into the past.

Our landing place in the past, in the year 32, was the same place where we had taken off only minutes before; minutes which, however, now suddenly lay about 2,000 years in the past. I am still able to remember very well that the entire landscape of the past was only very slightly different from the way it was in the normal present time of the year 1953.

Several ranges of hills and mountains were somewhat different, as were the immediate surroundings of the landing place.

That which had been subject to fundamental alterations were villages and the little town of Jerusalem, as I was also able to determine in the later time, in the 1960's.

But all in all, everything had otherwise remained about the same, at least as far as the landscape was concerned.

Semjase:

22. It is true that the Earth-human has taken the first very small step towards outer space flight, but that means nothing more than the first rather primitive attempts.

23. Even though he/she has reached the moon with rockets, he/she still hasn't reached the outer space yet.

24. He/she would also never reach it in the present form; what is needed for this is a propulsion system capable of penetrating hyperspace and causing the unending distances to collapse.

25. Space and time are not overcome by space and time, but by the spaceless and the timeless, which means that space and time collapse in themselves and become equally directed to null time.

26. As a result, a few fractions of a second can suffice to rush through millions of light-years, practically without a loss of time, because null time paralyzes space and time.

Billy:

My next question relates to the fact that you explained to me at my / our first meeting, that the Earth-humans would not be able to travel to the deep and real outer space unless they would invent another method of propulsion. I can only imagine here that with this drive, you mean that it must be, for example, a beam propulsion system, a hyperdrive, so to speak. In my opinion, this would have to be a drive that somehow alters the material matter, presumably when the speed of light is exceeded and the beamship is thereby hurtled into a hyperspace, in which space and time paralyse themselves, as you have already explained. I suppose that space and time collapse in such a way that they are completely cancelled out

...

Semjase:

32. You are absolutely right with your assumptions.

33. To traverse the real outer space, a drive is needed that exceeds the speed of light many times over.

34. But this drive can only come into operation when the speed of light is reached.

35. It follows from this that another drive regulates the normal speed up to that of light.

36. This means thus that a beamship must have two drives; first, the normal drive, which allows acceleration up to and below the speed of light, and second, the hyperdrive, as you call it.

37. So the drive that generates million and thousand million of times the speed of light; thus, the hyperspeed, by which hyperspace is broken into.

38. A space in which every mass expands in relation to the increase in speed.

39. As a result, time and space collapse and become the null time and the null space.

40. This means:

41. Space and time simply cease to exist.

42. And this is exactly what allows the fact that distances of countless light-years can be rushed through in fractions of a second, without a time shift occurring.

44. So for example, when we leave our Pleiades and need around 7 hours to reach Earth, then only 7 hours pass on our home planet and on Earth, as well.

45. We need this long of a time because we first have to fly beyond the planetary ranges with the normal propulsion and can only go to hyperspeed once very far out in space.

46. We then also come back from hyperspace far outside of your solar system and fly here with the normal drive.

47. We are never allowed to break into hyperspace while too close to a planet.

Billy:

I understand. The breaking into hyperspace would presumably also tear one or more planets into the superspace and spew them back out as deadly projectiles when the beamship bursts out of it. Perhaps even various huge comets have become raging and dangerous objects speeding through outer space in this way; due to the fault of irresponsible starfarers.

Semjase:

48. You are partially right:

49. The hyperspace really must be broken into only very far out in space because, otherwise, planets would be dragged into it.

50. Also, regarding the exit from hyperspace, you were thinking absolutely right.

51. It is also a fact that some comets originated in this manner, but only some, because most of them have been led onto their dangerous paths by other and natural events.

52. So you are only partially right about this, if you assume that all comets were created in this manner, as you might have suspected.

53. But the fact is that such incidents are due to irresponsibility, as this does exist throughout the entire cosmic space, not just on the Earth.

54. An irresponsibility also exists when highly developed intelligences make their first hyperspace trials and carry them out too close to planets.

55. The recommendation for safety has indeed to be calculated, and it states that the hyperspeed may only be initiated 153 million kilometres away from the nearest planet.

Billy:

That is very interesting, but I did not suppose that all comets originated in the manner mentioned. But how does such a hyperdrive actually work, and what about the normal drive?

Semjase:

56. Unfortunately, I am not allowed to tell you any details about that.

57. If the Earth scientists had more specific details, then they would solve their propulsion problems in a very short time.

58. But this is neither in our nor in the cosmic interest, because the Earth-human is still not free and not mature enough to fly around in the outer space.

59. However, at the given time, which is not too far away any more, s/he will find the solution of her/his problem all by herself/himself.

60. I may only tell you so much that very many of your scientists are nevertheless already on the right track and are theoretically working and researching on the necessary drives.

61. I may also tell you that these also concern drives that are already known in their basic features within your initiated scientific circles as light-emission drives and as tachyon drives.

62. The light-emission drive serves as normal drive and has the function of moving the beamship to planets or within their vicinity, up to 153 million kilometres of distance, so up to the safety limit.

63. Beyond that, the tachyon drive, among other things, is put into operation, if greater distances are to be bridged.

64. This is one of the hyperdrives, capable of controlling hyperspace as well as space and time.

...

Billy:

That makes sense to me, but I don't understand how such a drive functions. I know the basic concepts of an emission and I know what tachyons mean, but I cannot imagine or guess the actual processes with a drive resulting from them. Can you tell me more details about that?

Semjase:

67. No, I am not allowed to do that, because by doing so I would reveal the secret of the whole drive and also the generation and utilisation of the tachyons, however also the secret of the emitting drive

67. Deep in the unknown space, in a space-time shifted solar system of the Milky Way, a solitary star floated far away from the normal orbits of the satellites orbiting the Sun.

...

115. As if hurled by a giant's fist, one half of the dwarf planet shot away and through a dimensional gate created by the hands of highly developed human beings into the unending expanses of the Milky Way's space towards a very distant target.

...

129. The Destroyer itself drifted by a few units from its old course and shot past the sun in dangerous proximity, back into the expanses of the space, in order to take the same path as long times before the small planet did, consequently it also passed the dimension gate created by technically highly advanced human beings' hands and came into the space-time configuration of our DERN universe and into the area of the Milky Way and thus also into the SOL system.

...

149. The scientists with their spacecrafts and abundantly provided means of all kinds and fantastic application possibilities used the dimension gate known to them, to (in another space-time configuration of the DERN universe) reach the Milky Way area and explored the space for ever newer things.

Semjase:

120. The celestial sons or starfarers, as we want to call our forebears, were at home on many different planets of stars, in a different space-time configuration or far away from the SOL-system, whereby the planets were fundamentally different in climatic terms, hence they also produced other races which were able to adapt to the climate from the ur-beginning.

...

184. A "world of spirits," as you called it, does not exist.

185. There are only the fine-fluidal worlds in this regard.

186. These are worlds that are located in other dimensions and harbour bodiless spirit forms.

187. When a spirit leaves a material body, then it cannot simply settle down anywhere; it must inhabit a body again, i.e. it enters a fine-fluidal world, thus a world of spirit forms, of which there are countless ones.

188. There, the spirit lives as its own form for so long, until it returns again into a newly created host body.

Billy:

Of course, if I may then ask you another question?

...

It concerns the problem of the theory of relativity, in particular time dilation.

...

Semjase:

96. There are various possibilities for mastering the space.

97. To describe them all, however, would make no sense, as they would be too incomprehensible and too fantastic for the human beings of Earth.

98. With flying objects, however, there is only a single possibility for mastering the space safely.

99. This possibility is that of hyperspace, in which a dilation of time is abolished, since the theory of relativity remains just that – a theory.

100. But the elimination of a time shift or time dilation requires the breaking through to the hyperspace, as I have already explained before.

101. I am not allowed to give more precise details.

102. But in any case, the "jump" occurs very quickly under the momentary paralysis of the protective shield and with suddenly increased speed, which results in an instantaneous expansion of the mass.

103. This means that the process to be initiated occurs so quickly that the speed and certain processes, which are generated by apparatuses, distort the material within millionths of a fraction of a second, making it a fine form, which is capable of timelessly traversing the superspace.

104. As said, it's not just about the speed, even though it exceeds that of light thousands of millions of times, but various other processes are additionally required.

105. Only due to the speed itself the effect of the mass changing is created, which is what makes a hyperjump possible.

106. The mass of a body grows in proportion to the increase in its speed.

107. This means that the mass grows endlessly.

108. However, our ships are protected by protective shields, and these prevent this process, and only the switching off of the shield allows for the distorting effect.

109. It is precisely this process, then, that is then exploited to accelerate the actual distortion and to cause a dematerialisation.

110. As a result, space and time become paralysed at the same time and cancel each other out, meaning that the ship is already rematerialising at its destination when it dematerialises at the point of departure.

111. This whole process lasts no longer than a millionth of a fraction of a second, so that also life-forms crossing the hyperspace do not have to pay the price for changes of any kind.

112. If spaceships fly slower than the speed of light, then this requires firstly an irresponsible amount of time, which is however particularly with newcomers to space travel always the case.

113. Everyone only learns from experiences and cognitions.

114. Secondly, this type of space flight is very dangerous and puts every reaching of destination into question.

115. If a spaceship breaks through the speed of light without using the hyperspace, however, then that catastrophe, which you call the theory of relativity, befalls the ship and its occupants.

116. Speeds above that of the light harbour all sorts of dangers, if the barrier of hyperspace is not breached and superspace is not made an ally

117. Time dilation is just one of these dangers.

118. Another danger is that in this case, too, the mass of a spacecraft expands to infinity in relation to its speed and can, under certain circumstances, result in the destruction of the ship and its occupants.

119. There are, however, still many other dangers.

120. Nevertheless, all life-forms must complete their evolutionary process, through which they gain experiences and knowledge.

121. Also our forebears had to struggle with these problems and got lost in space and time.

122. However, the same has happened and is happening to other life-forms.
123. Hence, it happens again and again that some "time-travellers" from the past appear, which often causes very big problems for them.
124. Often they can no longer find their home worlds or else find them completely destroyed.
125. Now and then, beings of this kind that are foreign to the galaxy also appear, which have already penetrated as far as Earth and will also continue to come again and again.
126. Some such "time-travellers" have also been stranded on the Earth in earlier times and never left here.
127. Old strange legends and tales about them are known among you.
128. Nevertheless, in the course of time many of these creatures died out, or they degenerated or mixed with the earthly life-forms.
129. It is also not uncommon for such "time-travellers" to visit the Earth even today.
130. And many are among them, who never find their home worlds again and, therefore, simply settle somewhere on other worlds.
131. Often, however, they also get lost in the expanse of space and die.
132. Not seldom they are thousands and even millions of years on the move, while for them however only few minutes or few years pass.
133. The dangers of speed are very great, and they already start at just a few kilometres per hour, if the flying objects or vehicles are not shielded.
134. Even minimal speeds of a few kilometres per hour impair the material in its shape, structure, and stability, if no protective measures are present.
135. A natural consequence is the expansion of mass and the decomposition of material.
136. This means that even at low speeds, the mass of a vehicle or flying object imperceptibly increases in relation to the speed and causes the effect of slow destruction.
137. As said, this already happens at a few kilometres per hour of speed and in minimalistic terms that are hardly detectable with your technology.
138. At low speeds, the process also takes a very long time and may under certain circumstances require hundreds of years.
139. At very high speeds, however, the time is reduced to decades or a few years.
140. Also the life-forms themselves are impaired by this process, because also their masses change because of the speed.
141. The function of the brain becomes affected because its mass changes.
142. This has the consequence that all functions are slowed down and outages occur.
143. In other words, this means that all of a sudden, the thinking and reaction functions stop and a void develops.
144. The life-form thereby loses control over itself and its vehicle.
145. The life-form effectively loses control over its own functions.
146. Of course, any life-form is capable of gradually getting used to and controlling these factors to some extent.
147. However, for every life-form there is somewhere the absolute limit where it simply must fail.
148. According to earthly terms, it may often take years before such incidents plague a human being.

Semjase:

122. With spaceships, which they had seized, they fled through the space out of another configuration of space and time into the one of the Milky Way of the DERN universe and settled on the Earth.

...

127. Everything without residue was destroyed, and only a few thousand human beings were able to survive, while others fled again into the outer space and into the old space-time configuration and settled on distant worlds.

Semjase:

74. Millions of years ago a giant dark star in another space-time configuration destroyed half a planetary system in many light-years distance from the earthly system.

75. After the destruction of that distant system, the wanderer rushed out into the vastness of space, entered the space-time structure of the Milky Way of the DERN universe, and set course for Earth.

Semjase:

35. You forget the paralysis of space and time through the use of hyperspace.

36. A hyper-jump over countless trillions and even higher nominal values of kilometres only takes fractions of a second.

Semjase:

79. This spaceship represents our latest development, and has been working together with other ones of this same kind for four years now in Earth's chronology.

80. They find useful applications as self-sustained expeditionary ships and for intergalactic order keeping.

81. They are able to move within all times and spaces, and for them negotiating the barrier between Universes is no longer an obstacle, whereby an all-universal community made of countless life-forms can be included.

...

Billy:

That is still fantastic! If I understood right what you have just explained, you are able, with this great ship, as well as with the others of the same type, to shift from one Universe to another?

Semjase:

83. Sure, you have understood me correctly.

84. However this only applies to aligned Universes.

...

Semjase:

105. However it did not happen in Turkey but in Iran, near Zahedan early one morning.

106. I have, luckily while I was shielded from vibrations, dug out from the earth a time-spiral, which was of great importance.

107. We had been searching for it for three years until we finally found it.

108. It was a time projectile for research purposes.

109. At least that's what you would probably call it.

110. Here, this is the projectile. (Semjase brings out a conical spiral shaped device.)

111. This is also the reason why we are going to the edge of the Universe now, because this device came from another Universe.

...

Ptaah:

36. ... Semjase once explained to you the possibilities offered by our means of transportation, namely the use of hyperspace, by which space and time become paralysed.

...

Billy:

... We were talking about time travel and related things, and about this great spacer too. I would now like to ask you whether I might be right about the following assumptions: Semjase has given me an explanation about the utilisation of hyper-space, as you have already mentioned. As I now conceive the matter, this utilisation of hyper-space, this phenomenon that I have experienced earlier, consists of a real time travel, offering all the possibilities of past, present and future, as well as other dimensions and spaces. Semjase had explained then, that a hyper-leap through endless distances only takes a split second to happen, but unfortunately I only noticed that correctly just now. Therefore, in my estimation, it does not consist of a simple hyperspace crossing but of a time travel, through which space and time become paralysed, something that would certainly not happen on a normal hyper-leap. For me, this results in the moment of the simultaneous point of view in simultaneous time: space and time are thus paralysed, taken in a literal sense. That is, they become pushed together, if I can put it like that, whereby an absolute timelessness arises and also a spacelessness. That time- and spacelessness can then get traversed with immeasurable speed in a split second, without any shifts or distortions. When Semjase uses the hyperspace with her small beamship, it must also consist of the same principle. By that manner of using the hyper-space it must also be possible to do a time travel also in time that stands still, through which one appears at the targeted location, right in the same second as when one disappears from the starting point. From my estimation it does not deal with anything other than with a technologically generated dematerialisation and rematerialisation, when the time travel is carried out in present time. Only then can one see virtually no passing of time while everything remains free from shifts and distortions.

...

Ptaah:

114. ...

(Once more the preparations for the hyper-leap are taken, and this time I will attempt to observe things other than just the overhead view. I watch Semjase and Ptaah very carefully, and like the starscape before, they suddenly turn into a milky shimmering mass. But the horseshoe-shaped console also turns into the same white mass, and like Ptaah and Semjase it also returns to a solid form after a few seconds

The impression of deep tranquillity that has come over me this time is much greater than before, and I think that I have now solved the riddle: This deep tranquillity and this unbelievable peacefulness flowing through me is eternity itself, the absolute timelessness, which obviously is no longer subject to outside influences, such as the restlessness, strife and worries that trouble the consciousness. I realise suddenly that during these few seconds I was in the eternity itself experiencing myself as eternity, where I only exist as fine spiritual matter, and am completely free of all that can influence my material life. I actually travelled to eternity for a few seconds.)

Ptaah:

119. ...

{Billy:}

(Still lost in thought and working automatically, I take some more photos with the help of the device. I am paying attention to neither the environment nor anything else. My thoughts linger on the eternity, and I find them so large and powerful that words completely fail me. At the next leap I want to observe myself. I want to see if I can assess something in myself, if I shimmer like the milky mass and if I am able to realise some things about or in myself. It is...)

Ptaah:

120. This will surely be possible, if you are paying attention.

121. In a few seconds we will start the next leap.

{Billy:}

(I only half hear his words, because my thoughts are elsewhere. Automatically I put my focus on myself and wonder about the fact that I suddenly cannot see my body. Once again this takes only seconds, which I can verify by looking at my watch. And now I wonder about Ptaah's words. He has captured my thoughts, and he knows exactly what I think. Apparently, I just let them run free and uncontrolled. But with my watch it's also strange; when close to Semjase's beamship, the watch always went too fast or too slow. For some time now that is no longer the case, and it works perfectly. But I haven't yet ...)

Semjase:

208. ...

{Billy:}

(I only half hear the words spoken to me because my thoughts are still far away. A little absent-mindedly I take a few pictures, and shortly thereafter experience again the immersion into eternity. However, I do not advance further into it, and everything is suddenly blocked. Something is simply inhibiting me from penetrating further. But what is it... oh, of course, the time, the damned time, it must be what keeps me from plunging deeper. These few seconds are not enough, they are just enough for a lightning-fast plunge into eternity... and to emerge back just as fast. It is still ...)

Ptaah:

124. Hello – you are very far away in your thoughts, and once again you have realised something new.

125. Everything is right with the time, but this can be changed if you are interested.

126. The great leap to the Universe barrier can be altered so that the re-materialisation can be delayed and the time shifted by a few minutes.

127. For this purpose we have to travel into the future, and the lost time cannot be recovered.

128. In ordinary time-travel into the future, the time interval would be neutralised, yet for this form of penetrating into the timelessness, other technologies are necessary.

129. In this manner time cannot become paralysed; we have to live through it and therefore to also let it go over and through us.

130. However there are limits set to this, so that while 5 seconds pass by your time measurements in ordinary time-space, only one second passes for us when penetrating into the timelessness.

131. We can do this because we can regulate the time between dematerialisation and rematerialisation by modulating speed, since according to our understanding true timelessness also prevails in the timeless.

132. This, of course, is only relatively speaking, for this shift out of the timelessness also keeps its own time, but it is imbedded into such a huge interval, that we cannot fully control it.

133. A single second of the timeless amounts to millions of years in ordinary time-space.

134. If we were then to penetrate while standing still or with insufficient speed into the timeless, we would never be able to return to our homeworld.

135. If we were to remain standing still for only a few seconds in the timeless, many millions of years of ordinary time would pass on Earth – which would turn into dust – while you would return into normal space only a few seconds older, though in truth you would be thousands of millions of years older.

136. That may all seem incomprehensible and fantastic to you, yet it is so.

137. Even with your greatest consciousness-based efforts you will not be able to understand the actual connections, as even for us with our development, these are still not available and this mystery is not exactly transparent.

138. In this respect, we too know only a few solutions to these enormous mysteries and are therefore continuously striving for further knowledge.

139. Though we have the technology required to travel through the universe with the help of hyper-space and can also use timelessness as an ally, we are still at the initial stages in our related research and development.

140. We can however take responsibility for giving you an incursion into the timeless, which you call the eternity, with our great spacer.

141. To enable the desired awareness for you, we will need seven minutes of leap time, which in normal time-space increase fivefold.

142. This means for you and for all of us, that we need from dematerialisation to rematerialisation an experiential time of seven minutes within the spaceship, while in the timeless only the thousand-billionth fraction of a second passes, whereas in ordinary time 35 minutes elapse and everything gets older by this amount.

143. In this special case the course of time changes for all of us, for instead of growing older there happens a rejuvenation of exactly 28 minutes.

144. The mathematical calculation for this is very easy:

145. While we are in timelessness for seven minutes.

146. These seven minutes are our ordinary time to speed factor which is also carried over into our older self as seven minutes.

147. However as we spend this time in the timeless and to a great extent can be protected from its influence, thus the time effect being of one to five in ordinary space, our space is slowed down and as a result acquires the difference of 28 minutes.

148. So for us there is only a passage of seven minutes while in normal time-space 35 minutes pass.

149. Therefore then, if 35 minutes pass on your homeworld, then of course everything gets older by this time.

150. Yet during this same interval, because of the altered time effect in reality you only live for seven minutes.

151. You now have to subtract these seven minutes from the elapsed 35 minutes on Earth to reach the result of 28 minutes that you have not aged.

152. So during these seven minutes you become only seven minutes older while everything on Earth ages by 35 minutes.

153. In other words this means that while 35 minutes pass, you only become older for seven minutes, while also becoming younger by 28 minutes.

166. Our last jump will be to the Andromeda Galaxy, which rests, as seen from Earth, at a distance of roughly 2.2 million light-years.

167. From there we will setup for the great leap to the Universe barrier by which we want to give you the seven minutes opportunity to experience the timeless.

...

Semjase:

254. And since I am already speaking of this, I want to ask you something before we jump into null-time, the timeless, or in the eternity, as you call it, for seven minutes, which will happen in a few minutes.

...

272. The great journey begins in 23 seconds.

(... Ptaah and Semjase manipulate the console, and now I can again see how the fantastic starry sky is changing. The initially calmly passing by constellations are again transformed into strokes and after a few seconds begin to blur. And in the next moment they are no more than a whitish milky mass, a shimmering mass, like I have experienced in all previous hyper-leaps. But now, suddenly, this milky whitish glow is gone, and there is a complete darkness. What is this? Now everything is suddenly bathed in a golden colour, and then everything is suddenly silvery.

But oh, man, this radiant light, this radiant brightness. Everything is bathed in radiant light, everything exists only as radiant light. It is stronger than all the suns of the Universe put together. Man oh man, this bright light, and it doesn't even hurt me in the eyes. Man, this is the eternity, the bright radiant light of eternity. Look, there exists nothing else but the eternal. Man, how splendid. Splendid? Man, that is the splendour itself. Eternity and splendour are one and the same. Why do I separate them? Why do I put the eternal in terms of time? Time does not exist, and eternity is splendour. Man, what is this? This calm, this peace, what is it, how did I get here? Love, oh this deep all-embracing love. There is nothing but love. Splendid! Oh yes, I am in the eternity. Just how can I forget that? This radiant light, this more splendid, this love in everything. Oh, yes, I am a human being, but how can I? Why do I forget that? I am just a guest in eternity... and these lovely voices, that call me by. Where do they come from? I see nothing but radiant, soothing light? Who is calling for me? I don't see anything. Man, I am no more, I don't see myself, I am eternity in the eternity. Oh, how is this, I cannot see with my eyes anymore, and yet I can see everything, and I cannot hear with my ears, and yet I hear everything. Yes, love, how powerful it is, how vast, infinite and splendid. Everything is love and splendour, just why does the human being not want to understand that? How? Oh, yes... but that cannot be, I am not a human being, I am the eternity. This light, this radiant light, such profound love, calm and peace it has. Oh... now I understand; I cannot see or hear, but I empfinde. I feel, I live, I empfinde. How beautiful is this peace... am I not human? Am I not the eternity? Who is calling for me? Interesting, I sense the hearing without needing the ears and I see without needing the eyes. I feel the seeing and I feel the hearing. Where am I, why is this like this? Oh, yes, the eternity, now I understand, I am the eternity. Just why was everything so unclear? Just why did I not find the connection? Just why did I forget that I am in the eternity as a human being? Just why can I only think clearly now? Think? I rather empfinde, I feel. How is this possible... and from where do these voices come from, which I cannot hear with my ears, but only empfinde? Only? Why do I empfinde it as only? It's just not like that, hearing with the ears is so painful and materially-bound. Hearing by empfinden doesn't hurt, and seeing by empfinden doesn't hurt either, it simply penetrates in me, soft and full of love. It lets me hear and see. But this call... who calls me, then? Who is calling me? I feel that someone is calling me... who is there? This light, this splendid, radiant light, the call comes from this light. Is it the call of eternity? Oh, but how hard it is, how hard it is, not to think, that I am only a guest in eternity, that I am a human being. How painful it is, this humanity. I don't want to be that no more, I want to stay here forever as eternity in the eternity. This call of eternity, this deep love. Yes, I want to stay here, I will never go back. In here is the EXISTENCE, the real EXISTENCE. I don't understand... this call? How can I be here as a human being? Am I not a human being? No, I am not, now I know it. I am me. I am EXISTENCE. Just how could I empfinden myself as a human being. How could I empfinden myself as a stranger here, who has to return to a material world. I am here and I belong here. Something wanted to mislead me, and it inspired unreal Empfindungs in me. But why? I must have already left the material life and died a long time ago. But how long has my transition to here lasted? What have I lived through? There are so many confusing things, there is Semjase and Ptaah and many other things. But those are just dreams... dreams of the dead? Would this perhaps be always so? Is that the transition from physical being to EXISTENCE? Would this conversion be dominated by those dreams of the dead? Perhaps to mould the transition correctly, to release the fear of the unknown? I don't know. Or maybe everything was real? No, this is not so, because now I am eternity and empfinde it. These were surely only dreams of the dead... dreams of crossing from material life to real EXISTENCE. Death is only the intermediate space, the intermediate station between life and EXISTENCE. Death? That's incorrect, it isn't so... but how do I know that? Who tells me that? Oh, yes, I empfinde it from this mysterious call from the splendid radiant light of love, from eternity itself. But am I not eternity myself? Oh, of course, that's why I can understand the call. What do I care then about material life and intermediate stations? Just why? I don't understand, because it doesn't affect me. I am EXISTENCE now and have everything behind me. Finally I am EXISTENCE, finally I am me. Yes, I empfinde the call... but why just now and not then? Yes, it's the call.. it's the call of eternity. There are no more individual beings, there is only the great unity of the whole. Why did I not know that? I don't understand it... but why should I understand it? All is really so. Yes, but... what... yes, it is so, I dissolve, but why, it... yes, the EXISTENCE is vast... why are these Empfindungen so strange? Why do I think of me? It's not me, it's EXISTENCE, it's the great unity of the whole. How could I only empfinden of myself? Would this arise from thinking of the long past material lives? It must be so, because in here there are only Empfinden in the great unity of the whole. Now I arrive to the understanding, that the self has become consciousness, the self is inexistent and has become EXISTENCE. Everything is only consciousness and empfinden. That's the understanding, that's the EXISTENCE. Now I understand the empfinden of the strange call, which now isn't strange anymore. It's really the call of eternity, the call of the EXISTENCE... and now the empfinden is fulfilled with the deepest understanding. Now calm and peace are no more than infinite love, because from it emerge calm and peace. Then why does the human being not understand this? Why does he only seek love in unreal untruths? But why do these Empfindungen exist in the great-EXISTENCE? Why would the great unity bring such Empfindungen into awareness? Oh yes, the Empfinden understands: The eternity is the existence and monitors what takes place in the inexistence, the material life-forms. It monitors the life of the human being. So that's why... that's why the Empfinden penetrates the consciousness. The Empfinden offers the possibility of conscious recognition, and the EXISTENCE of the eternity monitors all the events of the inexistence. Therefore also the Empfinden for the human beings. But what does the human being know about it? He strays on dark paths, trapped in irrational teachings and fails to recognise the truth of the real consciousness of the eternity. How mistaken are the human teachings about truth, which base everything on ignorance. Oh, how painful this is. Why does the human being just not want to understand the real truth and the love? Why does he/she keep themselves imprisoned in cultic heresies and tread the path of destruction with them? Strange, the Empfinden does not register a deity; how mistaken are the human teachings. They are just an evil delusion, which leads to destruction. Just why does the human being not want to be eternity and to become real EXISTENCE? Why does he/she not free themselves of cultic heresies, and run to their doom? Human, why do you do that? See here the eternity, see the real EXISTENCE and see, here is the great- and spirit-consciousness, the great unity of the whole. Above the consciousness of the EXISTENCE stands only the Creation, and it is infinitely vaster and more powerful in its awareness of its existence than this level of consciousness. This awareness is the final stage of all spirit levels before becoming one with the Creation. Here is the last stage of the possible relative completion before the oneness with the Creation. This is the last stage of the final truth and the fulfilment of the relative completion. This is the stage of EXISTING in the consciousness of the existence in the fulfilment of the relative completion. This is the stage of the great unity in the oneness, and here all the self and all the personality is overcome. The consciousness is the call of the eternity and the eternal call of the truth and the all-embracing love, and what can be greater than it, because everything is born out of it. It's the EXISTENCE of the Creation and the EXISTENCE of all EXISTENCE. Beside it, truly nothing exists. Just why does the human being not understand this, why does he/she chase after irrational teachings and why does they let themselves be captured by heresies? Nothing exists outside of the Creation, and there is no other Creation besides it. It alone is the truth of the Universe and it alone is consummate spirit-consciousness, perfect love and consummate EXISTENCE. It's not shaped and not formed, it's spiritual consciousness, spiritual love and consummate spiritual EXISTENCE alone. And outside of it is nothing. Human being, why do you not recognise this truth? Why do you let yourself be misled by cultic heresies, and why do you place human creatures and many other things next to it, which should take the place of the EXISTENCE of the Creation? Human being, why do you foreordain a deity in place of the EXISTENCE of Creation, and why do you curse the EXISTENCE of the Creation through the nomination of a god, which mendaciously and fraudulently should be the EXISTENCE of the Creation? Human being, how evil you are in your arrogance, and how can you presume yourself to be above the Creation or to equate it with the creatures created by it, by appointing them as gods and imagining them as the Creation? How you have become vicious in your thinking, unreasonable and autocratic. Oh, human being, you advance in very evil paths, which lead to destruction, yet by no means will you find in them the way to the real EXISTENCE of the Creation. Here is the eternity and here only the truth rules, and so also only the truth is expressed. Oh human being, how great and infinite is the Empfinden of pain at your ignorance. Despite endless love a thorn of pain resonates through the Empfinden of the consciousness and makes the splendour of the radiant light melancholic. Recognise the love, still; recognise the truth, human being, so that you too experience the splendour of happiness in the existence of the eternity. You human being of the distant material world, human being of the Earth, hear the call of eternity; let yourself be instructed about the truth and use the power of the spirit and consciousness to recognise the love. Make it your own and thereby flow in the consciousness of the eternal EXISTENCE. Work your way consciously up to the level of the radiant light and receive here the conscience of the great unity in the unity. Realise the falsity of all cultic heresies and deities, and realise alone the path of the light and the universal love, realise the way of the truth, the only one which leads to the splendour of the Creation. It alone is all-encompassing and all-magnificent. Conceive that, human being, and allow only the truth to be the real truth, because only it leads to the kingdom of eternity. Conceive: the word of the truth is imperishable, because it is Empfindung and recognition in the EXISTENCE of the consciousness of the great unity. The heavens and worlds will perish, but the words of the truth will never perish. They are... oh... no. It's so strange... the Earth-human knows only half the truth, for he/she is misguided by cultic heresy. Yes... but why then? Great unity in consciousness, is what? It's so strange, I empfinde so very painful for the Earth-human, why is that? Oh, it's.. no, don't! You go away from me. What is it now? I hear your call from somewhere, and it's going away. Why do you go, oh, the light, its radiance decreases. Why is that? I am me again... no... no... that should not be... no I don't want to go back. No, no, I belong here, I know, I am thinking again, I no longer empfinde. Oh... I understand, the light... the radiance is gone now and already it shimmers gold, and now silver. No... no, I don't want to. Leave me, I... I... I...

I hang in the cabin chair as if I had been executed and stare forward. I don't want and cannot understand being here. I don't want to return to here at all. I want to remain in the "beyond", and yet I am here, just why? I don't understand the world anymore. Why, oh why? The "beyond" is love and EXISTENCE, and what is here at all? These burdens, these worries, problems and needs, that cannot be true... I want to go back. Oh, this misery, this sad reality of material life. Oh, man oh man, this sad misery, this life, this misery; just why did I come back? Man oh man, I could howl, oh, just how can I go back? There must be a way, it's not easy to... ? Oh, what is that now? Man, what is that? Uh, what... ? Oh, is that you? What are you doing here, Semjase??? Uh, why are you shaking me like that? What's happening?

...

Semjase:

274. We have reached our goal, but we have done a big hyper-jump and the rematerialisation was delayed by seven minutes, to allow you an intrusion into null-time... into the timelessness.

Billy:

??? Timelessness?

Semjase:

275. Do you still not understand

I ... Oh yes, of course ... pitiful ... how very pitiful ... why have you brought me back here?

Semjase:

276. You like to joke; but we have all been inside the timelessness, and would all like to stay there.

277. But we must not do that, because we have to complete the path of evolution step-by-step, as you also must do, dear friend.

278. I know very well the pain you feel now, as we have all experienced the same thing.

279. But we have become accustomed to it, and know that we can under no circumstances stay there, before we have reached that stage of consciousness, which belongs to the great consciousness level.

...

Ptaah:

173. We have reached our goal... we are almost at the end of the material universe.

174. Until we reach the barrier we will go through completely empty space, resp. the outer Creation belt up to the displacement belt.

175. Up to that point, there are now not only a few million kilometres, but many billions of light-years.

176. So we leave the actual material Universe resp. the solid-state matter universe belt, and go into the transformation belt and beyond, up to the very end of our DERN Universe, where across a barrier, resp. a Universal barrier, we will then create a passageway to the DAL Universe.

Billy:

Fantastic. But tell me now, why have I had so many thoughts in the great unity of the null-time? They were only seven minutes according to your information, but I have thought more than is possible in seven minutes.

Semjase:

288. You have thought no more, you have only empfunden [from Empfinden: to perceive in a fine-fluidal manner].

289. In the null-time, in the timeless, only Empfinden exists in the great unity.

290. You were yourself no more, but only a tiny part of the whole great unity.

291. And in this great unity the Empfindungen penetrated into you.

Billy:

I was able to analyse that, that's right. Only at the beginning did I notice a certain I-force, but then this dissolved in the infinite level and mass of the eternity.

...

Ptaah:

252. This structure is produced by a spaceship that you can recognise there, very far ahead in the ring-like centre.

253. Here our Universe ends, and this structure stands as the gateway to another Universe, which we call the DAL Universe.

Billy:

Man, but this is enormous, it must certainly have close to 50 kilometres in diameter. And the length of this tunnel, man oh man.

Semjase:

299. You err very much in your measuring.

300. The diameter of the tunnel amounts to 177,000 metres, and its length totals 7,103 thousand million kilometres.

...

Billy:

Do we have to go to another space-time dimension or something? And, what is it actually about this DAL Universe, that seems so familiar to me?

Semjase:

304. We will remain in the normal time and normal space.

305. You see, we are already far inside the tunnel, and nothing changes.
306. But as for the DAL Universe; does this not remind you of anything?
307. It is a twin Universe of our DERN Universe.

...

Nera:

27. Semjase is bringing a time projectile back to us.
28. That's what she has gone to get now.

Billy:

Oh yes, Semjase told me something about it. Are you allowed to tell me what this thing is?

Nera:

29. For nine years we have been researching a new technology for time travel over unmeasurable distances and time periods, and also across various Universes, without the need to open a barrier.

30. For this purpose, we have developed small spiral-shaped time projectiles, which for now we are transmitting from and to the present time, specifically from our Universe's present time into yours.

31. And since Semjase understands these technologies and works with us, it's only understandable that we guide some of our projectiles to your own Earth.

32. Three years ago we transmitted the last projectile to there, where unfortunately it could not be found for a long time, because of a very small error that had arisen in the time calculation.

33. Thus, the projectile landed several thousand kilometres to the east of the intended target, because the Earth had rotated by this distance during the course of the projectile's journey.

34. This mistake was discovered some months ago by us, and so we were able to find out where the projectile had really landed.

35. Semjase effectively found it then and has brought it back to us now, because it is very valuable for us.

...

Semjase:

378. Each dimension of a universe has different parallel universes with parallel worlds.

379. They are parallel dimensions or other space-time structures.

380. So also beyond your home world, the Earth, other dimensions and worlds exist.

381. These parallel worlds exist in superordinate or subordinate dimensions, in space-time structures that are alien to normal time.

382. On one of these kinds of parallel worlds, almost everything is the same as on the worlds of normal time.

383. Only small differences prevail, especially in the times.

384. And into such a parallel world I want to travel with you.

385. It is a different form of time travel into the future or past than you experienced with Asket.

...

388. There are the same human beings and buildings there as on Earth, only everything is just shifted in time and space.

...

Ptaah:

261. We are just about to cross back into our own universe.

262. After that we will stay at the end of the barrier for fifty minutes to close it again.

Billy:

Does it take that long?

Semjase:

433. Sure, because we can't just let it collapse, we have to close it systematically.

434. That just takes time and requires a lot of care.

435. From universe to universe there are very few barrier points that can be used as a transition.

436. They must also not be overused or overloaded, otherwise the barrier structure will be destroyed, which could lead to a universal ram belt catastrophe.

437. So everything has to be done very precisely according to its order and according to the given laws, which of course always takes its time.

...

Ptaah:

264. The whole process of closure is programmed and will take care of itself without any special intervention on our part.

...

Billy:

... Semjase once told me that for a hyperleap you would have to keep a safety distance of 153 million kilometres from the nearest stars and planets so that they would not be pulled into the maelstrom of the hyperleap hole. ...

...

Ptaah:

516. The truth is that invisible and unrecognisable forms of beings live in the most diverse spheres and dimensions.

517. These are spheres and dimensions that are superimposed on or subordinate to your normal time and that form independent spheres and space-time planes.

518. In and of themselves these spheres and dimensions, and likewise the life-forms or being-forms that animate them, are of as material a nature as the Earth human being, his world and his time-plane.

519. The swinging waves of the time planes concerned are, however, structurally fundamentally displaced, whereby these other spheres, dimensions and forms of life or beings remain invisible and unrecognisable to the Earth human being.

520. The vibrational spheres far inferior to Earth-humans are just as invisible and unrecognisable to them as the spheres far superior to them.

521. If this were not so, the most diverse spheres, dimensions and life-forms would flow into each other and cause universal chaos.

522. Fundamentally, nothing at all could exist as a result.

523. So there must be sharp dividing lines to ensure the existence of spheres, dimensions and entities.

524. Now these OTHERS, the being-forms or life-forms from other spheres and dimensions, which are just as material in their time-plane as Earth-humans are in their space-time structure, also have their worries and problems, and they too are classified in the cosmic course of evolution.

525. In nowise are they interested in making contact with the time-plane, which is yours and means the normal time-plane for you.

526. On the other hand, also in various other spheres and dimensions, only very few life-forms are capable of opening time barriers and penetrating other spheres, just as this is not the case on Earth.

527. In other spheres and dimensions, then, the beings or life-forms are just as material as they are on Earth, except that they are invisible and unrecognisable to you through the vibrational shifts.

528. But there are still the high spiritual planes, the purely spiritual spheres and dimensions.

529. These, however, are no longer material in any form known to you, but are purely spiritual.

530. This means, then, that in these spheres and dimensions there live only beings who are released from the material body and vibrate towards the goal of relative perfection.

531. These are partly the beings which already in the highest planes begin to direct the destinies of the universe in harmony with the Creation and are capable of creation.

532. But these entities also do not make contact with Earth-humans.

533. This only happens in certain exceptional cases, which are very rarely repeated in millennia of time, when lower beings capable of communication are addressed by higher purely spiritual life-forms and made aware of certain happenings.

534. Without exception, however, this only occurs in connection with the appearance of a life-form at some place in a sphere and dimension, which has a mission to fulfil as a prophet, etc.?

535. And such prophets exist in all spheres and dimensions, that is, not only on Earth.

...

Ptaah:

654. The technology of this ship allows us to neutralise time, as you know and have experienced.

655. Through this process, it is possible for us to get the safety distance of 153 million kilometres behind us in a fraction of a second, and then transmit.

657. On the one hand, we neutralise time to just short of the transmission point, and on the other, we create a neutral timeless channel in outer space through which we can then travel the short distance of 153 million kilometres in a split second.

...

659. The timeless channel is actually easier to manage than a hyperleap.

660. But such a channel can only be created at certain distances, always taking into account the nature of the environment.

661. The various energies of the different galaxies and systems limit the range of a timeless channel, with distances varying from 210 billion to 735 billion kilometres.

Billy:

Aha, so then this time neutralisation only takes place through purely galactic and systemic energies, which you make use of, while for the hyper-leaps you can practically use an intergalactic or rather the most diverse universal energies. According to my calculation, these universal energies should be far superimposed on the galactic energies and, accordingly, should be sought in much higher values, or am I mistaken in that?

Ptaah:

662. You speak like a good scientist.

663. Your figures are exactly right.

...

Ptaah:

1045. Besides other races from those worlds come to Earth very often through an old dimension-gate.

...

1055. The others also come from time to time through the old dimensions-gate to the Earth, but this happens actually rather rarely.

Semjase:

109. In the past I had once explained to you, that there are three different locations on the Earth, where fully natural dimension-gates arise periodically.

110. These gates signify a nature-based danger, cosmically caused and originating from time-flows.

111. This natural danger is the originator of many happenings, which affect the normal-time of Earth, but just at those places where they appear.

...

139. But now I want to explain the dimension-gate to you:
140. As already said, it is a cosmic phenomenon.
141. Such a dimension-gate represents a natural-cosmic phenomenon, a barrier between your normal-time and a dimension unknown to you.
142. In the given case, this other dimension has a parallel world to Earth, which is, however, subject to greater fluctuations in landscape at some points.
143. The dimension-barrier or the dimension-gate is caused by a cosmic elimination-transformation-radiation, which wavers and occurs periodically.
144. Its point of origin are various giant suns in a galaxy unknown to you within a universe of other dimensions, which are sending out their radiations and are meeting in the other space-time-structure in 7.2 light-years' distance beyond the Earth.
145. Over there they begin to flow into one another and to bundle up.
146. The Earth is the exact endpoint in the space-time-structure of the DERN-universe, where this radiation is hitting highly concentratedly and producing the effect of a dimension-barrier.
147. As the Earth moves, like all structures in the universe, this radiation – divided into a three-arm – only hits the planet at three locations, when the Earth is moving exactly in the focus of the wandering radiation, causing the two dimensions to be able to touch each other via the radiation.
148. The radiation itself produces the effect of an elimination of the normal-time, in a manner of evoking a transformation.
149. That means that the structure of the earthly normal-time is at the radiation-flashpoints transformed into the timeless, through which the normal-time is eliminated.
150. This transformation layer is still located far outside of the actual centre, which is already located in the other dimension.
151. It is a similar process as the one known to you with cyclones.
152. In the actual centre of the storm there is calm, while the vortex contains the actual storm.
153. The outer rings and whirls are the transition layer from storm-less to the storm.
154. It is similar with the dimension gate.
155. The outer layers represent the transformation layer from the earthly normal-time to the other dimension.
156. The vortex's radiation contains the actual transition in it, while the centre constitutes already the other dimension, a different universe resp. a different dimension within a different time-layer.
- ...
172. Concerning the dimension-gate the forces are purely cosmic energies, radiations of a very special kind.
173. The effect of the vortex or the spiral does anyhow remain the same, even if the appearance is different.
174. The transition belt, the storm belt and the centre are here also present, just in a different form than for a galaxy or for a storm of nature's elements on a planet or a star resp. on a sun.
175. The transition zone or the transition layer is to be compared with a transition time between two world eras.
176. The old and traditional normal-time is still available, but it is already allowing a view into the other time level, into the other dimension and other world.
177. So when a flying object enters this zone, with life forms sitting in it, well then they are still in the normal-time, but are already looking into the other time layer, into the other world.
178. Because during their flight they looking forwards, they see a world totally foreign to them and a foreign landscape, as long as they had never been there before.
179. By the powers of the vortex, life forms – as long as they are not familiar with these happenings and are not possessing the required devices and apparatuses – lose control over their flying devices and are driven that way into the actual passage-whirl, into the actual dimension-gate.

180. Over there they are then already solely seeing the other world in the other dimension, while their normal-time is already behind them.

181. Then they are driven into the centre of the spiral whirl and are therefore in the other time layer, thus in another world resp. in a dimension totally foreign to them.

182. Should they lack the required apparatuses and other devices, they become prisoners of the foreign dimension for all times, and a return into their normal-time won't be there anymore for them.

Billy:

That makes me curious. However, with which life-forms do you have contact?

Semjase:

72. With forms from your time level, thus from your present-day dimension, because these life-forms are not yet capable of the change of dimensions in the manner we are.

Semjase:

217. There are several worlds and several dimensions, and if I had to describe them, it would go much too far.

218. One of these worlds, however, is a parallel world to yours and has only minor differences.

219. A second one, however, is very remarkable because three almost similar planets are in a line behind each other.

220. So if you were to go through the dimensional gate, you would again come to an Earth or world, but in another dimension and thus in another time level.

221. But the time lies very far back from your present time, namely in that time, when the Earth, still inhabited by flying dinosaurs, was quite wild and fissured.

...

Billy:

So this means that the dimensional gate fluctuates in its intensity and thus opens gates to different dimensions or spheres?

Semjase:

223. Sure, you expressed that very precisely.

Billy:

Well, but now again to this triple world: If I would now go through the dimensional gate, then according to your explanation I would again be on a world or Earth, but millions of years back in the flying dinosaur era, is that right?

Semjase:

224. Certainly.

Billy:

Well, then I am actually again or still on a world similar to Earth, even if many millions of years in the past. If I now come into this world of the past, then according to your statements I would still have to see the other worlds from that world, right?

Semjase:

225. Sure, and you would even see the other two planets very close, because they are only a few hundred thousand kilometres apart.

226. So once you would see the horizon of that primeval world on which you would just stand, as a second world you would see the middle world, which is still wrapped in a radiant steam coat, and as a third world you would see it roughly like the Earth as it exists here in the present time.

Billy:

But that doesn't make sense.

Semjase:

227. It also took us a very long time to solve this strange mystery.

228. In all parallel universes, there are also dimensional radiations that create the gate in the Bermuda Triangle.

229. However 3,500 years ago, when Venus shook the Earth, the dimensional harmony was disturbed and two planets, the primordial planet and the gaseous planet, were dragged into the dimension of the completed planet, after which the dimensional gate returned to normal.

230. Therefore, in that dimension these three different planets exist in that solar system.

231. So you could almost say that the same worlds there exist three times in three different stages of development, which of course is illogical.

...

235. With my beam ship I can penetrate into that or any other dimension, but I cannot return.

236. We'll need Father's spaceship to do that.

Billy:

... But how does it stand, now, with the dimension gate in the Devil's Triangle? Can one see this?

Semjase:

36. With eyes alone, it is not recognisable, but it is possible to make the radiation visible.

...

37. Sure, I can make the radiation visible by my ship.

38. Only two paths of radiation are currently recognisable from this side of the Earth, however, while the third is behind the Earth and, therefore, cannot be seen from here.

...

Semjase:

95. You can steer my ship calmly, if you like.

96. But please pay attention here; if you should lose control, then simply press these three contact points in the grid.

97. By these, everything turns to the zero position and the automatic control mechanism regulates everything within a split-second; thus, no dangers can appear.

98. But despite everything, please pay attention to the speed.

...

109. It may well be because of our high level of development that we have a different nature in such concerns.

110. With certainty, our somewhat finer dimension also exerts a certain influence on it.

...

Billy:

... I am also surprised that you suddenly speak so openly of your finer dimension, for you yourself have forbidden me from doing this up to now.

...

Semjase:

184. The number of these people, however, who could actually enter into connection with human beings of other dimensions, is only to be reckoned as 16 of these all over the world, but these do not use their capabilities.

...

187. Only important to us are those who could enter into connection with other-dimensioned human forms.

...

Billy:

What am I to understand by the WE-subconsciousness-level?

Semjase:

195. It concerns subconsciousness-connections to the WE-form of the Earth-humans and, therewith, to same-dimensioned life forms in this world's area, who stand in nowise higher in their evolution than the connection-seeking Earth-humans themselves; thus, they cannot convey or obtain any translated or higher knowledge (= collective subconsciousness).

...

Billy:

... Something is just a bit fishy to me with this journey, namely the time. I am now already about two hours away from home, and I should still stay away for another two days. At the same time, I simply do not understand how one would not notice my absence. This is something that just does not make any sense to me. These time shifts quite simply go beyond my "spiritual" horizon. These little time cramps really do not make me any wiser. I understand what really happens, but how everything is connected together, this is a sevenfold mystery to me.

Semjase:

203. Accept my consolation, because I do not understand any more than you.

204. Even our best scientists know only very few secrets of these matters.

205. They do, indeed, know the how, when, and where, etc., but they do not know the basic causes of the process.

206. Therefore, do not think about it too much, for it would be pointless.

207. I can, however, explain to you what happens, in order for you to be able to have two days with us.

208. It is the simplest possibility for us.

209. You will be with us for two days, while on Earth, only two hours will pass.

210. These two hours, however, are only the length of time that you needed to come to the contact place, arrive here with me, and then go home again.

211. It...

Billy:

But these two hours are, nevertheless, already over and are even exceeded by more than about 40 minutes.

Semjase:

212. Sure, I just wanted to explain that to you.

213. Your way from your house to the contact place, our greeting, and the flight here lasted only 45 minutes.

214. You will also need this time for the return.

215. Besides this, what you do not know is that on the flight here from Earth, I leaped about two days into the past.

216. You do, indeed, know how easy this is.

217. Hence ...

Billy:

Girl, now I understand, I ...

Semjase:

218. You do not understand, because we have not done a normal leap into the past.

219. It is a time shift that is still unknown to you.

220. You now live twice, namely once here and once down there on the Earth.

Billy:

Now I really do not understand.

Semjase:

221. Understand yet:

222. We do, indeed, live here at present, but we are, at the same time, two days in the past.

223. For us, it is now, indeed, Wednesday, but on Earth, it is now only Monday.

Billy:

I really do not understand. According to your statement, I would now have to be down there on Earth and would be going straight to bed, because on Monday, I did not go to bed until morning. So we are now having Monday there on the Earth, as you say; nevertheless, I am here and, thus, am not climbing into bed. This is, therefore, not clear.

Semjase:

224. You understand everything very well; you just do not want to accept it because you find it too fantastic.

Billy:

Well, well, you claim, then, that I am here in my normal present and, at the same time, two days in the past. I already lived these two past days on the Earth below – as seen from my present. But since I am now moved two days back, I should first start to live these two days down there, or rather live through them, while I will, in reality, first live through these two days with you yet. This is, nevertheless, crazy. Now, according to your statement, I would actually have to exist twice, namely down there on Earth, where I am going straight to bed, and once here. Thus, I could now visit myself down there, eh?

Semjase:

225. Sure, if we would now return to the Earth, then you could – theoretically or practically, depending on the case – talk with yourself.

Billy:

Aha, I could, therefore, go to my own front door and knock until the door would be opened for me. And who would open for me, eh? I for myself, in my own person. Man, girl, I would just like to see my dumb face once, when I suddenly stand before me and even say “hello” to myself. At the same time, it just does not make sense to me that in the normal time, only two hours pass, while the past requires two days for it?

Semjase:

226. That is regulated by a time manipulation.

Billy:

I understand, one of those accursed theories of relativity, which are no longer theories for you. Just listen to me, girl, let these explanations be, for I am too dumb to understand it. My head is already smoking.

...

Semjase:

326. This is the transition into the dimension of the threefold world.

327. So this is a different dimension than that one, into which ships and airplanes penetrate.

Billy:

What type of dimension, then, does it concern with the other one?

Semjase:

328. In that dimension, the world is already suspended in the distant future, but the inhabitants on the Earth of that time very rarely penetrate from that.

...

329. We are now at the exact crossroads of the vortex; thus, you can see both dimensions.

...

Ptaah:

14. It is no secret; we are searching here for an overdue beamship of a life form known to us from our dimension.

15. It penetrated a few days ago and has no possibilities for its own return.

...

Ptaah:

25. You know very well that this is not the case and that the majority of the so-called mediums truly have no contacts at all with such life forms or even other-dimensioned life forms and that some of them are just subject to a self-deception or are quite consciously and deceitfully led to believe such contacts.

...

Ptaah:

217. Our next goal shall be the moon of the third world.

...

Semjase:

355. The human beings of this dimension and time have, indeed, become much more peaceful than those on your world in your time, but they are still barbaric and quite aggressive, so they would force us to land, which would be very unpleasant for us.

...

356. ... They do live here approximately 500 years in the future.

357. Look over there; that is one of their beamships.

358. Sure, they also have about 500 years more development behind themselves than the Earth-humans of your time, which I already said.

365. ...

{Billy}: (A few minutes later, we are already on the planet, only in another dimension and about 500 years in the future. Semjase shows me a lot of very interesting things, which I write down again as keywords, in order to be able to later identify the photos taken. Even the conversation itself is limited to keywords. When we fly out again into space, I notice by my watch that we were in this world for seven hours. Far out in space, we come to Ptaah's giant ship, go in, and then Ptaah leads his ship back into my time and into my dimension. ...)

95. Therefore, make an effort to find the appropriate knowing ones to whom you can entrust the spreading and preservation of the teaching and other values, so that they will continue them when you have completed your life on the Earth in your time.

96. It shall be so, because after your passing away we have fulfilled our task here and will return to our dimension.

Semjase:

76. The people I have marked as negative are not contact persons

77. In any case, they never had contact with extraterrestrial intelligences that reached them from outside of the Earth, neither through free space nor through a dimensional gate, because these penetration possibilities are so hermetically controlled that it is completely impossible for even a tiny particle unit to be able to pass through without being registered by us or the other intelligences monitoring the Earth.

Semjase:

60. The great innovations are housed inside and offer many more possibilities than is the case in my current ship.

61. With the new one, I am also able to penetrate dimensions in both directions.

Semjase:

158. The closest one I know is in Madagascar, which is a dimensional gate.

Billy:

You mean the same effect as in the Bermuda Triangle and the Japanese Sea?

Semjase:

159. Certainly.

Semjase:

64. Our one technical communication possibility you would call radio, but with the possibility of no delay in transmission.

65. Also the transmission does not take place through the normal space, but in use of the hyperspace, through which we pass our signals, disassembled, with faster-than-light particles, which spread over the whole hyperspace in fractions of minus seconds due to their million-fold speed of light and thus form again at the same moment at the target.

Billy:

What you are explaining to me is a mystery, because I do not know anything about these things. However, I have probably understood a few things, e.g. the disassembling of the signals. Could it be a distortion taking place in some distortion device?

Semjase:

66. No, the disassembling is a universal expansion of the signals and impulses in relation to the speed, with just the signals and impulses charged faster-than-light particles, which you call Tachyons.

Billy:

Now another question: You explained to me at the beginning of our acquaintance that your beamships are equipped with a light emitting drive and further with a tachyon drive. Is that why you call the ships beamships?

Semjase:

147. No, because the drives you mentioned do not correspond to direct beam drives.

148. The beam drives were of a different kind, and we have not used them for about 400 years, although we have kept the name beamships for ourselves.

149. My ship, which I still had in my possession at our first encounter, was still half radiant, which is why you were able to see the radiations.

150. However, these were only highly concentrated light beams.

151. My last ship already had an antigravity propulsion based on the principle of repulsion

152. However, this drive was only suitable for planetary flight, while the tachyon drive was retained for free space.

153. The present ship is equipped with an antimatter propulsion system for free space, which was developed more than 50,000 years ago.

50. ... while great scientists were able to flee with their space ships and returned to the former home-worlds of our seven-stars, being our Pleiades, which were settled by the earliest forefathers when they left their original home worlds in another space-time configuration in the Vega-Lyra-region.

...

Billy:

... The next sun system seen from us belongs to the Centauri group. To my knowledge is the first Proxima-Centauri, then Alpha-Centauri and Beta-Centauri, which by us though, is being called something else, namely the BARNARD star or similar, which is at a distance of a little bit more than 6 light-years away from us. Now, are you informed about whether any humans live in those sun systems who come to Earth?

Semjase:

124. Certainly, I myself know, there, in other space-time-structures, several dear friends in all three systems, although only in the Barnard system, meaning Beta-Centauri, can it be discovered from Earth that small planets are circling around the Sun there.

Billy:

... But tell me, was his {Sfath's} pear-shaped ship one of your usual ships? You had a completely different 300-year-old box.

Semjase:

85. His ship was a gift from a Sirian people.

Billy:

You mean from people of Sirius?

Semjase:

86. Certainly, from one of the two inhabited planets of Sirius, but in a different space-time configuration.

Semjase:

84. ... I was only able to find out that at that time {1962} there were actually two Cassiopeian ships with several crew members on the Earth for about 4 months ...

...

86. Unfortunately, however, our research has now revealed that one of the ships was destroyed during the return flight to the home star in 1962 with the entire crew, whereby all records were also destroyed.

87. The reasons of the destruction are shrouded in darkness and could not be clarified, because it took place in hyperspace, which was determined at that time by coordinate impulses.

88. The second ship started from the Earth about 7 years ago, because the crew was expeditionarily busy until then.

...

90. Unfortunately this ship did not reach home either, because some influences threw the ship into a foreign dimension when it wanted to break hyperspace.

91. This resulted in the fact that all control devices of the home base, which were coupling remotely with the devices of the ship, suddenly did not pick up any impulses any more when the breakthrough should have taken place, which indicates with compelling clarity that the ship was thrown into a foreign dimension.

165. These visitors are very small people, only 110 cm tall.

166. They inhabit a small planetary world in a galaxy that was previously unknown to us.

167. They came to Earth by an involuntary time shift, by a faulty manipulation of their still insufficient space technology.

...

Billy:

Oh, that is how it is. But – where are these dwarves now? Can they even go back to their homeland? You said that they came here because of a time difference, just because of an unwanted one. That does mean that they have been thrown out of their own time, right?

Semjase:

171. Sure.

172. But they will find their homeland again, because father brings them back to their time and to their homeworld through a leap in time.

173. But this still offers some difficulties, because we still have no information about their home galaxy, which is why we first have to work out the coordinates.

Semjase:

24. The later original home worlds were planets in the constellation known to you as Lyra and near Vega, in a different space-time structure, which is shifted from yours by a fraction of a second.

...

36. So the time came when they built themselves flying ships, with which they could also leave their space-time structure and could rush through the free and wide space of the levels of the universe.

...

48. Preparations took four long centuries in secret form to break out in one sudden blow into a far-reaching and open war of liberation, which spread and dragged on over many other dimensioned worlds of the Lyra and Vega systems.

...

55. The commander-in-chief of the terrorising forces was an Jschwisch called ASAEL, who, after realising the hopelessness of the struggle, escaped the vengeful and victorious peoples by a quick escape into the space-time structure of this level of the universe.

...

57. They quickly left the home systems, only to wander through the again shifted space-time structures for many restless years, before one day they found a large star system, which offered them the necessary possibilities for life, far away from their original home systems.

...

61. Of the three worlds made habitable, various expedition ships were equipped, after which the Titan fugitives flew out into the vastness of space to reach and take possession of their predetermined destination after 17 years.

62. These were stars and planets in their dimension beyond those stars known to you as Hesperides, which have their own worlds circling around them and were only weakly inhabited by human life-forms, which were subjugated by the conquerors.

63. During two centuries a new culture was created on these differently dimensioned Hesperide worlds and inhabited by emigrants from the Asael system.

...

66. Under the supreme command of the new leader, Plejara, further expeditions were prepared to expedite a very distant and lonely solar system, located in this, your space-time-plane, which according to all calculations must have come into possession of a section of a planet from the original earliest home systems, after the Destroyer had destroyed the earliest original home worlds many millions of years ago.

...

91. According to the coordinates of old records, the refugees entered this space-time structure and the SOL system, and thus once again arrived on Earth, where the Titans once again settled.

...

107. Many hundreds of thousands fled with large and small ships into free space, set down and settled in another space-time structure in Beta-Centaurus, which you know in your space-time structure as the Barnard star.

...

119. Through an accomplice, the scientists obtained possession of spaceships and fled into the space-time-shifted regions of Beta-Centauri.

...

192. The Pleiades stars of your space-time plane are much younger than the Earth, but not so [with] our stars and planets, which were named only by numerical values until the time when the 'High Council' took control.

Quetzal:

65. You are speaking a true word, but our sensitivity in this regard is not only based on our evolution, because our homeland is also a very important factor in this, because it itself is highly sensitised, which does not remain untainted to us human life forms.

Billy:

I do not quite understand that, Quetzal, but I have been trying to fathom it for a long time. Semjase once made a rather strange remark to me. This led me to speculate, which is why I assume that you live on your Pleiades in a differently dimensioned form. By this I mean that you are probably up there in our universe and in our time, as Semjase once explained to me, but that you are dimensionally shifted, namely in a parallel system of our Pleiades. Am I right in assuming this? Unfortunately, even on my great journey, the facts of the matter were not explained to me in detail, so I still see certain things unclearly.

...

Quetzal:

74. But this does not change anything, because we are just as compact and present in this dimension of ours as we are in that of our Pleiades systems, because we are descended from this dimension and also from your dimension.

75. Why we live in a parallel dimension on Erra and in our Plejades systems, in general, is due to the fact that the Pleiades systems are not habitable for us in this dimension, your dimension, and could not be made habitable by our ancestors either, because the system for habitation is still much too young for us in this dimension.

Billy:

Your explanation is plausible, but what is the nature of the Pleiades system in the other dimension? Is it as solid as our Earth?

Quetzal:

76. It is a parallel dimension, that is what I said, therefore matter is also of the same strength as the Earth's matter.

77. The dimensions are simply different in their structure, but not in time and space.

Billy:

... But tell me, Quetzal, can you also penetrate other dimensions with this old box?

...

It makes me wonder whether you can also travel to the past and the future with Menara's ship?

Quetzal:

83. It is possible ...

...

88. But – – – where do you want to go?

Billy:

To Frisco, my son, to San Francisco, but to the future. Namely, to the time when the city was destroyed by the great earthquake. ...

...

Quetzal:

91. ... it takes several hours if I want to go there with you.

92. This old ship, I do not have another one available at the moment, needs a longer preparation time, after which you will only be back in normal time at dawn.

Billy:

It does not matter, because you can bring me back at about the same time as you got me out of bed.

Quetzal:

93. That would be possible.

Pleija:

19. You are surely still able to remember that in autumn of last year, a flying object unknown to us appeared, which responded to none of our calls.

20. To this day, we still have not been able to get a hold of it either, even though it still moves in the earthly space.

21. So far, if we tried to get a hold of this object, it regularly escaped by retreating into a dimension unknown to us.

Quetzal:

54. Thus, if you want to get to know more of this, then you must strive yourself, in which case you should very wisely use the Sohar Centre {see the last entry here, a meditation area at the Semjase Silver Star Center}.

Billy:

I wanted to anyway for a long time, because I would like to try a leap into the past.

Quetzal:

55. You know how very dangerous that can be?

Semjase:

1. If he has planned something, then he does not let himself be deterred even by the greatest dangers, which you should know, nevertheless.
2. Perhaps it will then simply be the case that we have to go searching for him somewhere between thousands of years, if he miscalculates or is hurled incorrectly by some circumstances.

Billy:

Well roared, my child.

Semjase:

3. Then at least enlighten us before your doing, into what time and area you want to leap back.

Billy:

Okay, I promise.

Billy:

Ah, by that, you mean the UFOs that showed up recently in Italy and Australia and in various other countries?

Semjase:

3. Sure.
4. These flying devices are obviously constructions of a very well-developed technology, which is not yet so advanced, however, that they could move into our refined areas of communication.

Billy:

By that, you probably mean, at the same time, your somewhat different physical structure, right? By that, I mean even the dimensional difference, through which you, in a moderate measure, exhibit different and much finer vibrations compared to us Earth worms.

Semjase:

5. Sure.

...

Billy:

Then just not. But is it right, now, if I have calculated that the Creation's expansion rate, for the initial period, was 44,069,497.5 kilometres per second, with a steadily constant half-life rate of almost exactly 6,347,755,102,040 years, from which the results arise that the expansion rate of the Creation at its universal beginning was 147 times the speed of today's speed of light constant, but this speed decreased with a half-life of 6,347,755,102,040 years and continues to decrease, so the starting point of today's light constant lay at a speed of 344,292.9 kilometres per second, but through the already elapsed portion of half-time, it has already dropped by 44,500.4 kilometres per second, whereby the present and current light constant of 299,792.5 kilometres per second arises, according to which an original light-year, from the starting point of the current light constant, of around  $1.390 \times 10^{15}$  km has amounted. This means, according to my calculations, that the constant of one second of the initial period of the expansion rate must have been 147 times faster than the constant of one second today, because at that time, around 46 trillion years ago, the speed of light was even 44,069,497.5 kilometres per second. From this, it also arose in my calculations that one second has, in each case, exactly that number of chronons that the light constant of one septillionth of a millimeter contains in itself because a chronon has a length of 105 septillionths of 140 mm and because exactly that number of chronons is able to pass a certain point, from the source to the fade-out of a beam of light, as the speed of light contains in itself – so in the present case, around  $20.394 \times 10^{30}$  chronons per second. This was even easier to calculate since I knew that space and time are dependent on each other; therefore, both time holds space in itself as also space holds time. From these results, however, my acceptance has arisen that through the transformation and lowering of the speed of light by the half-life, also space and the chronons change themselves, according to which, then, normal space would have to change itself to hyperspace and the chronons would have to change themselves to tachyons, which continue to exist in hyperspace as the smallest units of time at their own, old speed, according to which the oldest tachyons would, therefore, have to have a speed of 44,069,497.5 kilometres per second in their own hyperspace. It also became clear to me that each dwindling away of a half-life creates its own hyperspace; thus, already seven different hyperspaces (7 half-lives =  $7 \times 6,347,755,102,040 = 44.434 \times 10^{12}$  years) would have to exist in our universe. Furthermore, it also became clear to me that time travels into the past or future can only be associated with this fact, because somehow, the travelling object must be manipulated in such a way that the flow of chronons is steered. So for example, if tachyons with a speed of light higher than ours and present in hyperspace or normal space would be stored around a travelling object, then it would be hurled into the past, while a flow of chronons below our current speed of light must have a journey into the future as a consequence. This has become clear to me, but the HOW, that has remained a riddle to me. It is now also clear to me that the chronons can only stay and move in normal space, while the tachyons only move in hyperspace. This, then, along with many other things that have become perceptible to me, about which I would still like to say nothing today, however, because I am not yet sure of the results. Ah yes, what could still be said: According to my calculations, after the end of the next half-life, our light constant would have to be 172,146.45 kilometres per second.

...

Billy:

I would still have a few more questions: Is it right that the absolute hyper-light-constant lies at a value of  $10^{7000}$ , as Sfath once explained this to me?

Quetzal:

40. That is of correctness.

41. At the same time, it concerns the constant in the space of the Absolutum of Creation, so the highest speed of Creation and the Creation's expansion rate at the origin.

...

Billy:

So it is, therefore, also true that the expansion of the universe takes place all-dimensionally and spirally, where the shape, then, resembles a somewhat round egg?

Quetzal:

47. Also that is of correctness.

Billy:

... Then I have a somewhat complicated question: through various calculations, I have, another time, encountered the fact that something cannot be right with the dimensions of our present, from this to the Centaurus groups as well as to Lyra and Vega and even to the Pleiades. According to my calculations, these suns and planets addressed – of which there was already often talk between Semjase, Quetzal and me as well as between Ptaah and me – would really have to be in other dimensions, as it was said to me repeatedly. This would, therefore, actually mean that their Lyra and Vega human beings, and still some others, are just as non-existent in our present dimension as also the Pleiadians and the Centaurus human beings. And if my calculations are right, then you all would have to live just a fraction of a second in the future to our space-time configuration, which for us, however, results in a difference of several thousand years, with regard to technological development. But how this is connected, that is a riddle to me, and it could even be very difficult to understand. But Ptaah once spoke of the fact that on that or on a planet of the Centaurus groups, a people lives in overpopulation, which comprises about 120 billion, so these, then, would have to live in the future, as seen by us. On the other hand, I also calculated that at that time - around twenty-two million years ago, when the events took place in the Lyra and Vega area, which eventually led to the visits to our Earth - at that time, through some skillful manipulation, the Lyra and Vega refugees fell into the past and so penetrated into our space-time level. With certainty, this was no so-called chance but rather a full calculation. This arose from my contemplation of the fact that the technology of your ancestors was already so widely developed at that time that these would have tracked and found the refugees with certainty. But since that was not the case, the refugees must have retreated into areas that fell outside of the control of the pursuers. But concerning this, there are only two possibilities, namely the past or the future. But as I know the things now, the refugees were not able to venture into the future, so only the past remained open to them, to where they then actually also retreated. And because the past comprises millions of years and even billions of years in a life-potential form, the pursuit was given up, but this, in turn, means that the technology of your ancestors was not yet developed so far that they would have been able to carry out detections in the areas of the past or the future. But I now know from Ptaah's Great Spacer that this is possible for you today and that you know how to locate any structural vibration in any area of the past or future within seconds on the basis of computer analyses.

Menara:

195. How did you reach these results?

Billy:

Through various calculations, when I grappled with the expansion rate and, thus, also with hyperspace, normal space, and with time, as well as with the pertinent information and remarks from Semjase, Ptaah, Quetzal, and Asket.

...

Menara:

201. I now suppose that you will even understand the issues surrounding space shifts and time shifts, when I explain this to you in detail, about which you would have to preserve silence, however, under all circumstances.

48. The objects observed and photographed by you come from the Andromeda areas, and these are fine-material flying objects – similar to the bio-organic flying objects that you know.

49. In this case, however, it is such that these flying objects are fine-material and not bio-organic and that these, depending on preference and need, are generated by powers of consciousness from a very highly developed, human dwarf race, whose size amounts to approximately 70 cm, whereby I speak of body height.

50. This race {Nabulanians}, which is even unknown to us, is fine-dimensional and stands in the advice of the High Council, which has sent it here to clarify our interests with you in detail, because it was found that we would not assert ourselves strictly enough.

9. The few human races in the area of the Cassiopeia constellation in another space-time configuration are well-known to us, but they have no resemblance to the life-forms mentioned in this letter.

13. Among these facts is the further complication that both of these races of human life-forms exist in a different time plane in relation to the Earth, like I said, so separated from the time plane that is known to the Earth human being and in which they live.

14. So when the human beings of the Cassiopeia constellation one day master space travel, they still will not be able, for a long time, to penetrate into the time plane in which the Earth-humans live their existence.

Billy:

And in our time plane known to us, no human life-forms exist, who would be capable of space flight in Cassiopeia, i.e. in that area?

Semjase:

15. Sure, there are human beings there, but these are not yet advanced in space flight or are not yet so far advanced that they could carry out journeys through universal space.

...

19. To these facts, there is still to add that many of the space-traveling races that come to the Earth are not resident in the time plane known to the Earth-humans.

Billy:

Ah, we already spoke very often about space-traveling human races that do not belong to you and which come, nevertheless, to the Earth. In which time plane do they all belong?

Semjase:

20. It is different for each.

21. To mention all of them would be difficult and time-consuming.

Billy:

Then let's say, for example, the humans of the area of Alpha Centauri, then Reticuli, or whatever it is, then...

Semjase:

22. The first ones live a tiny fraction of a second shifted from the Earth-time plane, so therefore, they cannot be reached by Earth inhabitants before they master time-travel.

23. The second human race you mentioned also does not live in the same time plane as the Earth-humans.

Billy:

... Yes, recently, I had a video rental. Its title was "The Final Countdown." The story goes that an American aircraft carrier was driven by a magnetic storm into a dimension gate and was hurled from the year 1980 into the year 1941. Then, by an accident, so to speak, a crew member of the ship stayed behind in 1941, while the aircraft carrier returned to the year 1980 again by a new magnetic storm and by the dimension gate. Now, in the film, the left-behind crew member, who was approximately 30 years old in 1980, logically lived on from the time of 1941. This seems to be rather logical to me according to my knowledge. Now, however, comes what can no longer be logically placed into reality: the crew member left behind in 1941 pursued the outlet of the aircraft carrier in 1980, and this man, who would have had to become 69 years old in the meantime, could see himself as he went about as an approximately 30-year old crew member on the ship, which then transported him, via the magnetic storm, into the past. According to this story, he would have been left behind in the year 1941 and then would have witnessed his own birth in 1950 and then would have lived parallel with himself for thirty years, so once young and once old.

Semjase:

91. That is impossible.

Billy:

Precisely, nevertheless, it is impossible if both want to live in the same time plane – both who are, nevertheless, only one person. The one staying in the past of 1941 would have had to die in 1949 at the latest, after which he would then have to be born again in 1950. This is so because the spirit form of the man is the same one at both times of his life, right?

Semjase:

92. That is very clearly explained.

93. So it behaves in reality.

Billy:

Well, such a coexistence of life would only be possible if two different dimensions existed.

Semjase:

94. That is right.

Billy:

Good, then this case is clear. Then to the next one: many people are of the view that they could do different things in the past and change the future if they had the opportunity for a journey into the past. But according to my knowledge, this is impossible because the future and the apparent present have already happened, that is, because the events of the future follow from the ones that already occurred in the past. Therefore, a man could not travel, for example, into the past to kill his own father or mother. He was begotten and born by a mother. Therefore, if a man returned to the past to kill his mother or his father still before his birth, then this past-traveler could have never been born. Is this right?

Semjase:

95. Sure.

Billy:

Good, so far so clear. Everything would be a paradox. And just to get around such a paradox, one would have to switch off the laws of space and time, so such a journey to the past can never take place in the way that the time-traveling person also actually arrives in the same material plane that exists in the past. And this also applies to the future. However, this also means that space and time are different in their expansion and in their speed in the past and in the future, which has the consequence for the time traveler that he penetrates into another dimension that is not handy for him materially. He could, indeed, live in this other dimension and exist if the living conditions there allowed it, but he could not enter into connection with the life-forms there if he did not have special aids for this. He would remain virtually invisible to the life-forms of the past or future, or he could be recognised, at most, as silhouettes. Am I properly oriented there?

Semjase:

96. Your explanation corresponds to the facts.

Billy:

So this also means that with the events of the film, "The Final Countdown," a certain logic does, indeed, play along with them, but in truth, the one staying in the past obviously could not have lived on in material form in the normal time plane, even if he would have then skillfully died in 1949. He only could have lived on in an invisible form or, at most, as silhouettes in the next possible time dimension during the time from 1941 to 1980, but not in material form, as this was given from 1941 to 1980, when the young man was born and was later launched with the ship into the past. Is this also right?

Semjase:

97. Surely.

Billy:

Ah, now it starts to take form. Now, if people or machines and such travel into the past or the future, these are invisible there to the people or other life-forms living there, although the time travelers can live there if they find suitable living conditions. This is in contrast to when people or machines simply penetrate into parallel times and, thus, into parallel dimensions, which are temporal and spatial and are, thus, exactly materially the same as the time plane from which the time travelers came. This is so even if such another parallel dimension was created somewhat sooner or later than the one from which the time travelers came. It is just important that the spatial and temporal relationships are exactly the same, right?

Semjase:

98. Why do you always ask me if you have sufficient knowledge about this?

Billy:

I just want to be sure. Well then: time travel into the past or future is always other-dimensional than the past or future itself. Now, however, the possibility exists, as I know from Asket and from you and was also allowed to experience myself, that there are technical possibilities for one to make himself visible in the past or in the future and to communicate with the life-forms there. However, this can only happen if the matter of the time traveler is condensed by technological devices or by consciousness forces to such an extent that the life form becomes visible as a body of energy, which one can pass through, however, because it remains, in any case, differently dimensioned. Did I say this right?

Semjase:

99. Surely.

Billy:

So next: the aforementioned relates to time traveling with the aid of purely natural or technological processes, as they are known to human and other life-forms or will one day become known, according to their level of development. Time travels, therefore, offer no possibility at all for changing any events, which already happened in the present or future, in the past. To these forms, however, there is still to be added that a time travel exists which comes about via pure consciousness-related forces and, by which means, it is possible to materialise oneself in the past or in the future, but for help in each case, the matter of the past or of the future must be taken. Nevertheless, a life form only becomes strong in this ability if he/she is accordingly developed in his/her consciousness-evolution and lives out the necessary love for that purpose. This means that such a life form is no longer capable of committing illogical violence against the laws of nature. Thus, he/she never even enters into temptation any more, if he/she travels to the past or to the future, to commit illogical violence, such as wanting to change the future through additional acts or deeds in the past. On the other hand, his/her logical understanding is already so highly evolved that he/she already recognises and knows that nothing more can be changed in the past that would shape the future differently than what has already happened, for the future, from which the time traveler came, has already happened as an effect of the preceding causes. If now, however, a time traveler materialises in the past or in the future and meets himself/herself there, then this will also happen in the future if he/she came from there because the spirit, i.e. the spirit form, of the time traveler from the future also materialises in the past or in the future, depending on whether the trip leads from the future to the past or from the past to the future. This happened, for example, when I traveled with Asket into the past and then also into the future, and it also happened when I performed the experiment in Hinwil with the letters, which I then carried in the past, two days before the date of writing, to the post office.

Semjase:

100. That is all correctly explained; it is just that for the Earth-humans, everything will be very confusing and incomprehensible.

Billy:

I have already often experienced this because for normal-thinking human beings, these things seem to be confusing and crazy. I have also noticed this in each case when talk was made about time traveling, which I performed with you. Time and space are still inexplicable to the Earth-human, even though everything is easy to understand.

Semjase:

101. That is understandable because the Earth-human still has no great knowledge about space and time.

102. But on the other hand, you yourself have forgotten another important factor in your explanations, namely that time traveling can also be carried out in a materialised form in the past or future with technological assistance.

103. Just as we have demonstrated it to you.

Billy:

I have not forgotten that, and on the other hand, I even spoke of it when I mentioned time traveling with the help of consciousness forces.

Semjase:

104. Sure, but that technological aids can become highly effective time-traveling missiles through the power of consciousness, you did not mention this.

...

Billy:

Then that is also good. In regards to this, that was actually everything that I had to say about time traveling, except that now, I have the problem that we have talked too long, and nevertheless, I promised to be with my guests again in about 30 minutes. But now, 1.5 hours have passed, and somehow, I ought to be back again at the right time.

...

Semjase:

112. Then we will go back in time about 75 minutes.

Billy:

That is enough, then I can possibly go back into the kitchen again at 12:30 AM.

Semjase:

113. Then now, position yourself here.

Billy:

What is that?

Semjase:

114. You would say that it is a time transmitter.

Billy:

There are all kinds of new stuff in this new ship. Can you explain this in a little more detail once?

Semjase:

115. Not today.

Billy:

I agree with you, but I would still have a question now: when you restore me back to time in each case, this is, once more, another kind of time travel. But how this works, I have not yet found out with all my contemplating. It is only clear to me that this type of time travel has nothing to do with forms, of which we have spoken just now.

Semjase:

116. I will explain this to you once in detail, when everything is in place.

117. But about this form of time travel, you may give no one information.

Semjase:

10. The Universe is divided into seven units, i.e. rings or belts that, entirely together, form the whole Universe, and all of these rings are rotating against each other and have different diameters and an ovoid shape.

11. These seven rings, which we call belts, are the following:

12. 1) Central Core,

2) Ur-Core Belt,

3) Ur-Space Belt,

4) Solid-state Matter Universe Belt,

5) Transformation Belt,

6) Creation Belt, and

7) Displacement Belt,

And we also call the Creation Belt the Creation Matter Belt or the Expansion Belt, and the Displacement Belt, the last and extreme, embodies, according to your sense, a bumper belt.

13. Now, the Solid-state Universe is that part of the Universe in which the new births exist, so the nascent stars, etc. with all their life forms.

14. This real Solid-state Universe is calculated from the end of the Creation Ur-Core's outer wall up to the beginning of the outer wall of the Transformation Belt, which exhibits a half diameter of 7,869 octillion light-years and is, thus, the next largest belt after the Creation Belt.

15. In addition, the outer wall of the Transformation Belt is where this belt collides with the inner wall of the real Creation Belt, also known as the Expansion Belt or Creation Matter Belt.

16. So this is that space which embodies the Solid-state Universe and is so called because in these three areas, the coarse-material becomes existent and is existent, and the course-material becomes existent in the Transformation Belt only by a transformation from remains of the penetrating Creation Belt, which are converted into course-material from immaterial energy.
17. This is the real Solid-state Universe, which consists of the Transformation Belt, the Universe Belt, and the Ur-Space Belt.
18. In addition, the Transformation Belt exhibits such a gigantic mass and is the next largest belt to the Creation Belt because it is responsible for ensuring that in the space created by the Expansion Belt, the transformation of fine-material energies into course-material takes place, and at the same time, time itself appears and becomes existent.
19. Already in this Transformation Belt, time begins to run into the past, from which aging originates.
20. This means that in this Transformation Belt, chronons begin to exist, then are aging and becoming tachyons and are representing the past. By the way, tachyons may be proven by the terrestrial scientists in a short time.
21. At the same time, the speed also decreases from the Transformation Belt in an irregular manner but in a certain half-life.
22. The irregular decrease in speed, which amounts to 147 times the speed of light in its starting point and expansion point, comes about through mutually self-influencing and different time streams that have already changed in their speed.

Quetzal:

2. An Intrablock is not a device but rather a state between two dimensions.

Billy:

You still see me, unfortunately, in futile non-understanding.

Quetzal:

3. An Intrablock is identical to:

4. A dematerialised state between two different dimensions, whereby the energy of the dematerialised body remains as an independent energy block in itself, without mixing with the surrounding energy.

Billy:

Aha, now this is understandable. Apparently, the whole thing is connected to time-travel?

Quetzal:

Billy:

Good, then I have a question regarding so-called UFOs, which are truly none at all. As I know from you, the so-called flying objects that are considered UFOs are often observed in the day as well as at night. At night, it is often observed that these so-called UFOs light up and are vibrant in their intensity and also variable in colour. On the one hand, you were able to make it understandable to me, with tangible evidence and through my personal observations, that these sometimes deal with bio-organic flying bodies that are truly other-dimensioned life forms that, as a rule, can be captured on infrared film and that penetrate from other dimensions into our dimension area, in order to romp around here somehow in earthly airspace for playful and whimsical reasons. You also explained to me that these bio-organisms {"Rods"} are completely harmless and that they always return back to their dimension. But on the other hand, you have also spoken of the fact that similar phenomena appear in terrestrial airspace, but these are purely terrestrial in origin.

Billy:

Today, I first have a question about your space-time configuration, which is practically another dimension, but which is equally directed to ours and, therefore, is therefore equally material. Our universe is called the DERN universe, how is it with our dimension and your dimension, what do you call these?

Quetzal:

1. We denote your dimension with the term Goran, while we call ours Siras.

Billy:

Aha, and these two dimensions, respectively these two different space-time configurations, are materially identical in their buildup and existence?

Quetzal:

2. That is of correctness.

...

Billy:

But in contrast, you explained that the Earth's moon penetrated from your space-time configuration into ours and then into the SOL-system, in which it allowed itself then to be captured by the Earth as a satellite.

...

Quetzal:

5. The Moon found its way out of our space-time configuration at an early time and penetrated into yours, after which it was held by the Earth by its force of attraction and orbits around the planet since that time, deviating more and more from the Earth, and it still influences the Earth's rotation today as it did at the very beginning and, thus, creates a braking effect.

Billy:

Do you know of even other universes than the DAL Universe and ours? With this, I do not just mean other dimensions or other space-time configurations in our DERN Universe but actually other universes, so foreign ones that do not belong to our two twin universes.

Quetzal:

44. Actually, we have already concerned ourselves scientifically with foreign universes for a long time, but so far, we have not been able to gain any concrete insights that would enable us to penetrate into such universes.

45. We have knowledge and proof of the existence of foreign universes, but it is still impossible for us to break them open; Therefore, we can presently only visit the DERN's sister universe, ie the DERN's twin universe and, thus, the DAL Universe.

...

Billy:

Semjase once explained to me, in response to one of my questions, that antimatter is real and that this was already discovered by your ancestors more than 50,000 years ago and has been used by you since that time as beamship propulsion. Since then, have you researched and developed new techniques for this?

Quetzal:

51. Of course.

52. Negative matter, as we call antimatter, has already been used by us for fifty millennia for all sorts of purposes, and of course, so much other research was connected with it and still is, therefore, new insights will also constantly be won and will create new ones, with which negative matter is brought to application or is used.

Billy:

... the Sirius regions, from where the refugees broke out, were in a different space-time configuration, and the refugees settled in another space-time plane, simply in our space and our time, which was a foreign area to the Sirians and which could not be found by them up to this day, for on the one hand, there are simply too many of the most diverse space-time configurations in the entire Universe, and on the other hand, the Sirians did not have the Henok-technology of the space-time exchange. But now, two specific questions about this: first of all, do the distant descendants of the Sirians from their other space-time configuration, or from their other space-time plane, still presently search for the refugees of Henok's line, whose most distant descendants are some of today's Earth-humans? And secondly, are the distant descendants of these Sirians in a position today to penetrate into other space-time configurations? ...

...

Quetzal:

75. But still, they also developed their technology further in every form, consequently, they also became capable of changing from their space-time plane into another.

...

78. Unfortunately, they also arrived into the possession of the technology that enables them to change into the most diverse space-time planes, so even into this one, in which the SOL-system exists, which they have, indeed, found after centuries of searching.

...

86. Unfortunately, we are not able to catch these extraterrestrial 'Black men' elements because they always vanish into a space-time plane whose coordinates we cannot detect and cannot register, for quite obviously, these Sirius renegades have a coordinate-distorter or otherwise have a possibility to distort the coordinate data, whereby we cannot capture them and cannot get a hold of the offenders.

...

88. We have to wait until they make a mistake or until our scientists find a possibility to decipher their coordinates upon the disappearance of the renegades into another space-time plane.

The electromagnetic radiations, which are known to our earthly scientists, are called gamma rays, X-rays, ultraviolet rays, light rays, infrared rays, microwaves, short waves, ultra-short waves, and radio waves, and to my knowledge, gamma rays exhibit the smallest wavelengths and radio waves exhibit the largest. But now, you already told me some time ago that there are still other rays, and indeed, in addition to the radioactive radiation, also neutrino radiation, electron radiation, and also tachyon radiation. 36. It concerns space-time convulsions, which we also call space-time quakes.

112. Until then, however, it may be possible for the two of you to travel with our latest achievement and get to my daughter, with our latest transport system, with a transmitter that has made it possible for us to reach any and even the farthest point in no-decompression time, if there is a counter-equipment there, so a transmitter receiving station.

113. Through different relay stations we can reach any point in the universe.

114. However, these relay stations are necessary because we do not yet have transmitters with unlimited range.

115. Nevertheless, we do not need any time to get from one point to another, except for the time it takes to get from the receiving transmitter to the radiating transmitter and to program the new coordinates of the new target.

116. But even this programming by station will soon be a thing of the past, and so will the switching from one transmitter to another, because soon it will be possible to program the final destination at the output transmitter and the individual relay stations will automatically carry out the next programming together with the onward transmission, so that no more time is required for this either.

117. Over the next three years, our scientists should be able to put into operation a transmitter apparatus that no longer requires relay stations, but has an unlimited range and is designed in such a way that the transmitter can radiate a receiving transmitter to any and even the farthest target in the universe, where it materializes by a certain sequence of impulses and in which all goods and materials, forms of life etc. radiated to it materialize.

118. At present, however, a chain of relay stations is being created which itself extends into the DAL universe, making it possible to reach the DAL universe from Erra with a delay of only 14 minutes.

...

Ptaah:

410. To answer your question, however, I would like to explain to you that our ancestors discovered the principle of electron energy, which is present on all planets and stars as well as in all forms of life, as well as in inexhaustible form in the entire universe.

411. We make use of these electron energies even today just as our early and later ancestors did, only that we make energy transformations and are incomparably advanced in the use of these energies and their application as well as in the technology required for them than our ancestors were.

412. Tachyon engines as well as ray engines and antimatter engines, and our newest means of transportation with transmitters are based on electron energy, which we have been using for many millennia in ever more perfected form.

413. Also the cosmic-electromagnetic life energy, from which any form of life lives, is a product of the never-exhaustible electron energy of the universe.

414. Also any form of existence, no matter what kind, lives from it, even the spirit-forms, even if their energy is infinitely finer.

Billy:

Aren't electrons also vibrations?

Ptaah:

415. That's right.

Billy:

Aha, then an electron impulse engine should actually operate in such a way that it finds a hold on the electrons in free space itself, at which it can repel itself and move by its own oscillations. A perfect perpetuum mobile, so to speak, if one knows the technology and is able to apply it. This also explains why your spacecraft never lack energy, neither in free space nor on a planet. Also it dawns on me slowly that you can regulate and apply the redirection of light to make your flying machines invisible, but probably also the phenomenon that you can also fly in an air envelope with unlimited speed without being fried by a friction heat, because if you protect your ships or other flying bodies with electron oscillations, with an electron oscillation mantle so to speak, then no more the slightest friction can arise. Is that right, or am I right?

Ptaah:

416. You amaze me as always.

...

Billy:

Without a doubt, these skrills are human beings, even if they are completely vicious, brutal and bestial and incredibly sex-hungry, males as well as females. The horror of these differently dimensioned beings is only that they are completely degenerate and capable of switching from their dimension to other dimensions, whereby they then attack and rape people in the other dimensions. It is a good thing that this does not happen very often and that people of other dimensions, such as our dimension, can only clear and pave the way for these skrills through psychological misconduct. By this I mean that these skrills can only penetrate into other dimensions and work there if other humans of this dimension clear the way for them by self-destructively driving their psyche to malfunctions and thus psychically collapsing.

...

Billy:

I know that, but my question and speech doesn't really get that far, but it refers to the star system, which is shifted by a fraction of a second to our time and space. All the liars, swindlers and deceivers as well as the sick and lunatics don't know what you call your star system. In order to make it clear to the Earth-humans from where you come, we always said until now that you would come from the Pleiades, which is why we always spoke of this cluster of stars, also in reference to your home system, which is shifted to our space-time level. So your space-time structure is a fraction of a second shifted to ours, which means so much that on your Plejades you are living in a completely different space-time structure than we are here in the SOL system, although you are materially aligned as we are here in our space-time structure. Now the actual question: Is it possible that humans on Earth are so far evolutionary that they could break through the split-second space-time barrier between our and your space-time structure consciously, telepathically or spirit telepathically in order to maintain contact with humans or spirit-forms etc. from your space-time structure?

Ptaah:

768. That applies with absolute certainty only in one case, and that is with you.

769. Otherwise no human or material life-form lives on Earth that would be capable of such contacts through the space-time barrier.

770. Almost three millennia will pass before the first humans on Earth will be able to do this.

...

Billy:

Do you know if any of your people constantly, periodically or sporadically change from your space-time structure into our space-time structure to do any work or to maintain contact with people from Earth, whereby I don't mean you and all those who have to do with me or in relation to the mission, but whose number to know would be extremely interesting?

Ptaah:

772. I can fully answer your question:

773. In this or in your space-time-structure there are at the moment 16 persons each in a fixed cycle, who are on Earth as mission-related and missionary representatives and who are exchanged in a fixed cycle.

...

778. Otherwise no people from our space-time structure come into your space and into your time, consequently never any contacts of any kind could be maintained by such persons.

Ptaah:

424. They {other extraterrestrials who may one day make official contact with Earth} will also not yet be able to grasp our dimension in which we live and exist.

...

427. If the mentioned contacts actually take place, but what is really questionable for the next decades, then Earth-humans will enter into connections and alliances with Earth strangers, into which we may interfere according to our laws in no case and under no circumstances.

428. This means that we must then withdraw into our dimension and no longer be active on Earth.

Ptaah:

53. The planet Amateban is in a system of our space-time structure, which we call Harkomen and which belongs to our federation.

Ptaah:

8. My task was to create a colony on an uninhabited planet called KATHAN in the space area IDAM, known on Earth in this space-time structure as the Spiral Nebula NGC 2997, at a distance of 45 million light-years.

9. I was also busy in the space area NOSIR, where we also founded a new colony.

10. This also happened on an uninhabited planet called NASADAN.

11. The space region NOSIR is a galaxy which is 16 million light-years away from the SOL system in this space-time structure and which is referred to as M 83 in earthly astronomy science.

...

Ptaah:

163. He {Andron} has some tasks to fulfil on the planet CANADIN.

Billy:

So – ha, and where is this planet speeding through the world space, if you may ask?

Ptaah:

164. About 161,000 light-years from Earth, in a system we call NARANKA.

Billy:

You are once again sparse with information. What is the galaxy called?

Ptaah:

165. SUNDAJARIS.

166. It is known to earthly astronomical science in this space-time structure as the neighbouring galaxy 'Magellanic Cloud'.

...

Billy:

Well, then I would like to know what your new travel and transport options are. How does this transmitter system work, and how long will it take to get it up and running?

Ptaah:

204. Do you see this little device integrated into the chest of my clothes?

Billy:

You mean this little matchbox-sized thing?

Ptaah:

205. Yes.

Billy:

It's hard to tell that from the clothes. Without my flashlight I couldn't see it at all. It doesn't stand out at all.

Ptaah:

206. This enables me to generate a transmitter gate by thought power, through which I can simply step through, after which I am already at my destination without any loss of time, even if this is billions of light-years away.

207. More precisely, I have to concentrate my thoughts in such a way that they are picked up by the device and amplified in such a way that the resulting forces create the transmitter gate through which my transmission to the destination is made possible.

208. The system is not yet fully operational and usable, but we are constantly experimenting with it by transporting objects, etc., in this way for testing purposes.

209. The required target data are created by the personal knowledge of the destination, which is then mentally programmed by the device, whereupon the transmitter gate is created, in the form that the destination appears as a gate into which one can directly enter and is immediately at the destination.

210. If the destination is unknown to one in such a way that one knows it neither by picture information nor by a personal being there ever, then mathematical coordinates are sufficient, which one enters into the device by thought power and which must be known to one naturally.

211. If you like, I can give you a small demonstration of the possibility of such a transmitter gate.

212. However, you must promise me that you will not let yourself be carried away by your indomitable thirst for adventure and that you will simply step into the gate, because it is not yet fully developed for human transmissions and can therefore still be dangerous.

213. The danger is still that transmitted objects etc. do not reach their destination, but disappear somewhere untraceable and not retrievable between the dimensions and thus get lost.

...

Billy:

Would it be possible for you to open the gate to Quetzal's house where the fountain is at the pond?

...

Fantastic – two steps, and I would be on Quetzal's terrain on Erra; ah, look, Quetzal's Ulrak passes. By the way, where did he get this little cattle from? And can't that suddenly enter the transmission gate and get lost here?

Ptaah:

216. It's an animal that lives on Erra.

217. It can't get here, because the gate is only visible from here on the one hand, but not from the other side, and on the other hand it can only be used from this side.

218. This has been designed for safety reasons to prevent unwanted life forms from passing through the gate.

219. If it were different, it would be very dangerous.

220. On the other hand, the gate can only exist as long as it is thought to exist.

...

Billy:

And how far is this gate visible here, I mean, if there's someone up there on the street looking over here. Can you see it then?

Ptaah:

222. There is no danger, because the transmission gate is only visible on a few steps.

223. Go back only once three steps, then you won't see it anymore.

...

Billy:

And – is this technique of transport then the absolute ultimate for all time, or is a further development still possible?

Ptaah:

226. The development only ends where the power of consciousness alone is sufficient to transport oneself and materials of all kinds by teleportation or telekinesis from a point of departure to a specific destination, without any technical aids being required.

227. This also means that you do not need any spacecraft etc. to move from one place to another or to transport materials from one place to another.

228. The next development, however, will be to find and use the means to move from one place to another without a transmission gate, and to do so solely by the power of thought, which is technically amplified in such a way that a teleportation can be carried out that can bridge billions of light-years as well as the technology of transmitters that is now emerging.

229. Nevertheless, even then the spacecraft will still be needed, which will also be further advanced in development.

Billy:

And everything is based on the speed of Creation, 107,000 times the speed of light. Even with the present transmitter gate this cannot be any different.

Ptaah:

230. That is not quite correct, because for the time being it is based only on 21,000 times the speed of light.

231. Besides, the speed of the spirit should never be reachable by technical means.

Billy:

The size of the gate is about 2 metres by 90 centimetres and ...

...

... For a human, the gate is just good in size, but what if a larger gate is needed, such as for large goods and the like?

Ptaah:

233. The size of the transmitter gate can be customized according to your needs.

234. This is done by a simple command, mentally directed to the gate generator device.

Billy:

Fabulous. It really could not be simpler. But what happens now, if somebody takes over the transmitter gate generating device without authorization, is there perhaps a safety device, as you use it with your weapon tools, that only the owner of the device can use it, because it is tuned to his thought frequency?

Ptaah:

235. That's what you say.

236. This alone guarantees the best possible security, so that no one can use the devices for unfair and nonsensical purposes without authorisation, should they fall into unauthorised hands for any reason, if we are active on worlds whose people cannot yet be expected to use such devices.

...

Billy:

Well, now you also have devices and the like, which look like a simple piece of metal or plastic etc., without these being recognizable as devices or apparatus etc., but in which there is a high-quality super-mini-electronics, which again is not recognizable as such, if you cut the metal or the plastic, because everything is poured into each other.

Billy:

... I would gladly like to know how far you have progressed with the technology of the new transportation systems. ...

Ptaah:

5. Everything has not yet advanced so far that our transportation systems would be useful for life-forms and, thus, for humans.

6. Errors still appear that demand from us that we still perform tests with some materials that still frequently get lost during transport; they probably leave from the output location, respectively from the sending location, but they do not arrive at the destination.

Billy:

Then they get lost somewhere in the dematerialized, energetic state between the place of departure and the destination. They get lost, so to speak, between dimensions or in foreign dimensions, right?

Ptaah:

7. That is right.

...

Ptaah:

55. But these facts shouldn't be so important for the Earth-humans that we would still have to talk about them in more detail or subsequently, especially since it concerns those planets of Lyra that are beyond this space-time plane.

...

Ptaah:

92. No, it is not so simple to master, to leave the material universe, the Material Belt.

93. Very great physical skills and experiences as well as quite special technologies are required for this, which are still completely unknown even to many advanced humanities, respectively civilizations, of many space-knowledgeable peoples of many worlds, as this is also the case with regard to a change of dimensions as well as regarding time-travelling.

Billy:

... It is always doubted that plejadic spaceships can fly with umpteen times the speed of light in normal space or that objects can only fly through space with approximately the speed of light without time shifts, because Einstein's theory of relativity simply forbids this. Is the assumption correct that the calculation formulas of this theory of relativity are basically correct, but only with limitations, so that they have to be replaced by other and further additions in the end? In my opinion this should be the case, because if I consider that certain galaxies drift apart at approximately the speed of light, without time shifts arising, then it would have to be so for this reason alone – quite apart from my own experience, which I was allowed to experience and make through you during my Great Journey and during other occasions.

Ptaah:

75. Your assumption is absolutely correct, but I am not allowed to give any official details about it and therefore no information.

...

Billy:

... would it be possible to learn more about the origin and propagation of time streams in the universe?

Ptaah:

78. I have to give you the same answer here as well.

...

Billy:

This was also the case about six years ago with Kohan's people – on the planet in the Centauri area, which had 120 billion people and which is somewhat delayed to our time and space.

Billy:

... I am referring to the fact that unidentified flying objects do not only come from our space-time continuum, but also from other dimensions. ...

...

Ptaah:

71. If we consider a further form of terrestrial flying objects, which are considered UFOs and which are not of extraterrestrial origin, then we have to speak of those flying machines which originate from the terrestrial future in terms of their dimensions to the space-time continuum prevailing here.

72. So we are dealing here with flying bodies of earthly origin, but built in a dimension of the future on earth, whereby Earth-humans living there in the future have found the ways of time travel, whereby it becomes possible for them to travel back into their own past and thus also into the present time on Earth.

73. So these visitors are not extraterrestrial intelligences either, but also inhabitants of Earth, whose technology is many centuries and sometimes even thousands of years ahead of the present time of Earth-humans and in the future.

74. Further forms of unidentified flying bodies concern life-forms that are actually extraterrestrial and that also belong to this space-time continuum prevailing here.

75. Such life-forms with their flying objects visit Earth only very rarely, except for three different races, which have been flying to Earth for a long time, apart from us Pleiadians of course.

76. Furthermore, Earth is also approached here and there by extraterrestrial human life-forms, which happens however extremely rarely and is to be counted often in decades or in centuries, who come with their flying objects from parallel spaces and/or from parallel planes to the space-time continuum predominant here, like e.g. we ourselves, who live in a parallel space, which is shifted, fractions of a second, attached to this space-time continuum predominant here.

77. It ...

Billy:

Sorry to interrupt. On the one hand, you talked about earthlings who live in the future and visit Earth from there. That's what you call time-travellers!

Ptaah:

78. Of course.

Billy:

But what should we call those who simply come from parallel spaces?

Ptaah:

79. According to your sense we simply call it transfer or parallel transfer.

Billy:

So nothing that would be complicated to say. But just go on with your explanations now. Does it actually happen frequently that people with their flying machines come to us from parallel spaces and come to Earth?

Ptaah:

80. No, that's very rare, apart from us and our allies.

81. In contrast, however, it is more common for bioorganic flying objects to appear in this space-time continuum, not only on Earth, but also on many other inhabited and uninhabitable world spheres.

82. So we can observe such bio-organisms, as we call them, also on our worlds, whereby we do not know however yet exactly which kind these life-forms are now.

83. The dimension changers, as we also call them, are larger and smaller airworthy, bioorganic life-forms, which are often fluorescent or very brightly radiating and located in a parallel space or parallel universe.

84. In their way they are absolutely harmless and even playful.

85. They often appear individually or in smaller groups, ranging in size from a few metres to several hundred metres in diameter.

86. They live in a parallel space that we have not yet been able to access, whose data we know well, but into which we have not yet been able to penetrate in form in order to establish communicative contact with these forms of life.

87. It is about the same with the malicious skrills, with which we can hardly communicate, but which are not flying objects like the dimension changers, but which can only move on solid ground and live in a parallel space.

...

Billy:

... But may I ask a question about the name of what you call your system beyond our space-time continuum? Together, we always speak of the Pleiadians, by which we mean only the distant and punctual place from which you come, for instance, while you name your system differently in our time-shifted parallel space. Can we perhaps now speak openly about it and name the right name, which is almost identical to Pleiadians?

...

Well then I will now officially say that you call your star system Plejaren, but you name the system suns and the planets equally, as we call the stars of the Pleiades in our space-time continuum.

...

Billy:

... But there is a question that relates to statements of Asket and Semjase: The two spoke in their time often of the fact that an atomic destruction of the earth, etc., could create disasters that would affect other universes. Somehow, however, the worm seems to be in these statements, because I cannot imagine that other universes can be affected by a planetary destruction.

Ptaah:

123. This is also true, because such destructions have no influence on other universes if they are outside this Creation universe.

124. This is what you mean by the worm, which is apparently given in the statements of my daughter and of Asket.

125. But the two spoke not of foreign Creation universes, but of this universe's own universes, into which very well destructive effects are possible, if planetary or galactic destructions take place.

Billy:

Oh well, you mean that Semjase and Asket each spoke of parallel universes and thus of other space-time continuums that are located in our Creation universe.

Ptaah:

126. Right.

Billy:

Then all is well. The matter was simply unclear. – So large format destructions in our material universe can also have a destructive effect on other space-time continuums or parallel universes. I did not know that. What happens there basically or what can happen there?

Ptaah:

127. The barriers between different dimensions are torn, whereby the destructive forces can spread into other dimensions or even into other universes or space-time continuums and act there.

Billy:

... From Henok's primitive peoples two lineages divided out, after the great reparations actions after the peace struggles by the peace troops were over and all peoples and planets were pacified. One lineage went its long way to the Lyra regions, where they settled in a space-time continuum offset by a fraction of a second by another space-time continuum, where they lived from then on; but only after they had inhabited other worlds and systems in various other areas of foreign galaxies for many billions of years, as a result of which warfare then again developed. In this episode again space-wide emigrations of peoples were carried out, which finally ended in another space-time continuum, which is shifted by a fraction of a second to our space-time continuum, whereby the area was located in the space of the Lyra stars, which is why today one still speaks of the Lyra regions and of the old Lyrians, which then returned to later time again partly expeditionary and partly hasty into our space-time continuum, in whose consequence they came then also to Earth, in order to work here in known way, in order to work here in known way. This lineage has retained the entire knowledge of their original origins to this day, and this lineage also gave rise to the Pleiadians respectively the Plejaren, who in their language call themselves the same as they call their celestial cluster beyond the Pleiades, which is also shifted a fraction of a second in relation to our space-time continuum in another space-time continuum. ...

...

... The populations of today's Sirius regions, which are located in space-time configuration offset to the earthly dimension ...

...

... This retreat opened the way for the old Lyrians to Earth and to Earth-humans, when these came out of their space-time continuum expedition- as well as escape-moderate into our space-time continuum and into the SOL-system and thus to Earth, in order to play themselves here with the time likewise as deities and to cause disaster. ...

...

There comes a time when, with the weakening of the Sun's nuclear fusions, enormous changes will take place in the SOL system. Not only will the entire gravitational field be out of control and change, but large scale climate change will also be the order of the day. This is spurring scientists on to peak performance, because they want to counteract the negative effects of the sun, which, in contrast to erroneous scientific assumptions, appear much earlier over many millennia than previously assumed. Only now it is recognized correctly that the sun is a dying star and thus the setting of the SOL system is already determined, even if the sun will continue to exist still approximately 4.1 billion (4,100,000,000) years, however then already as dead star, which is swallowed then after this time by a black hole and is destroyed. So the scientists begin to perform at their best – and find the miscalculations underlying the pi number. By correcting and now correctly calculating the pi number, the scientists and the incredibly sophisticated technology will be able to harness unimaginable energies for Earth, by making it possible for them to derive energies from black holes in the wide area of the Milky Way and make them usable for Earth. At this time, however, scientists will still not be able to reach the centre of our galaxy to tap into the black hole there. However, this will not be necessary for the time being, because the surrounding objects for energy generation are completely sufficient to serve Earth. This new energy production as well as the kind of the energy itself, make it possible from now on for the terrestrial human being to develop new space travel forms, in whose consequence and extension also that travel and transport factor becomes reality, which in the year 1995 and all time before as well as still long time into the future is called fantasy and impossible i.e. the time-travel. This invention, in turn, enables man to travel into the past and the future, as well as into the vastness of the universe, which was previously impossible. In this consequence it naturally cannot be missing that new human life forms are discovered, extraterrestrials, from which Earth-humans will learn very much and unimagined and which are around uncommonly much more intelligent than the humans of Earth themselves. ...

...

In the prophecies, predictions and visions that have been made so far, it has probably been said that man on earth will discover and invent time travel and break up the dimensions of the future and the past. However, it was not said that various other dimensions would be discovered and found and that undreamt-of possibilities would be opened up to man. However, there will also be many dangers associated with this, both physical and caused by intelligences of foreign dimensions.

...

... A third group left our universe, the DERN-universe, and penetrated into the twin-universe, into the DAL-universe, where the people multiplied and united with many other peoples to form a huge federation, as it also happened with the Pleiadians/Plejaren, whose federation exists offset to our space-time continuum by a fraction of a second and covers an area of about 70 million light-years in diameter, whereby also some few federation members respectively federation planets are located in our space-time continuum. ...

...

Ptaah:

133. The film and photo material of UFOs made in all the years worldwide and especially in America and South America as well as in England etc. does not always show extraterrestrial flying objects, but also such strangely working flying machines, which are manufactured since several decades by terrestrial humans on earth, as well as flying bodies, which come from the terrestrial future or which are known as bioorganic flying bodies with us, which are the so-called dimension changers, life forms, which penetrate from another dimension into the terrestrial airspace.

...

Billy:

Your world-monitoring control disks, what about them – do they remain stationed around the world?

Ptaah:

182. All these control apparatuses have already been removed, so only the one intended for the centre still exists.

183. But it is no larger than 7 millimetres in diameter and 3.2 millimetres in thickness.

...

185. The control apparatus also contains transmitters and receivers and associated image transmission equipment, which transmit everything at multiple speeds of light to a control point near our dimensional passage at a star far beyond the Pleiades cluster, in order to reach our space-time structure and thus our dimension from there through a dimensional transmitter.

...

Billy:

You are once again silent tight, my friend – you mean probably that certain earth visitors of other worlds outside of our solar system could get hold of your information and find the way into your dimension?

Ptaah:

189. That is the meaning of my words, yes.

190. At least from a group of such intelligences we know that they are capable of changing dimensions in such a way that they could reach our dimension, which would be unpleasant.

Billy:

... And now I have a question that has been on my mind for years: Other dimensions and other universes – do the same physical laws apply in them as in our universe and in our dimension?

Ptaah:

140. No, that's not the rule.

141. The laws of physics are different in other dimensions and universes, if they are not aligned to the DERN universe, i.e. to our universe.

142. There must therefore be a rectification of the nature of the universe and its age, as is the case, for example, with the DAL universe, which is known to embody a twin universe of the DERN universe.

143. If the same laws of physics are to prevail in other dimensions or universes, then all their physical concerns must be aligned with those of our universe, otherwise other physical laws are given.

...

Billy:

Then I now have a question that has preoccupied me for a long time: Why did practically all your ancestors choose solar systems and worlds to live in, which are in a different space-time continuum than we are here?

Ptaah:

165. Extrasolar planetary systems in solar systems in this space-time continuum of the DERN universe can be found relatively few, because they are extremely rare.

166. In the dimension in which we and all the other Henok lineage groups live, on the other hand, there are many solar systems in which planets are also classified, and which are also capable of carrying a variety of life.

167. Already our earliest ancestors travelled the dimension time-shifted to this space-time continuum, in which we live, consequently it is known to us and all Henok lineage groups since ancient times.

Billy:

What does that mean in relation to planetary solar systems?

Ptaah:

168. In this space-time continuum of our DERN universe, many planets probably exist in many solar systems, but they are extremely thinly arranged in relation to our dimension, if I may say so.

169. This means that the many planetary solar systems lie very far apart in this galaxy, the Milky Way, while in our dimension and in our galaxy many solar systems with planets lie very close to each other or are arranged more closely to each other.

Billy:

So this is caused differently depending on the dimension?

Ptaah:

170. Right, because in every dimension of a universe there are different prerequisites and often different physical laws, as I already explained to you.

Ptaah:

32. The sun Alkyone in our space-time continuum have no planets, therefore no humans can live on them.

Billy:

One moment, please, before I forget: The aliens you mentioned, who are supposed to contact Earthlings in the near future, do they have any knowledge about you and your dimension?

Ptaah:

100. No, in no way.

101. They will have neither knowledge of our presence here nor knowledge of our home dimension and our home worlds.

...

... there actually are still enough cases of UFO observations that undoubtedly rest upon such really-occurring extraterrestrial, and partly also other-dimensional, flying devices which have nothing to do with the Plejadian/Plejaren, and their confederates, rather they belong to other worlds and civilizations. ...

... Silence was maintained regarding what the UFOs effectively were, namely extraterrestrial, and partly foreign-dimensional, interplanetary flying devices controlled by crews foreign to Earth.

...

Billy:

... Well, here I have another question concerning the destroyer: Semjase told me pretty much at the beginning of our contacts that the destroyer has been doing his mischief in our solar system since time immemorial and destroyed about 22 million years ago or so old homeworlds of the Lyrans. To my knowledge, however, these lay in a different space-time structure, shifted by a fraction of a second to our space and time. How is it there that the destroyer came after the destruction work with the old Lyranern into our space-time-structure?

Ptaah:

164. The Destroyer then broke through a space-time barrier created by the ancient Syrians, as we still use it today, but in a modernized form, as you would say.

165. At that time, these passage or dimensional gates, as we call them, were constructed in such a way that they opened as soon as any object approached.

166. This also happened as the Destroyer approached, who through unfortunate circumstances came to one of these dimensional gates, shot through and entered this, your space-time continuum, then found his way into this solar system.

167. Today this would no longer be possible, because our passage gates from one dimension to another or to the DAL universe have already been constructed and secured for several million years in such a way that they are probably constant in one place, but only open in response to very specific impulses emitted by our spacecraft.

168. So today it would no longer be possible for a world body to pass unintentionally through one of our many dimensional gates.

172. The development and construction of this fuse took place as an urgent need after the incident when the destroyer of our ancestors was unintentionally able to change from one space-time structure to another.

Billy:

... The bioorganic flying objects; can these life-forms take on human form and in this form, for example, come into contact with terrestrial humans?

Ptaah:

83. No, this possibility is not given to them.

84. Nor are they of any human-like nature, but pure energy bodies capable of transformation and dimensional change, which appear as floating forms of light energy in one or the other dimension, are able to change their light intensity, but do not have any form of conscious consciousness.

Florena:

29. It's not that strange, because at least the group of these foreigners who were up to no good in the first few years {“Men In Black”} are prevented from appearing on the Centre-grounds themselves by a reporting system we installed.

30. However, if they were to try this, which was the case several times before, we would immediately take action against them, which they find extremely unpopular, so they disappear without a trace, without us being able to decipher their flight coordinates for their leap in time, because they are so cleverly coded and torn that we are not able to decipher them even with our best technical means, which is also the reason why we have not yet been able to put their evil handicraft to them, as you like to say.

Billy:

Then again a question: The unknown flying objects, the so-called UFOs, which are sighted more and more frequently in all countries, sometimes even in larger arrangements, and which are also sighted in larger numbers, all concern the same place of origin?

Ptaah:

46. No, that is not the case, because there are several different places of origin from where the flying objects come.

47. Besides, not all are at home in your space-time-structure, because as we noticed, Earth is also visited by differently dimensioned flying objects and beings that do not come from your space-time-structure.

Billy:

Can one also speak of future visitors?

Ptaah:

48. Yes, that is the case.

Asina:

5. As usual, we are on an expedition, and since the Earth serves us well as a stopover to our next destination, we have moved into your time by a leap in time.

Billy:

Aha, I suspected something like that when I saw the lights in the sky. I assume that you jumped out of your dimension directly into our time and we became aware of you just at the moment you were materialized, and I assume that this must have happened about 200 kilometres away from our Centre, somewhere in the north and over German territory.

Ptaah:

97. My area of responsibility lies in our own space-time structure, about 60 light-years beyond the Mekbuda region known on Earth, which is about 1550 light-years away from Earth.

Billy:

... In the parallel dimensions, does time run parallel to our time? I do not mean the time that is determined by the human beings of the different dimensions, but the time that is determined by the universe and the time-streams.

Ptaah:

31. The purely universal time is uniform in all dimensions.

32. Differences only appear in dimensions of the past or the future, and only in the form of a time shift to the present time.

Billy:

Which means that in the past as well as in the future universal time remains uniform and only the time shift to the present is of significance.

Ptaah:

33. Right.

Billy:

Then a further question, which is obviously still unclear with different group members: To my knowledge and understanding one must consider the terms dimension and space-time-structure as a value. So dimension also means space-time-structure and space-time-structure also means dimension. Am I right, or have I explained it wrong?

Ptaah:

34. You know that your explanation is of correctness.

Billy:

... Now, I would like to ask about what technology and energy source you actually use for your intergalactic and planetary communication. As I know, your technology is aligned in such a way that there is no loss of time during communication, not even when this is carried out across millions and billions of light-years. Can you explain something about this to me, or is it all a secret?

Ptaah:

83. We use the technology of negative speed, by what means a signal is already manifested at the destination through corresponding communication devices before the actual transmission or sending of the signal has even begun.

84. Thus, the signal already reaches the goal upon input of the signal.

85. The sending distance is unlimited and, therefore, extends throughout the whole Universe.

86. The energy sources, for which you ask, are actual signal carriers, by which everything is linked together throughout the whole Universe and through which the cosmic communication of all things, all life, and all existence takes place.

87. These energy sources are not detectable and are not at all usable without suitable and high-precision auxiliary apparatuses.

88. For the human eye, they are completely invisible, and they have the capacity to penetrate any matter irresistibly, and when I say any matter, I mean it, for no matter or antimatter exists throughout the whole Universe that could not be penetrated by these energy sources that travel billions of times faster than the speed of light with unimpeded speed.

89. These faster-than-light energy sources are sub-neutrinos.

90. Our technology allows us to equip these with signals, which also happens with billions of times the speed of light and has the effect that the signals spread like lightning throughout the whole Universe, and indeed, indefinitely in all directions.

91. In order, then, to catch the signals, special and highly sensitive sensors are necessary, through which the signals are then transmitted to an equalizer and deciphered.

Billy:

Our science knows about neutrinos, however.

Ptaah:

92. That's right, but I am not speaking of the neutrinos that are known to the earthly scientists but of sub-neutrinos, concerning which the scientists of the Earth do not know that they exist.

...

Ptaah:

99. The personal protective shields function in the same way as the protective shields of our aircraft.

100. Any energy hitting them is converted and reinforces the shields, by what means they become absolutely impenetrable and indestructible.

101. Also, any matter hitting the protective shields, including firearm bullets, etc., immediately turn into pure energy, which the protective shield takes in and absorbs, strengthening it.

102. Larger objects, such as large meteors or comets, on the other hand, are only partially dissolved into energy, while the largest part is hurled away by the impact on the protective shield.

Sfath {1945}:

145. The following for my person, you should already know this, will be from 1953 a young woman from the DAL universe, where you will certainly be taken once.

146. The name of the person you meet will be Asket.

147. She is a member of one of our branching peoples, some of whom are still at home in the lyra and pathas systems, but shifted to this space-time level by a fraction of a second as well as our space-time structure, in which our plejar systems exist.

Ptaah:

8. That is not a need for us because ultimately, our most distant ancestors were responsible for the fact that the traveller {the Destroyer comet} could penetrate into this space-time configuration and could arrive into the SOL system, for at that time, they did not have their dimension gate under control.

Billy:

Of course, one can also look at it in such a way. – Here is another question. Regarding the Sirians who at that time presented Sfath with their pear-shaped space ship: did that concern a people who, here on the Earth, is called "Nommo", and did those who provided the gift belong to the genetic manipulators?

Ptaah:

9. A people called "Nommo" is unknown to us, and indeed in our space-time configuration as well as in yours.

10. My father Sfath received his flying device as a gift from a Sirian people who are called Samanet.

Billy:

Did these people have something to do with the genetic manipulators?

Ptaah:

11. No, that is not the case.

12. With the Samanet people it deals with a people who live in a space-time configuration which is not identical with that in which the genetic manipulators live.

Billy:

Does it deal then with our space-time configuration?

Ptaah:

13. No, that is not the case.

Billy:

Then, in 1976 Semjase, your daughter, also did not speak of two solar systems of the planets of Sirius in our space time configuration, rather of a completely different one?

Ptaah:

14. Certainly.

15. We always only speak of the constellations known to you in your space-time configuration in order to show, in terms of direction, approximately what the talk is about in regard to the space-time configuration spoken about by us.

Billy:

Aha, and how does it stand then with that in regard to inhabited systems in our space-time configuration?

Ptaah:

16. Then we also do not speak of another space-time configuration or of other dimensions.

Billy:

... During a conversation with Quetzal in the eighties, it was once mentioned that you do research on the refraction of foreign universes, which means that you want to construct or construct a trans-universe transmission gate that enables you to advance into another universe, which is not a parallel universe like the DAL-universe or a sister-universe, but effectively a foreign universe. And if you succeed in this, Quetzal said at the time, then it should be possible for you to advance into many other foreign universes. At that time Quetzal spoke about it, it was 1987 or so, as far as I know, that it would take another 15 years or so until your research and the corresponding technology had progressed so far that one could talk about it again. The question now is, has all the research and construction progressed so far that everything is nearing completion? And what about the other project, the transmitter gate through which I can go to Semjase one day, as you promised me?

...

But what about when you have finished the new technology with the Trans-Universe-Transmitter-Gate or Trans-Universe-Transmission-Gate, as it was called by Quetzal, is there a chance for me to be taken with you and your giant space traveller to one or more of the foreign universes?

...

When I think that I was not only the first and so far the only human being on Earth to be allowed to visit the Plejaren and the DAL universe and now I am to be given the opportunity to be taken into a foreign universe or into several of them, then I could go directly megalomaniac. But if that really happens, then I will probably be so overwhelmed by everything that I will only become small and ugly.

Billy:

DERN universe and DAL universe or DERN creation and DAL creation, what does that mean, I mean DERN and DAL?

Quetzal:

22. The meaning is given in an ancient language that goes back to Nokodemion.

23. The wording is as follows:

24. DERN-universe or DERN-creation means: "Dajansini ern ruan nitrapralano", which means: "Creation that unveils itself".

25. DAL-universe or DAL-creation means in the ancient language: "Dajansini arg lasergnoralin", which means: "Creation as second born".

Billy:

... Now and then earth humans from our future come into our dimension and thus into our space-time continuum, as you explained to me on my Great Journey. Also the Skrills and bio-organic flying objects, two special species, penetrate into our dimension from a dimension affiliated to us. Does this also apply to other humans of other dimensions who do not belong to you or to the Earth from the future?

Ptaah:

139. That is the case, yes.

140. But such occurrences are very rarely observed by us.

Billy:

And what about strangers from outside our DERN universe coming into our universe area from an alien universe, apart from Asket's race from the DAL universe?

Ptaah:

141. Something like that is not known to us.

142. Even our very extensive monitoring and constant checks have never revealed anything that would indicate such events.

Billy:

There's no possibility?

Ptaah:

143. At least it's extremely small, because outside of our DERN-DAL twin universe we are mostly surrounded by universes that are only subtle and therefore much more highly developed than our two universes.

144. This is also the reason why we cannot break into these universes.

Billy:

So you have already explored this. Interesting, but how are you supposed to get into another material universe, as you want to do? It's a mystery to me. Somehow you should be able to create a highly concentrated energy channel through the subtle universes, something like a wormhole that goes through all the higher evolutionary universes to a lower, material creation universe, as stated in Nokodemion's teachings. But you cannot reach its memory banks.

Ptaah:

145. Amazing what you know about this.

146. Apparently you have more knowledge in these matters than you ever mentioned to us.

147. Your explanation corresponds to the actual facts, but I must confess to you that our own scientists did not gain the knowledge and find the solution to be able to enter foreign universes.

148. The truth is that we have obtained the knowledge and plans and formulas etc. elsewhere.

Billy:

This can only be the very advanced humans of Asket's friends. But when will the enterprise that is to take you to a foreign universe take place now, and when can my jump to Semjase through the transmitter gate take place?

Ptaah:

149. There is nothing to hide from you.

150. However, with regard to your question, I can assure you that at least my journey to the foreign universe we have already determined, which is a universe of creation like ours, will take place this year.

...

155. We have already transported a transmitter station into the alien universe through the energy channel you mentioned, in order to create attempts to get test objects transported back through this station, which we transport to it through the energy channel.

156. All the experiments in eight hundred thousand ways have been flawless, and without the slightest malfunction.

Billy:

Is this technology identical to the Gate, through which one can bridge immeasurable distances in our universe simply by passing through it?

Ptaah:

157. No, it's not the same technical achievement, because the technology by which an energy channel can be used by an alien universe of higher energetic form is a much higher evolution of the technology than the one you address with the transmitter gate.

Billy:

Of course, it's understandable. For my part, I have not dealt with Nokodemion's technology, nor have I retrieved the relevant data. For reasons of principle, I have been content with simply informing myself about what is necessary to be able to enter a foreign universe of creation and how it can be managed to penetrate or bridge higher-energy universes or forms of creation, etc. Of course I was interested in this information when you told me some time ago that you would soon be making a journey to a foreign universe, as your technology was already so highly developed that it now allowed such a journey.

Florena:

20. For my part, I am to order from Ptaah to you and all group members that he sends his greetings to everyone and that he and all his companions are well and that no problems have arisen.

21. Meanwhile he has penetrated into the material part of the universe, as I told you earlier, they have not yet found any life forms of any higher kind.

22. Finds of life-forms are limited so far only to micro-organisms.

23. Furthermore it is a first universe resp. universe of creation, like our DERN-universe.

...

Billy:

And the universe adjacent to our DERN-universe, what form is that – could that already be fathomed? A channel had to be created through it, which is probably called a wormhole here. In any case, it must be something that falls within this framework.

Florena:

25. The adjacent universe, which we have not yet named, as well as the one where Ptaah is not located, is a higher universe, a central universe, which we cannot travel to.

26. Since it is dimensioned differently in its evolution than our DERN-universe and its dimensions, we are only able to create an energy tunnel through it in order to reach the other side of the universe where Ptaah is located.

27. So what you call channel, we call energy tunnel.

Billy:

Ptaah is over there with his giant room – and it must take enormous masses of energy to create this tunnel and maintain it – and how do you create this energy?

Florena:

28. That is correct.

29. Ptaah is in the alien universe with his wide-bodied flying machine.

30. The energy for the creation of the energy tunnel and its maintenance we get from a 'black hole', as you call it.

31. Other sources would be far too small in every way to generate the necessary energy.

Billy:

Could you make a comparison?

Florena:

32. I am not familiar with this field, but I know that the energies needed per second include several times the mass of energy, as you call it, that a sun like the one in your system releases in one second.

Billy:

As a layman in physics, I am afraid this is a closed book. But it gives me the notion that an enormous mass of energy is needed, which we on Earth are probably not yet capable of producing by any means, right?

Florena:

33. That is absolutely correct.

34. Such enormous energies cannot be created by pure technical means, as they are available to terrestrial human beings or even to us.

35. In fact, gigantic cosmic objects are required for this purpose, which must also be inexhaustible in their energy supply, as is only the case with a 'black hole'.

Billy:

Can any kind of 'black hole' be used for this purpose, i.e. a stationary or a moving one?

Florena:

36. In principle the energies can be used by everyone, but for the specific purpose of the energy tunnel only the energies of a stationary 'black hole' can be used.

37. In the case of our energy tunnel, however, we do not use a simple 'black hole' to generate energy, but a twin structure, by which I mean two similar 'black holes' that are close to each other and allow their energies to flow into each other.

Billy:

Whatever interests me: What is to be expected in terms of life and physical matters in the alien universe?

Enjana:

25. According to the latest information, no human life forms have been found yet, neither in a more highly developed nor in an original form.

26. On several occasions, however, very low life has already been found.

Billy:

You mean microorganisms?

Enjana:

27. Yes, and in many different forms.

28. But higher life must already exist in this universe, because different amino acids etc. were found.

29. Ptaah expects that sooner or later he will also encounter human life.

Quetzal:

10. He {Ptaah} reported that many new things were discovered which are unknown in our universe and which must have developed and changed and dissolved at the earliest times.

11. The calculations showed that the foreign universe in its total existence is 22 trillion years younger than our DERN universe.

12. The material belt, and thus the visible material universe, has a current age of 9 billion years and is therefore much younger than ours.

13. Apart from micro-organisms, diverse small life forms and a planet with primeval human life forms and all kinds of small, medium, large and very large animals as well as air and water beings, no highly developed life forms have yet been found, by which I mean beings of the human species.

14. Probably it will still take a long time before such life is found.

15. As has been shown by the discovery of the primeval human forms, highly developed beings must therefore also exist.

Billy:

Let's be surprised at the possibilities that lie ahead. Have you actually created a name for the alien universe yet?

Quetzal:

16. A provisional name was given, but in the meantime, according to Ptaah's proposal, the name RADERN universe has been established for the foreign universe.

Billy:

I see, I see, I see. What does this designation mean?

Quetzal:

17. Of course, you cannot know that.

18. The term RADERN refers to the abbreviation of 'Rane Alinu-Dajansini ern ruan nitrapralano'.

Billy:

Right. Very interesting, but I am standing like a donkey on a mountain, because apart from 'Dajansini', which means Creation, and 'Nitrapralano', which means unveiled, everything is like a Bohemian village to me. Unfortunately I cannot understand more. And how is everything written?

Quetzal:

19. I understand.

20. In our written language, all nouns are written with capital letters, as is every word at the beginning of a sentence.

21. You can take the German written language as a model.

22. The name 'Rane Alinu-Dajansini ern ruan nitrapralano' comes from the old language of Nokodemion and means: "New foreign creation that unveils itself."

{Note: A summary of the findings of the expedition into this foreign universe is given in Contact Report 345 with additional details given in Contact Report 449.}

Ptaah:

21. Nevertheless, I cannot exclude the possibility that they could have been bioorganic missiles of different dimensions, which, as you know, are harmless life forms from a neighbouring dimension and which can usually only be photographed by infrared cameras or recorded on infrared film.

Ptaah:

83. And should it be that in the coming time other alien beings find their way to earth in such a way that they establish open contact with earthly humanity, then we will withdraw definitively into our space-time structure, because our directives are aligned in this form.

Billy:

Ptaah:

49. The direct ancestors of the yellow races, as the races of China and Japan are called with you on Earth, came to Earth 25,994 years ago – counted from today on – and settled in the areas of today's China and Japan.

50. Their very distant ancestors were at very early times or millions of years – like the white, red and brown races – partly refugees from the Sirius areas, which were shifted to the Dern space-time structure.

51. The yellow races first settled in distant regions beyond the sun or central sun, where they founded large races in the Nisan system on a planet called KUDRA and created a huge overpopulation.

52. As a result – in addition to the fact that the planet was slowly becoming uninhabitable – a great emigration took place about 2.4 million years ago, with large masses migrating and settling in the Lyra systems on this side of the central sun, on a neighbouring planet of Lasan.

53. Their planet was called NISSAN.

54. These systems and planets in the Lyra regions were also offset to our space-time structure by fractions of a second or seconds, whereas the Nisan system and its planets – thus also Kudra – beyond the galaxy belonged to the Dern space-time structure.

Ptaah:

46. In the last century, only one unintentional contact took place in South America whereby the space travellers came from another space-time structure from the region of Alpha Centauri.

...

Billy:

... Another question regarding your federation: You once said that it stretches over many dimensions or space-time structures, and over 50 million light-years. May I ask you, how many different dimensions your federation consists of?

Ptaah:

...

88. And it has to be said in regard to our federation, that it is spread out over three dimensions, and that our two dimensions – ours and yours – are included.

Ptaah:

11. The great space ship which at that time suffered a breakdown and was destroyed, out of which the so-called Tunguska event resulted, belonged to a people who live in a distant galaxy in your space-time configuration.

Billy:

... But tell me: Have you discovered anything new about the fact that such strange things happen to us in the Center, such as things which disappear without a trace, without having someone visible taking them away? A few days ago, Eva put two photographic slides on the box for me, and without anyone being able to take them away from us, they simply vanished without a trace, as did the book – at that time which was placed in the bookshelf, as we both saw on the recordings – just suddenly, from one moment to the next, disappeared without a trace, never to reappear, as have many other things, too. Also, it is indeed inexplicable that Guido's alarm clock regularly runs backwards if he has it here in the Center, but normally runs forwards when he has it at home again. And now, the same phenomenon also occurred with a second alarm clock, which he brought with him. Also, there is the matter of when I write something on the computer and then later something completely different is expressed and it often has the opposite of that which I have written, or that entire paragraphs or individual words disappear or are altered, which is just as strange as many other occurrences which go along the same lines and have already often created irritation. And this has been going on for years, and it looks as if any number of goblins, were such to exist, want to drive us mad.

Ptaah:

33. This is certainly not the case, because goblins are mythical creatures which have never existed, as you have immediately corrected your remark.

34. We cannot explain all these incidents either. However, I have a suspicion that any number of human entities from another dimension are making mischief – perhaps out of the terrestrial future, whereby a justification for that, however, appears to be extremely puzzling.

...

42. Should people of the Earth's future be in on the act – which more likely to be excluded, nonetheless is still not completely ruled out – then the grounds for the whole thing could rest in the fact that, in the future, your mission will conflict with certain things in a group's plans, for which reason they are trying to hinder or falsify certain things in the Center, in their past, which is your present time.

Ptaah:

25. Reptoid, respectively, reptilian beings, as these are described in the nonsensical books, exist even less in the entire universe than they do in other dimensions of this universe, so however, also not on the Earth - also not in forms of transmuted humans.

Ptaah:

16. Our very extensive research on all planets known to us and inhabited by human life of various kinds in extensive areas of your galaxy, as well as in our space-time continuum, has not been successful.

Billy:

This probably includes the dimension gate, which you are probably still working on, right? Here, on television, there is a series running that is called "Star Gate," which is roughly comparable with your dimension gate. Only, its appearance and function are a little different than what you showed me three times. In this science fiction on television, a large ring is used, which is equipped with control symbols, and in front of this, there is a kind of control panel. This in contrast to your mechanism, which needs nothing of the sort, but which is set into operation just by a small device on your overalls, out of which nothing appears like a gate flickering at the edges, i.e. a passageway, through which one recognizes the other dimension or the area, etc. that exists beyond the gate. The whole thing works as though one would look through a window or through a door that would have simply been placed in the open countryside.

Ptaah:

26. Yes, this gate is also among the achievements of the Sonaer, with whom we have developed it.

27. And in addition, it is to be said that the whole thing became so functional a few weeks ago that it can also be used perfectly and safely for the passage of humans.

28. We can move back and forth through it, both in the present time as well as in different space-time configurations, i.e. dimensions.

Billy:

And can you also go to the DAL Universe with it?

Ptaah:

29. That is not possible for us, but our engineers and scientists are working together with the Sonaer, in order to make this a reality.

Billy:

Then another question about the foreigners, who have already circled around here on Earth for a very long time, as you say, and with whom you cannot enter into contact: is it possible that these unknowns may come from the future, perhaps from other planets or even from the Earth itself or else from another dimension?

Ptaah:

30. We have also thought about that and have come to the conclusion that this may very well be possible, both the one and the other possibility.

31. The Earth-humans will undoubtedly create the possibility of dimension traveling in the distant future, which we have not investigated, however.

Billy:

And why have you held back in this connection?

Ptaah:

32. We only operate our past and future travels and previews under certain conditions, but not just to know the distant or most distant future, which is why, if necessary, we limit ourselves to a maximum time of 100 years for future investigation, while no boundaries are set for travels to the past.

33. We don't want to know the distant and most distant future for logical reasons, for we know that only the path of normal development leads to the real and right goal.

34. The reason for the limitation of future investigation is so that the present is not influenced as a result of knowing the future, which would disturb the normal course of development.

35. Such a disturbance wouldn't be good because the appearing causes of the ongoing development would naturally be changed and be distorted, which would cause a disaster as an effect.

36. It is not like what many Earth-humans suppose, that something could be changed for the better if the facts of the future would be known, for logic proves that the person acts totally incorrectly if he knows the effective future, for he thinks that he could cause something better than what is determined by the logical consistency of cause and effect.

37. This is proven by the absurd ideas of Earth-humans, who think that if they travelled to the past, they could change what has already happened in the future.

Billy:

I understand, like those who believe that they, for example, could travel back in time, could kill Adolf Hitler and, thus, could prevent World War II and all its horrors. This means that the person always wants to be cleverer and more knowledgeable than what the effective truth and reality are.

...

...

Ptaah:

...

43. First of all, we Plejaren and our confederates live in other space-time configurations, into which no normal telepathic impulses of Earth-humans or other inhabitants from this, your space-time configuration, can penetrate.

44. A penetration into our space-time configuration from yours is only possible through spirit telepathy, but no Earth-human is capable of this except you.

...

55. And after your being, we withdraw ourselves finally into our space-time configuration, without ever having to return, for we fulfilled our obligation that was assigned to us by your former personalities and by you at present.

56. Only the old, assigned obligation led us to the fulfilment of duty in this space-time configuration, in which you lead your life and fulfil your difficult mission.

57. Only in the very distant future – when Earth humanity has progressed so far on a technological basis, in order to be ready to penetrate into our space-time configuration – will they encounter our worlds and civilizations and be able to take up contact with them.

Ptaah:

34. And that you have never seen this shape, size and intensity of light before, that is because it is a completely new flying apparatus with many innovations, including the type of light.

35. This new type of flying apparatus allows us to use the recently launched dimension gate, as you call it and which we have been calling it since its completion, as we have adopted your term.

36. So we can with this new technology penetrate into other dimensions and other space-time structures and thus also move into the future and into the past.

Ptaah:

20. This is definitely not the case, because our new and extremely accurate devices, which we received from the Sonaern, are much more advanced than ours, but even with these devices we could not detect any other extraterrestrial or Earth foreign flying objects of any kind in the entire terrestrial space.

21. The new devices also work in a very extensive range of fine material as well as dimension-jumping vibrations, but even in these areas we could not detect any other Earth visitors.

Ptaah:

5. We were only later able to clarify the facts about the Pegasus-refugees, when the whole story about the Gizeh-Intelligences clarified.

6. The refugees belonged to a splinter-group of the Gizeh-Intelligences, who lived in the space-time-displaced region of the Pegasus-constellation and who had entered an alliance with the faction living on the Earth, therefore they were counted as one of the Gizeh-Intelligences and consequently were not described as special foreigners.

Billy:

... Are there any new things concerning the alien universe, RADERN universe you call it, if I remember correctly? Are there any new insights?

Florena:

34. If your question refers to new worlds inhabited by humans, then I must disappoint you, because more such worlds have not been found yet except those you already know about.

35. Like the DERN universe, the RADERN universe is also sparsely populated by human life-forms.

Billy:

I guess it is. But are you already exploring other space-time structures in the new universe?

Florena:

36. No, we are not yet given the opportunity for this, which will remain so for a long time to come, because the necessary conditions must first be created.

Billy:

But even if you do, it will not be possible to find masses of planets with humanities.

Florena:

37. That will be the case.

Billy:

Reality is a little different than what science fiction movies make us believe that there are worlds inhabited by humans in every corner of the universe. In truth, they are extremely rare, which is why your Federation is scattered over 50 million light-years and comprises two different space-time structures, if I remember Quetzal's explanations correctly.

Florena:

38. Your memory is not deceiving you.

39. Worlds habitable by human life-forms are seldom found in all space-time structures of the universe.

Billy:

Quetzal once said that the same is true of planets that support only animal and vegetable life. Worlds on which the lowest life exists, such as microbes and bacteria, are more frequent. Such worlds could be very hot, also normal or very cold, so to speak, if there is also life that exists in or on fire planets or ice planets etc.

Florena:

40. That corresponds to our scientific findings.

Billy:

Billy:

Other than our mythologies that speak of chimeras, are there actually such creatures on other worlds?

Ptaah:

74. They do exist, but we know of only one planet where such beings exist.

...

76. They are purely human life-forms and float through the air by levitation, but also walk on the ground in a normal way.

...

79. They live in your space-time structure, on a world in the spiral galaxy which you call galaxy NGC 2770 {link}, which is about 12 billion years old.

80. This is the spiral galaxy we came to on your Great Journey through a time jump of about 90 million years back into the past, where you could observe the huge explosion of a supernova at the outer edge of the galaxy.

81. At that time, however, there were not yet higher life-forms in that galaxy.

Billy:

... You fly at a single and multiple speed of light in your spaceships, and our earthly scientists claim that this is impossible and that a spaceship can never reach this high speed, because the friction with matter, or with material space and ether prevents this. Yes, it cannot be the electromagnetic radiation by which you protect yourself from the cosmic influences and the so-called cosmic ether in order to reach the speed of light and beyond. Yes, electromagnetic radiation of all kinds has the same speed, so about 300,000 kilometres per second, so it is probably not possible that you can use it to prevent friction, so it must be something else that you can use to prevent any friction with the ether or any matter. Is there something very special that you can name, that allows you to go one and multiple times the speed of light? Is that a secret or are you allowed to say something about it? I have never asked about it before, but I am always being asked questions about it that I cannot answer.

Ptaah:

8. It is not a secret, and when I talk about it I do not give away anything with which the earthly scientists can start something, because their knowledge and ability is far from being sufficient for them to make use of it at the present time and thus cause harm.

9. So I can say that we use the photons resp. the light particles and time radiation to shield our spaceflights from the material and antimaterial environment.

10. So, we wrap our spaceflights in a photon force field and in a time radiation screen and protect them from friction against the material space.

11. The photons do not have any weight, but the mass 0, as it is also the case with respect to the time radiation, because they are both pure energy without any medium of their own, which is why they are neutral against any matter and are repelled by gravity.

12. So we make use of this, namely by enclosing our spaceflight devices in a photon and time radiation screen, so that no friction with the material space can occur, which enables us to reach the speed of light and even to exceed it by a very high multiple, because no resistance by any matter appears.

13. To explain details would be irresponsible, because Earth-humans are not yet allowed to possess these, because they maliciously use all special achievements for weapon systems and war purposes etc., which would also be the case with regard to photon technology.

14. And as far as the ether in world space is concerned, it truly does not exist, because this is a mistaken assumption of the earthly scientists.

15. That what they assume to be ether is indeed pure energy, a radiation, and this does not have its own medium and therefore no mass.

Billy:

Explained briefly and concisely. Thank you. Time radiation – could one perhaps also call it tachyon matter, which must also be without medium? Ether thus does not exist, but only radiation, which is pure energy without mass. However now the question how you can do it, to shield your spaceships against view and make them invisible for eyes and radar etc. Are you allowed to say something about this? But I think that now finally something becomes clearer to me. If you shield your flying apparatus against any material friction by a photon shield or photon protection shield, then it is probably so – so I assume – that these always light up when you have switched on this photon shield. Is that true?

Ptaah:

16. This corresponds to the actual situation, and the term tachyon matter can be applied in a certain way, but it is a time vibration or time radiation and has nothing to do with matter of any form.

17. And regarding the invisibility of our flying apparatus:

18. We can actually make our space flight apparatuses, as well as those we use in planetary airspaces, invisible to any view of any kind, by using special metallic alloys, the basis of which is, among other things, silver, as you know from the metallurgical analyses of the material of our flying apparatuses made in the USA.

19. The materials used in our flying apparatus and space flight devices are transformed and superordinate composite materials, the composition and manufacture of which I cannot mention, but I can say that we obtain everything through cold fusion processes, as Marcel Vogel in the USA already discovered through his metallurgical analysis when you gave him the metal samples we received for analysis.

20. So, when a flying apparatus, a spacecraft, a human or any other object is made invisible, it is by directing light around it.

21. The light waves are not reflected, but flow unbroken and uninhibitedly around the object, so that it becomes invisible to any natural or technical eye of any kind, also radar etc., and simply allows the background to be seen unchanged.

75. The population of the planet Akart belonged to our federation, as well as also, the population of the worlds of Proxima-Centauri and others from there and other local regions of space around there, from which several of them have come to the Earth .

76. However, all of these worlds belong in our space-time configuration, consequently they also possess several of our technologies, like for example, that technology with which they are able to bridge the time barrier and come into your space-time configuration.

...

Ptaah:

139. This is indeed the case, which is why we also use completely different techniques for interplanetary and intergalactic communication.

140. Radio and television waves have a maximum range of only one to two light years, after which they become completely distorted and become rushing, clattering, hissing and other sounds from which data can no longer be deciphered.

...

Billy:

... your interdimensional and intergalactic communication is based on a faster-than-light technology.

Billy:

... At that time, you also spoke of the Destroyer, which came from your space-time structure and which you had rendered harmless. But you also spoke of the space-walker known from the ancestors of the Celts, Sumerians and Egyptians as a destroyer. How is this to be understood?

Ptaah:

25. The ancestors of the Celts, but also the Sumerians and Egyptians used the term 'destroyer'.

26. So they used the same name as we did for the wandering planet, which entered the SOL system from our space-time structure through a dimensional gate.

Billy:

So for many thousands of years there were two such space walkers with the same names in our solar system.

Ptaah:

27. That is correct.

28. We called the wandering planet from the Kuiper Belt 'Kuiper Destroyer'.

29. The one that broke into the SOL system from our space-time structure we simply called 'Destroyer'.

30. This one, as you say, we eliminated years ago, while the other one, the 'Kuiper Destroyer', continues to orbit the SOL system.

Ptaah:

38. But we Plejaren and our Federation and the ancient Lyrians are excluded from this, because even our very distant ancestors knew the SOL system and the Earth, and so they visited the Earth millions of years ago.

Billy:

This is familiar to me, because they came to the SOL system because of the Moon, whose path they followed when it blasted out of their space-time structure through a dimensional gate into our space-time structure and settled on Earth. ...

...

Ptaah:

72. Interstellar space travel is extremely rare, as is the possibility of moving through dimensional gates into another space-time continuum, as we do and can also create such gates.

73. And it must also be said that those who came to Earth from other space-time continuums could not deliberately create and fix the necessary dimensional gates, because in fact they were only able to move into this dimension of the DERN universe through momentary natural cracks in their space-time continuum.

74. Others, on the other hand, who came from the DERN dimension, only came to Earth because they could create and use space-time gates, which is also a rarity.

Billy:

Interesting, but you never told about that, neither did your daughter Semjase, nor Quetzal. Space-time gates, are they identical to the so-called wormholes that earthly astronomers suspect?

Ptaah:

...

78. Space-time gates do not concern so-called wormholes, but rather, similar to a momentary natural crack in the space-time continuum, a crack in the space-time continuum caused by tremendous explosions or technical manipulations.

79. This creates an effect that changes the universal wave structure of the universal space, which is similar to the effect of two rooms being separated from each other by a curtain of radiation or heat, which can easily be passed through from one side to the other respectively from one room to the other.

69. Only such Earth-foreigners and future Earth-followers have come to Earth, but never any others from foreign galaxies and solar systems that did not have the coordinates handed down.
70. So others did not reach Earth, as alleged contactors lie and claim.

Billy:

This apart from the Skrills and the bioorganic flying objects and the future of Earth from other dimensions, as you say. If all the many claims about contacts between the human beings of Earth and extraterrestrials were true, then Earth would be teeming with extraterrestrials

Billy:

... What interests me now: There are an infinite number of universes, which also have different developments, i.e. they are lower and higher developed. What is your knowledge about the natural laws of all these universes, are they uniform or different?

Ptaah:

17. According to our research findings, we know that universes like our DERN-universe and its sister universe, the DAL-universe, also have the same laws of nature as the parallel universe we discovered, which we call the RADERN-universe, into which we could penetrate and explore.

18. More highly developed universes, which no longer have a belt of matter, but only consist of pure fine- or finest material energy, no longer have any laws of nature, because they are only classified as energetic-fine or finest material laws.

19. Laws of nature are thus only given in universes that have a matter belt in which such laws are active.

20. But since we only know our DERN- and the DAL- and RADERN-universes, which are all oriented in the same direction with respect to the laws of nature, we cannot say with absolute certainty, whether there are other laws of nature than the ones we know, as they exist in our DERN- and the DAL- and RADERN-universes.

Billy:

So far so clear, but there is another question that concerns me: Since there are infinitely many universes that one might imagine to be an infinitely gigantic pile of soap bubbles, I wonder why they all do not pressurize and not destroy each other. Admittedly, I know that the seventh belt, the ramming belt, serves on the one hand to allow the universe to expand, and on the other hand that two universes can align themselves like soap bubbles without destroying each other.

Ptaah:

21. Our very far-reaching knowledge says that in absolute non-space, in addition to seven Absolutum universes, there are also  $10^{49}$  different universe forms which exist in infinite numbers and which all have different stages of development, from the simple universe, as it is our DERN-universe, up to the most highly developed fine-material-spiritual-energetic universe-form.

22. But what they all have in common is that they all consist of seven different belts, also the finest material-energetic belts.

23. It is also common to them all that they are all uniformly energetically poled in the ram belt, in the outermost belt area.

24. This is the reason why all the most different universes do not interfere with each other in any way, and therefore they also do not collide directly with each other and cannot become dangerous.

Billy:

In a structure of soap bubbles there is only a thin skin from one bubble to the other, therefore in the universes the outermost edge of the ramming belt must have a specially formed energy layer, so to speak, through which practically no collision with another universe respectively with its ramming belt can occur. This outermost energy layer of the ramming belt would therefore be present in all universes in the same way and with the same polarisation and would prevent universes from being able to pressurise each other or even destroy each other, if I have understood you correctly. The only thing that can happen is that the universes repel or respectively displace each other, whereby the multi-universe expands more and more, if I may say and explain it in this way. If I have understood the whole thing correctly, then all universes, all lower ones as well as all higher and highest ones, are equally polarized in the outermost part of their ramming belts, so that they repel each other, as is also the case with magnets of the same polarity, which repel each other and keep a certain space between each other.

Ptaah:

25. This is very well explained and corresponds to the effective facts.

Billy:

Some researchers suspect that there really are many universes and that a so-called big bang has taken place in each one of them, which is in line with the facts. But scientists are not yet ready to know that new universes will continue to be created endlessly. They also suspect that the individual universes, which they compare with bubbles respectively with soap bubbles, deviate from our DERN-universe with regard to the laws of nature, so that there must be universes without stars. Of course they are right, except that in the fine- and ultra-fine energetic universes there are no laws of nature, but according to your explanation there are only fine- and ultra-fine energetic laws, so that in such universes there can be no matter-belts and no galaxies, suns, planets, meteors and comets etc. But it is well known that there is still a great deal that our scientists do not know, which is why they have to keep revising. Today they do not even know that our DERN-universe, like every other universe, also consists of seven different egg-shaped respectively oval belts and that in our universe the fourth belt alone represents the material part of the universe. They also do not know that all galaxies move in such a way that they move towards a certain point in the material universe, where a constant change takes place and where matter renews itself, so the matter belt experiences a complete renewal in the course of 49 billion years.

Ptaah:

19. However, in 1995, when we dissolved our stations on Earth, the danger still existed.

20. According to our calculations of probability, from that time on there was the impending possibility that we Pleiar peoples could have been drawn into a war.

21. As we explained to you at that time – to which we obliged you to remain silent – an attack on Earth could have taken place, namely by a large armada of space planes of a planet-wide dictatorially led and warlike multi-ethnic state from the same space-time structure from which we Plejaren also come.

22. These peoples, who did not belong to the Plejaren Federation, were very warlike and conquest-addicted in nature, similar to Earth-humans.

23. They had been constantly fighting with their own races for more than 1,700 years, and at that time they were about to penetrate the space-time structure of the DERN universe through their space technology, on the same path that also gives us the possibility to enter this dimension, where the Milky Way galaxy and therefore also the SOL system and Earth are located.

24. With us, the Plejaren, these peoples maintained constant and contentious contacts, and often warlike actions were also threatened, because the dictatorial powers of the planetary multi-ethnic state called 'Hardem' were constantly trying to invade and conquer the Plejaren worlds.

25. As a result, we had to be on constant defensive alert to these peoples – while also keeping our secrets, which were related to many things of our technology and which we had to protect – in order to protect ourselves against these ever-present aggressors.

26. But through infamous machinations they managed to get hold of the technology regarding the possibility of breaking through into other space-time structures, so they learned to master them in the course of time and also gained knowledge regarding the DERN-space-time structure and the Milky Way as well as the SOL system and the Earth.

...

29. In 1918, through some unpleasant events, they learned of our efforts in the SOL system and on Earth, in terms of Earth years, so that from then on they tried to come into this space-time continuum and to Earth, which we always managed to prevent.

...

39. This has been going on since 1996, and fortunately the 'Hardem' are making a very serious effort to grow into a completely new way of life, which in just 16 years has led to the 'Hardem' being incorporated into our Plejaren Federation protection and thus becoming a candidate for our Plejaren Federation.

40. It was only in this way that we were able to interfere in the foreign things and that it was also possible to stop the 'Hardem' from breaking through into your space-time structure and wreaking havoc on Earth.

... Skrill beings are beings that switch between their foreign dimension and other dimensions, which is why they are called dimension changers. The term 'Skrill' means 'degenerate' for the Plejaren. The Skrills call themselves 'Skrill', which in their language means 'dimension changer'. Without a doubt, the human beings are human beings, but they are brutal, bestial and extremely sex-crazed, male and female. The only horror about these other-dimensioned beings is that they are completely degenerate and able to change from their dimension into other dimensions, where they attack and rape living beings in the other dimensions. But this does not happen very often, so the human beings of other dimensions, such as our dimension, can only clear and pave the way for these Skrills by a special psychic-depressive misbehaviour. This is to say that these Skrills can only penetrate into other dimensions and work there if other living beings of other dimensions clear the way for them by self-destructively driving their psyche to malfunctions and thus collapsing psychically depressively. This, however, is so rare that with regard to a million psychic depressive human beings, it might just happen to one who can be attacked by a Skrill being. ...

1. Time is not the same everywhere, because it depends on gravity and speed.
2. In the case of a sun or a planet, time fluctuates depending on its size and distance from the centre of gravity.
3. This means that the further time is measured from the gravitational centre, the faster it becomes as it slows down, but the closer it is to the gravitational centre.
4. With moons, planets and suns etc. this concerns per year however only millionth seconds.
5. This means that near the gravitational centre of a sun or planet, etc., the time flow is slowest, while it becomes faster on the sun or planet surface, etc., as well as on mountains and in space.
6. In this respect, this is dependent on the size and mass of a body and thus on its gravitation.
7. So the more massive a celestial body is, the slower the time is, consequently it loses itself in extremely low values and even in the standstill of time with a dark giant structure or with a massive object, which tears suns, planets, other world space objects, gases and all kinds of matter into itself by its force of attraction and thereby becomes more and more powerful and massive and finally completely cancels the flow of time.
8. The enormous masses of such dark giant formations, which even tear entire galaxies into themselves and into which they cannot penetrate, but which can radiate externally through torn suns and galaxies etc. as bright spherical formations, exhibit such an enormous attraction, which is so extremely strong that no matter and no light signal can penetrate from this space area to the outside and also no time can exist.
9. Time exists only there, where solid space-structures, like evenly suns, planets and other structures are, as these are given evenly in galaxies or outside these as world space wanderers.
10. So time only exists where there are gravitational forces.
11. Where however no gravity exists, there is also no time, but only endless duration and thus timelessness.
12. The world space is also traversed by dark and mighty world space wanderers with great gravitational force, through which time streams are created, so that those who travel the world space can get into such time streams, although we are protected against their effects.
13. This is because our spacecrafts have their own gravitations and are therefore protected against external time influences – as well as against matter and radiation.
14. And we are also protected by our gravitational technique against the effects of speed, so that time does not slow down for us in the spacecraft when we move through space at very high speed.
15. And in order to compensate for the flow of time outside the spacecraft, which is caused by high speeds, we have a special technique of time travel, which allows us on the one hand to remain in the so-called normal time despite high speeds, but on the other hand also to travel into the past and future.
16. Concerning Earth, the present on Earth's surface, according to earthly time determination, lasts exactly 2.67778 seconds and is placed between the past and the future, whereby this present time is to be calculated according to the period of time during which the human brain is normally able to bring about a conscious concentration with regard to a matter.

17. However, this concentration build-up time changes, depending on the mental development of Earth-humans, as well as the amount of time changes depending on the invasion of world space material on Earth, whereby Earth also changes its gravitational strength over time.

18. The collision with meteorites and fine space material makes Earth heavier every year, by thousands of tons.

19. So in this way Earth increases in mass every year, whereby by far the largest part of it is dust-fine and too small to burn up with corresponding speed in the atmosphere, consequently the fine particles sink slowly to Earth and cannot be observed, just like shooting stars and bigger or big meteorites.

Billy:

... Back in 1947 your father spoke of 'dark giant formations' and 'dark giant formations', which I must understand as 'black holes' today.

In this case, the future Earth-humans are those Earthlings of the distant Earthly time who already live on Earth in the distant future and who, through the possibility of their time travel technique with their various small and large futuristic flying machines, have been coming into Earthly present since time immemorial and also into our present today.

Ptaah:

141. Evil in terrestrial humans arose because a very long time ago by a distant Plejar descendant humanity beyond the DERN universe-space-time structure many still later immigrated very distant Plejaren descendants were turned by manipulation into merciless warrior slaves who had to fight against foreign aggressors.

142. Later, some genetically manipulated peoples fled and penetrated into the space-time continuum of the DERN universe and into the space-time continuum of this present, i.e. into the area of the Milky Way galaxy, where they settled on the planets Phaeton/Malona and Mars.

143. In total, they were around 78 million people, of whom around 280,000 also emigrated to Earth.

144. In addition, several thousand rebellious genetically manipulated persons were also exposed to punishment in various places on Earth.

145. There were also peoples who first fled from the Sirius region into the DERN Continuum and were able to reach the Milky Way Galaxy beyond, from which emigrants also came to Earth, on which they, like all other immigrants, divided into all the old existing groups of Earthlings.

146. These descendants thus carried altered or compulsorily manipulated genes in them, which made them merciless fighters, criminals and criminals, which they of course transferred or genetically inherited at an early stage to the still primitive, wild terrestrial humans by mixing them.

147. Thus the evil has spread in the course of time in Earthly mankind and has been passed on to the present time, which, by the way, has also occurred on other worlds in the DERN universe and thus in your space-time structure as well as on worlds in our own space-time structure and has been preserved until today.

7. This beam ship model was also equipped with special new techniques that also made it possible to reach into the past and the future, etc.

Sfath {1945}:

109. Furthermore, I must explain that the 11 years of time you will spend with me in this present plane will never be sufficient for you to learn everything so that you can be prepared for everything necessary in your life and for your great task.

110. So we must extend the time by years, which will also be so in connection with my succession, which will take you into its care after my departure.

111. But this can only be done by controlling and shifting (note Ptaah: manipulating) time and using it outside the present plane in planes of the past or future, as I have already done several times with you since 1942 and have let you observe and see different countries, many significant, interesting, instructive things and also several theatres and events of war, etc.

112. This will naturally make you older by all the times – which will be years – but this will not have a strong effect on your body, because in spite of your additional times in other planes of other celestial spaces (Ptaah's note: other dimensions or space-time structures) you will certainly age, but you will retain your youthfulness until your old age.

113. It will be the same if you continue your learning with those who follow me in commitment for longer or shorter periods of time outside the present plane in planes of the past or future.

116. But all this is inexorably necessary for you, which is why we must continue to use the times of the past and the future, for only in this way do we gain long times (note Ptaah: more years) enough to use for your learning.

117. So it must be that I take you away from the present for more or less or longer times, which may be days, weeks, months or years, during which you have strictly to learn, after which I bring you back at the same time to the same present time from which I took you away.

118. In this way you will not be missed by your parents and siblings, nor by anyone else, nor at school, for through the control and shifting of time (note Ptaah: time manipulation) it will be that you will always be present in the present plane and at the time that prevails here.

119. And this must be so, because the 11 years in this present plane alone would never be enough to teach you all that you have to learn.

120. You will, of course, also age by the times during which you learn outside the present time prevailing here in this world in other time periods, but it will be that you will nevertheless remain youthful until old age.

Billy:

... So I want to ask what you Plejaren call your space-time structure or your dimension? I have wanted to ask this for a long time, but I have always forgotten.

Ptaah:

22. ANKAR Universe.

Billy:

Thanks. I have also learned a lot from Sfath about the dimensions of our creation, Universal Consciousness, which is of benefit to me today, because lately I have been asked more often about the subject of dimensions ... Besides, it is not only various core-group members and passive members who are playing mind games about the dimensions topic, but also scientists and other persons, whereby especially the scientists have strange ideas about parallel worlds and parallel universes. Sfath, however, has never said anything to me about such a thing, which is supposed to be a mirror universe – or several – and which is supposed to be such that it would be a mirror image of our universe. Of course, scientists are not simply thinking of our present dimension, but of a differently dimensioned universe that is mirrored and aligned with our present, so that, for example, if I could go into such a parallel universe, I could meet myself there in a double version or as a mirrored person and talk to myself, whereby my double and I would always make the same physical movements, carry out the same actions and thus also make the same gestures, as well as speak the same words, etc. As I said, however, your father Sfath never said or taught me anything in this regard, but only spoke of completely different dimensions or space-time structures or of universes, which I was also able to visit with him and experience and also learn a lot there, as a result of which I assume that Sfath was either unaware of such mirror or parallel universes or that they do not exist, which is why I want to ask you about the correctness.

Ptaah:

23. Parallel universes and parallel worlds, as you describe them, are unknown to us, as they are also unknown to the Sonaern, if you should also ask about their findings and knowledge in this regard, as I assume, because you always want to know everything very precisely when you bring up questions.

Billy:

Yes, I wanted to, because the Sonaer are still far ahead with their technology compared to yours. Since you, like the Sonaer, are much more highly educated compared to the knowledge of earthly scientists and are tremendously advanced in terms of the entire earthly technology and therefore should also have knowledge of parallel worlds, which is not the case according to your words, I think that the whole mirror universe issue is based on pure fantasy. This also explains to me why Sfath never said anything about parallel worlds and parallel universes in that sense and also did not explain how such mirror worlds etc. are accepted by earthly scientists. But then I do not want to hold back now and talk about what I have learnt from Sfath about the dimensions resp. space-time-structure and I will also use the term ANKAR when I talk about the Plejaren space-time-structure. I feel the need to explain what I have been asked about several times recently, which is why I want to talk about it now and then hear your opinion. According to the questions put to me, it has become really necessary to explain a little further and in more detail than usual with regard to Creation or Creation Universal Consciousness, its 7 belts/planes, the material belt as well as its dimensions or space-time structures, which are also called universe/universes or cosmos/cosmoi or world space/world spaces. ...

...

Billy:

... In order to explain the whole thing, it must first of all be made clear that in explanations everything can never be explained as precisely as the entire facts of a matter actually require, consequently only just the facts that arise can be explained as well as possible, but never completely, but only just directly in relation to an arising process. This unfortunately leads to the fact that not infrequently ambiguities arise, which again and again lead to further questions that require new explanations. In addition, it is inevitable that explanations of the same topics are always presented in a different way and with different terms, etc., resulting in erroneous or apparent misunderstandings due to a lack of understanding on the part of the questioners, readers and listeners, which then have to be laboriously cleared up. Therefore, by what I am about to explain, it should also be pointed out another time that the term Creation or Creation Universal Consciousness effectively means that which is the total existence of that which corresponds to infinity, boundlessness, immeasurability or the totality of the entire far-reaching creative-universal-consciousness, spirit-energy endless existence or Creation or Creation Universal Consciousness. The form of creation, as we earthlings and also the Plejaren exist in it, is the lowest form of creation at all and has as the only form of creation a material belt in which galaxies, nebulae and solar systems, planets and life-forms etc. exist, while already higher developed forms of Creation are only of a purely spirit-energy nature and develop higher and higher in order to integrate after 1049 transformations into higher and higher forms of Creation and levels of evolution into the 1st of 7 absolute forms – into the 'Absolute Absolutum'. To explain what is meant by the term creation or creation universal consciousness, the following can serve as a parable: Imaginatively, the concept of Creation or Creation Universal Consciousness can be thought of as an egg-like structure of gigantic – for human understanding immeasurable – size, which exists alongside a countless mass of other forms of Creation of different states of evolution as a pure form of spirit energy in the super-ultra-infinity-limitlessness-immeasurability-infinite-spatiality of the so-called Nothing Infinity. At the big bang resp. at the emergence resp. at the becoming of creation resp. creation universal consciousness, the creation structure emerged as 7 basic levels, namely in the form of 7 expanding spirit-energy belts, whereby the 4th belt manifested materially through the interaction of the 3rd and 5th belt, consequently therefore the material belt emerged, in which flakes, nebulae and finally galaxies, suns, planets and life etc. were formed. Each material belt is the only one of its kind in each dimension or space-time structure – also called the universe – of the entire creation of universal consciousness, and each one is also expanding at an enormous speed, as are the 6 other belts/planes, which are, however, each of a purely spiritual-energy nature. This pure spirit energy of the 6 other belts/levels corresponds to the creative primordial-primordial-primordial-primordial-primordial-substance out of ex nihilo (out of nothing), from which the first form of creation or 'creation out of nothing' (creatio ex nihilo = created out of nothing) has emerged, through which a becoming of an existence can be generated in the first place, be it in relation to matter of any forms or a life-form with regard to life-forms of all genera and species. The material belt as the only one of its kind in the 7 dimensions or space-time structures or universes of the Creation of universal consciousness does not correspond to its own dimension or space-time structure or universe, but only the entire expanse of all 7 belts in the interior of the Creation of universal consciousness together form this and thus what is called universe, dimension and space-time structure.

Mistakenly and in complete ignorance of the effective facts concerning the structure and existence of Creation Universal Consciousness, the human beings of Earth call the material belt the universe. The error, however, is that a material belt is only the 7th part of the total width of all 7 belts of each 'dimension' or space-time structure within Creation Universal Consciousness. Consequently, only all 7 belts/levels together can be called the universe or dimension and space-time structure. So it must be clear that the material belt alone does not correspond to the whole vastness of the universe, but can only be seen and judged as what it really is, namely only the 7th part of the dimension universe resp. of the DERN-universe resp. DERN-space-time-structure, as it is called by the Plejaren. Absolutely simultaneously with the coming into being or becoming of the creation of universal consciousness, 7 different dimensions or space-time structures arose in it, consequently all space-time structures or dimensions are in exactly the same space as all the others, but separated from each other as a different dimension. All dimensions are also provided with a material belt, in which galaxies, nebulae, celestial bodies and planets etc. are arranged differently in each space-time structure. There is the possibility for intelligent life-forms to develop techniques through their high evolution and intelligence and to penetrate the dimensions or space-time structures in a technical way, or to change from their dimension into other dimensions and thus to travel back and forth between them.

As an example, creation can be thought of as an inflatable balloon in which there are seven other inflated balloons of exactly the same size, whereby these seven inner balloons can be understood as seven dimensions. The outermost balloon envelope, which represents Creation or Creation Universal Consciousness in a similar way, continues to be inflated and consequently expands further and further, as happens in the same way in its interior with the 7 further balloons, consequently these always inevitably remain the same size as the outer balloon envelope. These 7 inner balloons, which can be understood as 7 dimensions, thus expand equally with the outer envelope and correspond to the same outer conditions of the outer balloon envelope, which has 7 rings, which can be understood as 7 planes, whereby the 4th ring is covered with dust and can be thought of as a material belt.

Creation can be thought of as an example of an egg-like spiritual energy shell, which floats in the boundless and timeless super-ultra-infinity-infinity-immeasurability-infinite-spaciousness of the absolute nothingness along with countless other creations of the same or, according to the state of evolution, differently higher kind. This creation structure thus contains within itself 7 different spirit energy belts/levels or 7 different dimensions or space-time structures (simile: balloons), which all arose simultaneously at the Big Bang, but are absolutely independent of each other.

As a result of their simultaneous formation, they all have the same age, the same time and the same time streams etc., but completely different galaxies, solar and planetary systems etc., whereby these dimensions or space-time structures correspond to what the human beings of Earth call the universe or cosmos or world space, as well as space, cosmic space, universe or philosophically mundus. With these terms, especially universe/cosmos, the human beings of Earth erroneously call only that which is visible or tangible to them, precisely that which presents itself as a material belt, with all the material things existing in it, the galaxies, supergalaxies and hypergalaxies, solar and planetary systems, and so on. However, this does not embody Creation or Creation Universal Consciousness (simile: outer balloon shell), but only one of its 7 dimensions or one of its 7 space-time structures and the only material belt contained therein, which exist in their 7 differently dimensioned spirit belts/levels. Altogether, all 7 dimensions or 7 space-time structures are given in the extension of the entire creation, consequently they are also spread over the 7 basic belts/planes of creation and are thus in their size and width absolutely in the same measure as the actual creation structure.

The dimension or the space-time structure in which the SOL system and the Earth float and in which Earth-humans exist is called DERN space-time structure by the Plejaren, or DERN universe according to the Earth human sense and understanding.

If living beings of any kind or species exist on any world in the material belt, then these naturally develop in various ways, whereby many factors play a part, such as instinct etc. in the case of lower kinds and species, and intelligence, intellect, reason and logic etc. in the case of higher life-forms, whereby the periods of time with regard to the duration of evolution etc. are also of enormous importance. So, for example, on a life-bearing planet in a solar system of a space-time structure or dimension, living beings can be more or less evolved than on another planet in the same space-time structure, or in another dimension of the same creation, such as e.g. in the ANKAR space-time structure or in the ANKAR dimension in which the Plejaren exist – or on other worlds in a space-time structure of a completely different creation.

The DERN-universe resp. the DERN-dimension resp. the DERN-space-time-structure is one of the 7 space-time-structures given in the creation of universal consciousness resp. one of the 7 dimensions in which the galaxy exists, which is called Milky Way by the earthlings and in which the SOL-system floats in a spiral arm, in which again the Earth is arranged. The Plejaren come into this dimension resp. into this DERN-universe resp. space-time-structure through a technically created dimension gate, which has already existed for about 30 million years, from their ANKAR-space-time-structure resp. from their ANKAR-dimension into the DERN-space-time-structure and thus also to Earth. The Plejaren exist in their ANKAR space-time structure at a distance of about 500 light-years from Earth, whereby the Plejaren in their ANKAR dimension, seen from the DERN material belt resp. seen from the DERN-universe, come from a distance of about 115 light-years (one light-year = 9.461 trillion kilometres, resp.  $9.461 \cdot 10^{12}$  km) further beyond the Pleiades stars known and visible on Earth from the ANKAR-space-time-structure. The distance from Earth to the Pleiades stars in the DERN universe is around or an average of 400 light-years.

The Plejaren as very distant descendants of their very early ancestors from the lineage of the primordial prophet/primordial annunciator Nokodemion therefore come from the ANKAR dimension into the DERN universe resp. into the DERN dimension or just into the DERN space-time structure and thus also to Earth. This is because a large number of their early ancestors settled on the Earth planet millions of years ago and then also died there, whereby their spirit-forms are still reborn on the Earth world over many reincarnations and animate human beings, whose development the Plejaren strive for.

Earth was and is the only planet in the DERN space-time structure resp. in the DERN universe resp. in the DERN dimension where the Plejaren have an observing and helpful teaching effect, because all other planets and areas that were settled by the Plejaren and the most distant descendants from the line of the original prophet resp. original herald Nokodemion are all in the ANKAR universe resp. in the ANKAR space-time structure resp. in the ANKAR dimension. Therefore, when in conversations there was talk of Plejaren emigrants settling, for example, on the planet NISSAN in the Lyra systems, on Sirius planets or Centauri planets, or beyond the Sun (Milky Way) on a planet called KUDRA in a solar system called the NISAN system, this did not and does not refer to the DERN universe, but always to the ANKAR dimension. The names of the constellation systems, which were and are named in the DERN space-time structure, only designate approximately the positions and distances, seen from Earth, to the stars and planets in the ANKAR universe respectively the ANKAR dimension, where the distant descendants of the Plejaren have settled. So it must be clear that in the entire DERN universe or in the DERN space-time structure, where the Milky Way galaxy, the SOL system and the Earth with the Earth-humans exist, the Plejaren come and go and are active only in the SOL system and on the planet Earth, but nowhere else in the entire DERN universe.

When the Plejaren change dimensions or space-time structures or switch back and forth between them, then this happens on the one hand between their ANKAR universe or ANKAR dimension and the DERN universe or DERN dimension or between other universe dimensions in the structure of Creation Universal Consciousness. On the other hand, the Plejaren also change into other dimensions when they travel in their ANKAR-universe or in the DERN-universe, e.g. on Earth, into the dimensions of the past or future. This also makes it clear that, on the one hand, changes of dimensions or space-time structures are possible, which means that it is possible to change from one dimension of the creation of universal consciousness into another or from one space-time structure into another, whereby 7 different dimensions or space-time structures are given by the creation of universal consciousness alone, in which it is possible to change back and forth or to change from one universe into another. In addition to this possibility, the dimensions of the past and the future are also given, into which it is possible to travel or change from the present, which lasts 2.7 seconds, into the past or future, just as it is also possible to change from the future into the past and from the past into the future. It is also worth mentioning that it is absolutely impossible to change something for the better or worse or negative or positive in a dimension of the past when something has already happened up to the time of the present from which the change is made into the past. Changes can only be made in the current time of 2.7 seconds of the present, which then as causes determine the course of events up to the resulting effect and thus follow the law of causality and fulfil it infallibly.

A further possibility with regard to a change of dimensions or universe or space-time structure is that, if the technical possibilities are given, universal consciousness can penetrate into another creation of the same direction as universal consciousness and change back and forth in its own dimensions or space-time structure, just as in such other creations of the same direction universal consciousness the possibility of changing into the past and future exists.

The lowest universe resp. the lowest Creation-form is e.g. the DERN-universe of the Milky Way with the SOL-system as well as the Earth, where earthly mankind exists, whereby the DERN-universe-form in the creation of universal consciousness is not the only dimension in it, because the creation in itself comprises 7 dimensions resp. space-time-structure with 7 belts/levels, of which one is the matter-belt and also has 'dark matter'.

Billy:

... Then I always have things to explain about you Plejaren and the connections with you. It just never ends with my explanations that I have to give that you Plejaren come from your space-time structure ANKAR-universe, as you call your dimension, and that you only come to our DERN-universe and you are active there only in the SOL-system resp. also only on Earth, but nowhere else in our entire DERN-universe. Again and again I must also explain that when it is said that your peoples are also to be found with the Lyra, the Plejaren or beyond the Galaxy-Sun or the Milky Way, etc., that this does not mean the stars and constellations in our DERN-Universe, but just such in your ANKAR-Universe or ANKAR-Space-Time-Structure. And if celestial bodies in our space-time structure are mentioned as positions from which you can be found beyond, then it should finally be understood that this refers to your space-time structure, but unfortunately this is misunderstood again and again. It is also misunderstood again and again that when we speak of a space-time structure and a universe, we are only talking about the 4th matter belt and one of the 7 energy belts in Creation. This explains that the universe is not the Creation, so consequently, the Creation is not the universe. Creation itself has 7 dimensions with 7 energy belts each, of which only one belt, the 4th, exists in each dimension as a matter belt, which is called the universe by the earthlings, whereby the earthlings must first be laboriously made to understand that the universe they call the material belt is only the 7th part of one dimension of the 7 dimensions of Creation. In this matter belt, precisely in this universe called by earthlings, past, present and future alone exist. This means that in the matter belts alone, past, present and future dimensions or space-time structures are given in multiple forms and in endless numbers, while in the 7 dimensions of creation as such, as they are each arranged in the egg-shaped creation as a separate unit, there is only one single dimension or one single space-time structure. These are therefore the 7 creational dimensions which prevail in the egg-shaped creation itself and which in turn have 7 energy belts within them, whereby, one of each of the 7 energy belts has a material belt in which uncountable dimensions or space-time structures of the past, present and future exist.

... Florena and Enjana recently explained to me that through your electromagnetic resonance energy transmission – which you call something completely different and which also corresponds to something other than a simple wireless energy transmission – you can even transfer energy transmissions from Earth into your space-time structure or into your dimension over practically unlimited distances.

Billy:

... You Plejaren are involved in our DERN-universe resp. DERN-space-time-structure absolutely only on Earth in relation to Earth-humans and nowhere else in the whole DERN-space-time-structure, and that also not in our SOL-system. And when it has always been said that you were or are active beyond the Milky Way or in the Pleiades, Orion and Lyra etc., then this always and in every case referred absolutely only to the fact that these were, so to speak, indications of places where you are at home beyond these star formations in a certain great light-year distance in your ANKAR space-time structure. This means that in our DERN space-time structure or in our DERN universe you have dimension gates in operation at the celestial bodies mentioned or many light-years beyond them in world space, through which you can change back and forth between your ANKAR dimension and our DERN dimension. The mentioned celestial bodies etc. in our space-time structure, such as the Pleiades, Lyra and the celestial bodies beyond our Milky Way, thus only correspond to formations in relation to a certain direction, where you have your dimension gates far beyond them, which you use to change dimensions. So you are not located on the mentioned stars or on any alleged planets, such as the Pleiades, which at the beginning of our contacts we had at first deliberately falsely named as your home stars, in order to later be able to expose liars, deceivers and charlatans, who allegedly or falsely and thus untruthfully would have contacts with you Plejaren. And that this is exactly how it came to be, you knew this in advance through foresight, which is why we started the deceptive manoeuvre with the false place of origin 'Pleiades' and only named your real place of origin Erra with the Pleiaren stars in the ANKAR space-time structure, when in the course of the years various lying alleged contact persons, who claimed to be in contact with you, could be unmasked. ...

Billy:

... Your general Plejaren technology, so also space technology and space-time bridging technology etc., have been so highly developed for millions of years, through the help of the Sonaer from the DAL universe or the DAL creation, that the Earth-foreigners functioning on Earth have never been able to locate, detect or otherwise register any flying apparatus of Plejaren origin or also only any Plejaren activities since their existence in prehistoric times up to the present time. ...

Billy:

... but in relation to my journeys into the past, which I was able to make together with Sfath, questions always arise among group members, and that is because various people have completely wrong ideas about dimensional travel. In this way, the questions also refer to why I am about 2 decades older than the time I have lived through since my birth in the time we call the present, the time I have lived here on Earth in this present dimension since my birth. Those earthlings who produce conjectures for such dimensional journeys cannot understand that when travelling into the past, however, the time there for the present has already expired and passed and can therefore no longer be retrieved. But that the time of the past can be lived through again and again during a journey into the past, as often as it is entered into, is not understood, consequently also not that if a shorter or longer time is lived in the past, only the time in it passes and expires, but the time of the effective present is not affected. This meant that if I had the opportunity to travel with Sfath to any time in the past and could remain there for a month, I would then live in that past time that period which, seen from the present, had already passed and was over. And if, as a result of the manipulation of time, I returned to the place of my departure in the present practically at the same time or at the most a quarter of an hour after leaving the present time, then only the short period of time had passed in the present which had just elapsed during the time of my departure until my return. But the time that I lived together with Sfath in the past, even days, weeks or months or once even 2 years, by this time I effectively became older, because I had actually lived through it, almost 2 decades in total. And this despite the fact that in the present, from which I had dived with Sfath into the dimensions of the past, only a short time had passed, and even though I had spent a long time in the past, whereas in the effective present, from which I had gone into the past, it had long since expired, passed and disappeared into the past.

Billy:

Then everything could be good in this respect, and also the long way is not to be considered, which takes only seven minutes of our earthly time calculation, if I still remember correctly. So then there is also no great loss of time by going there and back.

Ptaah:

23. You are mistaken, dear friend, because you are considering our old transport technique, but we have been using the dimensional transmission technique we received from the Sonaern for a year and a half now.

24. In this way we will bring you to us in Erra and back to the Centre in a very short time, which will take no more than a total of less than two minutes.

...

Billy:

... What about when I leave, because a few days ago we talked about the strangers, and you clearly said that you would not let them locate you. How is it then, if you appear here in my office or somewhere else or go away again, which would also be like this with me? Somehow, when you come and go, there is a small dimensional gate through which you can pass, and I wonder if the foreigners – you used to call them Earth-foreigners – cannot detect this, because there are energies involved that are certainly detectable, or?

Ptaah:

28. Of course it is correct that energies are important, but as we know, the foreigners cannot detect them because they are of a completely different nature than all those who exist in this space-time structure and in its past and future.

29. The energies we use correspond to far higher values and are therefore also not perceptible with any techniques from this space-time present as well as its past and future, which is also the reason why the strangers cannot locate us in any way.

30. I am also unable to detect our present here, because we use the same kind of energy for our personal protection, to be protected against sight and to be imperceptible in every way through our physical, psychological and consciousness swinging waves.

31. This energy and the use of this technique does not correspond to one of our Plejaren achievements, but to one of the Sonaer.

Billy:

And how long have you been in possession of this Sonaeric technology, if I may ask, and an answer does not fall under your directives?

Ptaah:

32. That is not so, no.

33. The energy I referred to, its use and the Protection Technique were given to our early ancestors by the Sonaern some 27 million years ago when first contact with them occurred in the DAL Creation.

Billy:

Correct, it does not have to be called the DAL Universe, it has to be called the DAL Creation, because it is a sister Creation of ours.

Ptaah:

34. More than 25,000 years ago, new Plejaren immigrants arrived on Earth with a slightly yellowish skin pigmentation and mixed with already existing earthly human forms, resulting in another human species that migrated to a large island.

35. The original immigrants, who came from our ANKAR universe more than 25,000 years ago, had created a dimensional gateway millions of light-years beyond the Milky Way galaxy you know, and so entered the DERN universe and from there to Earth, where they settled in fertile areas that are now all part of China.

...

62. And the fact that we also brought this teaching to Earth at an early time was due to the fact that our ancestors discovered a natural dimensional gate 22 million years ago by chance, which is located here in the DERN universe about 120 light-years beyond the Pleiades stars known to you.

63. The dimensional gateway was discovered because a moon from our ANKAR universe that had drifted from an exploded planet entered the DERN universe through this dimensional gateway, which our ancestors investigated and then found to be Earth's satellite.

64. One consequence of this was that over the course of millions of years small groups of Plejaren repeatedly migrated to Earth and also died here.

...

286. And as a result of the fact that already more than 22 million years ago parts of the peoples of our very distant ancestors reached the DERN universe of our creation, i.e. the space-time structure in which the Earth also exists, but also the DAL universe of the twin creation, the 'Teaching of Truth, Teaching of the Spirit, Teaching of Life' was also carried out and spread everywhere there.

...

Billy:

4. Question from the hypothetical and theoretical perspective of a rational decision

...

I will go on to say that in order to explain the word value 'morality', commandments can be used as parables, which fundamentally do not correspond to laws, but to recommendations and advice. Such commandments or recommendations were already interpreted by the herald Nokodemion about 9 billion years ago, not in our DERN universe, but in the ANKAR universe and thus in another space-time structure. Nokodemion laid the foundation stone for 77 million canons with the teaching of the commandments etc., which were recorded in the 'Teaching of the Spirit' or 'Teaching of Truth, Teaching of the Spirit, Teaching of Life', after which the teaching was taught and spread until today through the work of heralds – who also had to fulfil prophetic and predictive tasks – on various human-inhabited planets in the ANKAR universe, but also in the DAL universe of the Twin Creation. And since about 22 million years ago the most distant descendants from the Nokodemion peoples from the ANKAR universe came into our DERN universe and settled on Earth, the spiritual teaching or 'teaching of truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of life' was finally also brought into this space-time structure. ...

...

Billy:

...

As you know, dear friend, early ancestors of you Plejaren emigrated to this Earth, and many of them also died here on this planet, as a result of which their forms of creation or their spirit-forms have since reincarnated again and again on Earth in new personalities. And this is still the case today and tomorrow as well as the day after tomorrow and in the far future, because for the earlier emigrants from the ANKAR universe or space-time structure, precisely for the Plejaren emigrants at that time, it was determined that their distant and most distant descendants should be taught until far into the future with regard to the 'teaching of truth, teaching of the energy of creation, teaching of life'.

Ptaah:

37. This new herald, so the prediction reads, will not appear in our reality, but in another reality that is foreign to our space-time structure, and will bring us Plejaren the teachings of Nokodemion anew.

...

76. This is simply because our announcement of a coming new herald from the reincarnation lineage of Nokodemion, which has been handed down since ancient times, states that he would come from another reality.

77. With this, I now know, the dimension of the DERN universe has been called since time immemorial, but which I have actually now become aware of through your explanations, which I will also immediately announce on Erra and on all our worlds.

Billy:

... And the trick of the two groups, the Ashtashran alias Ashtar Sheran and the Giza intelligences, was that they were only in our presence when they caused mischief, whereas they were resident in another space-time plane and only came into our presence temporarily and unnoticed by the strangers. ... And as far as Ashtashran alias Ashtar Sheran is concerned, as far as I know he was never in our presence anyway, but worked on his confused believers on Earth from another space-time plane.

...

It is also to be explained that you Plejaren in your ANKAR universe in the SIRAS dimension remain absolutely safe from the foreigners on the Earth, if you continue to keep to your directives, which prescribe that you do not make any contact with foreign peoples and inhabitants of other planets etc. In this way, and you know this very well, dear friend, as all Plejaren also know, you also protect yourselves from falling back into the old barbaric behaviour, as it still prevailed with you more than 52,000 years ago and was marked by strife and war. And it is also worth mentioning that if the foreigners who are functioning on Earth should be able to penetrate other universes of our Creation, they would first have to find out which of the 6 other universes outside ours it is that you Plejaren exist in. And if they were to find that out, then the even bigger problem would be to find that dimension or space-time structure in the SIRAS dimension that is a fraction of a second out of phase with our DERN dimension space-time structure. But that corresponds to a myriad of possibilities, just as it corresponds to a myriad of possibilities to find the dimensional gate that you use every time you beam back and forth between Erra and Earth.

77.2 million years ago, an atmospheric fire or a tremendous atmospheric explosion occurred, as could be determined by time travel. ... Then, 46.8 million years ago, the entire world of life forms began to change again in the course of time, as had also been the case during the preceding period as a result of climate changes. Many early and very large life-forms fell victim to this change, as some time travels back to that time and corresponding observations have shown. ...

A. and U. Fuchsberger:

In your contact reports we read that the extraterrestrials with whom you have conversations have twice eliminated trees. I would like to ask you if you could explain to us what we should understand by this. Were trees simply cut down or were they burnt or taken away?

...

Ptaah:

24. An elimination, and this must first be explained, does not simply mean a dissolution of an object into its constituent parts, for this would correspond to a destruction, but not to an elimination, for such an elimination means a complete dissolution of all object-related matter down to its origin.

25. Basically, a process of elimination begins, as you and yes also some core-group members have witnessed this with regard to a tree, as you say, in that a certain object must be recorded in all its details with certain recognition and recording apparatuses down to the last detail and iota.

26. It is absolutely necessary, above all, to ascertain the age and origin and thus also the exact time of origin of the object and all its details.

27. If you are talking about fir trees and thus conifers, as you call these tree species, then for an elimination a complete recognition and registration of every tiny detail and consequently also of every single fir needle, which are fundamentally leaves, is absolutely necessary.

28. This, however, is only possible through our highly futuristic technical apparatus and devices, which will remain unattainable for Earth-humans for a long time to come and which, in a further and different development, will also serve to count and register all conceivably possible life-forms.

29. Among other things, we will also use these technical apparatuses and devices to record and register the entire earthly human race, in such a way that we will be able to record and register everything down to a single life-form up to a certain point in time.

30. Once all the necessary data have been gathered for the elimination of an object, of which there are still more than I want to mention, as well as other necessities, which, however, I consider pointless to mention, because the earthly scientists etc. cannot begin anything with it anyway, because their still limited knowledge, their illogic and arrogance are not sufficient to be able to understand everything as well, and moreover it would be irresponsible of me to give them more precise information, so I will only say the following about it:

31. If the exact time of the origin and emergence of the object to be eliminated is known, then a time manipulation by means of a time journey to the point of origin of the object is unavoidable in order to carry out the necessary manipulations there, which become effective throughout the entire time of existence and dissolve or eliminate the object at the fixed time of the present.

32. In the past or at the origin of the object, it cannot be eliminated, because if something arises over time into the future, such as the growth of a tree, etc., then it cannot simply not be planted or destroyed in the past, for example, if it already exists in the future or present.

33. What has already happened in the past or has developed into the future or present, just like a tree, can no longer be undone in the past.

34. Therefore, an elimination in the sense mentioned must be carried out in the way I explained.

35. But otherwise it is possible that from the future or present something can be brought into the past and in the course of time develop and grow into the present or even the future, such as a tree or a technique, etc., as you experienced, for example, in the 13th century with Asket in France with a man called Jechieli, as I know when you gave him a torch and a cattle-herding device that a Fate companion from the Soviet Union had with him.

Ptaah:

43. Your real age alone should be mentioned, as well as the fact that several times in all your life time, whenever you were travelling for months or years in other times or in the past or in the future, you had to spend 18 days every 7 years in an hourly interrupting manner in our regeneration devices, which I will call hydro-dynamic regeneration converters, according to which you visibly did not age.

44. This was for the first time in 1944, so that from then on you always remained the same in outer appearance and visibly only aged in a normal way at those times when you were back on Earth in that place which you had left on Earth for a longer time.

45. If later, usually after weeks, months or years, you returned by time manipulation to the same time or hour at which you had left, then no outward ageing of your body was therefore detectable.

46. And these important and necessary 18-day procedures in the hydrodynamic regeneration converters were absolutely essential to maintain the processes of your total body mobility.

47. This is because, naturally, due to the ageing of the body as a result of loss of energy and strength, as well as due to natural ageing-degenerative processes, the entire bodily motility decreases, i.e. the totality of all unconsciously controlled and executed movements of the body and all its organs, whereby the ability of all organisms and cell organelles to move is impaired, and consequently losses of the entire activity of the ability to move occur.

48. This, however, had to be prevented in you, consequently also in your present age, which today – calculated from your birth in 1937 – is in total far above the double of your present earthly lifetime of 83½ years.

...

Billy:

Then something else and a word about this, concerning the times of the present, future and past, because among us earthlings the erroneous view has been circulating – especially since the 1920s, when the fundamentally first science fiction silent film 'Metropolis' was made and publicly screened in 1927 – that when one travels into the past or future, then exactly the same time runs as in the present, which, however, is completely erroneous and wrong. This assumption is false because time already existed in the past and is over, so it has no relevance to the present time. This means that if one travels from the present into the past – or into the future – then the present time there runs out, which is practically as fast or as slow as the present time from which the journey into the past or future is made. The trick, however, is that everything is time-shifted, which means that if a visit is made to the past and a day is spent there, for example, this is not relevant for the present time, because the past time has already expired and no longer has any influence on the present time, consequently it can no longer be equated in its course. Therefore, a day or year, etc., can be spent in the past, while in the present, for example, only minutes pass, etc.

If, therefore, one travels into the past or into the future, then the time of that time passes there, which must be lived through as a 'visitor', according to the time that just prevails and is spent there, which, however, has already expired and passed in the future, but is no longer relevant for the normal present from which one travels into the past, but is just already past. So if one travels from the present into the past and lives in it for e.g. 1 or 2 years, then this has no influence whatsoever on the normal present time from which the journey into the past is carried out, because in the past a time is effectively lived through that is no longer relevant for the present of the time of origin of the journey, but has long since ceased to exist. The time, however, which the traveller lives through from his future present in the past is absolutely real, consequently he effectively lives through it and also ages at this time. Therefore, when the traveller returns from the past time to the present time, he is aged by the time he spent in the past. However, in order to return to the present at the time when he left it, this can only be done by manipulating time. But the fact always remains that the traveller to the past ages during his visit to the past by the amount of time he spends there, so that, if he is a grown man, his beard also sprouts accordingly, so that persons who observe him recognise that he has been away for a long time.

Ptaah:

61. That is well explained, and the facial beard has also led to people recognising that you have been absent for a longer time than just the short time you were present.

62. I remember several such incidents, such as when you were called by my daughter Semjase and you had a fresh shave, only to be taken away for six hours at Wihaldenstrasse 10 in Hinwil and brought back again at 5 hrs, during which time Jacobus and Kalliope were waiting in the living room for your return.

63. And because during your official present 6-hour absence you were in reality on Erra for 7 days, during which time your facial beard grew and you were unable to shave it, this 7-day beard growth was of course not overlooked by Jacobus and Kalliope.

64. Moreover:

65. I remember that in 1961 you learned sandblasting in Bern, met your girlfriend Marga and travelled with her through Italy, Sicily, Spain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany and Switzerland.

66. When, as a result of your work, you were transferred to Andeer to do a certain job there, and you also took your girlfriend with you, you were taken away by Asket, and you travelled with her for 11 months in her homeland, but then at the time of your departure you reappeared in your girlfriend's hotel room – with an 11-month-old facial beard.

67. Your friend Marga complained and got angry as a result of the assumption that you wanted to mislead her and that you had stuck on a face beard, so she wanted to tear it off, felt betrayed by you and your relationship deteriorated as a result.

68. I do not need to say anything more about what happened as a result.

69. But as for the time alone that you spent with my father Sfath in the past from 1944 until the 1950s in the time of the antiquity era in the Mediterranean region, in Europe, Asia, America, South America and Africa, it amounts to 61 years and 94 days.

70. And these were years of learning, in addition to the years you spent with my father in the past up to 272 million years ago, as well as the years during which the two of you researched the future, which is why you also know what bad things will unfortunately still happen, about which my father Sfath obliged you to remain silent and you should no longer make predictions as in the 1950s, but only partial prophecies.

71. To your and my father's often long journeys and sojourns in the past and future must be added the years that Asket and you, as well as my daughter Semjase and then Quetzal and I, have been travelling with you for long periods in the past and future.

Billy:

Often our conversations led to the conclusion that all those earthlings who scientifically deal with the times of the past and future as would-be knowers are wrong and effectively fantasise a horrendous idle run in this respect. This is precisely because in the past, time must be lived through in the length of time at that time, whereby the human being thus ages by this already past time, while in the present time, however, from which one changes into the past, only short minutes or hours pass through a manipulation of time. Examples of this are, on the one hand, the incident in Hinwil when, in the presence of witnesses such as Jacobus and my ex, I gave myself a fresh shave and left the house around midnight, only to be on the road together with your daughter Semjase for around a week in the past, but then, through a time manipulation, returned home five hours later after leaving the house at 5 hrs – with a week's beard sprouting on my face. ...

...

Then, on the other hand, I now come back to what has happened with regard to journeys into the past, also with regard to the thing in Andeer, when my girlfriend freaked out when I, afflicted with zinc fever, was with her in the hotel, had given myself a fresh shave and she then went out to do some shopping, whereupon your niece Asket then took me away to travel around in the past for 11 months, during which time I grew a handsome facial moustache. Asket then brought me back to the hotel room by time manipulation about half an hour after I left, after which my girlfriend then got upset because she thought I was trying to annoy her by sticking a full beard on my face, which she wanted to rip off. When she then realised that the beard was real, she went crazy and of course couldn't understand anything anymore because I wasn't allowed to explain anything to her either. Her mind was simply overwhelmed, which is why the danger of her going mad came up, which is why Asket intervened and erased the experience from her memory. But there were a few other similar incidents where it was noticed that after short absences I suddenly had longer stubble on my face again, but these observations usually went off smoothly because those observing me knew what was actually going on.

Well, over time, scientists also talk nonsense or fantasise nonsense, so also with regard to astronomy, because the entire astronomy science has no idea whatsoever about how and what the universe actually is. So they also do not know that everything visible from the Earth, all the stars etc., corresponds to only one seventh of the space-time structure universe, just as this space-time structure universe only makes up one seventh of the entire space of creation, which has a life span – starting from the so-called Big Bang to the end of the final contraction – of 311 trillion Earth years. Nor do they have any idea of how the real universal and creation-related laws behave, as also in relation to the emergence and behaviour of the dimensions and all the trimmings with regard to the creative, and that everything is completely different from what is assumed or claimed. And that the Creation is delusionally referred to as God and God the Father – as Allah, Theós, Parameshvar, Shiva, Chodā, Shén or Kami, etc. – corresponds to nothing but a pathologically insane conceit that is endlessly far from any truth.

... The rhythm of forces or bio-life rhythm of Homo sapiens sapiens in all 7 universes and all their dimensions and space-time structures has a uniform period of 23 days, whereby 11½ days are exposed to a plus phase or an energy peak phase, a higher organic resilience and thus a less harmful possibility of attack, consequently the organism can use more active and resilient forces.

The other 11½ days the bio-life rhythm shows a minus phase, whereby the organic stability is more unstable and more unstable for pathogens and virus attacks etc.. The whole organism also tires more quickly and becomes more susceptible to attacks that are harmful to health, consequently it also needs more time to recover. After 23 days, the rhythm starts again from the beginning, whereby the thought-feeling-psyche state is also included, whose period, however, lasts not only 23, but 33 days.

... We Plejaren are also only human beings, if I may say so, and we are not perfect beings, as many Earth human beings assume or believe. Even if we have a much more highly developed technology, which enables us to travel through time and space, just as we also have various other higher possibilities than Earth human beings, we are still human beings and are therefore not inserted into perfection, but are afflicted with faults and disadvantages, According to which we also have to learn, experience and learn, as this is inherent to every living being and will never end until that time when this ends through the eons of time, when our creation energy, which animates us and also develops us, one day unites with the energy of the Being Absolutum.

In the same manner as we have to behave according to our directives towards the Earth human beings with regard to contacts, this applies equally to other human beings in our universe, as well as in foreign universes and in foreign Creations. This is also the reason why we must, under all circumstances, keep a low profile in relation to the foreigners who have been present in Earth's space for a very long time and to whom we must not make ourselves known. The justifications for this are the same as are otherwise valid for other humanities of other life-bearing planets.

Tower of Babylon / Tower of Babel

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tower\_of\_Babel

Billy:

... My first question refers to the Tower of Babylon, which was built about 3,000 years ago or so ago. Do you know anything about this event?

Ptaah:

5. Not very detailed – but at least.

Billy:

Well, then the first question: What was the height and baseline of the building?

Ptaah:

6. The baseline was about 91 metres, which was also identical to the height of the building.

Billy:

So also 91 metres high. – As far as I know, the building was square, as you can see from your measurements of the baseline.

Ptaah:

7. That is correct, but the building did not correspond to a cube, but it narrowed upwards by several set-offs or floors, which were connected by stairs, only in the outer wall areas.

8. In the middle, the whole building was filled with a core of fired brick mass, which ensured stability.

9. The outer brickwork was made of bricks or fired bricks which, like the core, were made of the same material.

10. A large temple was erected on the uppermost settlement, which played a special role for the deity Marduk and in which a temple servant lived, who was only allowed to be visited and touched by the ruler.

11. Marduk was the city god of Babylon and was raised to the highest imperial god around 1700 BC.

12. The Marduk cult was led by a very powerful priesthood, which in itself was very diverse.

Billy:

The Bible mentions the history of the confusion of languages during the construction of the tower. What was it about?

Ptaah:

13. The explanation of the Bible is wrong.

14. Truthfully, the tower was built by various groups of people who had many different languages and could only communicate with each other through language experts.

15. When a serious natural event occurred and the different ethnic groups mixed in fear and panic, it naturally happened that the confused, horrified people fleeing from the building could no longer communicate with each other, because no one understood the other's language and each belonged to a different ethnic group.

Billy:

So the confusion was perfect.

Ptaah:

16. So it happened, yes.

Billy:

... At the 279th official contact conversation on the 3rd of February 2000, the two of us talked together about the Tower of Babylon, and you said that the confusion of language was caused by a natural event. ...

What kind of natural phenomenon was that, perhaps an earthquake? If so, did the 91-metre high tower not suffer any damage?

Ptaah:

20. In fact, it was an earthquake, which also caused severe damage to the tower that was being built.

21. However, this damage was repaired after order was restored to the country.

Billy:

And what kind of ethnic groups were they that had different languages?

Ptaah:

22. They were different ethnic groups, tribes and individuals from all surrounding countries, as far as Persia and the Mediterranean.

23. Many were prisoners or slaves, while others from foreign countries were obliged to do slavery work.

24. And all in all, the great mass of the workers had little or no knowledge of their own language, but of the Babylonian language.

25. Babylonians who worked on the construction of the tower were – apart from the architects, construction experts and supervisors – only those who fell from grace or were convicts.

26. The convicts had the choice of either working on the construction of the tower or being executed, whereby the former was of course preferred.

Billy:

I still have a question about Troy, because there is still a lot of confusion. Your daughter Semjase once said that the Troy story with the beautiful Helen of Homer was a fiction. She said that Homer actually lived and wrote the 'Iliad', but that he told a lot of fibs, because the beautiful Helen did not exist, nor did a Greek army defeat Troy, which is not supposed to have been called that either. The 'Trojan Horse', Semjase also said, was a fib from Homer.

Ptaah:

54. What my daughter told you is true. First of all, the city that Homer made known as Troy, which is why we also call it Troy, has a completely different name, and in fact the city was actually called 'Milusha'.

55. The Greek army that defeated the city and finally bloodily conquered it was in reality an army of the Hittite Empire.

56. So it was the Hittites who truly defeated and conquered the city, staging a merciless slaughter of human beings.

57. But the city of Milusha was not conquered by the Hittites by building a 'Trojan Horse', which Homer had fantasized about, and which was supposed to have been pulled into their city by the inhabitants of the city.

58. In truth, after a long siege, the Hittites entered the city through an underground system of canals and through the very large city gate, raped women, men and children and then mercilessly slaughtered these and many other inhabitants.

59. The whole thing was about a brutal act of war, in which no 'beautiful Helen' played any role whatsoever, not even any Hellenic army.

Billy:

Aha, so that was it, and Homer was an imaginative storyteller.

Ptaah:

60. Orally transmitted stories of earlier events he mixed with fantastical embellishments that had nothing to do with reality and truth.

Billy:

... Regarding the city of 'Milusha' respectively Troy, a passive member asks the question whether this name might be a spelling mistake and therefore the real name is 'Wilusa'? In some old treaty there is supposed to be talk of a King Alaksandru of Wilusa, whereby 'Wilusa' is to be equated with Troy.

Ptaah:

26. ... the name 'Milusha' was correct and was in use long before the Hittites defeated and conquered the city, committing monstrous crimes against the inhabitants, also against women and children, who were then slaughtered outright.

27. The name 'Milusha' already existed in pre-Hittite times, namely in the 4th millennium BC respectively before Jmmanuel, when the then small town on the hill Hissarlik on the western Mediterranean coast of today's Turkey was founded.

28. In the 13th century BC respectively before Jmmanuel, the town was generously expanded into a city, which also marked a new date of foundation.

29. Then the city belonged to the Hittite Empire 'Wilusa', which was ruled by King Alaksandru under the Hittite rule.

Tunguska event 1908

Asket:

70. Less than 1130 Earth years ago, three races capable of space travel, from far galaxies of this universe, dispatched their expedition ships, and advanced to the Earth.

71. They explored this world with small scout craft, and also made contact with priestly Earth-humans, secretly and unrecognised, in order not to spread terror and angst.

72. They heard and learned from the Earth-humans the insanity of their ideologies and religions and suddenly they believed themselves to be disadvantaged and falsely led in their own philosophy of Creation and in their own evolution of consciousness and spirit.

73. As a life form still very spiritually underdeveloped and underdeveloped in consciousness, the Earth-humans were able to throw these foreign life forms into doubt, and to sow discord among them.

74. Yet, was that any wonder then, if it is considered that very highly developed life forms from foreign galaxies visit the Earth, and here suddenly are instructed that they, as a race which has developed very far, are to have been disadvantaged by Creation, because, allegedly, Creation personally made itself known to a still very underdeveloped race, and they themselves, as a much higher life form, were passed over.

75. Where was the blame to be found here, that Creation created its only begotten son, and transferred him to Earth to a poor, underdeveloped people, and did not create this only begotten son for the much higher developed life forms?

76. Thus this insane information was spread on three distant worlds, and announced to the races, which had, for thousands of years, lived in peace, love and in complete harmony among themselves, and with all forms of life.

77. The insanity of the terrestrial religions was taken up by scientists, and further expeditions were sent to Earth in order to work for years to investigate all required religious facts.

78. After the return of these expeditions, it was concluded, after exact clarifications, that all peoples would be instructed according to the the terrestrial Christian religion, and indeed, in all matters.

79. This was a fatal error, because, within only eleven years, this peaceful humankind from a distant planet, having previously lived only by the creational laws, changed itself into the faith-based, Christian image of the Earth human.

80. At first, fights and discord originated only in the narrowest circles, then, however, everything expanded very quickly, and it came to public unrest.

81. Already the life forms soon murdered each other, until everything degenerated into a malicious worldwide war.

82. Finally encroachments into the two other worlds resulted, one of which was then destroyed.

83. Different space-faring races became attentive to that, and finally intervened, and forcefully terminated the deadly discord, which had already slowly carried itself into the entire solar system.

84. The terrestrial religions, brought there through the expeditions, and the destruction-releasing Christianity, were strictly forbidden to any life forms.

85. All existing religious material was destroyed and the old way of life again became the highest law.

86. Any advance, and any further visit to the Earth was forbidden, and a decree was even issued that, if, unexpectedly, a ship should stray onto Earth, and no further possibilities of progress could be found, the entire crew, together with their ship, must totally eliminate itself.

87. This actually also then soon happened according to the decree of this regulation, when a huge space ship, still in the terrestrial area, was not able to free itself anymore from Earth, where it had lain hidden for several months with severe technical damage, in the country which you call Russia.

88. The ship was able to lift itself up only a few hundred meters and then sank down again.

89. In accordance with the regulation that no spaceships, and so forth, were allowed to approach the earth anymore, all outside assistance was also impossible.

90. Other races from outer space, stationed on the earth, were, on the other hand, forbidden to bring the damaged ship assistance because, among the crew, a terrestrial epidemic had broken out which was very dangerous for this life form.

91. In the knowledge that they could anticipate no more help at all, they designed an enormous bomb from the foundation-stones of life, that you call atoms, forced the ship as far as possible up into the sky, and then let it simply fall.

92. Like an enormous comet it fell towards the earth, and before it could strike the earth, at a few hundred meters height, the atomic bomb was ignited.

93. An enormous explosion tore up the ship and the crew, turned everything to dust and destroyed the landscape.

94. From everything only a giant crater remained, which is erroneously called a meteor crater by your scientists.

95. More than 4,300 life forms of extraterrestrial origin were destroyed during this gigantic destruction, which only leads back to the terrestrial Christian cult, because the actual reason for this destruction was the insanity of this terrestrial religion.

Billy:

My wish is that you explain what kind of spaceship the aircraft was, because it was something unusual.

Ptaah:

5. I guess you could say that. ...

Billy:

... It's interesting that finally people are coming and talking about different things than they have been talking about so far by some scientists who claimed that the Tunguska catastrophe was caused by gas escaping from the earth and exploding etc.

Ptaah:

12. It is true, as you know, that the event was caused by a spacecraft of alien intelligences, exactly according to Asket's description as you read it to me with the 86th to 95th sentence of Asket's explanations.

13. The crew of the large space flying apparatuses, which was destroyed over the Tunguska region in 1908 on 30th June, came from the Setkatis Galaxy, a large spiral galaxy about 17 million light-years away, also known to Earth's astronomers, under the designation M 101.

14. The home of the astronauts was a planet of little more than earth size and is called Ketulas. It is a satellite of the solar system Bliira, which includes two suns and 18 planets, but only three of them carry human life.

15. The galaxy can be observed from the Earth from above, so to speak, but the Bliira solar system remains invisible from the Earth because it is beyond observation.

16. The crew members of the space flying apparatuses belonged to the Gilas people, which is why we call them Gilaser.

17. The Gilaser people were already very advanced in space technology at that time and were also able to build huge spacecraft using small planetoids.

18. In these they created large cavities, in which they placed equipment for propulsion, for powerful weapons, for external protective shields and electron collectors, as well as energy storage, living quarters, work spaces, food production facilities and life-support systems etc., in other words everything that was necessary.

19. From the outside it was not recognizable that it was a spacecraft, because on the outside the object remained what it basically was, namely a small planetoid.

20. Its enormous weight could be calculated with about 179,854 tons, so what you read in the T-Online article is not close to the truth.

21. It is very likely that the enormous explosion threw fragments of the outer thick planetoid hull and metal parts of the interior of the planetoid spaceship to earth.
22. And what else is to be said about the huge crater:
23. It covered about 3,500 square kilometres.
24. The massive explosion originated at an altitude of 1,290 metres.
25. It is not a deep crater or hole crater, as it is created by a direct impact of a large projectile on the earth, because the explosion at high altitude created a so-called horizontal crater.
26. In a horizontal crater, the force of the explosion from above or the pressure wave depresses all the earth, as well as plants, animals and at least the weak trees.
27. The force of the pressure wave only forms a small bulge at the outermost edge of the crater, which can be thrown up from a few centimetres to twenty or thirty metres or more, depending on the energy of the pressure wave.
28. However, such horizontal craters are only formed by large pressure waves from above and are usually not or only poorly visible, because the distance from the centre of the crater to its rim is usually so far that the actual crater rim is difficult to find.

Ptaah:

11. The great space ship which at that time suffered a breakdown and was destroyed, out of which the so-called Tunguska event resulted, belonged to a people who live in a distant galaxy in your space-time configuration.
12. The Christianity, however – which was brought to their home worlds by some of their space travellers and which rapidly spread out – led to grave religious wars.
13. Once order could then finally be recreated, the space travellers were forbidden to make any further penetrations into the terrestrial space.
14. Around 1,000 years after this decree, as a result of faulty co-ordinates, a large spaceship of these people got lost in the SOL system and stranded on the Earth due to a severe accident that was still occurring, from which it was no longer able to move away.
15. So, for several months, the space ship lay with grave technical damage hidden in the Tunguska region, whereby a larger number of space travellers mixed, unrecognised, among the Earth-humans, far from the hiding place, and sexually engaged with them, which resulted in many of them becoming sick with syphilis and, with the return to their space ship, also infecting many others with it.
16. That had very bad consequences for the space travellers because very quickly, as a result of their constitutional difference, dangerous mutations of the disease arose which, just as quickly, expanded to a plague-like disease and epidemic which cost many their lives.
17. They could not expect help from the home world because, according to the old determination, it was forbidden for them to approach the Earth.
18. Apart from that, other extraterrestrials who were stationed on the Earth – namely us and our confederates – were forbidden by the government of the home world to provide any help, consequently, we had to abide by our directives.
19. Therefore, only self-destruction remained for the foreigners to Earth as their determination demanded it, consequently they built an atom bomb, brought the space ship to a still feasible height in the atmosphere and then caused it to fall in order to then ignite the bomb.
20. Through the enormous explosion the great space ship was completely ripped apart and torn to pieces, whereby the monstrous explosion transformed practically the whole ship, and the entire crew of still 4,387 human beings, into dust and ash.
21. Everything was observed and recorded from our side, therefore we of course continuously relayed our information to the stranded space travellers' home world, however we did not receive permission to intervene in the events.

22. Therefore, we had to let things run their course, however, we relied on the fact that we could teach the government and the people of the space travellers in relation to the fact that for them, as long as they would no longer get involved in them, there was no danger any more by the religions of the human beings of Earth.

23. Our intentions succeeded in the course of time, which then also had the result that all three peoples, i.e. races – namely there were three of them – joined our federation.

24. They come from a region of a large cluster of galaxies which is around 400 million light-years away from the Earth.

25. The three peoples, respectively, races, have three different home worlds, yet they are closely connected with each other and call themselves the People's Oneness of Bardan, as they also call their home worlds Bardan 1, 2, and 3 and have a common government.

26. The Bardan belong to those five peoples foreign to Earth who I named to you and who have joined our federation.

Billy:

And do these human beings come again to the Earth in the current time? And the galaxy cluster mentioned by you, is that also known to our astronomers?

Ptaah:

27. Yes, and indeed already since the time around 80 years ago, when they allowed themselves to be taught by us and joined our federation.

28. But since then they have never taken up contact with Earth-humans.

29. And with regard to the galaxy cluster:

30. This is known to the terrestrial astronomers and is named Coma cluster of galaxies by them.

Billy:

And they look like us or different?

Ptaah:

31. They are human beings like us, if that is what you mean.

32. They have somewhat Mongolian features and a somewhat coarse as well as light brownish-yellowish skin.

Contact Report 428 Supplement – Private Conversation

Billy:

Well, dear friend, today you gave me different data; you seem to be messing with something, or then I misheard or misunderstood something.

Ptaah:

1. You have not misunderstood anything, just as I have not confused anything either.

2. But it is still my mistake, because I did not mention that all three peoples of Gilas emigrated from their original home planet Ketulus in the system Bliira, 17 million light-years away from Earth, and settled 400 million light-years away in the spiral galaxy in the Coma cluster of galaxies M 101.

3. Their three new home planets they call Bardan and consequently themselves now also Bardan.

Billy:

Aha, and why did they emigrate?

Ptaah:

4. A worldwide epidemic killed more than 4/5 of all Gilas within three decades, so the healthy survivors fled and sought new homeworlds, which they found with our help.

5. In order to end the plague, which also affected all other life-forms and was completely eradicated by them, the only possibility left was to burn up the entire planet surface.

6. Unfortunately, no cure or containment agent could be found or produced against the epidemic.

7. And before you ask sooner or later what happened in the Tunguska region, I want to explain to you that the destruction of the planetoid spaceship also caused very severe Earth tremors, which caused the Earth to split open and released enormous gas masses, which led to further violent explosions, causing great destruction and also creating a new lake.

8. So there was also an earth-bound endogenous cause to the whole thing.

9. But this was not the real origin, but only another multiple effect of the destruction of the space-flying apparatus.

10. However, we always spoke only about the exploded space-flying apparatus, not about the further consequences.

Billy:

... But now I have a question again, which relates to an apparent contradiction, because in the matter of the Tunguska catastrophe, those private conversations between you and I are not included in the official contact reports. When we talked about it on various occasions, you also explained that the three great planetary peoples, including the space travelers who exploded their spaceship over the Tunguska area, had left their old home and found three new planets far away. These were uninhabited worlds, but they were suitable for them and they could use them as new home worlds for themselves. However, you have kept quiet about the details of how the whole thing works, which is why it is now necessary to go into them in more detail, because somebody has stumbled upon the fact that the 365th contact report in volume 9 contains different information than the 428th contact report in volume 10. At the 476th contact report you then gave a further explanation. For me the matter is actually clear, but not yet for a reader, probably also because she has not yet read the 476th report. Here I have copied out four parts of the report, also one from Asket: ...

Ptaah:

58. The whole thing may indeed appear to be a contradiction, and obviously it would have been necessary that we should have had our private conversations in this regard as official conversations and made them public.

59. But what I have already explained in relation to this matter should actually make it clear what the facts are.

60. But perhaps it was also unfortunate and confusing of me that I split one and the same factor into two parts and spoke of two different names of peoples, planets and galaxies.

61. If this has created an apparent contradiction, then this is regrettable on the one hand, but on the other hand it was unintentional.

62. So now there is probably a need for me to state the relevant facts openly and in more detail in order to clarify everything:

63. As a further and final explanation, I do not want to go into all the details, but only so far as to make everything a little clearer:

64. After the heavy faith struggles, which were caused by the introduction of Christianity from Earth to the world population of the Gilaser on the planet Ketulas in the system Bliira in the galaxy Setkatis, also a planet was destroyed in such a way that life was no longer possible on it, after which a decree was issued that the Earth in the SOL system was no longer allowed to be approached.

65. Christian delusion was strictly forbidden, but this did not stop fanatics from secretly continuing their Christian faith underground, which then came to the surface again 694 years later and spread again, on both planets that were still habitable.

66. This led to the emergence of various religious groups, respectively sects, and from these, new religious struggles that spread to both worlds and wreaked enormous destruction, making the living conditions for the populations of the planets increasingly precarious over the decades.

67. What now needs to be further officially explained is this:

68. Again:

69. After the catastrophe of the first religious war about 1,000 years ago, the Christian delusion continued to modernize in a secret underground way, and consequently, after 694 years, further religious fights arose, which could no longer be contained for about 300 years and, moreover, spread to both inhabited planets and claimed millions of victims.

70. These battles also caused severe destruction of nature and the atmosphere, and all but a few remnants of animal and plant life were also exterminated.

71. Then it happened that an epidemic broke out on one of the planets, which spread to a worldwide pandemic, spread to the whole world and finally also to the other planet.

72. According to the terrestrial calendar, it raged for around three decades, with 4/5 of all Gilaser, respectively Gilaner, as they called themselves, falling victim to the epidemic on both planets.

73. And consequently, when everything had progressed so far that both worlds would soon no longer be habitable, large space flying apparatus respectively large spaceships were built and sent out to various regions of the universe to search for and explore new habitable worlds.

74. One of these space flying apparatus was built from a meteor, and so it happened that about 1,000 years later a large Gilaser space flying apparatus came to Earth again, the one that had been built from a meteor.

75. However, this was brought to Earth due to an error caused by an unfortunate technical error of a coordinate device, and in the end, however, an attempt to repair another damage also resulted in a serious accident.

76. And since they were forbidden to receive help from others to return home, and since we Plejaren and our Federation were also not allowed to offer any help according to their home worlds, and since they also had the order to destroy their large flying apparatus if it was no longer possible to return under their own steam, and since sectarian Christianity was once again taken over by the crew because it was infiltrated by Christian secret allies who had been able to operate secretly in the space apparatus for a long time, those who remained unimpressed by sectarianism followed this order.

77. And that they followed the order to destroy the planet was not least because they were informed that the wars of religion had been finally ended and that there was a danger that those who had once again come to Earth would once again bring disaster back.

78. This was in the form of the Christian delusion of faith which was again widespread among the crew of the space flying apparatus.

79. So it was feared on the home worlds that Christian sectarianism could be brought back again.

80. The history of the situation and the Tunguska explosion is well known to you, but is that the Gilaser respectively Gilaner came to Earth in 1907 with their large space flying apparatus, converted it into a huge atomic bomb and then exploded it on the 30th of June 1908 high above the Tunguska region, killing 4,387 human beings.

81. At the time they left, their home was still the planet Ketulas in the Bliira system in the Setkatis galaxy, which I also explained at the 365th official contact conversation.

82. However, during the time when the Gilaser were on Earth with their large space flying apparatus, the crews of another large research space flying apparatus and with our help - calculated from the Earth - in the so-called Coma Galaxy Clusters found a new system with three (3) uninhabited but habitable planets named Bardan 1, Bardan 2, and Bardan 3.

83. The two homeworlds in the system Bliira had become so inhospitable and almost uninhabitable as the third planet, which was destroyed to the point of uninhabitability, that the remaining populations of the two only poorly inhabitable planets had to be evacuated and brought to the Bardan planets with powerful emigration space flying apparatus respectively.

84. After that everything was arranged within a few years to carry out the whole thing.

85. The total migration to the three Bardan planets then took 11 years according to earthly time calculation.

86. Since then the peoples of all three Bardan-planets call themselves Bardans.

87. Accordingly, at the 428th official contact conversation I named Bardan 1, 2 and 3 as the home worlds of the old Gilaser respectively Gilaner as Bardan and their peoples as Bardans, to which I also counted those who were stranded on Earth.

88. This is precisely because I also connected those who had lost their way on Earth with the new name of the new worlds, which obviously led to confusion, which was not my intention and is to be described as confusing and a mistake.

89. But since the Gilaser with their large spaceship in 1907 still came from the system Bliira, I also named their home planet Ketulas, the home system Setkatis, the people Gilaner respectively Gilaser and according to their origin also the human beings of the large space flying apparatus in this way.

90. Then I named the new home Bardan in the Coma cluster of galaxies, because those who were stranded on Earth belonged to the same people.

91. Obviously I should not have done that, even though those who strayed to Earth actually belonged to the Bardan people, who, according to earthly time, had finished their emigration to Bardan in 1926.

92. However, in a private conversation with you, I obviously did not mention the whole thing extensively enough.

Billy:

The whole thing is actually a little confusing at first sight, at least for the first impression, but after your explanation everything seems understandable to me when I look at it logically. I can remember that you mentioned some things once. But one more question regarding the abandoned and now hostile planets in the Bliira system of the Setkatis galaxy: Can they once again bear life? Then regarding mistakes: I would like to say that no human being is free from making mistakes, and on the other hand this also proves that you Plejaren are only human beings and not superhumans or the like, and therefore not perfect. And he who believes himself to be free from error, cast the first stone - so it has been said since ancient times.

Ptaah:

93. What you say hits the nail on the head - as you sometimes like to say.

94. But regarding the two planets in the Bliira system:

95. Both of them, as well as the third, which was destroyed to the point of hostility to life, were eliminated by the Gilas six years after the end of emigration, because they had also become a danger for the Bliira system and would have affected its order, because they were maliciously pushed out of their orbits during the war.

Billy:

... But another question: The events of Tunguska were actually caused by the Gilans respectively Gilaser or just by the Bardans, namely by a large spaceship which they made from a meteor which they took advantage of. So far those earthlings are right who attribute the gigantic explosion to a meteor, but it is also assumed that it could have been an asteroid. However, they do not want to admit that it was a meteor converted into a spaceship, and that the explosion was an atomic bomb. ...

Billy:

... Now there are new things concerning the Tunguska matter, like the following, which Achim Wolf from Germany has sent me:

In Semjaseblock 27, Billy talked to Ptaah about the so-called 'Tunguska catastrophe' or the nuclear explosion of the spaceship in 1908. Some reports and speculations on the internet come surprisingly close to the truth. There was demonstrable radioactive radiation at that time; eyewitnesses even reported the shape of an object. Maybe the information is interesting for Billy.

Example 1 (source = <http://www.science-explorer.de/tunguska.htm>): "The Baskir engineer and geophysicist A. V. Solotov examined splinters of trees that had survived the catastrophe by cutting them into annual rings, then burning them and analysing the ashes. He found a general increase in radioactivity for the year 1908 by finding the radioactive isotope caesium 137 in the wood. Thermal damage to the trees, complex biological effects such as accelerated growth and somatic mutations, changes in the palaeomagnetic properties of the soil, thermoluminescence of the rock, increased uranium content in Trapp samples (igneous rock) and anomalies on a global scale were detected; they are declared as consequences of the disaster. In the disaster area, the growth of pine trees with three-needle tufts, probably a mutation as a result of the disaster, was concentrated. The flight of the alleged Tunguska object was observed over a large territory, even in places 500 km from the epicentre. Over 800 eyewitnesses have been found over the years who saw the object and in some cases heard its sound. The Tunguska body was described flying from south to north.

However, no agreement was found between the observations in the south and west and those in the east, because then the Tunguska body would have had to move on two different trajectories at different speeds. According to this, a constellation could result, according to which either: a) the statements are not correct, b) it is two different flying objects, c) or the body in question changed its flight path and speed. In the latter case it would have had to move on a non-ballistic trajectory with changing azimuths and heights, which is impossible for a natural body. ...

Kanzantsev went a step further in his hypothesis of a nuclear explosion and said that an interplanetary spacecraft visiting Earth and using nuclear energy as its propulsion, for some reason, crashed over the taiga, exactly where Kulik's expeditions had so unsuccessfully searched for the remains of the meteorite.

Example 2 (source = <http://www.sax.de/~stalker/pad/200005/>):

"What happened in the summer of 1908 in Siberia? What event still puzzles the experts after more than 90 years?

According to many eyewitness reports, on this last day in June, a brightly glowing object descended from the sky for about 10 minutes. It glowed in a bluish-white light and was usually described as tubular. As the body descended, a cloud of black smoke formed and a roar resembling cannon fire sounded. A column of light at least 20 km high was also seen. The heat that caused the explosion was so intense even at a distance of 65 km that a farmer tore off his shirt because he thought it was on fire. The shock was so strong that seismographs around the globe recorded unusual deflections. The explosion could still be heard 700 km away."

Ptaah:

6. The article is interesting, but it will probably be of no use to the know-it-alls and doubters, who will continue to cling to their confused ideas and conceptions.

TWA Flight 800

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/TWA\_Flight\_800

Billy:

... But now the next question: On the 17th of July 1996, a jumbo jet, a Boeing 747, exploded shortly after take-off in New York or something like that and crashed into the sea, causing about 230 deaths. Do you know anything about it?

Ptaah:

57. Certainly, because such incidents are recorded by our surveillance aircraft.

58. Florena also informed me about this unfortunate incident.

59. But why do you ask?

Billy:

Simply because I am interested in why the plane exploded. The Americans made several statements, but we don't know if one of them is correct.

Ptaah:

60. I can give you information about that:

61. Of course the Americans want to hide the truth and avoid it by some flimsy explanations, because it is their own fault that the misfortune happened.

62. The truth is that the US Navy fired a defensive missile at the plane and was hit by it and caused to explode.

63. Whether this happened intentionally or unintentionally could not be clarified by us yet, but it seems to us after the past investigations that both possibilities must be considered.

Billy:

Why's that?

Ptaah:

64. It's actually still too early to talk about this.

Billy:

But what reason could there have been to sacrifice so many people?

Ptaah:

65. An espionage-active person who, to our knowledge, was aboard the plane and carried important knowledge, but who had escaped the American secret service.

66. There is no doubt that this person was on board, but it is still unclear whether it was intentionally shot down as a result.

67. It is possible, however, that so many people were sacrificed because of a single spy.

68. But our investigations will show whether this is really true.

Billy:

That would really be awesome, if that were true. But in political, military and secret service contexts, much worse crimes have already been committed in which thousands or even tens of thousands of people have lost their lives. Just think of the radioactive contamination tests carried out by the Americans and the British, etc., which have killed thousands and thousands of people, which of course has been concealed. And just because of the concealment I have written an article here, if you want to read it briefly ... Ah yes, but first again a question concerning the suspected spy in the crashed plane, whose data was called TWA 800 to my knowledge and which more precisely has crashed in Moriches Bay off the coast of Long Island, where UFO activities have been recorded for quite some time, as I take from my note here. I would now be interested to know in what context the espionage activity was supposed to have been – military or economic?

Ptaah:

69. Our findings so far have shown that the person in question had secret information of a military nature, in relation to various incidents involving unidentified missiles in the Moriches Bay area, etc., and in relation to the so-called Brookhaven SDI experiments.

70. Whether the plane was deliberately shot down because of this spy, in order to silence him in this way, is only one possibility, because another is that everything was an accident, although it is undoubtedly certain that the US Navy launched the missile.

71. But there is also another possibility, which we must also consider, namely the fact that on the locating devices of the US Navy the airplane was probably registered, but was regarded as a so-called UFO, whereupon a firing order took place.

72. And we have to consider this possibility rather than the one with the spying person.

73. But I can't tell you anything more about it yet, but I have to wait and see what the research of Florena's group, which handles everything in this respect, will show.

Billy:

All sorts of things. If you know the facts, can you find out what the research has revealed?

Ptaah:

74. Of course, because no secret should be made of it, since it is an incident that has a criminal background, if our previous investigations should prove to be completely true.

Billy:

... So I would like to ask you about your research regarding the drama in the USA, where a passenger plane exploded and crashed in Moriches Bay. You promised me that you would tell me what happened there as soon as you clarified everything. That is probably why you are here now, isn't it?

Ptaah:

5. That is right.

6. Well, our guess was correct regarding the circumstances of the crash of the TWA 800 plane on the 17th of July 1996 in the Moriches Bay area.

7. The cause of the disaster was a rocket-missile from the U.S. Navy that erroneously positioned the aircraft on its equipment as an unknown, foreign missile and thus identified as a UFO whereupon the command went out to launch this missile without excuse because through the haste and great carelessness the airplane was classified as an unknown flying object and in certain respects the national security of the USA had supposedly been threatened.

8. This fact is now of course concealed by all means available to the government, the secret services and the Navy.

Billy:

This is really awesome. But tell me, do you not violate your directives with this declaration, because you know that I like to put such matters officially on paper as contact reports.

Ptaah:

9. We also thought about this and therefore asked the High Council whether the declaration could be official or not.

10. The view of the High Council was that the event was such an inhuman crime that it should be officially announced.

11. Under the guise of national security, the High Council declared, the US military and the US intelligence services and their government committed such disgraceful crimes in secret missions that the worldwide public should be made aware of them in order to denounce all the disgraceful machinations and bring them to a standstill over time.

12. However, we must not do this ourselves and not officially, but we may give only by you the necessary information, whereby it is then left to you and other persons to spread these in useful form.

Billy:

But these crimes also fall under secrecy in America.

Ptaah:

13. That is correct, but by the promise of the High Council we may give you the information in this particular case for official use.

Florena:

41. I can only explain that we have clear records that clearly prove that the plane was hit by a missile that was supposed to shoot down the TWA 800 for defence reasons, because a misinterpretation led to the assumption that the plane was an unknown and hostile object.

42. The missile, however, did not explode due to a malfunction of its detonator, but merely tore a hole in the aircraft and continued to shoot, only to fall somewhere into the sea.

43. Due to circumstances unknown to us, a sparking mechanism must have been created when the projectile hit, which caused the aviation fuel to explode.
44. It may be natural for someone to have brought a bomb aboard the TWA, but it certainly did not explode – if there was a bomb aboard at all.
45. Our records did not mislead us, nor did our investigations, to the effect that the missile projectile was the cause of the aircraft being damaged and then caused to explode by a sparking mechanism.
46. If the story about the man applies as it is set out in the written, then at least not in the sense that his bomb, if there actually was one, exploded.
47. If such a bomb actually existed, then it must either have been found by the salvage crews or thrown out somewhere into the sea where it was not found.

UFOs can generally be classified into the following explanations (see Contact Report 250:59-89):

1. Naturally occurring phenomenon (see e.g. Contact Report 163:103-154)
2. Misidentified common objects (airplanes, helicopters, satellites, weather balloons, etc.)
3. Secret military aircraft & spacecraft (see e.g. Foo Fighters)

5. Delusions (psychiatric disorders)
6. Hallucinations
7. Bioorganic flying life forms from another dimension (“Rods”)
8. Resident Extraterrestrial spacecraft (descendents of extraterrestrials who have secretly resided on [within] Earth for a long time [“Earth foreigners”])
9. Future Earth spacecraft (time travelers from Earth’s future, see e.g. Contact Reports 602:24-26; 608:10; 651:48-50)

b) Others

An excellent summary of the UFO/Extraterrestrial phenomenon is given by Billy Meier in his article “Extraterrestrials” found in Contact Report 257. Ptaah also states it quite succinctly in Contact Report 361:

65. Flying machines of extraterrestrial origin are extremely rare to observe, because the earth is far away from other inhabited worlds, so it does not often receive visits from beings from other worlds.

66. This happens only extremely sporadically and therefore very rarely.

67. So what can usually be observed in unknown flying objects around the world and especially over the entire American continent are not extraterrestrial unknown flying objects but secret earthly flying machines of American and other origin.

Asket:

199. In the state of being awake, he will be just as much tricked as his friends and acquaintances by images of space ships which indeed can be projected so true to reality that anyone can catch them on film.

200. These appearances are, however, without exception, only nebulous and holographic pictures which are not able to exhibit actual contours.

201. The entire meaning lies therefore only in a malicious deception with the purposes that the concerned Earth human, who will be called (Reinhold) Schmidt, talks about himself - and spreads the images and experiences, and so forth, implanted in him by means of holographs and dream-state-hallucinations - in order to maintain the religion of Christianity.

...

229. UFOLOGY, already mentioned, which actually is supposed to serve in the spreading of truth, will likewise be pressed in the direction of sectarianism and will gain worldwide significance in this regard.

230. Like the religions themselves, ufology will become a religious means of power for the malicious extraterrestrial intelligences and, however, also a field of activity of deceitful and delusionally sick, alleged contact persons.

Asket:

105. At the present time {1953} 2,700,000,000 humans live on the Earth, of whom many have observed our beamships or other beamships belonging to our federation or belonging to those who are strangers to us.

(We then went to the ship together and then pushed Jitschi forward towards the transport beam, in order to get him into the ship.

Grasped by the power, he was lifted from the ground and slowly glided upward.

Quite suddenly his eyes widened unnaturally, and then a shrill scream tore the stillness.

Once Asket and I were likewise in the ship, I saw how Jitschi, pale with terror, sat in an armchair and, completely dumbfounded, stared at the entrance shaft. ...

Billy:

Well then; isn't it a little dangerous to leave your ship landed on the ground so openly when other human beings might pass by?

Semjase:

Don't worry, because it is ensured that no human being can get closer than within a radius of 500 metres. ...

...

7. The Earth-humans have entire organisations that deal with reconnaissance of our beamships, but among them all, there is only very little material that is really genuine.

8. They are in possession of very many photos, which, however, depict nothing more than some lights and light phenomena of natural origin or quite deliberate counterfeits.

9. Only very few of these photographic proofs are genuine and really show our beamships.

10. Most of the photos are just montages or forged recordings made by deceivers and charlatans, whose names thereby became known worldwide.

...

15. If the deceivers and charlatans were actually linked to us and, thus, were standing or have stood in contact with us, then we would have given them the opportunity to create very clear photo evidence of our beamships.

16. But since they are dishonest human beings, we have not given them this opportunity.

17. As proof for this fact, we gave you the opportunity to take clear pictures of one of our beamships.

Semjase:

37. Thus contactees who only saw our beamships from a distance and were also often able to photograph them.

38. But only very few had personal contact with us, and that is still the case even today.

39. Most of them, however, wrap themselves in silence because they fear their fellow human beings.

...

60. Also many other pilots have encountered our or alien ships.

Billy:

... f I look over everything and think over it carefully, then the shape of the beamship doesn't play a major role, but a disc-shaped ship should be the ideal form, because it offers the least resistance aerodynamically in the area of an atmosphere, which certainly should also be the case in the water.

Semjase:

68. Sure, you have gotten to the heart of the matter again.

69. Basically, though, the shape really plays no role.

70. However, the disc shape guarantees the least resistance in an atmosphere, and it furthermore has the largest possible areas to make the drives on or through it fully effective.

Billy:

That is clear to me, but how is it possible that a beamship can reach tremendous speeds in the gravitational field of a planet or in its atmosphere without it burning up or the passengers simply falling victim to the immense inertial force?

Semjase:

71. That is very easy to explain and is also not a secret anymore to the Earth-humans, at least not to the scientists:

72. The beamship is surrounded by a radiation protection belt, which allows every waft of air to be diverted immediately, without displacing it.

73. Exactly the same thing also happens in the outer space, which is only teeming with inconspicuous, minute particles.

74. Thus, this radiation protection shield has the function of protecting the beamship against all external influences and resistances, without without destroying or displacing anything that collides with the shield.

75. All things intruding or offering resistance simply get deflected, without causing a displacement.

76. A displacement would in fact already mean resistance and lift the possibility of the unlimited speed.

77. Through this radiation protection shield granting a sliding off, another important effect is triggered, which is of great significance and of vital importance for the passengers.

78. As a result of the sliding off technology of the radiation protection shield, the gravitational pull of a planet is neutralised at the same time.

79. However, this does not mean that it is simply destroyed, displaced or cancelled.

80. In the same way, the air, as well as any radiation or particles and magnetism etc., are simply diverted, with the result that the normal gravitational force and attraction force prevail in the beamship.

81. This means that a beamship of the Earth harbours exactly the same attraction force inside as it also prevails on the Earth.

82. This attraction force of a planet is not always equally strong, by the way, but is subject to a certain change, something which will be noticed by your scientists in foreseeable time.

83. By the sliding off at the radiation protection shield, that is, the sliding off of the gravitational force i.e. the attraction force, the beamship practically becomes an independent miniature planet, which can to almost the speed of light fly through any atmosphere without risk.

84. And since the attraction force of the planet concerned no longer has any influence on the beamship, the passengers also feel as normal and unweighted as if they were on the planet itself, always provided, of course, that the planet itself corresponds to their anatomical capabilities and is not subject to greater attraction forces.

85. In the beamship itself, the attraction force is tuned to the passengers, of course, and is absolutely controllable.

86. When passengers of beamships from other worlds move on planets that are foreign to them and hostile to them in terms of atmosphere or attraction forces, then they use space suits and small transportable devices that produce exactly the same radiation protection shield for the respective being as it is characteristic for the beamship.

Semjase:

146. And there came the time when the descendants flew out into the unending expanses of the universe in round, plate-like flying ships with beam drives.

147. Other solar systems and planets were flown to and expedited.

Semjase:

3. Soon, I will receive a new beamship, which you can then also photograph at close range, in order to get rather good photos.

4. Unfortunately, in my current ship the automatic beams are still installed, which would destroy your films up to a distance of about 100 metres, i.e. very precisely 90 metres.

5. The radiation is not harmful to living organisms, but as I said, it would destroy your films.

...

10. Regarding my old ship I would still like to explain that it is already several hundred years old and still represents one of the old forms.

11. These old ships are still built according to the principle of corrugation, a form that has found application with us for reasons of stability.

Semjase:

40. The gift of observation of the human beings of Earth is very bad and superficial.

41. They very often regard our beamships as some kind of earthly airplanes etc., wherethrough they hardly pay attention to them more than a short fraction of a second.

42. They are quite simply not used to a very precise observing and considering.

43. But on the other hand it is the case that we mostly protect our beamships against any sight, so that the human beings are unable to observe us.

44. It is a breeze for us to, just according to our wishes, protect our ships within a radius of 500 m completely or partially, laterally, from above or below by means of a distortion screen against sight.

45. Therefore, when I allowed you to photograph my ship from one side, it was shielded from further view on all other sides by the distortion screens, so that no uninitiated persons were able to see it.

Billy:

... Why did the radiation phenomena become visible?

Semjase:

50. It only concerns atmospheric disturbances, which will dissolve in a few months.

51. They come from your system satellite Saturn, which currently influences the Earth's atmosphere.

52. Through these disturbances, particularly the antenna's conducting beam and the energy collecting beam as well as the regeneration radiation become visible.

53. The antenna's conducting beam and the energy collecting beam appear as a fine line of energy over the beamship, while the regeneration radiation becomes visible beneath the ship in various hues.

Billy:

You speak of regeneration radiation. Is the captured energy regenerated again after consumption?

Semjase:

54. The energy only becomes used and regenerated again for the radiation drive.

55. It is not consumed, however, as you said.

56. Our whole technology is aligned toward natural rectification, but not toward destruction.

Billy:

I understand; the natural principle is, thus, implosion and regeneration, rather than explosion and destruction.

Semjase:

57. You certainly could not have expressed it more precisely.

...

Semjase:

160. ... various foreign objects have flown into the terrestrial space lately, but we cannot monitor all of them.

161. As a rule, they also immediately leave the Earth again, as soon as they have satisfied their curiosity or thirst for knowledge.

Billy:

What was it, then, in the evening of the 20th of March at 19:30 hrs? My children and my wife called me to the window because they saw, only about 1 kilometre away in the west, an object of reddish and yellow colour moving from the north to the south. Also, various local residents had marveled at it from the street.

Semjase:

162. That also wasn't one of us, but nevertheless, the event is known to me.

163. It concerns a beamship of a race known to us from a neighbouring system of our home.

164. It concerns peacefully minded beings, who travel around space and worlds for expeditionary purposes.

165. In particular, the Earth interests them, and therefore, their luminous beamships are also often observed here.

166. Their technology is not yet as advanced as ours, and the beings themselves are also rather unconcerned about whether they are seen or not.

Billy:

What kind of beings or life-forms are they?

Semjase:

167. They are human forms, and what is very important is that they are peaceful and very interconnected with us, which cannot be said, unfortunately, of all who cross through outer space.

Semjase:

41. It might be possible that someone has observed the start of my ship and reported this to the authorities or the army, after which a search might have taken place, which unfortunately happens here and there, if we are not careful enough or if some careless foreign ships appear or even land.

...

45. Especially authorities and military feel very threatened in their power, when they are informed about sightings or landings of beamships, etc., although we are not interested in breaking or endangering their primitive power, because this task is incumbent solely on the Earth-humans.

46. But even though they are very interested in our beamships and do research and investigations, the authorities and the military strongly deny these facts.

47. All relevant information concerning spaceships, sightings and landings, etc., is therefore denied by them as much as their secret investigations and investigations of beam-ship landing sites, etc.

Billy:

I hear it too, Semjase, a tractor, which is approaching.

Semjase:

78. We must separate, otherwise the vehicle will be halted and switched off by the ship's protective shield.

Semjase:

11. The danger created by this carelessness on our part is of less importance to you than it is to our cause itself and to certain research findings which would be made by appropriate investigations of your scientists and which would not benefit the human beings of your world in their present development.

12. These scientific research findings could be obtained on and in the Weather trees that I have used as objects of comparison for my flights.

13. They absorbed radiation from my ship and absorbed it because I came into its immediate vicinity or even touched it with the ship.

14. This radiation, which is absolutely harmless to any form of life, lasts for several months and could be detected and analysed by your scientists, which would mean a very rapid increase in their research and knowledge.

15. But not powerful in things, they would cause devastating catastrophes, which we cannot allow because it would be the direct fault of our carelessness.

16. But since our technology etc. does not allow us to simply paralyze the radiation absorbed by the trees or to remove it from the trees, there is only one possibility left, namely to eliminate these trees in the past, whereby of course all memories, written down documents and photos etc. are also eliminated at the same time.

...

20. This is also one of the reasons why we always make our landings in such a way that we cannot be observed, because there is always the danger of radiation being emitted, which could be detected and analysed by scientists if it were caught by anything.

Semjase:

152. At a given point in time, which I do not wish to mention in advance for certain reasons, I will give your group once again opportunity to observe my beamship.

153. In this regard I have again chosen a time of night, because everything can be observed better in the darkness.

154. I will demonstrate to them the potentials of different energies which will be very well visible as light effects in the darkness.

155. However, some of the energies I can only bring to use high up in the atmosphere, because otherwise they would have a deadly effect on different earthly life forms.

156. Nevertheless, everything will be a just as unforgettable demonstration spectacle for your group members as it will be for many other coincidental observers, because I will not use any protective measures to shield the sight during the demonstration.

157. During this action you are kindly asked to observe very specific precautionary rules and also to be concerned that no other persons than you approach closer than 910 metres to my beamship, because this could have deadly consequences for them, or at least consequences which would damage their health or even their consciousness.

158. In this regard I will shield and protect you personally, whereby you will not suffer any harm.

Billy:

... For a long time, I have suspected that there are other extraterrestrials in our world besides you, but with very different desires and hopes. These beings may be wholly alien to your race, at least some of them, but others must be of your own race.

...

... So I start from the assumption that certain forms of life which are strange to you are trying to wander around from the vastness of the universe on our Earth and in the space of the world and to influence other forms of life in various forms. On the other hand, I also suspect that one or more groups of descendants of your old race have not yet returned to you, and that they are still living according to the forms of a deity. Since they still have to live according to the old forms, it can practically only be that they influence many life forms and also the Earth-humans according to this and appear as emissaries of a god. ...

Semjase:

...

41. With your speculations you are very right, because there are other forms of life in the earthly space than just ours.

42. There are also still some splinter groups of our own former races here, but also on other worlds where they still live according to their old forms.

43. They constantly try to influence the life forms, especially the Earth-humans, according to their forms.

44. Already the ancestors had appeared as gods, and they still do.

45. They are anxious not to release the Earth-humans in particular from this form and to continue to make them dependent on themselves through stoic references to religious heresies, etc. and to cast them under their spell.

46. For a long time they have been trying again to break into your world in order to subdue humanity on the Earth.

...

53. On the other hand, many Earth-humans are subject to deceptions, caused by hallucinations or by certain unconscious workings and intended illusory projections of the extraterrestrial life forms for the purpose of underpinning their heresies.

54. Great suggestive influences for deceptive purposes also belong to it, as do appearances of many other forms.

{Billy:}

(We go together to the beam ship, where we are simply lifted into the ship by an elevator-like, invisible powers and immediately stand in the cockpit, while behind us the hatch closes automatically and completely silently. In the cockpit there is a green-yellow light, which is obviously produced by the on-board windows, which are orange on the outside, but green-yellow on the inside. This observation also leads me to the first question.)

Billy:

How come, Semjase, the ship's windows are orange on the outside and yellow-green in here?

Semjase:

27. The outside is specially coated and changes colour depending on the atmosphere.

28. In an atmosphere that is beneficial to us, the material turns orange and throws this yellow-green light inwards.

29. If the outside is coloured differently, for example green, yellow, red or blue etc., the inside light changes immediately.

30. Without special analyses, we are thus informed as to whether or not we need a protective suit in the atmosphere in question.

31. A failure of this type of atmosphere determination is completely impossible, and furthermore, the automatic system only opens the airlock and the exit shaft when the occupants are wearing the relevant protective suits.

32. This is made possible by the use of sensing eyes or sensors which find the appropriate contacts at certain points on the suits.

33. If one wants to leave the ship in an atmosphere that is unhealthy to us, then this is only possible with the protective suit, otherwise the automatic safety mechanism is activated and all exits are locked.

34. When we step out of those layers of a world where the atmosphere is lifted, the outside of the windows becomes transparent and clear and hardly differs from your clear glass.

35. The windows also prevent the penetration of any radiation through the special coating, so there is no danger.

36. They only let through neutralised light.

37. For observation we have our control devices, which enable us to look much more closely than looking out through the windows, which should not be very suitable for taking pictures, because the pictures probably become unclear, at least as long as the outside is coloured.

38. In higher layers, however, this should resolve itself, so you can take clear pictures.

Semjase:

35. At the present time we are the most highly developed life forms that travel this Earth from outside your world and are also stationed here.

36. Although there are other life forms that penetrate your Earth space, fly in and partly also have their stations here, we correspond to the highest level of evolution of all.

37. The second most developed form of life after us lies little more than 1840 years of total evolution behind us.

38. Of all present extraterrestrial life forms, which currently live in the earthly space, we are therefore a little more than 1840 Earth years ahead in the total evolutionary standing.

{Billy:}

(We head to the ship and let ourselves be lifted by the transport beam. After a few seconds the ship is already hovering high, and from an altitude of about 50 metres I take some photos of the surroundings of the ship's departure point below. I take some straight from above, and others at an angle. I take them through the still open transport beam hatch, while we slowly rise. After I finish Semjase closes the hatch, and within seconds the ship shoots up several kilometres higher, without me being able to feel any acceleration or other external forces. It's just as if I was standing on solid ground somewhere on Earth. Also several sudden changes of direction cause no effect, even if through the ship's window I can see that we often shoot in different directions like a crazy giant pendulum.)

...

(The flight to Venus does not take very long, so I have just enough time to examine in more detail the equipment for making the photos: the viewing screen looks to me like clear glass, through which everything outside can be observed. I only notice that this whole viewing screen has a very fine resolution, similar to a photographic print. The size of the screen is about 50 x 50 cm (~20") while the colour-radiation device is installed on the side of it and recessed, so I could not examine its inner workings. Beside this device, there is also an oscillograph and many different kinds of apparatuses all around the cockpit room, installed within a circular control console and on the walls. All this strange-looking equipment, already seen on the first flight, is obviously used for the guidance and control of the beamship, while also serving as exploration devices, distance meters, radiation control devices, and other such things, all playing important roles in the operation of the flight machine. All the display screens, except the oscillograph, however, differ fundamentally from all other apparatuses of Earth origin I have ever seen of similar type, whereby all the appearing forms, symbols and figures on these screens are expressed in beautiful and often fantastic colours and also extraordinarily vividly. Unlike the Earth displays that I know, which in practice are only able to display flat 2-dimensional images lacking depth, these screens show everything in vivid 3-dimensional realism, like they are physically real and not just a technically generated image. ...

...

(Semjase now sets the ship to fast speed, and we go round Venus a number of times. ...

...

... When at 16:30 hrs we are back over the Earth, I can see several flying objects in free space; besides two satellites of Earth origin, I can also see five objects which with certainty are extraterrestrial spaceships. This is confirmed by Semjase, when I ask her about it. Only one of the five ships belongs to her people, whereas the other four spaceships belong to other races, who are here to watch the Apollo-Soyuz joining. Oddly, I cannot discern those objects through the ship's windows or the viewing screen of the photography device, but only on the beamship's image screens. Semjase explains to me that all the ships are masked from view and can only be detected through the special "zero-visibility" screens. The zero-visibility screens, she explains, use a special vision device that is able to capture and reproduce images of all that the naked eye and primitive monitoring devices such as radars cannot see or detect. ...

...

Semjase:

... with our technology we are 3,500 years of development ahead of yours.

...

{Billy:}

... I turn to Semjase, who sits in her oddly shaped conformable chair, and directs the beamship through the darkness of space ...

...

(At a distance difficult for me to estimate, a huge metal sphere is hanging in the darkness of space, reflecting only weakly the light of the Sun. Very slowly now the speed of the beamship decreases. Semjase is sitting very attentively before her instrument panels, steering knowingly and carefully in the direction of the huge sphere, which looks to me like a small planet. I can see, way down in the lower third, a little to the left, a big gap is opening laterally, which I soon recognise as an entrance hatch. It's doubtlessly a hangar, into which we are now slowly flying. Innumerable beamships of the same type as ours are standing there in orderly rows by rank and file, and only a 100 x 100 metre square of the hangar entrance is cleared. I look back at the hangar entrance and can see how a wall is moving from bottom to top and closing the entrance. Everything all around is now brightly illuminated, and the light, which is light blue, seems to come directly from the walls. The whole hangar is huge and this spherical ship, judging by these interior spaces, has to be gigantic. I ask Semjase for its measurements.)

Billy:

How big is this spaceship, Semjase?

Semjase:

74. It is big, it's even very big, and it's the largest of its type.

75. It is a truly special ship which embodies all the technologies known to us.

76. Altogether it is its own perfect world, a world that's able to fly.

77. In itself it contains a complete and inhabited city with 141,000 inhabitants.

78. Everything needed for living can be produced inside the ship itself, and it is absolutely independent of anything of any kind from outside its boundary.

79. This spaceship represents our latest development, and has been working together with other ones of this same kind for four years now in Earth's chronology.

80. They find useful applications as self-sustained expeditionary ships and for intergalactic order keeping.

81. They are able to move within all times and spaces, and for them negotiating the barrier between Universes is no longer an obstacle, whereby an all-universal community made of countless life-forms can be included.

...

94. With the help of her {Asket's} race from the DAL Universe, we came into possession of knowledge of higher technological capabilities and received the most exact data for the development of these great spaceships, which we have been using, as I said, for four of your Earth years now.

95. For Asket's people the handing over of this data was no problem because they mastered the way of overcoming distances that these ships are capable of more than 700 years ago.

96. In Earth years Asket's race is about 350 years ahead of us in development regarding all technological fields.

...

113. But now let's leave our ship because the room is atmospherically prepared for you as well.

114. We are in a security room, which is fully atmospherically pressurised even when gaps are open to outer space.

115. This whole space is nevertheless sealed off from the actual living area by invisible barriers, so that security is truly comprehensive.

(We let ourselves float through the shaft by the transport beam and stand on the metal floor of the great-spacer. For the first time now since I am outside the beamship, I realise that the cleared landing space of about 100 x 100 metres is surrounded by glass-clear walls, and that innumerable other small beamships are beyond these walls. Between these parked ships many human beings are rushing about, quite obviously involved with the various ships. But I also see walking mechanical figures, quite obviously robotic, which are hurrying quite busily along as well, executing various tasks. Very far beyond, I am just able to see some bigger beamships, which have completely different shapes from the ones hitherto known to me. Semjase occupies herself with a small device in her hand, and I see that before us the transparent wall opens and reveals an entrance. Then completely silently comes a small floating vehicle, not bigger in size than a Volkswagen car. It floats about 20cm above the floor and is equipped with very comfortable seats on top. Semjase asks me to take one of the seats beside her, and the peculiar moving vehicle floats away and slowly rises higher and higher. I look back and watch how the transparent wall closes up again after our beamship is taken by the previously seen robots into the main hangar-hall.

This hangar-hall seems to take up the whole lower-third part of the giant spaceship for its complete diameter, up to a height of about 600 to 800 metres (1,800 to 2,400 feet). The ceiling above, like the walls, also radiates a bluish light, which seems like the sky to me. And if I am not mistaken, there is a big opening above, exactly in the centre of the ceiling. Soon I can see that this is so, as we head in this direction in our floating transportation vehicle, and we climb up inside this opening. Also inside this shaft is the same gentle blue illumination coming from the walls. For minutes we climb up with increasing speed, until Semjase suddenly stops the floating vehicle and docks it into a side compartment in the wall. In here, there is an open space of approximately 2,000 x 1,000 metres, and I feel myself completely transported into a magical world. Wherever I look, I see green fields, trees, shrubs and flowers. A real little Garden of Eden in this space giant.)

...

Billy:

I mean, how far have we floated up inside this giant, how many metres?

Semjase:

118. Some 11,000 metres.

119. We have stopped here near the centre of the ship, which is where the actual city is located.

Billy:

Man oh man, then during this short time we have travelled with this vehicle, higher than our tallest mountain on Earth, higher than Mount Everest.

...

Semjase:

...

138. We will walk through the park's facilities now to another transport hub which will lift us up into the main control centre.

139. This is located in the top of the dome of the Great Spacer.

...

{Billy:}

(Slowly we walk along narrow paths through the parks. The paths are soft and not made of metal, but rather of some kind of plastic or something similar. Here is a fantastic world of flowers, of mostly completely unknown flowers and scents. But I also see flowers, bushes and trees exactly like the ones I know from Earth. It's simply a true paradise. We only take 20 minutes to cross the park, and then we stand again before a transportation pit with a vehicle floating in front of it, which we then use to drive up it, if I may use this term. With increasing speed, we float higher again, and suddenly the firmament lies open above us. As far as my eyes can see, over the end of the shaft I see nothing but the infinite vastness of the Universe. Stars twinkle, and I ask myself how could we have simply floated out into space because we should not be able to survive up here where there is no air. I understand things quickly though, as we reach the end of the shaft, because at this end lies the cupola which Semjase had spoken of. An enormous space exists here with console-like furnishings in which apparatuses and screens are imbedded. Before them are human beings and an unknown to me form of life, which I soon recognise as being bio-mechanical. Real bio-mechanical humans, androids. The whole command centre is a giant domed cupola several kilometres in diameter. Over the whole thing spreads the free cosmos, and I wonder how one can still breathe. Then I remember the completely transparent walls of the hangar, and it becomes evident to me that the whole ceiling of the cupola must consist of this transparent material. So I ask Semjase about it.)

Billy:

Semjase, can you explain to me, what is this transparent material, that the cupola is made of? Is it a kind of glass?

Semjase:

156. No, it is not glass, nor any kind of glass.

157. It is a very stable metal alloy, like the one used on the walls of the beamship hangar.

...

Billy:

You mean that everything is simply made transparent by technical means?

Semjase:

159. Sure, all the walls as well as the cupola are completely stable, and made of the hardest metal.

160. However through the radiations, resp. swinging waves generated by our equipment we can make everything transparent.

161. To the eye it then appears just so, as if there was simply nothing there, or as if you were looking through clear glass.

...

{Billy:}

(And once again we float on the vehicle towards the middle of the huge command centre. I can already recognise a horseshoe-shaped structure about 100 metres high, completely covered with apparatuses and image screens, and its centre is overall not bigger than an average room. A single bearded man stands inside this horseshoe, looking towards us. As Semjase brings our means of transportation towards an encircled area about 60 metres from the horseshoe, this watching man starts to move toward us, and I can now see him more clearly. He is wearing a suit similar to that of Semjase ...

...

... Now all three of us are sitting in very comfortable seats inside the horseshoe-shaped console. On the image screens all the planets of our sun-system can be seen ...

Billy:

Ptaah, how fast are we going now?

Ptaah:

20. Look here, this instrument displays the velocity.

21. You can read it very easily by yourself, even if you do not understand our script.

22. In your understanding, these lines stand for the decimals, and these sharp arrow-headed brackets mark the hundreds.

23. These half-height lines mark the thousands, and these point-lines the hundred-thousands.

24. These ring-lines here would mean for you the speed of light.

25. Now you can just add up the values and thus you calculate the speed yourself.

Billy:

...

This makes 289,000 kilometres per second. Is that right, Ptaah?

Ptaah:

...

27. You have counted correctly.

28. Our terms are different but they give equivalent values.

{Billy:}

(Semjase turns to her father and explains what I meant by "fantastic." He does not seem to understand it immediately. It is funny that I know these words in the Greek language since I have never known them before. Suddenly I am simply speaking perfect Greek, and I don't understand how, so I ask.)

Billy:

How is it, Semjase, that I can suddenly speak fully fluent Greek?

Semjase:

176. My father has turned off the language translator and has instead turned on the language transformer.

177. This device uses the ship's language computer.

178. This converter is now continuously transforming the desired Greek language into impulses, and transmitting them.

179. Your brain then detects these impulses, and with that you can speak each desired word without knowing it beforehand.

...

{Billy:}

... But with my watch it's also strange; when close to Semjase's beamship, the watch always went too fast or too slow. ...

...

Semjase:

314. Come now, let's go down to my beamship.

{Billy:}

(Semjase takes me by the hand and pulls me to a kind of metal box next to the horseshoe-shaped switch and control gear console. There is no door on the box, but instead, a hole in the floor measuring about one metre of diameter, which is illuminated by a shimmering blue light. A shaft that goes into an endless depth and seems to have no end. I look down and see that very far below, the walls of the shaft get closer and finally seem to touch. I cannot see the end. It's clear to me that the self-narrowing of the shaft far below is only an illusion. Man, and now we supposed are to step into it?)

Semjase:

315. Simply step into the shaft and let yourself slide down.

{Billy:}

... And I jump. Man, I am really hanging in the air, oh, now it's slowly going downwards; and now it gets faster and faster. Oh boy, this is really a sliding shaft. I look up; aha, there comes Semjase as well. Man, this is great, but why am I suddenly slowing down? Oh, there is already ground beneath me. I am standing on solid ground now, and here are again all the many beamships from before. We are at the hangar.)

(I see that the hangar doors have opened themselves during our short conversation. Now the small beamship slowly rises and floats towards Asket's huge spaceship which hangs in free space only a few hundred metres away. As in the giant from which we departed, we float into an airlock, which however is very much smaller than the one on Ptaah's space giant. Now we are inside, and immediately the opening closes behind us. Everything happens very quickly, and we then let ourselves float down through the exit to the floor of the small hangar. Here we stand now, and all around I see only metallic, light-emitting walls. There are no other beamships in here, only ours. Without a word, I follow Semjase, who approaches a wall on the right side in which an opening suddenly appears, through which we pass now. And behind us, the small passage closes again. We are now in a cozy room with very comfortable seating accommodations and some structures which obviously have to be tables. ...

...

Nera:

19. With us both sexes are acknowledged as both equally valuable and entitled.

20. For this reason our beamships are also manned accordingly by male and female life-forms, whereby every position is also filled alternately by both sexes.

...

Asket:

36. I only fear that the photos you take of me and Nera now, won't come out very well.

...

37. I know from my stay on Earth, that the images were always very poor, when they were taken aboard our ship or in the surroundings.

38. They mostly were very unsharp or simply blurred.

39. This has to do with certain energy radiations which are harmless to living forms, but distort everything, and often impair and change the colours of colour films.

...

Semjase:

439. We can only make our ship visible on very few worlds.

440. So we can't leave it either and have to be content with looking at everything from the beamships.

...

Ptaah:

380. That is why there are also various groups that are supposedly concerned with the enlightenment of things with us and our ships, but who in reality only use this as a pretext to consolidate and spread their religious sectarianism in order to thereby beat the world even worse into religious bondage.

...

Billy:

... I have heard and read that our scientists are trying to make their own earthly beamships. Is that true and how advanced are these things?

Ptaah:

383. This information is consistent with the truth to the extent that such flying apparatuses are in their infancy being built on Earth.

384. However, they are not beamships, but flying machines similar to our ships, equipped only with explosion engines or, more recently, with jet engines with recoil effect.

385. The construction of such ships on Earth in modern times is not entirely new, however, for the first ships of this kind were completed in planning and construction as early as 1941.

386. In mid-February 1945, the first flights were carried out up to altitudes of around 12500 metres, developing speeds of just over 2000 kilometres per hour.

387. It was all commissioned by the Führer of the Second World War, Adolf Hitler.

388. At the end of the war, however, everything was destroyed so that it would not fall into the hands of the enemy.

389. Various plans and devices and apparatuses, however, were overlooked and fell into other hands.

390. From these, various groups developed the disc-shaped ships of terrestrial origin that exist today.

391. These 'flying discs', as they are called by the designers, naturally require their test flights to test their properties, etc.

392. Many of these objects can therefore be observed by Earth-humans as they are flown about to be flown in or tested.

393. The largest of these terrestrial flying objects of this type already reach nearly 10 metres in diameter and are already quite numerous.

394. Of course, this is quite vigorously denied by the governments of the states possessing them.

395. However, their machines have often crashed, because they are still rather poorly developed in all respects.

396. But the uninitiated human beings of Earth live in the mistaken belief that these 'flying discs' they observe are of the same kind as our beamships and come from extraterrestrial worlds.

Billy:

So that is how it is. Then several of the UFOs observed around the world are not UFOs at all, but simply terrestrial 'flying discs'.

Ptaah:

397. That is so, yes.

398. Often they are also forced to make emergency landings because their constructions, devices and apparatus are still very inadequate.

399. Their explosion engines and jet engines, which they recently also want to operate atomically, but which are still wishes for the future, very often cause combustion damage.

400. Human beings who come into the vicinity of such combustion fires are so often also threatened by dangers of atomic radiation, starting from experimental atomic reactors, which are supposed to serve for propulsion, but which will not succeed for a long time yet.

401. If distressed ships of this kind are approached by observers, by which I mean that they go near them, then they are often frightened by the occupants, or even abducted and deported, in order to ensure their absolute silence.

402. Such occurrences are unfortunately not uncommon on the Earth, but through the ignorance of human beings and various unreal 'enlightenment striving' groups they are invariably attributed to extraterrestrial life-forms.

403. In truth, there are probably also malignant intelligences from outer space that haunt your Earth or stray there, but there are not so many of them that they would be of great significance.

404. Most observations of 'flying discs' with human predations are of terrestrial origin.

405. Earth-humans should be aware of this when they encounter any 'flying discs' whose occupants are well aware of the fact that very many human beings believe these objects to be of extraterrestrial origin.

406. This knowledge is also very often exploited by them by imagining some gullible Earth-humans as extraterrestrial intelligences.

407. Aware of their religious power, they also do not shy away from pretending to be angels and God's messengers and appearing as 'saviours' of Earth-humans, whereby they then proclaim the deceived gullible to be contactors and assign them mysterious missions which are supposedly for the benefit of Earth-humans, but which in reality only serve their own profit and the benefit of their own country's espionage.

408. The most popular places of origin these malevolent deceptive elements and occupants of earthly 'flying discs' name are Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus.

409. But also the nearest neighbouring systems of your solar system have to serve for this, as well as the Pleiades in the coming time, when you will have become world-famous through your contacts with us.

410. In the process, my daughter Semjase and my person will also be falsely accused of being contact beings with Earth-humans who are fraudulent in this respect, as well as alleged Pleiades beings who do not exist.

...

Billy:

... I know that my wristwatch always goes crazy when I get close to Semjase's beamships. ...

...

Billy:

... You know that your daughter has given me several opportunities to photograph her beamships. Once my camera actually exploded in my hand due to some kind of swinging waves from the ship. This vibration factor was then switched off by you. ...

...

Ptaah:

779. My daughter explained to you at the time that we had found radiation on the photos and films that we wanted to analyse, which is why you also gave us the film material.

{Note: See Contact Report 11, Semjase sentences 50-57.}

780. On the one hand, we found that some of the radiation had been caused by a planet of the SOL system {Saturn} and was now slowly subsiding, but on the other hand, we also analysed radiation in Semjase's new beamships, which caused mirage-like reflections.

781. However, this radiation is neither dangerous nor significant.

782. It does, however, have a tendency to cause an object to shift optically when the ship gets too close.

...

Billy:

That is interesting. I have already seen various weapons in Semjase's beamships, but also in Asket's ship when she was on Earth. Sfath also had weapons on board, and your space giant is also equipped with a wide variety of weapons. Now how does this rhyme with various claims that extraterrestrial intelligences would not have any weapons or at least would not use them? I know from various UFO reports today that it is always claimed that peace is produced by peace, etc.

Ptaah:

1018. These are just crazy claims of fraudulent do-gooders who unquestioningly feign contacts with extraterrestrials in order to promote their fanciful wishes, which are extremely unrealistic.

1019. Neither we nor any other life-form in this or any other universe can afford to have no or unsuitable weapons.

1020. Every single life-form race in the universe has weapons of all kinds, just as you do on Earth.

Semjase:

233. For a long time I have promised you that I will take you into another dimension one day.

234. If you want, then we can visit this three-world dimension, although I would also have to order father there.

235. With my beam ship I can penetrate into that or any other dimension, but I cannot return.

236. We'll need Father's spaceship to do that.

Semjase:

40. No, you may recognise it through the viewing window because the visibility of the radiation occurs through a radiation shield that is spread out by the entire ship.

...

Semjase:

260. Mount Shasta is an old volcanic mountain with a partially still unexplored area in America, or more precisely, in northern California.

...

262. In the interior of the mountain itself is a small city, which is inhabited by descendants of extraterrestrials and which, here and there, also receives a visit from their space brothers from outer space.

263. It is a very majestic race, peaceful and good, but which anxiously strives not to be discovered by Earth-humans.

...

266. Their golden spaceships of a spherical form – for they master spaceflight – can sometimes be seen when they do not protect these from view.

...

Ptaah:

10. The world there {Note: one of three worlds existing in a dimension which was previously accessible through a naturally occurring “dimension gate” (which no longer exists) in the “Bermuda Triangle”} is about 870 years ahead of your time; thus, the human beings are also accordingly developed in their technology and have their own beamships, with which they arrive at your Earth every now and then.

...

{Billy:}

(With Ptaah's Great Spacer, we glide out into space, while Semjase and I let ourselves fall into the transportation chute and, in the hangar, go to her ship. Soon, we glide out of the airlock into free space ...

...

Semjase:

354. Surely, because we are foreigners here; that is why I also had to put the protective screen into effect around my beamship.

355. The human beings of this dimension and time have, indeed, become much more peaceful than those on your world in your time, but they are still barbaric and quite aggressive, so they would force us to land, which would be very unpleasant for us.

...

357. Look over there; that is one of their beamships.

Billy:

Beamships? Girl, then these elves already master space travel!

Semjase:

358. Sure, they also have about 500 years more development behind themselves than the Earth-humans of your time, which I already said.

...

Billy:

But still, look – the beamships that they have. I know those from somewhere. I have seen those before. Wait, ah yes – you, they look remarkably similar to the fantasy products of spaceships, which I recently saw on television. It was the broadcast of a futuristic story by the name of Orion {Note: possibly referring to a 1966 German TV show called Raumpatrouille: Die phantastischen

Abenteuer des Raumschiffes Orion.} The ship over there looks deceptively like that thing on TV.

...

Semjase:

360. That is, however, not the case.

361. Consider what I already explained to you once before, namely that certain Earth-humans receive data and information from external telepathic impulses and unconsciously, so also authors and such people.

362. Thus, they describe things and possibilities of the future and also make drawings and models.

363. Through this, they slowly prepare the Earth-humans and, in particular, the scientists for the coming events, cognitions, and forms and give them the drive for development.

364. Hence, if you now see the beamship out there, which corresponds to the form known to you, then for this, you can also find the reason for it in my explanation.

...

Ptaah:

221. If you want to take pictures on Venus, however, then you need a light source with your camera.

222. I have various specialised, small beamships with strong light sources.

223. I will let two of these aircraft fly with you, so you can take pictures through their light.

...

{Billy:}

... Then, she {Semjase} goes back up into space, and there, I see a UFO flying over the Moon again, which I had already noticed during an earlier flight and which was christened "Sewing Machine" by Hans Jacob. Of course, I film this, too. ...

...

Billy:

But we are hovering right over my house.

Semjase:

367. Even so, any observers would not be able to see us; my ship is shielded.

...

{Billy:}

(I let myself slide through the hatch, and suddenly, I do not see the beamship anymore. I raise my hand upward, and sure enough, my hand just disappears, but I sense that it meets with metal. Thus, the ship is there, even though I cannot see it anymore. So I leave, and as I am standing only a few metres away on the street, I feel a slight pull. I quickly go back with an outstretched arm, but I cannot feel anything. There, Semjase's voice penetrates into me.)

Semjase:

373. I am already very high above you; just look.

{Billy:}

(I look up into the sky. There, a large light, which is now quickly becoming smaller, moves very quickly and vertically into the sky and soon disappears.)

Billy:

Quite simply; we would like to know what kind of metal you use for your beamships.

Semjase:

34. I can explain that to you:

35. Through a transformation process, we gain it from lead.

36. We extract this soft metal from many things, e.g. from lead-containing atmospheres of stars and planets, from waters, from various plants, etc., as well as from various ore rocks of destroyed stars and planets, comets, etc. exposed to decay.

37. Through a process that is very complicated on the Earth, we convert the captured lead substances into the soft metal lead, which we then convert into a hard metal form through further chemical-mechanical processes, which is much harder than your metal, which you call steel.

38. This, however, is unsuitable in its form for beamships, which is why it is converted by further conversion processes into an alloy with certain values and properties suitable for beamships, about which, however, I am not allowed to give any further details.

39. The end product, which must have very special properties, then consists of an alloy.

Billy:

I understood that so far, but what metals does this alloy consist of? Do we have similar metals on the Earth?

Semjase:

40. Sure, you have the exact same metals that exist all over the universe on the stars and planets and so on.

41. This, however, does not mean that all metal ores which are present in the universe, are to be found on the Earth.

Billy:

That is to be assumed, but you have not fully answered my question. I wanted to know what metals the alloy was made of?

Semjase:

42. Let me explain that to you:

43. It is a copper-nickel-silver alloy that also contains gold for certain beamships.

Billy:

... It is only now not yet clear to me how you actually process the metal, because neither on your beamship nor on Ptaah's giant box could I see joints or seams, etc. Nothing is riveted either.

Semjase:

38. For this purpose we use a device that you would call a welding machine.

39. However, it is based on a vibration technique that liquefies the metal in a cold state and allows it to flow into each other, making it absolutely seamless and forming a single piece.

40. That is why we do not know about grinding metal like you do when you do welding and then have to grind away the seams to level it out.

...

42. Our technology ensures that seam breaks or tears can never occur.

Semjase:

58. Anyway, you shall take several pictures of my new ship.

Billy:

What does the new vehicle look like?

Semjase:

59. The measurements remain approximately the same and only small changes occur in the outer cladding.

60. The great innovations are housed inside and offer many more possibilities than is the case in my current ship.

61. With the new one, I am also able to penetrate dimensions in both directions.

Semjase:

7. I am here with five of our reconnaissance ships which analyse everything.

Semjase:

89. ... the light of the telemeter ships corresponds to a special value and serves the course determination.

90. As you have rightly noticed, it has a certain interval and is very bright.

91. These are radio-like impulses which serve the control.

92. If you now extinguish these, which you consider to be light, by your thought forces, then the telemeter ship gets out of control and it moves out of course uncontrolled, so it must first be brought under control again by the station on the Earth.

...

Semjase:

104. – – – Goodbye, my thoughts will be with you.

105. It is often very ...

{Billy:}

(I only hear the last words of Semjase weakly and the rest of the sentence not at all anymore, because I glide down the antigravity shaft and remove myself quickly, sit down on my moped and drive away ... )

Semjase:

84. None of us was there, but it turned out that there was indeed a ship, but of unknown origin.

85. Quetzal was able to clarify that it was a ship with an electrical energy combustion engine that was apparently in distress and had a defect that could be repaired.

86. They pointed out clear residues of radiation traces, together with combustion phenomena in the plant world, as well as that four fruitless start attempts had been undertaken, but that the fifth attempt succeeded.

87. This also explains the intense glow you have seen.

88. With the yellow light appearances we noticed in the grass of the airfield that four further ships of the same kind must have stayed there.

89. There were no burns to be found, but residues of electrical radiation energies.

90. According to the measurements, these were probably small ships with a diameter of less than four metres.

91. These devices must have escaped our monitoring as they were not registered by us.

92. They were certainly surrounded by protection shields.

93. Moreover these apparatuses are no longer in terrestrial space, which Quetzal was able to analyse, but this does not mean, that they will not come back.

...

Billy:

Now another question: You explained to me at the beginning of our acquaintance that your beamships are equipped with a light emitting drive and further with a tachyon drive. Is that why you call the ships beamships?

Semjase:

147. No, because the drives you mentioned do not correspond to direct beam drives.

148. The beam drives were of a different kind, and we have not used them for about 400 years, although we have kept the name beamships for ourselves.

149. My ship, which I still had in my possession at our first encounter, was still half radiant, which is why you were able to see the radiations.

150. However, these were only highly concentrated light beams.

151. My last ship already had an antigravity propulsion based on the principle of repulsion.

152. However, this drive was only suitable for planetary flight, while the tachyon drive was retained for free space.

153. The present ship is equipped with an antimatter propulsion system for free space, which was developed more than 50,000 years ago.

...

Billy:

... How heavy is your current ship with the construction?

Semjase:

157. It is about 700 kilos heavier than the last one.

Billy:

That would be 1½ tonnes?

Semjase:

158. Certainly.

Billy:

... Has one of your beamships, a reconnaissance ship or a telemeter disc ever crashed since you returned to the Earth?

Semjase:

67. No, our equipment of this kind and those we have here are completely crash proof.

...

Billy:

... So I want to ask the first question. Amata writes it this way: "Are these large ships, which I see again and again, with a large superstructure and many cabins, simply spaceships or even large-capacity ships? How many people are on a ship like this?"

Quetzal:

5. This description of the objects is neither one nor the other, but quite simply very large emigration ships with an average diameter of 120 kilometers, with a capacity for human life-forms of around one million.

6. These gigantic ships serve exclusively for emigration purposes, especially when a world is very endangered and destruction is to be considered.

7. These are the same giant migratory ships that were used by our ancestors at the earliest times, when they came from the Lyra-Vega region to Earth and later also settled on our Plejaren constellation.

8. Their external shape and size have been maintained since then, but they have been subject to constant innovations of a technological form, so they are equipped today according to the state of the art.

9. When Amata received our teleimpulses as teleprojections, she saw everything in an extremely reduced form, because she would not have been able to grasp and overview the gigantic size and the reality of it.

Billy:

Aha, then she practically saw something like models?

Quetzal:

10. No, that is not quite so, because she sees the projections as quite large.

Billy:

... It would be very valuable for us if we could film and photograph good tracks of your ships. Would it be possible for you to 'ground' the two barges instead of letting them float, so that the plate marks in the grass would be visible, which we could then capture on film?

...

Quetzal:

2. It is not advisable to leave tracks, but I understand your concern.

...

5. We will put our beamships on the supports.

Billy:

... Take a look at this photo – are these the two reconnaissance ships?

Semjase:

4. Certainly, but only the ionization shells are visible.

...

Billy:

... We have already noticed several times that the grass and bushes, etc. are pressed down anti-clockwise in a spiral inwards to the centre when the landing supports of your and Quetzal's ship are lowered down. That is not understandable to us, because as I have seen, the plates of the landing supports do not rotate.

Semjase:

...

149. The round surfaces of the landing supports, like the whole ship, vibrate in a spiral-shaped anti-gravity vibration, which, as you have rightly observed, forms counter-clockwise from the outside to the centre.

150. The underside of the ship has four such centres, three of which are located in the landing supports, while the fourth forms the centre of the ship in the underside part.

Billy:

Well, that sounds quite plausible. But how is it that the grass or undergrowth does not stand up again after some time, but grows unchanged for weeks in its spiral path along the ground? We now have tracks that are more than four weeks old and that have not changed in the least. The new grass and undergrowth, etc. simply grows up again between the spirally curved stalks.

Semjase:

...

152. The anti-grav-swinging wave, which is much stronger than the gravitational vibration of the planet itself, causes a gravitational change in the plant life-forms, thus they hold themselves down by a very minimal antigravity force, i.e. a counter-gravity, and counteract the normal gravitation of the Earth, then they continue to grow lying in their spiral form, because the plant-forms are not damaged by breaking off.

...

154. In these cases, the antigravity vibration does not lie under the plants, but on them, so if it presses them down from above and repels the gravitational force above them, the stalks remain lying.

155. Of course, the gravitational force of the Earth itself also plays an important role, which makes its attraction effective.

Billy:

... Can Menara also come then? Maybe she can also leave tracks some day?

Semjase:

7. Of course she will come one day, but with the tracks it might be a bit more difficult.

8. For planetary flights, her ship has a propulsion system that generates gas clusters close to the Earth, which ignite and scorch the ground.

9. That is why she usually does not set her ship down, but lets it float.

...

11. ... it would burn everything within a radius of several meters.

...

Billy:

... I just went through several newspaper reports today about a UFO in Persia. It is supposed to

...

Semjase:

21. I know the reports, but we were not able to clear things up.

22. Our telemeter discs indeed registered the entry of an object unknown to us into terrestrial space, but it had simply disappeared without a trace and could not be found by any means when we tried to do so.

...

Billy:

... Those stupid cows there, they are still mooing across the whole neighbourhood together. If only they could be quiet.

Semjase:

48. They are affected by my ship; they are influenced by the vibrations of the safety devices.

...

Billy:

... But tell me, was his {Sfath's} pear-shaped ship one of your usual ships? You had a completely different 300-year-old box.

Semjase:

85. His ship was a gift from a Sirian people.

Billy:

You mean from people of Sirius?

Semjase:

86. Sure, from one of the two inhabited planets of Sirius, but in a different space-time continuum.

Semjase:

14. In their lack of understanding and in their ignorance the erroneously lead ones seek fantastic explanations in technological, paranormal and purely intellectual areas, whereby the most impossible hypotheses are presented, and indeed also in the form that we are angels and God's messengers or that we come in evil and world-conquering, as well as with Earth-human abduction, intentions, etc., which of course all corresponds to evil nonsense.

15. In the main, these erroneously lead ones deal with purely sectarian and esoteric-parapsychological deficiencies as well as with the technical possibilities and construction methods of our ships, whereas they completely disregard our important task itself and the associated values and have no idea of it.

16. This is typical for the human being of the Earth, because he/she always reaches only for the material and completely overlooks the fundamental values, namely the spiritual and consciousness-based ones, about which he/she then makes up unbelievable fantasies and even claims that jet ships and spaceships, etc. are driven by spiritual forces and that they are also built according to spiritual models, etc.

17. This is as malicious a misleading claim as the one that we were moving in paranormal realms.

...

107. Unfortunately, my sister is also travelling with my ship at the moment, which is why I came here with Menara's ship, which also does not have the same technological possibilities as my aircraft.

Billy:

... You told me recently that an Earth-foreign spaceship has been roaming the Earth's space for months, seeking contact with Earth-humans, but that it does not dare to do so. Where does this ship come from and why do you not make contact with it?

Semjase:

217. It is very strange with this, because with all possible means we have tried to contact them uselessly so far, and when we appear, the ships flee.

Billy:

Why now, all of a sudden?

Semjase:

218. Because there are several of them, as we have now discovered.

219. All of them are of a white-radiating or green-radiating colour, often with a strange red-orange tail behind them, containing substances unknown and alien to us, which are currently being analysed by our scientists.

220. With regard to these objects, our probability calculations still reveal some indefinable surprises.

Billy:

... but say, can I not actually talk to my people from here via the radio?

Semjase:

16. You have already tried it several times, but you did not succeed.

...

Billy:

... But now to the radio again: so you got the point that I had pressed the talk button each time?

Semjase:

20. Sure, but the ship absorbs everything and you cannot penetrate out with your device.

21. Look here, connect your antenna here, then you can talk and have connection with the other devices.

{Note: This seems to be an attempt to use a walkie-talkie.}

...

Billy:

... ah, there's Kloten {airport} down there. ...

...

... Does the ship light up outside now?

Semjase:

29. Sure, but only weakly.

30. But it still cannot be detected by radar.

Semjase:

62. I will let you down with the teleporter, right next to the old man there.

63. He is Jacobus' father, isn't he?

Billy:

That is him. He will soon be eighty. – Can you still let the ship buzz a bit about this? You know, as a surprise?

Semjase:

64. Sure, but you will not hear it in the ship.

Billy:

It's not for me. Well, then I get out. But do not just let me get off, or I'll break all my bones. We are quite high above the trees here.

Semjase:

65. You know that such mistakes do not happen.

Billy:

... But, now tell me why all the dogs here and also the chickens do not behave crazily, because usually they always do when there is a beamship nearby. Today, however, the animals behave completely normally, if I exclude the mother dog Anita. Why is that?

Menara:

34. The young dogs are very adorable. –

35. Your question has to be answered to the effect that my ship is not a beamship, but a flying apparatus with a compaction aggregate that can fly by densification and the highly compressed emission of atmospheric gases.

36. This does not agitate the animals, whereas with the beamships which emit radiation and swinging waves, the animals get excited, become restless and even run away.

Billy:

Aha, and with what propulsion do you fly in space?

Menara:

37. My ship, which I currently own, is not capable of space flight.

Billy:

Oh, I see, but at least you can screen it from sight. Where did you leave it, anyway?

Menara:

38. It floats directly here above this place, 27 metres high, and we have known the technology of shielding for 42,983 years.

Billy:

... When Menara and Alena were here on July 6th, I took a lot of pictures of the ray gun and the tree that was shot through. Afterwards first, namely on the slides, we made some quite strange observations. First of all there was Jacobus' tractor photographed in different pictures, although at that time it was not in the place, but in Wila. In second and third place were the shed and the dwelling house respectively the part of the barn and the wooden gate next to it, the passage and the trees, etc. so crooked on the pictures as if the film had been damaged by heat and had caused distortions. But this is not the case, because the films are completely in order. Could it therefore perhaps be possible that these things were caused by the protective shield that Menara had placed around the area from the ship? ...

Semjase:

212. The reference of your first question could not only be so, because it really was so.

213. Menara erected the protective shield so that which you mentioned could come about, to explain to you, and of course to all the others in your group, what we can do with the protective shields.

214. The explanation for the processes is very simple:

215. The appearance of the tractor on the film is an as yet unknown form of visualisation of all matter by a type of infrared radiation, as yet unknown.

216. Probably the earthly science is so far along, that it knows of the infrared light and many of its application possibilities, so e.g. such as making any matter visible, which has already been removed hours or days before from its location to be photographed.

217. The relevant and previous earthly technique is usually only able to capture shadow outlines, while our technique is so far developed that an object is reproduced in all its details and true to nature.

218. The tilting, as you call it, of the buildings is quite simply due to the fact that everything that is not in the immediate range of radiation appears blurred or distorted, while in the process with the tractor the former location was in the immediate range of the radiation.

...

Semjase:

230. This is partly because more and more steps have been taken by various departments of your army to monitor you in particular, and under certain circumstances, they hope, erroneously, to get hold of us.

231. This special part is also the reason why we have not recently ordered you out to our contacts, but have brought you directly into our ships through transmitters.

...

Billy:

... I also got a glimpse of why so many telemeter disks were pulling away over the center because of the faceted trajectories of the magnetic currents.

Semjase:

263. That is also correct, and if you are talking about it right now:

264. You should really refrain from your pranks in the future and not take the discs off course at every opportunity you get.

265. Although our technicians have now equipped them with special track stabilisers that work automatically when the corrective illumination is switched off by thought influences, these stabilisers are not yet so perfected that they are fully functional.

Billy:

And what about your technology?

Semjase:

266. The prepared track stabilisers of this form have only been developed since then, since you have been constantly driving the discs off course with your funny pranks.

267. We were not aware of any problems about this before, which is why a new invention first had to be made, which is not yet fully developed at the present time, but which will be soon.

Billy:

Not much can happen if I let the little things dance a little across the sky, can it? Or do the little apparatuses suddenly flash down?

Semjase:

268. They cannot crash, at least not ours, but there is a danger that they will collide if they suddenly stray from the prescribed path and fall into the trajectory of another.

Billy:

It will not be that bad, because then they just dissolve, as you once said.

Semjase:

269. Sure, but that only applies to our own registering-discs.

270. Those of the other participants would crash.

Billy:

But it is still kind of fun to direct the things a bit.

Semjase:

271. I know you, like every human life-form, need the constant testing of your powers of consciousness, but please use them elsewhere, only not directly on our telemeter discs.

Semjase:

27. Sure, it is – ah, just a minute –, so. [a plane approaches them]

Billy:

He almost rammed us. That is Koni with his flying rust bucket.

Semjase:

28. He cannot see us, so we cannot blame him.

29. Besides, he could not ram us, as you say, because he would be thrown back by the protective belt of the ship.

30. It was a bit dangerous for him.

Billy:

Now he banks there without knowing that his crate was almost smashed.

Semjase:

31. That could not have been possible, because the protective sensors would have taken the ship off its flight course on their own.

Billy:

Then he was lucky again.

Semjase:

32. Nothing could have happened to him.

...

Semjase:

34. My ship has many forms of weapons, as you know, such as a ray projector of a similar shape to the one you used to make the hole in the tree.

35. I will destroy the nest by burning the surface.

...

40. Here, through this sight, you can regulate the dimensions of the rays, by which I mean the radiating surface of the beam.

41. You can move this disc here through this sliding device and thus regulate the further radiation.

42. This allows you to precisely define and determine the entire combustion source.

43. When you then touch this small elevation, the energy escapes from a hair-fine opening on the underside of the ship in order to destroy the target through a form of radiation.

44. Here you can still regulate the strength of the combustion, so that you do not hurt the tree any deeper.

...

53. I am sure you only laugh when I explain to you that we first have to spend several hours with this device in order to be able to operate it properly.

Semjase:

4. A stationary telemeter disk will float high above the Center and continuously transmit the events under permanent connection with our station, which guarantees a certain protection from our side until the completion of the Sohar-Centre {see the last entry here, a meditation area at the Semjase Silver Star Center}.

Billy:

Jacobus and my children observed, last night after dark, how some glowing object the size of a football had descended below us behind this range of hills and climbed up again after about three minutes, suddenly shrinking and quickly disappearing. Therefore, I have now looked back and made two observations that indicate that there must have been a beamship down there. Some bushes and also the grass are depressed, but as if the ship had not landed directly, but only floated, whereby the greenery was probably only depressed by antigravity forces or something similar. On the other hand, I found a roe deer lying there for no apparent reason – dead. Somewhat flattened, it seemed to me as if the animal had been pressed to the ground and thus pressed to death. I therefore had the idea that the animal got into the protective shield area of a ship and was pushed to death by it.

...

Semjase:

5. ... I myself was here last night to call you for another contact.

6. I lowered my ship to the clearing and overlooked the grazing deer because it was a bit hidden between the bushes.

7. So it got into the protective shield of the ship and was killed within fractions of a second, which is very painful for me.

...

10. ... I should have been more careful, because I know that by redesigning the propulsion systems of our ships, those swinging-waves that have frightened away animals of all kinds no longer appear.

Billy:

What if you were to then build some kind of apparatus or device that would generate these swinging-waves?

Semjase:

11. Such or a similar device already exists, but it has not yet been used in my ship.

12. However, this is not a device to scare the animals away, but it acoustically signals immediately when a life form endangered by the protective field is in the danger zone, whereby at the same time impulses automatically switch on a safety mechanism and bring the ship out of the zone endangering the life form.

Semjase:

39. This will only begin in the course of the next year, whereby we will then keep all swinging-waves and radiations of these persons away from the power centres by absorption through the telemeter disc already positioned high above your centre.

40. This is so that they can do no harm in the centre, so that they can meditate in the centre, but no storage will take place and all of their swinging-waves of the emotions, thoughts and feelings will be continuously neutralised, thus excluding any harm by the doubting group members, as you call these group members.

Semjase:

101. Our beamships and spaceships are mostly controlled by female life forms, which is the truth.

102. This is because female persons are very well suited for these positions, because they do not require very large physical forces, but on the other hand they are much more sensitive and thus more sociable in the communicative field than male life forms.

103. These are the main reasons why, as a rule, more female persons fill these positions, but this is not the case with all space races, because there are also human races in the wide space, which in their delusion, as with terrestrial humans, grant only the male life forms the right or all rights, while the female life forms are pushed aside.

Semjase:

55. First inspections in the last 70 minutes have now revealed that last Monday during the night time one of our large surveillance discs in the area of Southern Europe registered a foreign flying ship, but did not transmit this to the station, because it had not stored this data due to a disturbance field, which registered itself as of natural origin in our surveillance devices, and thus also had not transmitted it to our station.

56. Checking this disk now revealed that its equipment had not been shut down for seconds by a natural Earth interference field in any wise, but that an artificial interference field from some flying ship had caused this brief damage, controlled by some intelligence.

57. What remained unobserved during the disturbance of our surveillance equipment was an image recorder that automatically recorded the foreign flying machine in the moving image, after which we now know that this cylindrical ship, about 12 meters in diameter, is somewhere on the Earth – where, unfortunately, we do not yet know.

58. Apparently it is equipped with some kind of protective shield, which made our analysers ineffective and we could not determine the location.

Semjase:

7. However, we were able to ascertain with certainty that their ship has not yet left the earthly space, so it is still somewhere camouflaged and shielded in a hiding place.

...

10. According to the Cygner, the four ships with unknown whereabouts are older expedition ships, which unfortunately only have very limited means of remote communication on a technological basis.

11. This means that the Cygner here on Earth cannot communicate with their home planet, precisely because their means of remote communication cannot bridge the distance of 2,000 light-years.

12. The maximum range of their devices is unfortunately less than 1,400 light-years.

Semjase:

32. But now I have to explain to you that in the future you should only devote yourself to your work.

33. But that you can do this again, as always, it is necessary that I take you with me to my ship for a few minutes to regenerate your nerves and also some other things in you.

Billy:

It makes me wonder whether you can also travel to the past and the future with Menara's ship?

Quetzal:

83. It is possible ...

...

88. But – – – where do you want to go?

Billy:

To Frisco, my son, to San Francisco, but to the future. Namely, to the time when the city was destroyed by the great earthquake. I would be interested to know what everything looks like when the first heavy quake is over, and that is exactly what I want to photograph. ...

Quetzal:

...

91. Of course, I agree with that, but it takes several hours if I want to go there with you.

92. This old ship, I do not have another one available at the moment, needs a longer preparation time, after which you will only be back in normal time at dawn.

...

102. Come here, look – here this floor hatch, as you can see, after the plate has been pushed aside it releases this very finely dotted viewing plate, through which you can look directly outside.

103. You can photograph through it.

Billy:

I do, Quetzal, but you know that when I take pictures in the ship, they are always very blurred and blurred afterwards. Is there no other possibility, do you know that I might be able to get off?

Quetzal:

104. You have the best overview from above, here from the ship.

105. On the other hand this time you will bring sharp and clear pictures onto your film, because the propulsion of this ship does not affect your film by radiating.

106. You just have to make sure that you do not photograph directly under the drive surface, because the very strong light radiation could affect the film.

107. The slightest damage to the film could be that the finished images would appear to be illuminated by a light source.

108. In the worst case an overexposure would occur.

Billy:

Is it the light that goes so far down there and looks like a spotlight?

Quetzal:

109. That is correct. So make sure that these light masses do not reach your shooting range.

Billy:

... Hello Miranos 5. Salü Elsi. ... Agapulla and Jacobus obviously tried to call for me, Quetzal. Why do I not hear anything? Ah, now Elsi is obviously trying too.

Quetzal:

97. The waves of their transmitters are absorbed by our aircraft.

98. Menara's ship is not suitable for this.

Semjase:

9. Quetzal brought you into our ship with the porter {teleportation device}, examined you very closely, and diagnosed you here via the apparatuses.

10. There are, therefore, no doubts about its findings.

11. It was also the one who connected you to this regeneration device, in order to eliminate the most dangerous illness effects.

12. That is why you feel much better now.

13. Your moisture discharge, which you call sweat and which you noticed, is also because of this treatment referred to you, and it will still continue to persist for approximately one hour.

Quetzal:

28. I understand. You can only use these apparatuses {typewriters} with difficulty because they have somehow become foreign to you, and due to other people working with them, the mechanics have shifted, whereby you would have difficulties.

Billy:

Exactly, that is it. Do you also have the same problems yourselves then?

Semjase:

33. Sure.

Billy:

Aha, is that, perhaps, also one of the reasons that all or at least many of you have your own beamships?

Quetzal:

29. That is the true reason, that is of correctness.

30. We only use other apparatuses of any kind that are not adapted to us if some circumstances require it.

Billy:

... But I now know from Ptaah's Great Spacer that this is possible for you today and that you know how to locate any structural vibration in any area of the past or future within seconds on the basis of computer analyses.

Semjase:

48. The objects observed and photographed by you come from the Andromeda areas, and these are fine-material flying objects – similar to the bio-organic flying objects that you know.

49. In this case, however, it is such that these flying objects are fine-material and not bio-organic and that these, depending on preference and need, are generated by powers of consciousness from a very highly developed, human dwarf race, whose size amounts to approximately 70 cm, whereby I speak of body height.

50. This race, which is even unknown to us, is fine-dimensioned and stands in the advice of the High Council ...

...

53. Anyhow, the High Council became informed and enlightened by these Nabulianians – so they are, in fact, called ...

...

Semjase:

71. When I receive my new beamship, which, however, can no longer be designated as a beamship, for it belongs to a completely new technology, which is currently running towards that state with us, where it is perfected.

Billy:

Hello, there is a rather strong storm up here. If you do not manoeuvre the ship, then... damn, we will ram the treetop. – Already done. Good day, my child, I am happy to see you. If you get me the treetop, I could use that at the turn of the year as a Christmas tree. It would be something different, so a top of a full-grown fir. It certainly measures 32 metres.

Semjase:

...

3. Yes, there is a strong turbulence here, and I will get you the top of the tree.

4. Unfortunately, I had to turn off the protective shields and the stabilisation fields when I brought you up; therefore, the ship was exposed to the storm gusts, by which means we, unfortunately, damaged the tree.

Billy:

... Two days ago, at night and during the snow removal, we saw from the Centre three orange-coloured, large, and smoking lights, which held themselves over the crest of the hill for about 20 seconds in each case, before they plummeted and disappeared. The first time was around 20:00 hrs, and the same example still followed two times, after about 10 minutes each. Was our military, perhaps, at work there, or were these some ships that carried out energy combustions?

Semjase:

...

127. No, this was no one from us or from others of our groups, even though that which you all observed looked deceptively similar to our energy combustions.

128. The light phenomena observed by you all were of a private, Earth human nature and had no relation whatsoever with any flying objects of extraterrestrial origin.

Billy:

Aha, then some happy-go-lucky sorts of fellows or the military functioned there.

Semjase:

129. Surely.

Billy:

... you can get the most important things much more quickly and in greater detail from the monitoring disc, I mean from the recording device.

Semjase:

108. I cannot do that, unfortunately, because during our departure, we failed to insert larger recording elements, which is why now only a single month is recorded.

...

Billy:

... My question now is whether the videotapes, the cassettes, will be impaired or damaged if I come into the proximity of the ship with them?

Semjase:

204. That is unfortunately so, which is why you must be extremely careful.

205. Our ships have different magnetic vibrations, which would destroy your cassettes.

...

Semjase:

... I can bring down to Earth at least one large telemeter disc, about 125 to 200 centimetres in diameter, for the film and photo work, which you can then film in such a manner that you will stand with this and touch it.

Semjase:

10. Nevertheless, we will take pictures of one of our telemeter discs.

11. However, these are magnetic path-bound, which is why we cannot bring one of these down to the Earth's surface outside a terrestrial magnetic path.

...

14. It is also possible to place a telemeter disc on either side of 150 kilometres as the crow flies from your centre.

...

Billy:

I understand. Your words also mean, therefore, that the magnetic path mentioned by you has a diameter of about 300 kilometres, solely in which it is possible to take pictures of a telemeter disc, as you can only bring them down within this distance.

...

Semjase:

41. Do you want to get out?

Billy:

In this pouring rain? I would become soaking wet and drown in this.

Semjase:

42. Oh no, I will put the protective screen over the ship, on which the water will then roll off.

...

Billy:

But then the tall grass is still soaking wet, and I with my house slippers...

Semjase:

44. That is no problem, my friend, wait a moment ...

...

45. We can get out, and in a few seconds, the meadow will be as dry as if the Sun had shone down on it for many hours.

...

48. Here under the protective screen, you can see everything much more sharply and more clearly than is possible outside of it.

Semjase:

5. But at the same time, you also have to be aware that the sounds of my ship are so loud when in full action that they can be heard for miles.

...

11. The group members should then position themselves in front at the crossroads at the barn and should let no stranger through when I release the sounds of my ship and they resound through the countryside.

12. Inevitably, people will then come running or approach there from far away because the sounds will be heard very far.

13. So it will then be the group members' job to keep these people away from you and me.

Billy:

Is the noise so very loud in full action, then?

Semjase:

14. You will see.

15. You will shake from the vibrations, when the air bursts and rips.

...

Semjase:

24. For this reason, Quetzal – just a few hours after our conversation on June 15th, so about a month ago – removed the small monitoring disc over the Centre, so therefore, now no more recordings will be made.

25. This also means, however, that the meditative centre is no longer under the neutralising influence of this disc, which will surely already be ascertained rather soon by some group members.

Billy:

Yes, I have often explained that people and animals will take severe damage if they come within range of the swinging waves of your ship and that they will also take severe damage if you come into the swinging wave area of the Earth-humans.

{Note: This excerpt concerns the first appearance of what has become known as the "wedding cake" ship.}

Billy:

You have actually come with your new box. It looks quite impressive. What technical innovations does it have to exhibit?

Semjase:

1. You are rather disrespectful in reference to our technology.
2. I am proud of this flying apparatus.
3. With its new drive, which I will explain a little to you later, I have better possibilities than father with his Great Spacer.
4. Also, with this device, it is possible for me to dive directly into the past or future, but also to penetrate into other dimensions.
5. The flight from my home world to Earth is reduced with this new aircraft to zero-time, which I will also explain to you at a later time.

...

Billy:

And is this now a standard type?

Semjase:

9. This aircraft is still a prototype, at least still for a week.
10. After that, three hundred and fifty units of the same kind will have already been supplied.
11. This type of aircraft will gradually replace all other existing types of devices; thus, it will become the standard type, as you said.
12. In addition, the diameter amounts to 7 metres in size, like the existing aircraft of this type.
13. What can also be mentioned even further is that the next three size classes of our present aircraft will also be replaced by this type, but they will differ in their sizes, which explains itself.
14. They will include the sizes of 14, 21, and 28 metres, which will increase directly with planetary interests.

Billy:

You are a little careless, Quetzal. From the parking lot up there, one can see that it is your ship down here at the edge of the forest. Especially the light is clearly visible.

Quetzal:

1. Besides Eva, no one is there, and should some stranger approach, then I will find out early enough.

Billy:

Of course, but you opened the sound-absorbing shield too early. I just heard the rather loud buzzing.

Quetzal:

6. In addition, all our new ships have been withdrawn.
7. This for technical reasons ...

...

13. The outer materials of the ships are not resistant enough against the highly poisoned earthly atmosphere.
14. They become attacked and corroded.
15. The Earth's atmosphere has further poisoned itself during the last months to such an extent that our relevant materials no longer withstand these metal-attacking poisons, which is why we must withdraw all units and exchange them.

...

Billy:

And the old ships are able to endure the present atmosphere?

Quetzal:

17. Yes, that is so.

Billy:

But can you not protect your new ships against these poisonous effects?

Quetzal:

18. Unfortunately no, because the acidic gas formations in the terrestrial atmosphere penetrate through our protective screens.

Quetzal:

123. The last aircraft, which you call 'wedding cake ships' and which actually do show a resemblance to such sweet food of the Earth, were made out of a special alloy which was adapted to the Earth's atmosphere most exactly and which could only move in this one.

124. Through the atmospheric changes, however, they slowly became destroyed and unusable.

Billy:

... Then another question: Take a look in my office. There is a drawing by Lee Elders on the little brown table. He drew me a boomerang-like ship of unknown origin. Such ships are said to have been sighted several times in America recently and in the past few months, and they are said to be completely black in colour and to have huge spotlights in operation at night. Is this known to you, and if so, what explanations can you give me in this regard?

Quetzal:

51. I see the paper you mentioned here in my view screen, and I can also explain some things to you about it:

52. The drawing is incorrect, because these flying apparatuses are much less wedge-shaped than the drawing shows.

53. So the wing-like side bodies are further apart.

54. The size of the devices varies from a few metres to several hundred metres.

55. The building material is of an extremely hard and resistant material, unlike our materials which are of a soft form.

56. These flying apparatuses are also, as you mentioned, for the most part black, but they also have various other colours which, however, have apparently not been observed and which are usually also drowned out by the black.

57. Unfortunately, we cannot clarify the origin of these flying apparatuses, which we have been observing and controlling for eleven years, because there is no possibility that we can get in touch with the occupants of the apparatuses.

58. The flying apparatuses are constructed in such a way that all our attempts at communication have failed because our swinging waves and vibrations and all other kinds of like are absorbed by the outer shells of the apparatuses.

59. No radio wave and no other swinging wave can penetrate into the interior of the flying apparatus, because the outer shell of each apparatus absorbs everything in the sense of storing energy for the ship's propulsion and everything else.

60. This means, among other things, that these flying apparatuses are constructed in such a way that they absorb all waves of all frequencies, and thus all swinging waves of all kinds, as well as sunlight and all the radiation that appears with it, etc., for the storage of force.

61. But also the moonlight and the weak light of the stars are absorbed and stored as force, together with many other things which are still unknown even to earthly scientists.

62. What is certain, however, is that the life-forms dominating these flying apparatuses are humane and reveal no hostility whatsoever, as has been impeccably proven by our eleven years of observation and control.

...

Billy:

... For my part, I find, for example, that a car alone would have to be tested and checked from A-Z at least every 14 days if it is used very frequently.

Quetzal:

366. Your assumption corresponds to the correctness, in every point, also with the checking of the vehicles, because they would have to be subjected to a thorough check after any prolonged use, even if they were only used for one or two weeks.

367. That is also how it is handled with our flying apparatuses and other means of transportation, although we are, in technical terms, around 3,500 years ahead of terrestrial, still quite primitive technology.

368. Experience has taught us and our ancestors that such and also very precise controls are necessary after any prolonged use.

369. And since this rule became valid for us, there were never any more accidents, neither in air, at sea, on land, or in space, except when any security measures were ignored, which led the way to technical failure of the transportation devices, or when it came to foreign influences, of which the human skill and technology had not become masters.

370. However, such accidents have occurred very rarely in the last 2,000 years or so, whereby, up to the present hour, their number only amounts to 16.

Billy:

Your bucket there, your protective device, it is not as bulky as the one that you recently had with you. Is this a new development again?

Quetzal:

73. That is of correctness; today, I have this device here in operation for the first time.

Billy:

Then you are just counting on the fact that it functions?

Quetzal:

74. I can rely on it like you do with the dematerialisation shafts of our ships, when you simply jump into them from impossible heights, in order to materialise on the Earth again several kilometres below the hovering ship – something that we would never do.

Billy:

A little timid perhaps?

Quetzal:

75. Our dematerialisation machinery works absolutely flawlessly, so we also do not have to fear.

76. If we use this ourselves, however, then the security hatch is always closed, so we cannot even see out.

77. You, however, jump in each case when the hatch is open, and you look down for kilometres beneath you, into the yawning depths to the ground.

Billy:

Good, then I have a question regarding so-called UFOs, which are truly none at all. As I know from you, the so-called flying objects that are considered UFOs are often observed in the day as well as at night. At night, it is often observed that these so-called UFOs light up and are vibrant in their intensity and also variable in colour. On the one hand, you were able to make it understandable to me, with tangible evidence and through my personal observations, that these sometimes deal with bio-organic flying bodies {see Rods} that are truly other-dimensional life forms that, as a rule, can be captured on infrared film and that penetrate from other dimensions into our dimension area, in order to romp around here somehow in earthly airspace for playful and whimsical reasons. You also explained to me that these bio-organisms are completely harmless and that they always return back to their dimension. But on the other hand, you have also spoken of the fact that similar phenomena appear in terrestrial airspace, but these are purely terrestrial in origin. At that time, you spoke of the fact that it can also concern huge swarms of insects that let themselves drift through the air at great heights. During the day, these insect swarms can be seen as dark and form-changing UFOs that often even glow. At night, the same can be observed, and these UFOs then glow from weak to very strong and often even pulsate. Those are the two forms of UFOs best-known to me, which are truly not extraterrestrial ships and which are composed of living forms. Although, you have explained that other such forms exist, about which you have told me some things, but today, I am mainly interested in the apparent UFOs, which consist of insect swarms. I would like to know a few things about this from you, if you have enough time to give me information about it.

...

Quetzal:

...

103. As a rule, it concerns masses of insect swarms, which must be calculated with millions of individual insects.

104. These insects can be driven in gigantic swarms to high altitudes which are often kilometres high, where they are able to exist in the thin atmosphere with astonishing ease and often let themselves drift through the air currents for hundreds and thousands of kilometres.

105. The size, shape, and movement of these insect swarms appear on radar screens as simulated flying objects, as also observers mistakenly suppose that these are unidentified flying objects.

106. Then, these inaccurate observations, as well as the deceptive pictures of the radar devices, always lead to the fact that such insect swarms are designated as UFOs with astonishing regularity.

107. Especially when such swarms of insects are observed at night, it is seen that these unidentified flying objects appear as illuminated bodies that either shine faintly or very strongly and that often pulsate.

108. As I know, such light is usually described by the observers as a glow.

109. Thousands of these swaying insects, united in one swarm, can muster up a light intensity that can be seen for kilometres.

110. But if the swarms of insects are even larger, if several tens of thousands or even millions unite, then the light creation of this mass is so strong that it can be observed by the naked eye up to 180 kilometres away and more as a strong light source flying at a very high speed, while performing aerial manoeuvres that cannot be executed by any earthly aircraft.

111. Forward and reverse flights at extremely rapid speeds, as well as zigzag flight manoeuvres and right-angled as well as left-angled flight manoeuvres and vertical drops and climbs are the norm, depending on the falling winds and rising winds and other various air currents prevailing at these great heights, which often cause the insect swarms, when these drift into them, to be driven off at right or left angles, etc. or driven back again with a counter-current of wind.

112. These are the so-called wild or completely crazy flight manoeuvres of these alleged UFOs, as the observers then report.

113. But such observations do actually look deceptively real, according to which it could and can actually be concluded that these are some extraterrestrial flying objects, if the observations are made by observers who are uneducated in these things or by prejudiced UFO believers.

114. Nevertheless, many who have more experience in this area can also be deceived by these insects, as you know.

...

116. But now, concerning the origin of the lights and the pulsation of these insect swarms, the following is to be explained:

117. Like on every planet in the Universe, the Earth's atmosphere is permeated by a variety of weaker and stronger electric fields, which also differ in their swinging waves.

118. The higher into the atmosphere these penetrate, the richer in occurrence these electric force fields become, which very often move along for many hundreds or thousands of kilometres.

119. Now, if the high-flying insect swarms drift into such electric force fields, which also usually move with the air currents, then the insects start to light up, which appears as a glowing.

120. Because the swarms are, on the one hand, steady in their movement and, on the other hand, the electric energy fields waver in their strength, there arises a swelling or dwindling of the glow or radiance because the weaker the energy field is, the weaker is the radiance.

121. However, the radiance also loses its strength through the constant turning motions of the insects themselves.

122. From this originates the so-called pulsating of these allegedly unidentified flying objects.

123. On the other hand, the colour changes connected with such alleged objects appear because the strength of the electric energy fields lets the radiance or the glow become more intense or weaker, in which case also the air shifts and the trembling and flickering of the air form colour-changing factors, so it can be observed, for example, that a white colour of light suddenly becomes red, blue, or green or even yellow, weak, or intense.

124. But the fact that this radiance or glow can appear at all is because the insects have substances on their bodies and wings that begin to glow or light up as soon as they come in contact with electric currents, which is, indeed, the case when they drift into electric fields at high altitudes or even near the ground.

125. Furthermore, there are also types of insect swarms that soar through the atmosphere, which have their own luminosity and, thus, generate a light or glow in themselves.

Billy:

I know; there are species of cicadas on the Earth that produce their own lights in their bodies. Also, the little glowworms known in Europe belong to these self-illuminating ones, if I may unprofessionally say so.

Quetzal:

126. That is of correctness.

Billy:

The so-called marine lights are also based on the same principle. Through you, I know that the marine lights were often seen by the seafarers as sea monsters and terrifying figures, etc., especially when the sea was moving a little and thereby moved the marine lights more than what is normally the case. But in modern times, it is only rare that this light appearing on the sea is referred to as a monster, etc. because today, the UFO craze prevails, which is why the marine lights are always seen nowadays as UFOs that still perform incredible flight manoeuvres. But in truth, it is also the case that these marine lights are caused by types of insects. However, these do not fly through the air and also do not live on land; rather, their area of life is the seawater or freshwater, depending on the type. Thus, these are the luminous little worms of the seas or lakes, pools or ponds, etc. But furthermore, from personal experience, I still know of alleged UFOs that are neither insects nor other life forms but rather self-luminous energy fields that form damn similar manifestations as the flying insects, etc. when they are driven through the atmosphere by the air currents. As you once explained to me, these are static energy fields that dissolve in this way of glowing. But then, I still know the manifestations of static energy forms that rush like wheels or balls along the ground or through the air, which suddenly explode like balls of lightning. Last to mention are the gas forms that sometimes form quite bizarre figures or that are simply round and that brightly hover just above the ground. But so far, I could only observe these in the moor areas and swamps, etc., which is certainly also logical because they originate from the fact that in the swamps and moors, luminous gases form, caused by putrefaction processes and other chemical conversion processes, and these then retreat upwards, rising high over the swamp or over the moor and then appearing as hovering bright lights. With us, we simply call these things crazy lights. But unfortunately, it is also the case that in the present time, observers of such things always want to see UFOs, in contrast to earlier times, when such apparitions were conjured, through the popular delusion, as devils and demons.

...

Tell me rather something more about the insect swarms: why, actually, do they fly through the air in this type and wise?

Quetzal:

130. The insects have a very peculiar urge, namely that regardless of their natural desire for food, nesting places, etc., they are simply driven at times, as if by compulsion, to fly high up into the sky.

131. Their entire inner being is still only dominated by this urge, by which they also completely lose any interest in food and in the opposite sex.

132. The reason why the only goal of these insects is to rise high into the air spaces – where they can let themselves be driven by the winds, often to very distant goals – is that by natural laws, they are incited to change their habitat in order to preserve their kind.

133. If the insects would stay in their old habitat for a longer time, then it would mean extinction for them.

134. Nevertheless, their natural instinct warns them of this, and therefore, if they start to feel that their present habitat is becoming dangerous for them and that simply an overpopulation of their kind is taking place, then there arises in them the peculiar urge to master the beginning goal, which is to let themselves rise high into the air or be driven away by the wind, by the thousands and millions, after which they are then driven as gigantic swarms by the prevailing winds to their new habitat.

Billy:

In America, these swarms are often observed in enormous numbers, in contrast to Europe. Are there more such kinds of insects that move over the country in large swarms, and what is the main kind?

Quetzal:

135. Yes, these insects appear there more, namely far to the north into Canada and down to the deepest south into Tierra del Fuego, which, like Canada, no longer belongs to America.

136. The currently best-known kind is the so-called Spruce Budworm.

137. The technical Latin term for it is CHORISTONEURA FUMIFERANA.

138. The only reason why the Spruce Budworm is best-known is because presently and in recent years, it can be observed the most often, for there are still many other kinds of these insects that float so high up through the air.

139. Approximately calculated, there are 25,000 species, including dragonflies, spiders, grasshoppers, flies, wasps, bees, ants, termites, beetles, and bugs of all kinds, etc.

140. It is also very interesting to know that very many flightless insects let themselves float high in the atmosphere by the winds, such as spiders, which can be found very often in large clusters and which, like all other insects, also let themselves drift along at altitudes between 2,000 and 5,000 meters.

141. On warm spring days, for example, hundreds and thousands of small spiders often clump together after hatching, and they would all have to starve miserably if they would be bound to their birthplace, where they would have to become bigger and grow up.

142. But in order to escape this death, they climb up high, sharp blades of grass or tree branches, etc. and lift their hindquarters into the air.

143. Then, when wind arises, these tiny and almost 1 millimetre-long arachnids spin a silk thread that is a thousand times thinner than the thickness of a human hair.

144. This silk thread, however, which is woven into the blowing wind, is taken by the wind and carried high up into the atmosphere, while at the end of the thread hangs the tiny spider, which can be carried so high into the air and also hundreds and thousands of kilometres away to a new home.

145. This, then, is also the reason why at great heights, earthly aircraft are often covered with a coating of the finest transparent silk when they fly through a swarm of the tiniest spiders, which are to be calculated in their number with hundreds of thousands or millions.

146. In this wonderful manner of using air to overcome distances, the insects very often reach very distant areas, in order to find a new habitat, which they could otherwise never reach by their own means of going and flying, whereby their species would become destroyed and extinct.

147. In the case of a proliferation of insects at a place, the surplus can migrate and set off into other areas that are suitable for them by the winds, which is often observed by the Earth-humans, especially at night, after which they then incorrectly suppose or simply believe that they are extraterrestrial missiles and, thus, UFOs.

148. What is still to be said is that even seeds and pollen of floral areas likewise move through the air, often thousands of kilometres away, in order to fertilise their own kind through wind pollination.

149. And all such drifting pollen, which lets itself be carried away high into the air by the winds, can bear the often stark climate changes as easily as also the insects.

150. All these insects and the pollen, however, are absolutely dependent on the prevailing wind currents for their transportation around the globe, by which they are carried into their new homeland.

151. Thus, they cannot determine their flight direction themselves because they do not go against the forces of the winds, which is why they must simply let themselves drift along in these.

Billy:

It strikes me that you have also mentioned the pollen. Apparently, so I infer from this, it must also appear to human beings as UFOs when it drifts into electrical fields.

Quetzal:

152. That is of correctness because the same process also takes place with pollen when the clusters are dense enough.

153. But the same also happens with sandstorms and the like when enormous amounts of dust, etc. are torn high into the atmosphere and then transported.

154. All of this can be observed not only at night but also during the day.

Billy:

... High in the eastern sky, I noticed a bright light at 20:14 hrs, about 4 to 5 times as large as Venus. At first, I thought of the evening star, thus Venus, before it dawned on me that Venus is only visible to us in the southern and western hemisphere. Then, I looked at the bright light a little more closely, and I noticed that it was located in strange shifts of color, which permeated all the colors of the rainbow spectrum, and changes in form also arose. Consequently, I hurried into my office and grabbed my binoculars, through which I could then largely account for and observe the strange light formation in the sky, which was about a meter in size. To me, it seemed to be like a Fata Morgana,* whose form changed constantly, and it also seemed to be somewhat transparent, so just like with a Fata Morgana. I estimated the altitude of the object to be about 35,000 meters and that it was at a distance of about 18 to 20 kilometers away from our vantage point. What I still assessed during the observation was that on the right side, various small objects separated themselves from the large object and flew away. Moreover, I also saw that on the large object itself, there were several dark points and spots as well as outgrowths and the like. I already saw something similar on the Great Spacer of Ptaah, which is why I was of the opinion that it had to have been a spaceship, but which one only saw as a Fata Morgana or just simply as a reflection. I interpreted the flying-away, glittering points to the right of the object to be beamships, while I supposed that the dark points and spots, as well as the outgrowths, had to be hangars and such, similar to the superstructures on Ptaah's ship. Now, if I consider the size of the light of the object together with its distance, then I calculate that the ship's size must have been around 320 to 340 meters in diameter.

...

Taljda:

5. The object sighted by you actually is a spaceship, but which you were only able to see as a reflection, even while the ship hovered directly over your center in order to investigate the place and those humans who are, for us, the most significant mission-engaged ones on the earth.

6. For security reasons, which were made known to you by us, the flying apparatus was shielded from view, and it creates a form of reflection that is completely alien to our technology, which becomes visible in the atmosphere many kilometers away.

7. Other human beings do not just have the same technology as we ourselves, which is well-known to you.

8. Thus, the Druans, with regard to screening technology, have completely different forms than what we possess.

...

13. The flying apparatus is a spaceship from the planet Druan, whose human life-forms we therefore call the Druan.

14. They are a very widely-developed and extremely peaceful human race that can bring some innovations to our own technology.

15. The planet Druan lies in the NOL system, which belongs to a galaxy whose size is about 1.7 times larger than ours, and this galaxy is located 3.10 million light-years away from the SOL system.

...

20. The Druans are on an expedition here on Earth, for at least 5 to 6 months, but in accordance with our experience, it could more likely last for years.

21. During this time, their spaceship and their accompanying missiles can very often be seen by the Earth-humans, but initially and during the first weeks, this was only in Europe.

22. After that, the Druan ships could then also be sighted over other continents of the Earth.

23. So if the Earth-humans keep their eyes open, then they will very often be able to observe the flying apparatus.

Billy:

This will probably result in particularly sly and scientifically super-clever explanations, such as balloons, etc. What does the object actually look like, if one disregards the distorted reflection?

Taljda:

24. Just like a discus-shaped object, although a completely different form is reflected outwardly by a special shield, which can be compared to the cone and facets of a rock crystal.

Billy:

Does this, then, also appropriately give off all the colors of the spectrum?

Taljda:

25. You apparently are not ignorant of such things.

Quetzal:

168. At that same time, when Jmmanuel was born, in order to monitor and supervise everything, a large Plejaren beamship was stationed high in the atmosphere over Bethlehem.

169. This radiated very brightly, for it was one of those aircraft that collect energy from the atmosphere, which light up, radiating very strongly, when they penetrate into the area of the processing system, through which anti-gravity is produced.

Billy:

Semjase once explained to me, in response to one of my questions, that antimatter is real and that this was already discovered by your ancestors more than 50,000 years ago and has been used by you since that time as beamship propulsion. Since then, have you researched and developed new techniques for this?

Quetzal:

51. Of course.

52. Negative matter, as we call antimatter, has already been used by us for fifty millennia for all sorts of purposes, and of course, also much other research was connected with it and still is, therefore, new insights will also constantly be won and will create new ones, with which negative matter is brought to application or is used.

Quetzal:

80. The human beings who walked the Earth at earlier times, such as over 20 or 120 or even more than 230 million years ago, were in no wise the so-called Earth-made or Earth-created ones but rather extraterrestrials who came from the depths of space and who stayed here for a certain time or only visited the planet for a short time for expeditions or for major excursions.

81. At that time, the areas of origin and home worlds of these travelers from afar were to be found in your galaxy, so the Milky Way, but also in foreign galaxies.

Quetzal:

28. All of our flying devices are suited for diving processes, whereby, due to our pressure protection screens, there are no limits set for the depth.

29. We will dive into the depths of the Atlantic as well as the Pacific.

Billy:

...

Then Quetzal flies his beamship back to Earth and over the Atlantic, to then descend into the depths of the sea.

Then we hover over the spongy sea-bottom and Quetzal moves the beamship, which indeed has now become a diving ship, slowly along.

The beamship glows externally in radiating brilliance, and lights up the pitch black darkness in a broad circumference.

...

Billy:

... over and over again, crazy ones appear, claiming that they have had contacts with you or else with some extraterrestrials and that they would have been promised that the extraterrestrials would bring salvation to the Earth and to the Earth-humans. As a rule, these crazy ones who make such assertions are some sect-bosses or delusional believers and lunatics of other natures, who lie their heads off and promise their believers and followers that the extraterrestrials will come with spaceships and save all of those or at least a part of those, who believe in the hypocritical horror stories of the bringing of salvation through extraterrestrials, and will take them to a nicer, more peaceful, and better planet in safety. The crazy ones who invent and maintain such stories – partly due to pure addiction to profit, delusional faith, confusion, or madness – try to convey to their followers who are enslaved to them and to their believers that the extraterrestrials would allegedly take their own responsibility from them and send them rescue.

Quetzal:

46. That is well-known to us.

47. All evil means are right to these liars, swindlers, and deceivers, in order to bind those who are enslaved to them and their believers to themselves.

48. But the truth is that neither we nor any other Earth-foreigners exercise the role of the bringers of salvation.

49. Neither we nor others bring teachings of salvation to the Earth and, thus, to the Earth-humans, for any teaching of salvation is of a religious and sectarian nature and only serves to make those who believe therein dependent and enslaved, in order to subjugate them, to exploit them, and also to cause them to remain faithful to the relevant religion or sect.

50. In addition, each teaching of salvation is designed to drive the believers and those who are enslaved into irrational teachings and into the mistaken belief that all their offences, wrong lifestyles, and injustices, as well as the harming of fellow human beings, can receive lenient treatment and can easily be forgotten, and thus, they would be forgiven by the bringers of salvation.

51. It is in the tricked believers and the enslaved that the responsibility for anything and everything would lie in a predetermination or present determination with the extraterrestrials or just with God the Creator, who should allegedly exist and who should determine and direct everything.

52. Thus, the religious believers, sect-believers, delusional believers, and others are forcefully kept – by unfair, misguided elements, etc., through lies, swindle, and deception – from bearing and perceiving their own responsibility for anything and everything that always arises in life.

53. The belief in salvation-bringing extraterrestrials, in any salvation-bringing teaching, or in a salvation-bringing God, who should also still be just, as well as full of love, understanding, and willingness to help, corresponds to the imagination of profit-minded human beings who, originally, had deliberately designed their created irrational teaching in order to gather believers and enslaved ones around themselves, whom they could exploit in every respect, in order to be able to lead lives of joy and glory through them.

54. And since ancient times, there have always been enough fools, who let others think for them instead of giving themselves the trouble of thinking, of reasoning, and of the pursuit of truth and the recognition of actuality and, thus, reality, for it was always easier for them to shift the responsibility for anything and everything onto others or onto extraterrestrials or simply onto a God-Creator, i.e. a Creator God, in order, then, to take the path of least resistance and the path of least effort, as well as the path of laziness.

55. And there are still such human beings on the Earth today, unfortunately still in large quantities.

56. But if the Earth-human really wants to experience a salvation, then he/she must bring this to themselves, in that they laboriously acquire it themselves.

57. But this means that they must turn to the truth and reality and must perceive their own responsibility in every respect and must bear it and fulfil it.

58. In this meaning, it is given to be recognised that neither extraterrestrials nor a God-Creator, neither a teaching of salvation, a religion or sect, nor any lunatic, spinner, delusional believer, 'godly one', 'enlightened one', guru, master, or exalted one by his own grace, etc. brings any salvation; rather, only every single person can acquire this for themselves, in reference to their own personality, their conduct and their life-style, their behaviour, their love, their inner and outer peace, their balance and harmony, their knowledge, their wisdom and evolution, and their entire progress in consciousness-related and material form.

...

89. Sectarians are liars, swindlers, and cheats, who are only out to rally believers and enslaved ones around themselves, in order to exploit these and to be able to position themselves in the light and in the forefront, as self-appointed eminences and divinities of their own graces or as representatives of a God or any allegedly high and lofty as well as all-knowing and powerful extraterrestrial, etc.

Billy:

... Concerning particles: Photons are after all light particles and must therefore also have a mass and a weight, because this is the only way spaceships with photon propulsion can function, right?

Quetzal:

...

157. Of course, these also have a mass and a weight, but in a changing form.

158. The present-day weight is 1.2–52 gramme.

...

Billy:

... Then I would like to come back to our joint deep-sea trip: You told me after this fantastic trip that the spotlights that illuminated the deep sea darkness for hundreds of metres around the ship corresponded to a very special kind, but you did not elaborate further on it. Can you at least explain it to me now?

Quetzal:

588. The light beam device i.e. the spotlights; these are not several devices but only a single one, comprising the entire beam ship, which can be used as a single light beam device on the outer hull.

589. The light, however, is not in the usual form known to you, hence it does not emit rays of light in the usual sense.

590. In fact, these are invisible light swinging waves, which cannot be seen from outside the beam ship, so that the ship remains thus completely dark.

591. The invisible light swinging waves can only be perceived in the beam ship itself, namely through the walls.

592. The outer environment is therefore not immersed in a visible wall of light, but only in certain swinging waves, which can be made visible to us in the beam ship by our special technology.

593. So it seems as if outside everything would be bathed in the brightest visible light, while outside however there is complete darkness.

594. Only in this way is it possible for us to observe the deep-sea life forms undisturbed.

595. Since these are self-luminaries as we call them, the visible light means danger for them, because the life forms hunt each other also in the deep sea and mean food for each other.

596. Therefore, if the beam ship were to emit visible light from outside, all life forms would flee from it, making it impossible for us to observe them.

597. The beam ship, if it were to emit rays of light visible from outside, would appear to the deep-sea life forms as an evil and all-devouring monster, which is why they would flee.

Billy:

Very interesting. So then this light has also nothing to do with the light that you shield in the atmosphere.

Quetzal:

598. That is of rightness.

Billy:

... For quite some time now, the talk has been about UFO sightings and alleged encounters with extraterrestrial life forms again with the human being of the Earth. Especially in Russia, a story about this had turned out to be a big one, namely in Voronezh or what the name of the village should be. Recently, however, entire squadrons of UFOs have been ghosting through the polluted skies in Belgium as well, turning police officers into UFO persecutors. But also the population seems to be in love with the hype, as it is the case in England and several other countries on our planet. Can you tell me more about this?

Ptaah:

87. Of course, but truthfully it is hardly worthwhile to say a word about it.

88. The occurrences are partly extraterrestrial, as in Voronezh and partly also in Belgium, but there is also something quite earthly behind them.

89. A certain amount of attention should be paid to the extraterrestrial origin of flying apparatuses.

90. But it is not worth talking about it either.

91. More attention should be paid to the fact that some phenomena are related to the USA and South America, where you made your own experiences when your life was threatened.

92. But discussing these things would not be of an advantage, so it is not worth talking about them – for your own safety.

Billy:

Well, that is well enough. So behind some of this there is also fraud and deception along with the truth. That is probably also the case here in Switzerland, with the alleged UFO sightings in Ticino?

Ptaah:

93. It is no different than in other countries.

94. In fact, if one wanted to believe the UFO believers and UFO swindlers and similar swindlers and phantoms, then the Earth would be teeming with aircraft of extraterrestrial origin.

95. With the SOL-system, however, the Earth lies so far away in a galaxy arm of the Milky Way that it is considered an enclave and has only a sparse influx of other inhabited stars.

96. It is simply not interesting enough to be visited by foreign life forms on a large scale.

97. Truthfully, it is practically always the same visitors from the vastness of space who fly in and out of the Earth, as we do, for example; two to three times a year, perhaps strangers come to Earth.

Ptaah:

37. Your story was rather detailed and corresponds exactly to the records of the control disk.

...

Billy:

... Do you also know that Eva is in the office next door and is sleeping? Man, we have all holes open in the building and are merrily babbling here while she is over there. It just amazes me that so far, you have not cracked up yet and are not acting crazy. ...

Ptaah:

...

68. But fortunately, that is not of great importance, for our protective devices, such as this one here, have been so further developed in the meantime that they protect us for 92 minutes from any swinging wave that could be dangerous to us.

69. So there is no danger in relation to this.

70. But so that Eva does not wake up and does not come over here, I can do something.

71. Just as my daughter placed your wife into a deep sleep before, I will do the same thing with Eva using this device here.

72. So this touch here is sufficient, now she will not be tempted to simply wake up and come here.

...

Ptaah:

159. Currently, on the Earth, a large-scale interest has awoken worldwide once again, in reference to alleged sightings of unidentified flying objects that should be of extraterrestrial origin.

160. For many months, major activities of unknown flying apparatuses have also been observed time and again all over the world, and in many cases, even entire groups of humans have become observers.

161. But also in many cases, observations are reported where there were not actually any to report, not to mention the alleged personal encounters with extraterrestrial life-forms that are supposed to have taken place.

162. In fact, few extraterrestrial flying machines have been sighted by Earth-humans, but this, unfortunately, does not mean that all sightings of unidentified flying objects were such objects.

163. In truth, there were only a few, whose sightings often were not even disclosed to the public.

164. The rest of all the other objects sighted, which became designated and which are designated as UFOs, were and are of purely natural and terrestrial origin, having very natural causes.

165. The fact that some charlatans, fun-makers, swindlers, and deceivers are involved in such works – who, through technological means, 'conjure' phenomena or allow light flying machines to rise up into the atmosphere, in order to bring the Earth-humans into turmoil or to move them into anxiety and terror or simply to make fools of them through practical jokes – this should be clear even to the most naive of the naive.

166. But whoever is UFO-believing and wants to see ghosts, of course, sees them everywhere – so even where there are none.

167. Also, frauds and charlatans arrive at their wealth in such a manner because they can live very well off of the idiots.

168. This was and has been the case since ages ago.

169. In addition, it must be said that a certain caution is also necessary with everything because not everything is simply hallucinations, sectarian insanity, charlatanism, and fraud, for flying machines also appear that are directed by Earth-humans, who have created a massive base in the South American region and who are striving for world domination, as this is also very well-known to you, but we should provide no further details about this.

170. But in any case, there are utterly dark and bad terrestrial life-forms, humans of this world who possess a high technology and corresponding flying apparatuses, in order to be able to cause disaster with these, if they could only do so and if they would not be prevented from such doings by certain circumstances.

171. Nevertheless, like the Americans, Canadians, and Russians, they repeatedly move the Earth-humans into fear and panic by demonstrating their aircraft in the day or night sky, when they are on a thief's tour or are otherwise flying through the air on some occasion that is often difficult to fathom.

Billy:

... last Monday evening, the 5th of November, something happened in Europe which caused the populations of various countries to revolt. It happened around the seventh hour of the evening that many people were watching a bright, fiery ball high in the sky, moving at breakneck speed from west to east or south-east, pulling a fiery tail behind it. Various observers also said that in addition to the large fireball, some smaller ones had also appeared. A pilot who was flying to Europe via Lithuania in northern Russia saw the phenomenon as well and drew the attention of his crew and passengers. Of course, among the observers there were also madmen and phantoms who wanted to see everything possible and impossible in the tail fireball. According to the Belgium hysteria with the alleged triangular UFOs, many humans allegedly saw a huge triangular UFO high in the sky, orbited by several smaller triangular objects. One man in Germany even claimed that he had clearly seen an object that looked exactly like the spaceship Enterprise from the TV future series 'Enterprise'. In Geneva, someone had just tested a new video camera in the western sky and recorded some of it on a magnetic tape, which was then shown on Swiss television. I then saw these pictures and realised that it must have been a bigger meteor that had dipped into the Earth's envelope in a flat trajectory and then glowed, before hurtling back out into space again. This is because it is apparently slid through the uppermost layer of the Earth's atmosphere, such as for example a stone, which is thrown with great force flat on a water surface and glides over the water and strikes several times, before it sinks into the water, just as it was done with the water-slide bombs in the last world war, because large, round and tons heavy explosive bombs were built, which were hurled flat from airplanes into the water of rivers and lakes, towards weirs and the like, so the deadly water-sliding projectiles skimmed like flat stones over the water and often jumped many tens of metres before they reached their destination, exploded and tore the weirs, etc. to shreds. So it seemed to me to be similar to the object that was filmed. Now, however, so-called experts are again claiming that the whole thing was the crash of a Russian launcher. For my part, however, it seemed to me to be something else, a meteor, as I have already explained. With Quetzal, and also earlier with Semjase, I could observe different launcher crashes and also two satellite crashes from close proximity and at distance, in addition, different meteor dips into the Earth's shell, including four such dips which only whizzed flatly through the outermost atmosphere and went out and disappeared again in the world space. And this is exactly how this object, which was shown on television, looked. It looked in no wise like rocket fragments.

Taljda:

34. The incident is known to me and it was actually a meteorite with a diameter of 3.2 metres.

35. We had been observing the trajectory of this meteor for many weeks and found that it would only graze the outermost layer of the Earth's envelope, as you say, and fly out into space again.

36. It was a wandering meteorite of unknown origin and not coming from the asteroid belt of the destroyed planet Malona.

37. Hurrying through space since time unknown to us, on its path of origin, which was also unknown to us, it got into the area of attraction of the Earth and grazed the outer shell, causing it to glow and thus form a tail several kilometres long.

38. By the immersion into the outermost envelope of the Earth and by the resulting frictional heat some striking formations of the meteorite were torn apart, altogether 14 of them, which burst off explosively from the main form and burned up as accompanying meteors next to the main block and flew beside it, in order to leave the Earth's envelope again, together with the large meteorite, in order to divide in free space.

39. So it was not a crashing carrier rocket, as hasty ones or know-it-alls want to claim, but actually a big meteorite from space.

Billy:

A space projectile from the vastness of the universe, if one may formulate it so.

Ptaah:

11. So I quickly went back into my flying apparatus and ordered the control element of the control disk to turn on, which I then promptly examined.

...

Billy:

... What energies did your ancestors or ancestral-ur-ur ancestors use after they departed from the rocket motors or rocket drives? I must ask, what kind of energies and engines did they use? Are you allowed to give any information at all?

Ptaah:

404. If I answer your last question first, then the answer is yes, because here too there is no longer a secret on Earth, because we have been providing relevant scientists with corresponding impulses for quite some time.

405. The answer to the questions of energies and engines is this:

406. Electron drives or electron pulse drives.

407. The entire universal space is piled up through and through with electrons, so the space is not simply empty, as the layperson mistakenly thinks, but what is also known to earthly scientists for a very long time.

408. However, electrons do not only exist in one kind or form, but in very diverse forms.

409. However, I am not yet allowed to give further information or explain details about this, nor with regard to the 280 universally existing elements, of which only about 100 are known to Earth scientists.

410. To answer your question, however, I would like to explain to you that our ancestors discovered the principle of electron energy, which is present on all planets and stars as well as in all forms of life, as well as in inexhaustible form in the entire universe.

411. We make use of these electron energies even today just as our early and later ancestors did, only that we make energy transformations and are incomparably advanced in the use of these energies and their application as well as in the technology required for them than our ancestors were.

412. Tachyon drives as well as ray drives and antimatter drives, and our newest means of transportation with transmitters are based on electron energy, which we have been using for many millennia in ever more perfected form.

413. Also the cosmic-electromagnetic life energy, from which any form of life lives, is a product of the never-exhaustible electron energy of the universe.

414. Also any form of existence, no matter what kind, lives from it, even the spirit-forms, even if their energy is infinitely finer.

Billy:

Are electrons also swinging waves?

Ptaah:

415. That is right.

Billy:

Aha, then an electron impulse engine should actually operate in such a manner that it finds a hold on the electrons in free space itself, at which it can repel itself and move by its own swinging waves. A perfect perpetual motion machine, so to speak, if one knows the technology and is able to apply it. This also explains why your spacecraft never lack energy, neither in free space nor on a planet. Also it dawns on me slowly that you can regulate and apply the redirection of light to make your flying machines invisible, but probably also the phenomenon that you can also fly in an air envelope with unlimited speed without being fried by a friction heat, because if you protect your ships or other flying bodies with electron swinging waves, with an electron swinging wave mantle so to speak, then the slightest friction can no longer arise. Is that so, or am I right?

Ptaah:

...

418. Once again, you made me ask you a question to give you a small statement with which you could continue working at lightning speed and give facts that I did not actually want to mention.

Billy:

Again a question about the aliens: Apart from the fact that their objects can crash or have to go down on Earth by emergency landings, it is also given that their flying bodies are simply observed by Earth-humans when they race through Earthly air, isn't it?

Ptaah:

473. Certainly, this will remain so.

474. Sightings of such flying machines of alien beings are still made, whereby it must be paid attention, however, that not all really observed or to be observed flying machines are really extraterrestrial origin, because certain powers on Earth also have flying bodies, which are generally regarded as unidentified flying objects, because their existence is kept secret and is largely unknown, which in no way means, however, that all observations regarding such flying machines would point to earthly objects.

475. Certain observations actually refer to aircraft of extraterrestrial or even alien origin.

{Note: Here Ptaah differentiates between "extraterrestrial" and "alien".}

Billy:

This is clear to me, but not to other people, because they always turn everything in such a way that they can claim that their real or self-deceptive or self-deceiving, invented, lying or simply charlatan-like fictional sightings of missiles of all kinds are UFOs, by which of course spaceships or jet ships etc. are meant.

Ptaah:

476. That is unfortunately correct.

477. Many phantasts, liars, charlatans, swindlers and so-called experts of ufology act in this form.

478. Especially the so-called experts are usually unobjective, gullible, misbelieving and unrealistic, which is why they are unobjective.

479. Out of this, they recognize every obvious fraud as a real event, while they classify a given reality and true event as fraud, which is especially true for all well-known so-called ufologists.

480. Not only are they biased and deny any real truth because it does not fit into their concept, no, they also dare to denigrate and deny the truth in order to propagatate all nonsense and nonsense as genuine and truthful.

481. Nor do they shy away from interpreting all possible and impossible things, movements, noises, shadows, whisperings, imaginary touches and deceptions of all kinds as machinations of extraterrestrial intelligences and as their manifesting themselves, which corresponds more than only to a ridiculousness, because all this is truthfully already based on a hopeless delusion.

482. Of course, all this does not contribute in public to a reasonable and unbiased discussion as well as to a pertinent assessment of the facts about alien aircraft and the actual existence of alien life and its sporadic presence and visits to earth.

483. All these stupid-dreamy boastful elements contribute in truth to the fact that the actual existence of extraterrestrial flying machines and extraterrestrial human life is just as doubted and ridiculed as their actual appearance in terrestrial airspace and on Earth itself.

...

Billy:

I know, but we shouldn't talk about it. Let's stay with the other thing you said: The fact is that many of the so-called ufologists and ufo experts etc., through their fantasies and their unobjectivity, do more harm than good to all ufology and the truth about alien, extraterrestrial missiles and their crews ...

Ptaah:

23. And of course I brought you the metal samples.

...

26. The multicoloured metal is a still unfinished alloy, which, as with us, is also used by Asket's people in the DAL universe as a thin coating for all types of flying objects and flying devices.

27. The other and silver shining metal is almost pure silver, which forms one of the basic materials for the alloy, which consists of two further parts of copper and nickel.

...

Billy:

... on a private basis, fraud, lies, charlatantry and fraud have been practiced in these matters for a long time, which, according to your statements, should increase in the future. Unfortunately, this also discredits and ridicules the real UFO observations, if we want to stick to this name. But there are other UFO observations, namely those that fall within the scope of official and military secrets. This also involves various events of the past and present, about which a great deal has been written, claimed, talked about and kept secret in the private sphere of so-called UFO research. Stories about crashes and salvages of UFOs also appear, e.g. the case of New Mexico towards the end of the 1940s, etc. But also names like 'Falcon' and 'Condor' etc. play an important role, whereby it should concern CIA members etc., who should pass on UFO information to the public under these pseudonyms, of course without letting their face become recognizable. Also the so-called 'Little Greys' play a very important role, which allegedly in the USA about three million people are said to have insisted, impregnated and maltreated with operation scars and painting etc. ...

Ptaah:

37. Which, of course, is sheer nonsense and has no reality at all.

38. We are well aware of the hysteria of such delusions in America.

39. This is already spreading to Europe, with a particularly fertile soil to be found especially in Germany.

40. On the other hand the delusion and the hysteria are still consciously stirred up from different places, whereby also this 'Falcon' appears, whose false information is taken by all stupid believers gladly as cash coin.

41. Certain official bodies, offices and organizations also deliberately allow such false information to be disseminated, whereby the reasons for this are very varied.

42. I am not yet allowed to speak openly about this, nor about which things correspond to the truth or untruth in matters of UFO crashes and UFO salvages as well as other related matters.

43. Also with regard to the clarification of earthly offices and military and defensive forces in matters of UFOs, my duty of secrecy, which is apparent from one of our directives, is that we must not interfere in any matters of human life with which we are not in official contact.

44. So we must also keep in mind that we must not decipher secrets that are kept by earthly authorities, government officials, security organizations, the military, etc.

45. Which secrets earth authorities and military as well as security organizations guard etc. regarding interests of allegedly extraterrestrial aircraft and humans etc., must remain according to our directive instructions their secrets, which we do not have the right to air.

Billy:

Well, that's clear. So I don't want to ask you any more about these things. From your explanation it should be very clear, however, that the Scandinavian aviation major Petersen is also a fantasist in matters concerning the fact that extraterrestrials are supposed to hold important offices in the most diverse earthly governments.

Ptaah:

46. We have also talked about this on several occasions, but we have always made it clear that such assertions correspond to nothing other than pure delusional fantasies.

Billy:

What about the fact that UFO sightings are made all over the world again and again? They cannot all be real.

Ptaah:

26. That is right, but we have talked about it a lot.

27. Very few percentages correspond to actual sightings; the rest is based on sensory illusions, charlatanism, dizziness, lies and deception, etc.

...

Billy:

... It is always doubted that plejadic spaceships can fly with umpteen times the speed of light in normal space or that objects can only fly through space with approximately the speed of light without time shifts, because Einstein's theory of relativity simply forbids this. Is the assumption correct that the calculation formulas of this theory of relativity are basically correct, but only with limitations, so that they have to be replaced by other and further additions in the end? In my opinion this should be the case, because if I consider that certain galaxies drift apart at approximately the speed of light, without time shifts arising, then it would have to be so for this reason alone – quite apart from my own experience, which I was allowed to experience and make through you during my Great Journey and during other occasions.

Ptaah:

75. Your assumption is absolutely correct, but I am not allowed to give any official details about it and therefore no information.

76. The actual facts and formulas must remain a secret for the Earth-humans for a long time to come, for everyone.

...

Billy:

All the nonsense that is told and spread about UFOs and extraterrestrials on earth has spread like a festering ulcer, whereby also the actual UFO sightings and observations are denigrated and referred to the realm of fantasy and delusions of the senses.

Ptaah:

173. That is indeed so.

Billy:

... Can you officially explain how things are to be seen in relation to UFOs with regard to their origin? I am referring to the fact that unidentified flying objects do not only come from our space-time continuum, but also from other dimensions. We have never really talked about this in detail, but mostly only superficially and in passing.

Ptaah:

59. That is right.

60. So I want to give some information about it in a little more detail than usual:

61. Let's start with the unidentified aircrafts or missiles, etc., which are purely terrestrial-human constructions.

62. This kind of missile exists a larger number, in different forms.

63. These are productions of the most diverse states of Earth, which, however, keep their researches and products secret.

64. Of course they cannot avoid doing test flights etc. with their flying machines, whereby they can often be observed by terrestrial people of all social classes, thus by simple citizens as well as by well-known title holders etc.

65. Some of these constructions have flight abilities that go far beyond the normal understanding of terrestrial humans and mock the normal aircraft construction as well as the normal flight abilities of the normal terrestrial airplanes.

66. These missiles also have forms that do not correspond to those of known airplanes, which is why they appear strange.

67. For these reasons, when observed by the uninitiated, they are not recognized as earthly constructions and are consequently referred to as UFOs, unidentified flying objects.

68. However, this also includes observations which have no connection whatsoever with such objects, but which can be traced back to cloud formations as well as swarms of insects or birds, or to natural atmospherical or gaseous luminous phenomena, etc.

69. Also undersea gas escapes, which cause the water to bubble at the sea surface, as well as sensory illusions and balloons, kites, zeppelins, normal airplanes or light and ultra-light airplanes etc. belong to it.

70. With all these things, which appear very frequently, it should be absolutely clear that they are not interplanetary flying objects and thus not unidentified flying objects of extraterrestrial human life-forms.

71. If we consider a further form of terrestrial flying objects, which are considered UFOs and which are not of extraterrestrial origin, then we have to speak of those flying machines which originate from the terrestrial future in terms of their dimensions to the space-time continuum prevailing here.

72. So we are dealing here with flying bodies of earthly origin, but built in a dimension of the future on earth, whereby Earth-humans living there in the future have found the ways of time travel, whereby it becomes possible for them to travel back into their own past and thus also into the present time on Earth.

73. So these visitors are not extraterrestrial intelligences either, but also inhabitants of Earth, whose technology is many centuries and sometimes even thousands of years ahead of the present time of Earth-humans and in the future.

74. Further forms of unidentified flying bodies concern life-forms that are actually extraterrestrial and that also belong to this space-time continuum prevailing here.

75. Such life-forms with their flying objects visit Earth only very rarely, except for three different races, which have been flying to Earth for a long time, apart from us Pleiadians of course.

76. Furthermore, Earth is also approached here and there by extraterrestrial human life-forms, which happens however extremely rarely and is to be counted often in decades or in centuries, who come with their flying objects from parallel spaces and/or from parallel planes to the space-time continuum predominant here, like e.g. we ourselves, who live in a parallel space, which is shifted, fractions of a second, attached to this space-time continuum predominant here.

77. It ...

Billy:

Sorry to interrupt. On the one hand, you talked about earthlings who live in the future and visit Earth from there. That's what you call time-travellers!

Ptaah:

78. Of course.

Billy:

But what should we call those who simply come from parallel spaces?

Ptaah:

79. According to your sense we simply call it transfer or parallel transfer.

Billy:

So nothing that would be complicated to say. But just go on with your explanations now. Does it actually happen frequently that people with their flying machines come to us from parallel spaces and come to Earth?

Ptaah:

80. No, that's very rare, apart from us and our allies.

81. In contrast, however, it is more common for bioorganic flying objects {see "Rods"} to appear in this space-time continuum, not only on Earth, but also on many other inhabited and uninhabitable world spheres.
82. So we can observe such bio-organisms, as we call them, also on our worlds, whereby we do not know however yet exactly which kind these life-forms are now.
83. The dimension changers, as we also call them, are larger and smaller airworthy, bioorganic life-forms, which are often fluorescent or very brightly radiating and located in a parallel space or parallel universe.
84. In their way they are absolutely harmless and even playful.
85. They often appear individually or in smaller groups, ranging in size from a few metres to several hundred metres in diameter.
86. They live in a parallel space that we have not yet been able to access, whose data we know well, but into which we have not yet been able to penetrate in form in order to establish communicative contact with these forms of life.
87. It is about the same with the malicious skrills, with which we can hardly communicate, but which are not flying objects like the dimension changers, but which can only move on solid ground and live in a parallel space.
88. Finally, only those extraterrestrial intelligences are to be mentioned who come from the DAL universe and visit Earth.
89. However, this is so rare that this was only the case once during the last 50,000 years when Asket maintained contact with you for eleven years.

Ptaah:

13. To justify you I may speak officially today about it and give the facts of the fact that we have analysed and evaluated in a special way the film and photomontages as well as the film trick shots of all false and fraudulent, alleged contact persons or UFO observers and found out that their faked film and photo material found approval with the terrestrial people, completely particularly with so-called UFO specialists, who call themselves ufologists etc., to which also well-known scientists belong.
14. The ridiculousness of the forgeries and the believers in them is striking, but they were extremely effective.
15. This was the reason for us to perform manoeuvring movements with the real existence of our flying apparatuses, such as jerky pendulum movements and certain springy hovering movements, which normally do not correspond to the normal movements and flying techniques of our flying objects, but to the ridiculous jerky pendulum movements and peculiar swinging waves of the manipulated films and photos of the UFO swindlers and liars and charlatans.
16. And the reason why we chose this type of movement lies in the fact that it was precisely this that triggered the worldwide and fierce UFO controversy, which of course also had many disadvantages for you, because you were accused of swindling and deceit or charlatany and dishonesty and assumed that you made models and photographed and filmed them.
17. We often felt sorry for you because of this, but we could not change everything, because only by carrying out certain flight manoeuvres in this form, which you could film and photograph and then spread all over the world, the worldwide UFO controversy was guaranteed, which led to the already said result and will also in the future still further and already urgently necessary results bring.

...

Ptaah:

59. Another very objectionable factor is also that flying apparatuses are being built and tested in the USA by the military in an extremely secret manner, of which many outsiders nevertheless have knowledge and even evidence, because they have been able to observe and even film and photograph the flying apparatuses at all times of the day and night.

Billy:

And these are flying apparatuses that have foreign forms and have propulsion systems and flight characteristics that are not inherent to any conventional aircraft. ...

Ptaah:

...

61. I can now also say that various so-called UFO observations that have been made in many countries of the Earth during the last four decades can also be traced back in several forms to such flying apparatuses of terrestrial origin, which, however, do not only relate to America, but also to other countries of the Earth.

...

Billy:

In various countries on Earth, flying apparatuses are being developed which, due to their construction method which is different from that based on airplanes, appear foreign and extraterrestrial, and indeed with quite good success. The forms of flying apparatuses range from the beamship forms that you know of, to triangular forms etc. etc. And the fact that these flying apparatuses are then regarded by observers as UFOs i.e. as spaceships or simply as extraterrestrial flying objects, is indeed probably only natural; not least also because they are noiseless or almost noiseless and have flight characteristics which are foreign to the flight techniques known on Earth and contradict them.

...

Billy:

... There are many more pictures that have been taken in recent years by observers of UFOs that are real. According to your own statements, these include photos of police and military personnel.

Ptaah:

132. That is correct, because during the last decades different extraterrestrial intelligences have been seen on earth with their flying machines, which could then also be filmed and photographed.

133. The film and photo material of UFOs made in all the years worldwide and especially in America and South America as well as in England etc. does not always show extraterrestrial flying objects, but also such strangely working flying machines, which are manufactured since several decades by terrestrial humans on earth, as well as flying bodies, which come from the terrestrial future or which are known as bioorganic flying bodies with us, which are the so-called dimension changers, life forms, which penetrate from another dimension into the terrestrial airspace.

...

Ptaah:

144. In the time to come, even farther away, a lot will happen and change with regard to alien aircraft and their crews, but also with regard to earthly, mysterious and strange-looking flying machines.

145. Also contacts with extraterrestrials are to be expected, which will be however of a completely different nature than all previous lying, swindling and deceitful would-be contactees have presented them with all their religious-sectarian nonsense etc.

...

Billy:

Your world-monitoring control disks, what about them – do they remain stationed around the world?

Ptaah:

182. All these control apparatuses have already been removed, so only the one intended for the centre still exists.

183. But it is no larger than 7 millimetres in diameter and 3.2 millimetres in thickness.

Billy:

And that includes all the monitoring electronics as well as the signal transmitter?

Ptaah:

184. And even much more you wouldn't dream of, as you like to say.

185. The control apparatus also contains transmitters and receivers and associated image transmission equipment, which transmit everything at multiple speeds of light to a control point near our dimensional passage at a star far beyond the Pleiades cluster, in order to reach our space-time structure and thus our dimension from there through a dimensional transmitter.

Billy:

... During the last conversation you told me confidentially that despite your departure a patrol might still return.

Ptaah:

76. That's right.

77. Such a decision was indeed made.

78. There are also already several unmanned and two manned units here again, which carry out their observation flights and tasks around the planet.

Billy:

... there are the underhand American efforts to cover up everything concerning UFOs and extraterrestrials and secretly use them for military armament as well as for the exercise of military and political power. ...

...

Billy:

Besides you Pleiades and the members of your Federation, there are also other alien beings visiting our world, whose aircraft can be observed here and there.

Ptaah:

84. That is correct, but not our concern, because we do not maintain any contacts to these very rare aliens, just as we do not maintain any contacts to Earth-humans.

...

Billy:

Extraterrestrials

...

In every case caution is recommended in relation to the extraterrestrials and contact with them as well as in relation to the observed UFOs, because for a long time not all of that which was said and asserted in this regard was correct. Deceptions can be present during the observations of UFOs, as well as the actual observation of extraterrestrial flying devices, etc. Thus, where dealing with such an observation, it is often very difficult to clear up. Yet it may be accepted that a certain small percentage of all observations actually lead back to extraterrestrial flying devices, which are seen in ever greater numbers around the world. The majority of the observations do not, however, correspond to reality, rather touch upon imaginations and suchlike, that many times are only the consequence of certain science fiction films, etc., that would arouse the susceptible humans to fantasies through which they then see or experience imaginary things in the sky that have nothing to do with reality. And just these imaginations, that often extend to Real Vision, are very plentiful, but this should not prejudice the facts, and mean that all observations are of this kind, because there actually are still enough cases of UFO observations that undoubtedly rest upon such really-occurring extraterrestrial, and partly also other-dimensional, flying devices which have nothing to do with the Plejadian/Plejaren, and their confederates, rather they belong to other worlds and civilizations.

... Therefore the greatest caution is recommended with extraterrestrial contacts in the sky, because too much about this are lies, deception, swindle, charlatanism and speculation, etc., whereby also the truth-despising efforts and falsifications as well as disinformation machinations of the governments are implicated through the committal and establishment of unbelievable lies, slanders, falsifications and trickeries in the world to veil the truth, to contradict and to deny. The Roswell UFO crash is just one of many inglorious examples. Naturally not all terrestrial governments and military work in this slimy way, but there are many. And they get ever more difficulty from those peoples who are really interested in the UFO clarification and the events connected therewith, as they turn the heat up under the governments, the military and the secret services. The time namely presses ever more, because ever more UFO incidents take place and also pure UFO observations increase ever further. So the responsible ones use their lies, defamation and denial ever less, whereby they apply a new obscuring technique to keep secret the actual existence of extraterrestrials, as well as their visits to Earth. Their new method is to demonize everything that has to do with UFOs and extraterrestrials. That, thereby, also serves to hinder the coming about of contact with extraterrestrials and civilians, because that can no longer be controlled and because, as a rule, civilians who are not bound by a military or secret service security status do not shy away from making such experiences and events openly known. But such open information is exceedingly uncomfortable and even exceedingly dangerous for the governments as well as for the military and secret services, etc., as their power structures could become shaky. Of this it was already clear to a whole line-up of authorities as well as their military and secret services in the First World War because, over the battlefields of Europe UFOs were observed whose appearance was however kept secret. It went the same way in the Second World War, as the foo-fighters surfaced everywhere. Indeed, it was already firmly established by the military and secret services and highest government positions by the First and Second World Wars that UFOs were of extraterrestrial origin, yet the secrecy was still maintained. The facts of the extraterrestrial origins of flying devices was recognized in America through the observation of a landing of such an object, where four unusually-clothed humanoid beings disembarked, collected some plants in the vicinity, re-entered their device and flew away. The observers of these events were two members of the military who, co-incidentally, were in just that area while on vacation. Both reported the event to the nearest military facility, allowing the secret investigations and clarifications to proceed, as had already happened in other similar cases that preceded, and also subsequently occurred even more. But everything happened under the strictest nondisclosure, as the Plejadian/Plejaren have affirmed, so the public received no knowledge about these incidents whatsoever, as neither did the main body of the governments, the military and the secret services. It was always only the very highest positions and officials who were privy to the secrets. And it was also these people who even then concerned themselves with, and worked out, concealment tactics to deceive most of their subordinates and the entire population. It was to be avoided that on one hand everything would be known, and on the other hand that those not in the know and not sworn to secrecy, or even civilian personnel, could have contact with extraterrestrials. Therefore a possibility was sought to place fear in humans in relation to the extraterrestrials so that no contact would result from a possible landing or from a crash of extraterrestrial projectiles.

Naturally already in those times there were civilian observers of UFOs, but if this was to be avoided, there would still be fundamentally nothing given recognition in the open media. They also led the population to believe that these strange flying devices were their own secret flying machines, which were just then undergoing initial testing. Therefore the people already at that time were knowingly being led into the dark. Silence was maintained regarding what the UFOs effectively were, namely extraterrestrial, and partly foreign-dimensional, interplanetary flying devices controlled by crews foreign to Earth. Naturally in those days the flying devices were not yet called UFOs, but were given other names. But that doesn't diminish the fact that already after the outbreak of the First World War, in 1915, the American President Woodrow Wilson ordered a nondisclosure in respect of extraterrestrial flying objects, and decreed measures to cover himself with what had been written. The consequences of this unofficial, secret edict of which also US Presidents Warren G. Harding as well as Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, whereby especially Roosevelt, were finally the driving power, was that the angst for extraterrestrial conquerors would be incited to panic, and indeed through a perfidious machination, together with the secret service, through which book authors would be threatened with death in order to start an extremely effective horror scenario. US President Harry Truman was then also later drawn into the conspiracy, because he even cooperated as the highest-placed observer of UFO crash sites. However, things of this kind were not only happening in America, because also in Russia – as also in other countries – one was becoming attentive to the UFOs and secretly held the view that it must concern extraterrestrial flying devices – even when, always again, meanwhile, voices from the uninitiated grew loud in Russia as well as in America that these thereby dealt with new kinds of enemy aircraft. Party leader and dictator Josef W. Stalin was, for example, like various US presidents, at different times an observer of UFOs, from which he was quickly convinced, despite the angst for the new flying machines of the Americans, that it dealt with intelligences foreign to Earth. One fact that he, however, never made openly known, as also happened with the fact that practically every UFO observation in the Soviet Union fell under secrecy provisions.

The darkening, slandering and obscuring machinations of many governments, militaries and secret services, etc., of different countries, began therefore already very early, and indeed much earlier than would be generally accepted by the real UFO researchers. According to the explanation of the Plejadian/Plejaren, however, especially the Americans were leading in this respect, whereby these were also those who held the proof of the existence of extraterrestrial flying objects tight in their hands already early, and indeed not first since the Roswell case. Truly, already earlier the Americans had parts of wreckage from crashed extraterrestrial flying devices fall into their hands, as well as mutilated extraterrestrial corpses, which, however, fell under the strictest nondisclosure and whereby, as the Plejadian/Plejaren explained, also undesired UFO crash and UFO recovery observers, as well as recovery workers were "erased" or forced into silence under the gravest threats. But that was not enough by far, because the longer the UFO appearances in the new age were observed, the more secretly these were dealt with, and indeed not the least on that account, because the arrival of the extraterrestrials, and the enslavement of the terrestrial humanity through the invaders was feared by the American government and their military as well as secret services. And (so) that the population should be left in ignorance about the truth of the existence of extraterrestrials, nevertheless, however (that) fear must be developed in the peoples against the extraterrestrials, out of which a far-reaching hate must be established against the invaders, and, thereby, once again a defensive rage steered by hate should result, the US presidency, as well as the leading officers of the military and the secret services, etc., came upon a psychologically sophisticated idea to work out a horror scenario in extraterrestrial matters and to start it in such a way that not only America would be seized by it, rather also great parts of the rest of the world. This scenario should be configured in such a way, that once angst and panic should first break out regarding Extraterrestrial invaders, thereafter they then spread further fear and hate far, and could spread it over the world, and indeed also then, when it would be officially recognized, that it all only dealt with fiction and therefore a poor utopian piece of work. Thereby the psychological trick would be established, that when once fear is sown then from that yet greater fear and finally also panic and hate must develop, that follows itself further, always spreading out farther. A fact that was already known then and also today, yet would be practiced again and again over the whole world in different relationships. And exactly angst and terror were necessary, according to the view of the responsible ones, to incite the population against the extraterrestrials, and to prevent them from coming into contact with them if the opportunity should present itself.

Through this perfidious and fully-thought-out psychological machination of the highest government authorities as well as the military and secret services, it also should be avoided that at any time, any one of the people would gain admission to the extraterrestrials if the opportunity offered itself. The responsible ones not only had fear of a peaceful extraterrestrial official, or unofficial, landing and contact initiative, but they also feared an invasion. And because an official or unofficial extraterrestrial appearance and effect on the Earth was not compatible with the religious philosophies, since 1915, Pope Benedict XV, (1914-1922) as well as Pius XI. (1922-1939) and Pius XII. (1939-1958) would also be drawn into the entire conspiracy. Also certain Jewish dignitaries were enlisted in this, who even at that time in America had quite a bit to say and had a voice.

In the most secret of missions, it was therefore resolved to create a horror scenario which would agitate the population on one hand, who, however, should be left in ignorance of the truth of the existence of the extraterrestrials who already manoeuvred in terrestrial air space and also landed sporadically on the Earth, as it has been established from secure sources, and through that, on the other hand, that fear and hate be sown against the strangers from other worlds. The mean and slimy trick was in and of itself simple: a radio broadcast should be transmitted, that on one hand spreads angst and terror of the extraterrestrials, and on the other hand, should also strike very far, and as much as possible, worldwide circles. To this end, through American secret service agents, as well as through the responsible superiors of these positions of duty, as well as the government and military, suitable authors and works were sought, which could be exploited and used for the perfidious machination. It was US President Franklin D. Roosevelt (President, 4th March 1933 – 12th April 1945) who quite personally, however, sought out the science fiction work of Englishman Herbert George Wells, who as an author, in 1898, brought out a work under the title "War of the Worlds". In this episode American secret service agents made contact with Wells and beseeched him coercively to adapt his work to a radio play. But the man himself did not feel in a position to do this, so he suggested chartering a young American author of his acquaintance, Orson Welles, who would certainly be suitable. Under threats of death, H.G. Wells was obliged to lifelong silence, after which, then in America, the still young Orson Welles would be coerced by the secret service people to refashion H.G. Wells's work, "War of the Worlds" into a realistic-seeming horror radio play. Out of the science fiction novel Wells wrote in 1897 and published in 1898, such a work that broadcast on the radio, would release wild panic and angst as well as hate for the extraterrestrials. The work, in which extraterrestrials, formed unlike humans, and of monstrous and evil-nature, land on the Earth and cause trouble and destruction, was exactly that which had been hoped for by the responsible ones of governments, the military and the secret services. It's no wonder that as a result of panic breaking out there was quite a number of dead.

The goal of the government, the military and the secret services was achieved with the broadcast of the radio play (War of the Worlds), because from then on fear, and also a certain hate, ruled against the extraterrestrials, of the kind and form, as well as the sense, that was also always desired. And exactly that has remained that way until today and even still spreads out, because fear and hate would again always be newly stirred up, and the American secret service powers, etc., are especially proficient in doing exactly that. Were that not enough, that they – and certain also determined government and military powers – financially support and demand contra films against the extraterrestrials, no, they do not shy from simulating all kinds of horror-events, like, for example, abductions by extraterrestrials, as well as human and animal mutilations and so on and so forth. They are also not inactive in matters relating to the falsification of crop circles, and indeed in the most differing countries. Naturally, in respect of all these things there are also charlatans, deceivers and swindlers and every other sort, yet the secret service machinations are probably indeed the worst, because it is precisely through these that disinformation is established, through which the genuine and actual events in this regard are bedevilled and made laughable. Scarcely anything is known about exactly this, as everything runs so secretly as it always has, and as does the actual story of the radio play of "War of the Worlds" by Orson Welles. And the danger exists that something could not be held secret, then the responsible ones of the government and military as well as the secret services do not shy away from bringing the witnesses to silence under death threats or through an otherwise erasing, like, for example, through elimination or through a consciousness-stupefying brain wash and psycho-terror and so forth. Herbert George Wells, who died on the 13th August 1946, also knew that, as did Orson Welles who departed this life on October 10th, 1985. Neither left behind any indications about the true incidents regarding the radio play, as they correctly feared that their families, friends and acquaintances after their demise also could be vengefully persecuted by the secret service people and the responsible ones of the government and military. And that I now do not hold my tongue about that which the Plejadian/Plejaren explained to me in regard to this ... what comes of that remains to be seen... The nasty machinations of the government, military and secret service people in respect of the demonizing of extraterrestrials have increased ever more since 1938 – indeed slowly and successively, thus, however all the more incessantly and expansively, until in the eighties, essentially, the greatest machination for the bedeviling of extraterrestrials began – through a shifty structure in the fashion of the secret service, as well as miscellaneous UFO and extraterrestrial enemies. Stories came about like the ghastly human and animal mutilations, the theft of human babies and the impregnating of terrestrial women through foreign visitors out of outer space. Horror stories were also disseminated about subterranean laboratories and the inhuman experiments taking place there. Were that still not enough, because the angst of the extraterrestrials wreaked even worse blooms, like, for example, it would be asserted that women impregnated by aliens would, after some months, have the baby growing in the womb snatched out to be allowed to finally grow further in a fluid-filled incubator, etc., in order to breed up a new humanity, etc. using these hybrid children. A further horror story was that the earth humans would be abducted, in order to take their genetic material that would be necessary for the extraterrestrials' further breeding of humans, who would serve as, so to say, nourishment providers, because the evil foreigners out of the depths of outer space supposedly nourish themselves on human blood. Similarly, it would also be asserted in respect to the animal mutilations in America, whereby the related far-fetched feeble-mindedness that namely beef blood demonstrates a genetic relationship with human blood, therefore the mutilated cattle would have their blood sucked out to store in the blood banks for crisis times – naturally through the evil extraterrestrials. Yet even that is not enough, because still many other assertions, slanderings and lies, and clearly to be recognised as feeble-minded, are put about, through which the humans are led into error and would be shifted into angst and terror, as has had manifold success, and certain mass hysteria has been released by a worldwide group of certain earth humans, which also leads to feelings of hate, etc. ...

Billy:

... Here, for example: protective shields of spaceships. – As you know, science fiction films are broadcast almost all over the world by all TV stations – even in the cinemas, these are shown – and of course, as a rule, the aliens are always the bad guys who kill the Earth-humans and who want to destroy the Earth or else want to conquer and colonize it for themselves, which is, of course, pure nonsense. Now, in these films, it is regularly portrayed that the energy shields of the spaceships lose a percentage of strength and protective function each time when energies of any kind hit these. These other, foreign energies are, of course, generally those that are shot, i.e. emitted, from hostile beam weapons of enemy objects. Now, the question is: to what extent can such an energy shield be reconstructed in a decisive time, such that a full protection is given again. There actually are such protective shields, as I know from you; therefore, what is depicted in the films doesn't just correspond to an unattainable fantasy. And as you once explained to me, our earthly scientists are also working on such protective shields, even though everything still falls under secrecy.

Ptaah:

142. And successes in relation to this could have already been seen – if it didn't just concern secret projects.

143. But I can answer your question as follows:

144. It all depends on what energy sources are used for a protective shield, in what measures they are used, and how they can be brought to application.

145. As you know very well, energies are not simply energies, but this doesn't actually have to be explained in detail; therefore, it is only to be said that in general, different technologies for the utilization of protective shields exhibit different forms of energy, from which energy shields can even be generated.

146. The protective shields themselves can also be very different, so they might protect a spaceship or other aircraft, etc. only by sector or even completely.

147. With this, it should be explained that a spaceship, another aircraft, a human, a robot or android, or something else can just be protected by a single, full-scale protective shield or by one that consists of several segments, i.e. sectors.

148. A full-scale protective shield has a main energy source and a reserve energy source, while a segment shield, i.e. sector shield, has its own main energy source and reserve energy source for each sector; thus, the individual sectors are independent of each other.

Billy:

And what form of energy shield is used by you?

Ptaah:

149. We exclusively use comprehensive protective shields, and to be sure, for the spaceships and other aircraft as well as for humans and all things that must be protected in this way.

150. However, our energy shields don't work in the way as portrayed in your science fiction films, namely that the protective shields are weakened when foreign energies from beam weapons or from cosmic energy fields, i.e. shocks of energy, impact on the shields, by what means these become weakened in their capacity, i.e. performance.

151. This form of protective shield development only represents an initial one, and we already left this phase behind us thousands of years ago.

152. Already more than 40,000 years ago, our technology in this regard experienced such a high development that the protective shields could be perfected and could be put into use, whereby these shields were designed in such a way that any kind of energy that hit them became converted into that which was useful for the shield, which has so remained up to this day.

153. Thus, by impacts of foreign energies of every kind, including, of course, protective shield-conforming energies, the protective shields are neither weakened nor destroyed; rather, they convert the impacting energy immediately and without loss of time into their own energy and, thus, strengthen the power of their own shields.

154. In other words:

155. There occurs, without loss of time, an energy-to-standardization in the protective shield's energy, whereby this accumulates with each newly added burst of energy of any kind from beam weapons or cosmic energy.

156. This means that the more the energy hits the protective shields, the stronger these become.

Billy:

And it doesn't matter what form of energy hits the protective shield because it automatically converts all energy hitting it of every kind and makes it useful for itself.

Ptaah:

157. Yes, I said that.

...

Billy:

... Here I now have a question in reference to the navigation technology of your spaceships and other missiles or robots and machines, etc. Everything is equipped with feeling-circuits, which work just like futuristic armatures and switchgears. It only very rarely happens, however, that you carry out any manipulations with these, even though everything is geared toward the fact that, absolutely, a manual operation can take place. As you've explained to me but also often demonstrated, all navigation manipulations occur through pure thought impulses.

Ptaah:

215. That is correct.

Billy:

You explained to me that with you, no spaceship technology or other missile technology exists that isn't navigated by thought impulses, even though everything also always allows a manual navigation.

Ptaah:

216. As I already said, That is correct.

Billy:

Then again a question: The unknown flying objects, the so-called UFOs, which are sighted more and more frequently in all countries, sometimes even in larger arrangements, and which are also sighted in larger numbers, all concern the same place of origin?

Ptaah:

46. No, that is not the case, because there are several different places of origin from where the flying objects come.

47. Besides, not all are at home in your space-time-structure, because as we noticed, Earth is also visited by differently dimensioned flying objects and beings that do not come from your space-time-structure.

Billy:

Can one also speak of future visitors?

Ptaah:

48. Yes, that is the case.

{Note: The following comments concern a photograph seen here along with an enlargement, in Contact Report 272.}

Ptaah:

50. I remember this very well, because Florena and I were flying in your airspace at the time, because we were observing foreign flying apparatuses that were also flying around in your immediate and wider airspace.

51. Like ourselves, they were shielded from any view to humans from Earth, so neither these foreigners nor ourselves could be observed.

52. Our advanced technology also allowed us to remain invisible to the foreigners, so they had no idea of our presence.

53. But if our flying apparatus is still visible in the picture you mentioned, then this could only be captured on film for a tiny fraction of a second, at a moment when the automatic safety system changed the frequency of the visual protection shield.

54. A process that can become necessary when foreign objects, for which you want to remain invisible and unlocatable, get too close.

55. However, if the flying apparatus becomes visible for a tiny fraction of a second during such an operation, this only happens on the side facing away from the foreign object, which ensures that our flying apparatus cannot be seen or located.

56. But if our flying apparatus was photographed by the person you mentioned, then this corresponds to an almost unbelievable luck and a coincidence that occurs only once among millions of similar cases, when the automatic visual protection switch is delayed for a fraction of a second.

Billy:

Legendary. – And the foreigners? What kind of beamships or flying apparatus do they have, and what do they want?

Ptaah:

57. Their flying apparatuses bears a certain resemblance to ours and could therefore easily be confused by the uninitiated and ignorant.

58. What the foreigners want is easy to explain:

59. They appear once every 70 to 80 years on Earth, taking care of all sorts of things that reach into political as well as military and scientific matters, whereby their aim is to make an official appearance at the appropriate moment and to establish open contact with the Earth-humans.

Billy:

And, were there contacts to them at earlier times, resp. did these foreigners interfere in the earlier concerns of Earth-humans?

Ptaah:

60. That was to some extent the case, yes.

...

Florena:

10. This is undoubtedly our flying apparatus with which Ptaah and I were travelling in your area on the 9th of May at 13:00 hrs.

11. However, we did not use the flying apparatus that I usually use, but one that is probably ordered for our duties, but is not assigned to our technology and therefore has some external modifications.

Billy:

But you can still think of it as a Pleiadian-Plejaren ship – at least I thought of it as such.

Florena:

12. The confusion is understandable, as there are also various similarities with this flying apparatus that are deceptively similar to our technology.

Billy:

... But don't you think it is a bit dangerous to park your ship here in the parking lot? Maybe somebody will come by at this time.

Florena:

11. If someone should come unexpectedly, then the automatic switch of the aircraft turns on the sight protection, therefore it cannot be seen then.

12. For this purpose a safety screen is in function. –

...

Billy:

... Florena, do you have any knowledge worth knowing about the alien aliens you and Ptaah observed in the airspace around Schmidrüti on the 8th of May 1998?

Florena:

20. I am not allowed to give details of important nature.

21. However, I may say that these strangers are very often present in your airspace.
22. We do not know the reason for this, but we have our assumptions.

Ptaah:

8. Florena showed herself to Edith with all our consent, and then we found out that there was a lot of good news both in Edith and in various other group members.
9. That's why we gave in to Tauron's request when he asked if he could openly and visibly move across the centre, which he did on the night of the 28th of May of this year.
10. And again we noticed that it was good and that visibly fruitful changes were taking place in different group members.
11. So I approached the High Council and presented them with the statements they had made, whereupon they were advised to lift our privacy shield at certain moments, if this appeared to be justifiable.
12. The condition, however, is that only one sight wedge remains open at a time, pointing to the observer or observers or to a camera.
13. If one or perhaps several of our flying apparatuses can be observed from the Centre, then this is only possible from this location, as a result of which it can no longer be sighted in the wider surroundings.

...

21. But like you, I would also like to say that the structure here on the computer images {see photo} is indeed a flying apparatus and that it belongs to the foreigners.

Billy:

... But now I have a question about the control disks that curled around the Centre on the 19th of August 1989. What was the reason for this, if one is allowed to experience it?

Ptaah:

34. That's no secret either.
35. In fact, everything that was happening around the centre and in its buildings was recorded visually and acoustically by the devices.

Billy:

Ah – why is that?

Ptaah:

36. That's no secret either.
37. What was held was used for demonstration and information purposes for all our federation members.

Billy:

I am flat. By all federation members, do you really mean all humanities or just spiritual leaders? The latter would not be logical, because you speak of all members of the Federation.

Ptaah:

38. You already understand it correctly:
39. The meaning of my words refers to all members of the Federation.

Billy:

Then I am reassured when only 120 billion (120,000,000,000) humans from foreign solar systems and planets know what's going on in the centre, how the group members behave here, what they do and work, and what their interests are, etc. I am not sure what I mean. How many hours did the control discs, or telemetric discs as we call them, record and record everything?

Billy:

... But may I still ask if you may tell me how many types of beamships you have alternately in operation here on Earth? Or is that secret?

Zafenatpaneach:

31. That is not subject to secrecy.

32. We operate in earthly space with 76 different types of aircraft.

Billy:

And, are they all of purely Plejaren origin, or do you also have ship types that you use, that come from other federation peoples, etc.?

Zafenatpaneach:

33. A certain number of the types of aircrafts that we use on Earth concern their development and construction to other peoples of our Federation.

34. They are therefore not of Plejaren origin.

...

Billy:

... Say, do you fly different ships alternately, at least that's how it seems to me?

Zafenatpaneach:

36. Yes, we don't always use the same flying objects, but this is not the rule.

Billy:

... Now I have a question regarding your technology. In your spaceships, in your giant spaceship as well as in the beamships etc., you have an enormous amount of flat touch surfaces, which we simply call buttons here, and which serve to control and regulate and check etc. your ships and apparatuses as well as robots. Only rarely, and also on my Great Journey, have I seen you operate these flat touch buttons, but nevertheless everything has taken its course as you wished and said it would. Can you tell me the reason for this?

Ptaah:

22. That is no secret.

23. The flat contact surfaces, as you call them, are highly sensitive radiant surfaces that are not directly touched, but are only superficially aligned to pick up the swinging waves of the human beings via the fingertips who want to carry out the necessary manipulations.

24. In reality, however, the radiant surfaces are only manual aids for very last emergencies, precisely when something should fail for some reason, which, however, is absolutely impossible.

25. Nevertheless, safety and our legislation in this respect require that emergency switching must be possible.

26. In the normal case, every flying apparatus, every spaceship and every piece of equipment etc. is put into operation and controlled etc. by artificial bio-brains, which are bio-intelligences in themselves and can think and act independently, for which, however, they require a clear and direct thought impulse from a responsible and authorised human being.

27. It is therefore impossible for unauthorised persons to get into the working and control systems of any beamships, spaceships, devices, other missiles or into apparatus or weapons and working tools etc., because every single thing is aligned and therefore programmed to the responsible operator authorised to act.

28. One exception was when you were piloting Semjase's flying object around the Earth.

Billy:

So also no weapon can be used by an unauthorised person, as well as no devices, apparatus and ships etc.

Ptaah:

29. That is the meaning of my words.

30. All our technology requiring operation is set in operation and controlled etc. solely by thought impulses of those in charge of operation.

31. There is no other possibility, not even in the sense that something could be done by the manually operable radiant surfaces, because in this respect too the vibrations of the agents of action and operation are necessary.

Asina:

6. The number of our ships with which we came into your time is 21.

...

Billy:

Yes, it just amazes me that the lights were not shown on TV or in the newspapers, because the whole thing took a good ten minutes and must have been seen by a lot of human beings.

Ptaah:

10. The Earth-humans are like that – they obviously consider such events to be of earthly origin.

11. Thus it will have been that the lighting up of the flying apparatuses from Asina's armada was interpreted as earthly aircraft.

Billy:

... Well, you really surprised me when you showed up with Asina in my office. I did not expect her to be able to come here and that you would find her at all. Where were they and yours that you have not found them in so long?

Ptaah:

3. After their materialization they immediately left Earth, flying to Venus with some of the planes and to Mars with the rest of the planes to clarify and explore some things that were important to them.

4. So of course we searched in vain for them in earthly space, especially because we have not hermetically controlled the Earth and its airspace since 1995, so that we are no longer orientated towards all the entries etc. of extraterrestrial intelligences.

Billy:

You already said that earlier, but you also mentioned that you had loosened your overall control since the mid-eighties.

Ptaah:

5. That's right, because since then there's no need for total control anymore.

Billy:

... May I ask you what's the situation with the new control disk you want to reinstall, as you finally told me. Do you already have it in operation?

Ptaah:

19. This is the case.

Billy:

Aha, and what performance does this thing achieve?

Ptaah:

20. It's aligned with our latest ultra-subatomic computer technology.

Billy:

I know a lot now. What performance does this thing achieve, and how big is it?

Ptaah:

21. The size of the apparatus is four square millimetres, with a total thickness of one millimetre.

22. This mass also contains the entire processor apparatus as well as the transmitter and receiver, the power generating unit and the dynamisator.

Billy:

Dynamisator? What is that?

Ptaah:

23. Is the name not correct? –

24. I mean the engine.

Billy:

Aha, you can also call it that. An incredibly tiny mass this control disk. How big is the storage capacity of the tiny one?

Ptaah:

25. 74 Exabyte.

Billy:

A Bohemian Forest for me. Exabyte, I have never heard or read that before. How can that be expressed in numbers?

Ptaah:

26. You call an exabyte 10<sup>18</sup>.

Billy:

Man, that's a trillion. 74 Exabytes would then be 74 trillion bytes. And that's stored on such a tiny surface. Ultra-subatomic, you say?

Ptaah:

27. Certainly.

Billy:

And that generally corresponds to your highest current computer technology. Man, oh, man. – May I ask how many operations your high-performance computers are able to perform per second? High-performance computers, nonsense, they certainly are not, if I judge your technology by what you just explained.

Ptaah:

28. The operational speed of our fastest computers is 10<sup>52</sup> operations per second.

Billy:

And all this on an ultra-subatomic basis? That's super super speed. And how big is a computer like that and how much power does it need for operation?

Ptaah:

29. I told you the size of the smallest: four (4) square millimetres of surface area and one (1) millimetre of thickness.

30. The required operating power is seven (7) watts for a computer the size of a cubic meter, as it is in my generation aircraft.

Billy:

You mean in your giant roomer?

Ptaah:

31. Yes.

Billy:

How much energy does the tiny control disk of only four square millimetres and only one millimetre thickness need?

Ptaah:

32. The demand is in the nanoscale of a watt.

Billy:

... But tell me, in relation to various unknown flying objects, UFOs, which have been appearing all over the world for decades, even at the present time, and whatever will be preserved for the future, are you allowed to say something about them, if you do not touch the previous explanations?

Ptaah:

31. You should also keep silent about this, because things could become apparent which again fall within the scope of our directives.

Billy:

Of course – how can I. But what about the earth-future flying objects that are not related to your explanations?

Ptaah:

32. We should not talk openly about that either, even if these issues do not affect our directives.

33. The reason for this lies in the Earth-future, from which the flying objects you mentioned come.

Billy:

And what about 'bio-organic flying objects' {"Rods"} and the Skrill {see Contact Report 238}, shouldn't we mention anything more about them in the future?

Ptaah:

34. That would be advisable, yes.

35. Everything is exuberant with regard to extraterrestrial flying objects and extraterrestrial human life-forms in the terrestrial human being, whereby either fear and terror are stirred up or everything is ridiculed.

Billy:

... Last night I received a telephone call from a woman in Munich and was asked whether I knew that in the night from the 6th to the 7th, that is from Saturday to Sunday, there was an impressive light phenomenon over Bavaria and whether I knew what it was about. Do you know anything about this event? I promised the woman that I would ask you and then give her an answer when she calls me again the next weekend.

Ptaah:

6. The incident is known to us, and there is nothing mysterious about it that needs to be concealed.

7. In fact, it is true that two different events coincided which triggered the luminous phenomenon.

8. The whole thing was about two objects crashing together towards the earth and burning up due to the frictional heat caused the remarkable luminous phenomenon.

9. One object was a natural one, a so-called bolide, an oversized shooting star, as you would say, or a small meteor, while the second object was an artificial one, namely a larger piece of space junk created by Earth-humans.

10. The coincidence was that the bolide raced exactly into the orbit of this space debris and dragged it with it, whereby both entered the atmosphere and together they burned up for the most part, consequently only small parts fell to earth unburned.

Ptaah:

97. It's not worth thinking about it, because on the one hand it's an invented mischievous story about the 'Mothman', just an 'owl's mirroring', as you once called this kind of activity.

98. On the other hand, at that time a real hysteria arose regarding UFOs, according to which many people at that time saw many unreal things that really did not exist.

99. So through hysteria they fell into hallucinations, self-generated real visions and strong imaginations.

100. This hysteria was not limited to the United States of America but spread all over the world.

101. In fact, however, at that time some flying objects appeared which were unidentifiable for the terrestrial people, whereby of all of them only two were really of extraterrestrial origin, which belonged to our Federation and which could be observed several times.

102. All other observations were undoubtedly due to terrestrial flying objects of partly secret form or to any natural terrestrial phenomena, or they were based on illusions and self-deceptions etc., whereby the self-deceptions were usually based on wishful thinking, which was aimed at seeing extraterrestrial flying objects, as it is still the case today in the vast majority of cases of 'UFO-observations'.

Billy:

... Can you tell me how high above Earth our tiny control disk is floating?

Quetzal:

...

38. The latest device is in a stationary orbit at an altitude of 867 kilometres – measured from the middle surface of the Earth.

Billy:

... Why is it then that the glow of the ship or ships cannot be seen at all in the size as the ship is or as the ships are? The light should appear much bigger, I think. ...

Quetzal:

21. Of course the glow extends over the whole aircraft, as you know from experience, since you could make your observations from very close range.

22. But if the aircraft is more than 280 metres above the ground, then the entire light energy is automatically bundled in such a way that only a small area of visibility is created, which for observers at night time makes the aircraft appear only like a larger star.

23. This technique is based on a safety measure against biased observers who think they see only one star.

24. From this point of view it is usually not noticed that the apparent 'star' is moving.

Billy:

Why "biased" observers?

Quetzal:

25. Regarding our directives that we should not make ourselves noticeable and not openly make ourselves visible to human populations, which themselves are not yet capable of actual space travel and have not yet become really human.

Billy:

Then you could completely shield yourselves so that no light from your ships can be seen at night. Your technology is so advanced that there should be no problems for you in this respect.

Quetzal:

26. That would be possible for us of course, but then we would have to shield our aircraft against any visibility, which brings the disadvantage for us that in this state of the aircraft we can no longer perform certain locating activities.

Billy:

You mean that if your ships are invisible to the human eye – as well as to radar beams etc. – then, if I understand correctly, certain tracking activities from the ships will be affected?

Quetzal:

27. That is of correctness.

Billy:

... When you come here for the visits or corrections, do you always come to the SOL system with your giant spaceship? I was asked about that.

Ptaah:

39. No, because that is only necessary when I have special tasks to perform in this part of the DERN universe.

40. Usually I come here with small flying machines that cannot be registered by the earthly observers and monitors.

Billy:

So, this brings up another question after all: Can't you shield your giant room from view?

Ptaah:

41. Yes, but as a rule the giant space machine is used elsewhere, and my deputy is in command of it.

Ptaah:

4. As I saw, there are a lot of people over in the kitchen.

5. So I will have to be on my guard.

Billy:

Which should not be a problem for you. You can just turn on your device, which will automatically beam you into your ship when someone comes to the living room. ...

...

Ptaah:

30. Regarding the luminous objects that light up, seem to hang in the air, seem to divide into several objects, move away from each other, approach each other again and merge again, the following can be explained:

31. All the observers and witnesses of such sightings are deceived, because they are in no way extraterrestrial flying apparatuses or UFOs, as terrestrial people call the objects, which can be seen especially in many places in the USA and all over the world.

32. The secret machinations of the responsible authorities and offices in the US-America are responsible for these appearances of these light objects, but this is to remain secret, not only for the American, but for the whole world population.

33. For this reason the paradox is given that the responsible authorities in the USA on the one hand deny the matter of the crash of an extraterrestrial flying object at Roswell and also elsewhere just as much as the secret machinations in Area 51, while on the other hand everything is done to strengthen the belief of the population in extraterrestrial UFOs, namely by secret American and strongly luminous flying apparatuses flying around in all possible areas and becoming visible to the population.

34. Of course, these are not always just test flights, but effective demonstration flights with all kinds of capers that normal terrestrial aircraft cannot perform.

35. This also happens in the relationship that the flying objects light up like little suns or suddenly split into several objects, which ultimately happens because several flat flying apparatuses are coupled on top of each other and then simply detach from each other to drift away and then reunite.

36. This creates the impression that several others would suddenly fly out of one object and then return to the 'mother object'.

37. This effect alone is enough for UFO believers to break out in jubilation and fall into the belief that the objects are extraterrestrial flying apparatuses, which they are in no way, because they are products that are secretly manufactured in the USA.

38. Test flights of these objects, which reach very high speeds and also possess certain gravitational or anti-gravitational techniques, can be observed all over the world, but especially in the country of manufacture, the USA, as I explained earlier.

39. To the secret machinations in this regard belong also still various others, which are to point out actions of extraterrestrials, like e.g. the alleged kidnappings of earth people as well as the massacring of cattle etc. by alleged extraterrestrial beings.

40. The fact that hypnosis is also used for allegedly affected people, as it was the case with the fraudulent moon landing in 1969, should be absolutely clear for every reasonable person.

Billy:

... But tell me, do you know anything about UFOs flying over Mexico on 5th March 2004? Please read this little newspaper article that appeared in the Tages-Anzeiger today, 13th May.

{Note: see Wikipedia entry and the Associated Press release about this story.}

Ptaah:

18. We are aware of the matter through earthly news broadcasts and TV pictures, but we have no further knowledge of the incident, if it is indeed a fake and not a forgery.

19. The moving pictures we know from TV broadcasts seem to me to be just as extremely peculiar as the strange formation of the round light objects, which simply appear flat and therefore cannot be spherical either.

20. There are also no contours to be seen, as well as no other things that indicate that they could really have been materially solid objects.

21. Nevertheless, I cannot exclude the possibility that they could have been bioorganic missiles of different dimensions, which, as you know, are harmless life forms from a neighbouring dimension and which can usually only be photographed by infrared cameras or recorded on infrared film.

22. By this I mean those bioorganic missiles that you could observe at different places in the world and that my father Sfath has already pointed out to you.

23. One last possibility could be considered, however, if you take into account the secret technical aircraft of the USA, which shield themselves from view and can therefore only be filmed with infrared cameras or seen with infrared vision devices.

24. I very much doubt that the unknown aircraft in Mexico were extraterrestrial intelligence.

Billy:

Then I would like to ask you officially, what's the deal with all the UFO sightings in the US and South America. I know the answer, but we have only ever talked about them privately and not officially, so an official statement on your part would be important. Some time ago, dear American passive members were with us in the Centre, and the talk was also about these frequent UFO sightings in America, Mexico and South America, so I explained the facts of the matter, why so many people – often in groups – see UFOs that move, change their light intensity, appear in groups, unite and separate again, appear and disappear, etc.

Ptaah:

60. I know your explanation, and it was also correct:

61. The unknown flying objects that appear so frequently in the USA, in Mexico and in various South American countries are in no way flying machines of extraterrestrial origin, but objects that correspond to an earthly technique.

62. Specifically, these are usually various types of aircraft, which are constructed in secret bases in the USA and tested in the entire North, Central and South American airspace, as well as in other countries of the world, without the world public or the military and governments of foreign states having any knowledge of them.

63. These are then the so-called UFOs, which are sighted everywhere in the airspace of the entire American continent, as well as elsewhere in the world.

64. Apart from the secret US-American aircraft, there are few others which do not belong to any state, but are constructed by other forces and can often be observed.
65. Flying machines of extraterrestrial origin are extremely rare to observe, because the earth is far away from other inhabited worlds, so it does not often receive visits from beings from other worlds.
66. This happens only extremely sporadically and therefore very rarely.
67. So what can usually be observed in unknown flying objects around the world and especially over the entire American continent are not extraterrestrial unknown flying objects but secret earthly flying machines of American and other origin.
68. Excluded are of course our flying machines and surveillance missiles, which can of course be observed by attentive observers both day and night.

Ptaah:

13. What this man writes seems to me to be nonsensical, and not only because I consider the pictures to be manipulation in the way that they were taken at night or in a dark room with a photo camera, where a long exposure time was used to produce the blurred light spots, but also because the photo camera was moved when the exposure time was long.
14. A very well-known act of falsifying such pictures, which are supposed to represent any UFOs.
15. Besides this it has to be said that since the time of our contacts with you – since 1942 – we have controlled the airspace of Switzerland, but also of Germany until today very exactly and could not register any such flying objects, which would have been of extraterrestrial origin on the one hand and of this kind on the other hand.
16. Seen to me, these are clearly artificial light sources, which have been captured on film in the form I mentioned.

Billy:

Something like that, I thought, because similar images were brought to me by Dr. Jonas from Vienna when he visited me in Hinwil in the early seventies. At that time I went with him to Einsiedeln Abbey, where I could watch at close range how he took his 'ghost photos' by setting the camera to a long exposure time and then moving the camera slightly when taking the photos. Also the German – what was his name – ah, he lived somewhere in Württemberg, forged alleged UFO pictures with car lights and hand lamps, which he took at night and in dark rooms. The result was exactly the same images as the ones in front of you.

Ptaah:

26. It has also been the case for many years now that our worldwide efforts of clarification and surveillance in this regard have not produced any positive results and therefore no contacts between terrestrial human beings and extraterrestrials have been recorded.
27. These clarifications are without any doubt, because our monitoring in this regard is absolutely faultless, because our apparatuses and devices register all foreign to Earth mental vibrations of acute activities, but also of telepathic nature, therefore nothing can escape us in this respect.
28. If communications between Earth foreigners and Earth-humans had taken place in the last major period of time, then this would have been recorded by our automatic recording devices and would have become known to us.
29. This in addition to the fact that we have always made individual clarifications with regard to all persons who claimed and still claim to have had or still have contact with extraterrestrials in any way.

30. But the results concerning such contacts are consistently negative to this day, and that is absolutely clear.

31. It is no different with extraterrestrial flying objects, because also with regard to these we have built up a global surveillance network a few months ago, so that no objects can enter or leave the airspace without being registered by us.

32. Until recently this was different, because we had not yet installed the necessary equipment, consequently some foreign objects escaped our attention in recent years, but this has nothing to do with the registration of foreign mental vibrations, which we have been controlling worldwide for more than 82 years, therefore we are also informed about when and where contacts between Earth-humans and Earth foreigners have actually taken place.

33. During this time their number – you excepted – applies to only eight such contacts, but of all those who claim that they have or have had such contacts, only one is who openly admitted the truth and came forward – the American Daniel Fry.

34. All others remained silent to the public about their contacts.

35. And what else is to be said about extraterrestrial flying objects:

36. They have entered Earth's airspace very sparsely since 1984.

37. What has been observed since then of unknown flying objects were usually – with very few exceptions – secret military or official flying objects of terrestrial origin.

Ptaah:

39. The electromagnetic oscillations of the Earth continue to produce luminous phenomena which are seen as light objects, and these very often also occur in the form of seaquake lights, and in the same way as earthquake lights.

...

41. Also luminous gas clouds, which rise from the bottom of the sea to the surface and into the air, as it happens also in moorland areas with regard to the so-called will-o'-the-wisps, but also ball lightning, are frequent phenomena, which occur at the mentioned places.

42. Experts call these light phenomena UFOs, which happens especially by people who are of esoteric and religious faith, whereby they regard the appearing phenomena as of extraterrestrial origin, which is of course nonsense, because real extraterrestrial flying machines, which are piloted by life-forms, correspond to an absolute rarity.

Billy:

... I am frequently asked, especially from the US and Mexico, about the sporadic appearance of small white objects at high altitude in the sky. I have also been sent a video showing such objects – white, round things that appear like small moving clouds that often change their position and sometimes seem to merge into each other, but then separate again. There are hundreds of such things at a time. To me it looks as if they are small cloud-like formations, which, as with larger similar phenomena in relation to earthquake lights, are caused by natural phenomena, such as gas concentrations, and by earth electromagnetic oscillations and energies, which are then mistaken for UFOs in the sense that they are extraterrestrial jet ships or flying machines. Also the earthquake lights are interpreted again and again as UFOs of extraterrestrial origin, because they often have forms which look like any futuristic flying objects. These often shining electromagnetic objects also have the property, as you have explained to me, that hallucinations are caused in some humans, which are often based on the fact that some humans consider everything to be real. Very often such hallucinations lead to illusory experiences in such a way that the hallucinators see themselves as abducted by aliens, especially with regard to small grey males with big almond-shaped eyes etc. False memory images are created by the brain, which feign something experienced without actually happening. A phenomenon that also occurs in such humans in a state of hypnosis. As you once explained, in the hypnotic state stories and experiences are created in the brain that seem completely real, but are not real and therefore never happened. If I remember correctly, these hallucinations are triggered in the cranial and temporal lobes. So it follows that the alleged abductions of terrestrials by extraterrestrials are based on pure hallucinations, as well as all the associated stories of alleged medical examinations, impregnations, robbery of the foetus, of strange time gaps, the local displacement of the allegedly affected, the switching off of lights and car engines etc. Of the hundreds and thousands of allegedly abducted humans all over the world – with the USA leading the way – the truth is that only two authentic cases in the last 240 years can be mentioned, as you recently explained to me in a purely private conversation. Even the fairy tales of alleged implants etc. are based on hallucinations or on events in which the person concerned has unnoticed in some way a foreign body, metal or plastic etc., has penetrated the body or limbs. It is not uncommon for there to be several such foreign bodies. Even mass observations of alleged extraterrestrial missiles can be based on hallucinations caused by earth electromagnetic oscillations and their energies, especially if strange nebulous or cloud-like formations are connected with them, which are caused by ionizations in the atmosphere.

Ptaah:

63. Although we talked about it before, but apparently I misunderstood you regarding the objects in Mexico and explained that I had no answer to that.

64. But now I know what your question is about, which I can only answer in the sense that you just explained it.

65. And what you're going to say is actually based on our findings as we conveyed them to you.

66. Unfortunately, this will not change the fact that all those who believe in the absurdities of alleged abductions by extraterrestrials and in everything allegedly connected with them will not be lectured.

67. In this regard, any instruction in relation to reality is usually just as meaningless as it is in relation to crop circles, belief in ghosts, all esotericism, religious sectarianism, the false teachings of religions and everything that has to do with occultism and hallucinations, imaginations and delusions of any kind from the human brain.

Ptaah:

12. What the animals perceive are geophysical effects in the form of electromagnetic oscillations, which are created in the earth's interior by the fact that – to put it simply – enormous weights of rocks as well as other layers of material press against each other with enormous forces and rub against each other, which causes changes in the rock and in the materials and thus creates electromagnetic oscillations.

13. In the same way, electromagnetic oscillations in the Earth's interior are caused by magma, water and gas processes.

14. The resulting electromagnetic oscillations are always discharged upwards or to the Earth's surface.

15. These oscillations are able to cause light phenomena in the Earth's atmosphere, namely the so-called earthquake or seaquake lights, which are often called UFOs by observers.

16. This in addition to the fact that they also form nebulous formations and clouds.

17. Animals, birds, fish and all creatures are sensitive to the electromagnetic oscillations, causing them to become agitated and behave as if they were disturbed, often taking flight.

18. In earlier times, when man had not yet lost his natural abilities, he too was able to perceive these vibrations, which today – with few exceptions – is no longer possible.

19. But if he prepares himself to observe thoroughly the world of animals, birds and fish and all the creatures, then he can recognize from their behaviour when certain natural events occur, such as earthquakes, seaquakes and landslides, etc.

Billy:

... Then it would be interesting to know how it behaves with flights of extraterrestrials into the terrestrial airspace, if you and your federated are excluded. Has something new come up? As you once explained to me, you have been doing some special research on this subject over the last few years.

Ptaah:

...

62. With regard to new entries of strangers to the Earth, nothing has come up for a very long time.

63. Thorough studies and clarifications on our part have shown that since 1947 no foreigners have flown into the airspace of the Earth unknown to us.

...

66. Clear investigations which we have conducted over the last three years have revealed that only we and our Federation allies were operating in Earth's airspace, along with a few others, all of whom, however, eventually became known to us and all of whom, with one exception, have joined our Federation.

67. With only six exceptions, none of all these strangers to Earth have made any other contact with Earth-humans, neither with us nor with strangers, and neither with our Federation allies nor with us.

68. The six exceptions – apart from your person – are known to you, and these earthlings have all died in the meantime.

...

Billy:

Then you could say that apart from the aircraft belonging to you and your Federation, and those who then joined your Federation, no other alien aircraft have been sighted on Earth in recent decades? But there are an enormous number of sightings around the world. ...

Ptaah:

...

77. The many sightings of unidentified flying objects in terrestrial airspace are based on the one hand on electromagnetic as well as purely atmospheric and natural phenomena of the Earth, but also on the fact that secret military test flights with futuristic aircraft are observed.

78. Such test flights have been taking place since the beginning of aviation and were also carried out during the World War II years and afterwards, and they continue to this day.

79. In very many cases it was and is such secret flying machines, which were seen all over the world and were mistaken for extraterrestrial aircraft and are still mistaken for them.

Billy:

... But what's interesting to hear from you now is that for the last three years you have finally found out the truth about alien aircraft and alleged contacts. Nevertheless, one question remains open, namely that various people have described abductions, contacts and observations etc. under hypnosis. Also the so-called Channelling is still current with various lunatics and cheats.

Ptaah:

80. We have already talked about this earlier.

81. These are imaginations and visions as well as effective delusions, wishful thinking and earth electromagnetic influences on the brain etc.

82. What is concerning channelling, there is to say that on the one hand it is absolute nonsense and on the other hand it is delusion, but you know that.

Billy:

... Then another question regarding the entry of extraterrestrial flying apparatuses into terrestrial space, which you once estimated to be about 3,000 a year. Must we assume that these flying apparatuses were only those of your federation and yourselves? ...

Ptaah:

...

25. In the last 200 hundred years, there were also a few others apart from us, and various other Earth-foreigners from our federation, who flew into Earth's space.

26. On the whole, however, the 3,000 flights taking place per year are traceable to us and to our federation, as well as to Asket, and in a few cases to beings foreign to Earth who later on joined our federation.

27. The number of flights has decreased drastically to a number of twelve per year since then; and these flights relate to our work with you and our visits.

28. Except one, all the beings foreign to Earth who flew into Earth's space have joined our federation after we contacted them as I have already said.

...

Billy:

Then all the so-called UFOs, which were observed in the last century, were spaceships from you, your federation, and from those who joined your federation after they had been contacted by you here on Earth? And what about Roswell, do the beings foreign to Earth, which were bioorganic androids, belong to you as well?

Ptaah:

54. Of course, not all so-called UFOs were spaceships of beings foreign to Earth, because the majority of all observations of such objects were and are still today based on Earthly things, for example on electromagnetic or atmospheric phenomena but also based on other natural occurring happenings, like swarms of insects or birds, dust formations and so forth, or on meteors from space.

55. Apart from this, however, there were and still are many objects of futuristic forms of secret military origin of the most diverse states, which were and are also still called UFOs or extraterrestrial flying apparatuses by Earth-humans due to a lack of knowledge regarding their origin and construction.

56. The sighting of UFOs is often also based on Earthly flying machines such as airplanes and balloons of all types.

57. What has to be said concerning Roswell is that we and our federation and all beings foreign to Earth, and who were flying into Earth's space, and then joined our federation, did not have anything to do with this incident.

Billy:

May one ask, how many peoples foreign to Earth, which flew into Earth's space, and which you contacted, joined your federation? And how many persons were involved in your investigation of three years – were it only Florena, Enjana, and their friends and you?

Ptaah:

58. During the entire last and second last century, the 20th and the 19th century respectively, there had been five visitors foreign to Earth, which joined our federation.

59. In another case, this was not possible because we were not able to contact them.

60. In this new century and millennium nothing has happened yet, which is not yet to be expected, because populated planets are very far from Earth, and not many find their way to Earth although they are able to master space travel technology, which is the exception rather than the rule.

61. There were 427 persons involved in the investigation that was of special interest to us.

Billy:

Man, that is a large number of people. So, you have spent the last three years investigating contacts in regard to beings foreign to Earth and found that no contacts have taken place between beings foreign to Earth and human beings of Earth – except in the few cases that are known to me and pertain to you Plejaren and your federation. Is your knowledge now complete? You once said, that you would not be able to watch over the entire Earth, therefore, that under circumstances some flights and so forth could be missed by you.

Ptaah:

62. That is right – for a long time, we were not able to watch altogether everything pertaining to flights of beings foreign to Earth.

63. But now through our newest technology, we could investigate the whole of the 19th and the 20th century, and the first years of the 21st century.

64. The result of this investigation is that it is how I told you on my last visit on the 10th of June, and how I have said it now.

65. The fact is, that since 1800 until now 2006 the flying objects observed from outer space solely belonged to us Plejaren and the five others mentioned who joined our federation and those we could not contact and have remained foreign to us.

66. The thing about Roswell is another and special case, because back then bioorganic androids were found.

67. And one also has to say now, that when flying machines as well as telemeter discs originating from outer space are seen, then these belong only to us Plejaren and our federation.

68. Contacts with Earthlings do not take place, and apart from the contact with you, no other contacts exist.

69. That will only change when other beings foreign to Earth land openly and take up contacts, which will only happen then when we have left.

Billy:

Indeed, disappointing. – Everything, therefore, is nonsense and idle talk, as to the claims made by many people that they have been having contacts with extraterrestrials and would continue in such, and had and would have the opportunity to fly with them in spaceships or claim that the possibility of channelling or telepathic contacts, and so on was given.

Ptaah:

70. This is absolutely true. –

...

Billy:

... But this very conversation now taking place between you and me will call many opponents to the fore, accusing us – especially me – of lying, because it could not be that only the contacts between you and me would be in accordance with the facts and truth, whereas everything else is lies, deception, imagination and illusion as well as delusion and so on. The world of UFO-believers, and UFO-fanatics and those believing in extraterrestrials will scream and howl; and especially the self-appointed specialists and experts in matters of UFOs and extraterrestrials will also come forth, and scream falsehood and deceit in the same way as UFO opponents and other self-appointed experts and specialists in this line of thought who have always maintained that as a whole everything was only deception and fraud, delusion or chimera and so on. However, it will also be the UFO-esoterics and the like-minded UFO-sectarians who climb on the same accusatory bandwagon as well as all those stuck in fantasies who believe that extraterrestrials live among human beings and would be present at any meetings and assemblies of UFO believers etc. This is also case with the nonsense of seances where the departed are supposed to be present, or could be called to join. Completely crazy ones even claim that extraterrestrials participate in Earth governments and would direct and control the destiny of Earth and its humankind.

Ptaah:

76. That it will be so is certain, because truth is not only disenchanting, however, also frightening, and it shatters the illusions, hopes, desires, imaginations and delusions and so on of many believers in UFOs.

77. However, those believing in UFOs, and many others wish to be cheated and led into delusion and do not acknowledge the truth, just as those believing in religions and sectarians.

78. They neither wish to see nor recognize nor acknowledge the truth, because they are caught by their belief and their illusions, which they are holding high above all truth and reality.

79. As a rule, to free themselves of this belief is impossible, because it is equal to a hereditary disease, which needs a very long time to be healed, and can only be overcome by reason and understanding.

80. Likewise it is with opponents, because their reason and understanding is breaking down as well, however, in a different manner than that according to the believers in regard to imagined extraterrestrials and their spaceships, as well as so-called contacts and abductions and so on.

However, also opponents fall into a belief, as well as those who know everything better and those who negate, and this likewise does not let them recognize and acknowledge the truth.

81. They are just as sick in believing as all the other believers.

Billy:

Very well, then if unidentified flying objects were seen in Earth's space, then they belonged to you, your federation or to your later federation and in two cases to the foreigners that you could not contact, if I include Roswell. And as to contacts through extraterrestrials with Earth-humans, then all but one case lead back to your federation, and all of the contact persons have died and none of the ones that have for years been saying that they were having contacts with you or with other extraterrestrials belong to them, and that they also call you Pleiadians, because at the beginning we said as a precaution that you called yourselves Pleiadians to then later uncover the lies of such persons. Then, when the lies had multiplied, and the world was full of such claims of persons who said they were having contacts with you, we came out into the open and revealed from where you really come from, and how you call yourselves in fact Plejaren and not Pleiadians. All the liars have in this way exposed themselves, even though they are still trying to save face by weaving more lies. At what stage is the general control as to further flights of beings foreign to Earth?

Ptaah:

82. Should further flights take place, although we do not expect any, we would of course inform you.

83. And what has to be said and can only be said again and again and has often been said, regarding contacts between Earth-humans and foreigners to Earth, is that you are the only person in the whole world who is capable of having contacts with us Plejaren and those belonging to our federation.

84. And also in this respect, no other contacts of any kind are taking place between other beings foreign to Earth and Earth's human beings, because no other beings foreign to Earth exist, apart from us, who are operating in this way in Earth's space.

85. And no more in conjunction with us has to be said regarding the tissue of lies of the alleged contact persons because the facts tell the whole story.

...

Ptaah:

87. If nonetheless our ships are sighted on different locations in Earth's space – and these are solely of extraterrestrial origin – then this has to do with special duties to be carried out, during which the cloaking has to be disabled.

Billy:

... But tell me: You have stated that you have checked the last 200 years regarding flight entries of extraterrestrials. And regarding Roswell, you told me you had nothing to do with it. With regard to UFO crashes, it is claimed in ufological circles that besides in Roswell, alien aircraft also crashed elsewhere in the USA, but also in Mexico, in Russia and in Norway as well as in Sweden, England and South America.

Ptaah:

35. These are senselessnesses of unparalleled kind, nothing but wild stories of lies, governmental and military disinformation as well as wild fantasies.

36. For our part, we were able to establish with absolute clarity that all these alleged crashes of extraterrestrial flying objects did not take place.

Billy:

In that case, only you and members of your confederation have actually been seen on the Earth in the last 200 years, leaving aside Roswell and the case where you were unable to establish contact, the very case where some of our passive members were able to photograph an alien-technical flying object above our centre. But what about the period prior to the 200 years you have checked, did extraterrestrials who did not belong to you then also come to the Earth?

Ptaah:

37. That is with certainty the case and therefore not to be doubted.

Billy:

Then I would like to know how many different types and forms of spaceships and beamships you Plejaren have had in operation over the last 200 years up to today and still have, in case you are able to provide information about this? And how many types and forms do your confederation allies have?

Ptaah:

38. I do not know precisely the exact number in relation to our different types and forms of spaceships and beamships, but I think there are currently altogether more than 600 different types that we have in use.

39. I do not know how many further types and forms were in operation during the last 200 years.

40. Concerning the different types and forms of spaceships and beamships that are in operation with our confederation members, I do not know any number to mention, but there are many thousands of them.

Billy:

And – have you and your confederation members also often been cruising around in the earthly airspace with the most diverse vehicles during the last 200 years?

Ptaah:

41. Yes, with thousands of different flying machines.

Billy:

And could these also be observed by the human beings of the Earth?

Ptaah:

42. This possibility was of course always given and will always be given.

43. This even though, for safety reasons, we protect ourselves better against sight at the present time.

Billy:

After all, you and your confederation members have also drastically reduced the flight entries into the earthly space.

Ptaah:

44. That is correct, since there are only a few dozen left per year – apart from the daily control flights, which of course we carry out uninterruptedly.

Billy:

... So you have said that in the earthly airspace with regard to extraterrestrial flying objects only those of you Plejaren as well as those of your federated and of the unidentified strangers can be observed. Is the state still the same, that you still could not identify the strangers and that they still can be observed in the airspace of the Earth?

Ptaah:

29. Actually, the situation is still the same with regard to the unidentified ones, but we do not try to clarify it anymore, because we have gained knowledge that there is no danger for us or for the people on earth from these strangers.

30. So we also do not try to disturb their own secrecy and to make ourselves recognizable to them, for which we can also assume with certainty that these strangers have no knowledge of our existence, because we always shield ourselves from them in every respect against sight or location, so only we know of their existence.

31. The alien flying objects can often be observed worldwide by terrestrial human beings, because they quite obviously do not have any shielding technology against sight, as is the case with us.

32. What we have also clarified, however, is the fact that these strangers possess the most varied forms of flying objects, but also that they have no contact whatsoever with Earth-humans and have never come into direct or indirect contact with such people, and consequently there can be no reports of the experiences of any Earth-humans.

Billy:

So the unidentified flying objects observed in the last months, in so far as they were of extraterrestrial nature, are thus only a matter of concern to you Plejaren, your federated and the unidentified strangers, but not to other strangers from space?

Ptaah:

33. That is not true, no, because since the 1st of July 2006 we have comprehensively shielded our airplanes in order to gain control over how often the unidentified strangers can be observed on average in all earthly airspace during a year.

34. This is a special investigation which will continue until the 30th of June 2007.

Billy:

Aha, then since the 1st of July 2006, all observations of unidentified flying objects, which were probably of extraterrestrial origin, have been aircraft of the unidentified aliens. But one more question: Since when have they been on Earth and flying around in the air?

Ptaah:

35. Looking back into the past, we can see that these aliens have been appearing in the air for several centuries.

Billy:

This of course explains a lot, especially many appearances of UFOs, which could not be assigned to earthly phenomena, as well as not to earthly flying machines, because at that time no such machines existed. Neither did they belong to you Plejaren or your Federation, because if I take your old explanations into account, you have always been wary of being sighted by people of the Earth. Regarding the unidentified strangers, I wonder if you have not tried to get in contact with them and find out what their mission here on Earth is?

Ptaah:

36. Your words are correct regarding the unidentified flying machines that were observed on Earth in earlier centuries.

37. With regard to the unidentified aliens, the following must be said:

38. Over the past few years we have made several attempts to contact them, but according to our control equipment our signals, for reasons unknown to us, always radiated back to us before they could even reach the direct range of the alien aircraft.

39. From this we deduced that the strangers were not willing to make contact, so we stopped our efforts to make further contact attempts.

40. And since we only tried to make ourselves noticeable in the form of the signals mentioned above, but not by sighting or locating them, the strangers did not discover our presence so far.

41. As a result of the fruitless attempts of contact on our part, we are not aware of the alien mission.

42. Also it is only since one week that we have known through further investigations in the past that these foreigners have been present on Earth for a very long time and that they appear again and again in such a way that they can be observed by Earth-humans.

43. But as I already explained, there is no proof that they would have come into direct or indirect contact with Earth-humans, because for such contacts we did not find any evidence with any Earth-humans.

...

Billy:

There have been reports since July 2006, just since you are completely shielded from detection and visibility, of UFOs that I don't think can be linked to terrestrial aircraft or any other flying devices or to natural terrestrial phenomena.

Ptaah:

46. We are aware of this, and indeed some of the unidentified flying machines are in some instances a cause of concern to the aliens, while other observations are nevertheless attributable to terrestrial flying machines or natural phenomena.

...

Ptaah:

54. It will take some time, even if Quetzal is reachable at the moment, because it takes about two minutes for my questions to reach Quetzal via all relay stations, just as it takes two minutes for the answer.

...

57. Quetzal is reachable and he will send me his answer in a few minutes as soon as he has found the data.

Billy:

You did all this by way of pure thought vibration?

Ptaah:

58. This is the only way I can do it, because everything has to take place through the apparatuses of my flying machine – whose apparatuses are controlled in every respect only by my thought vibrations.

Billy:

As is the case with all your ships, apparatus and equipment, unless you wish to handle things manually or acoustically with your voice. ...

Billy:

Around 22 years have now passed since you and Quetzal told me privately that you had comprehensive cognitions in regard to terrestrial UFOs and the massacre of animals and alleged abductions which were disguised as the shoddy efforts of extraterrestrials. You said thereby that, in regard to this, involved in these machinations are governments, the military, as well as industrial businesses and powerful ones of finance, which constitute a special group, to which still smaller groups are also related. At that time you promised that you would officially explain more about that when the time is ripe for that. Can one now speak publicly about that?

Ptaah:

...

21. With the named group, it concerns a worldwide branching from governments, the military, industrial groups, secret services, paramilitary and powerful ones of finance, as you correctly said.

22. Those in the know and contributors are only certain elements of the same, who profit greatly, financially and power-politically, from their secret machinations, for which reason the entire powers of the government, military and industrial as well as finance are not involved in the situation and are also not informed in regard to this.

23. The group is not organized, as such, rather is only a loose collection, whereby their interests, however, have a common form, which, already since the 1920s, was designed to operate a continuous, ingenious, large-scale disinformation campaign regarding the question of extraterrestrial life.

24. The group, which is split into many small groups, has many kinds of technical possibilities at their disposal, which they employ for their evil and human-misleading purposes.

25. That started with technologies of electromagnetism to do with precision electronics and computer engineering, up to and including apparatuses through which brainwashing and the programming and altering of consciousness is evoked in humans.

26. They even have back-engineered beamships at their disposal, whereby, in certain contexts, even antigravity finds application.

27. It has also occurred many times that premeditated "abductions" of Earth humans by "extraterrestrials", and the massacre of animals, has been and is faked by this group.

28. That stands partly also in connection with those illusionary and schizophrenic visions and apparent experiences of those who believe that they have had, or have, these kinds of real experiences.

29. Also wrong information and falsified pictures of alleged extraterrestrial flying devices is strategically circulated worldwide, whereby according to our investigations, about 98% of all false pictures, films, videos and false information is directed at moving the Earth humans to angst and terror of extraterrestrials and to engender hate and thoughts of revenge in the Earth humans.

30. Therefore, in this way, angst, terror and hate is stirred up against all life foreign to Earth.

31. Especially films for cinema and television serve this purpose, as also, however, do many books which are constructed on lies and untruths and are written partly by "experts" in psychology and psychiatry.

32. All this nonsense sells very well to the Earth humans because many on the search for the effective truth trust and believe this false information, and these films and pictures.

33. Angst, horror, terror, hate and revenge always sell well, while the truth appears too banal and therefore appears uninteresting as well as not worth knowing.

34. Only the fantastic and unreal find a place in the interests of Earth humans. 35. However, precisely that is the launching platform for the infamous machinations of the worldwide group, because, through disinformation and fear-mongering in regard to the malicious foreigners to Earth, the entire group, which reaches right around the world, derives horrendous advantages of a financial, governmental-power, military-power as well as an economic form.

35. However, precisely that is the launching platform for the infamous machinations of the worldwide group, because, through disinformation and fear-mongering in regard to the malicious foreigners to Earth, the entire group, which reaches right around the world, derives horrendous advantages of a financial, governmental-power, military-power as well as an economic form.

36. The entire war, electronics and weapons industries, and so forth, thereby gain an enormous boost.

37. Yet, in the worldwide group, secret paramilitary units also exist as smaller groups which carry out the same kind of operations which, however, are mostly controlled by the worldwide group.

38. In particular, these small groups carry out premeditated abductions which are credited ostensibly to the extraterrestrials, as well as, however, also simulated appearances of alleged extraterrestrial flying craft, which are then collectively declared to be extraterrestrial UFO appearances and are often observed, photographed and filmed by many people.

39. Thereby the illusion of an ostensible extraterrestrial abduction or observation of extraterrestrial flying devices is evoked.

40. What is further to say about that is that, in this worldwide group, with all the small groups who partly also work autonomously, there exists a proper "UFO trade" and a subculture in regard to animal massacres and abductions and so forth.

41. The entire thing is secretly financed through governments, the military, industrial groups and financially powerful ones who are interested in angst, terror and hate being stirred-up to their highest forms in regard to the alleged evil extraterrestrial foreigners, because they can thereby gain gigantic financial profit and advantage.

42. It is on this basis that, in every regard, from this group, only stories, cinema and television films and observations of UFOs will be accepted and profitably exploited, which are based on everything negative and – as is becoming proverbial with the Earth humans – on the malicious and aggressive nature of the extraterrestrials.

43. Only that which evokes angst, fear and terror as well as engenders hate and revenge is accepted by the group and exploited worldwide in order to obtain enormous profit with it.

44. Conversely, in addition to that, everything which is good and positive is vehemently slandered and is designated as a swindle, lie and deception, as is the case with you and us, since, in keeping with the interests of the group, we are not permitted to exist, and you are not permitted to be in contact with us, rather you must be a liar and a fraud.

45. So, from the group and their small groups, the Earth humans will be served up deliberately false and fear-influencing stories in regard to extraterrestrial UFOs and foreigners to Earth and their alleged horrifying machinations like, for example, painful examination contacts and animal massacres along with falsified encounters with alleged extraterrestrials.

46. Along with profit, the whole matter also serves deeply-based psychological propaganda in order to insult forms of life who are foreign to Earth and to brand them as malicious beings and to create angst, hate, revenge and hysteria because great financial means will be thereby freed up which serve research for the production of innovative and futuristic weapons of all kinds.

47. Therefore, in these Earth humans, in regard to the extraterrestrial, an enemy will be psychologically, deliberately created which does not exist and which will, in a manner, be made into a malicious being such that the Earth humans, in their angst, will be driven to freeing up horrendous sums in order to therewith manufacture weapons against the alleged malicious invaders.

48. Also, with these acts, various groups play off against each other, which, however, is part of a well-thought-out plan which is carried out and implemented by secret services, psycho-terrorists, espionage groups and treacherous disinformation agents and which is underpinned by false information regarding UFOs and alleged extraterrestrials.

49. Additionally belonging to this plan is the invention of an imaginary extraterrestrial enemy, as well as a danger emerging from this – an enemy and a danger which, naturally, will have to be fought.

50. The infamy is thereby that, first of all, everything is made ridiculous because the concerned "abductees", "examinees", "chance contactees" and UFO-observers can provide no evidence for their experiences which would withstand a real examination.

51. Then comes the second fact, which exists in the fact that angst, terror, hate and feelings of revenge is produced in the Earth humans whereby then the weapons industry can be built up and indeed especially in regard to futuristic weapons, of which the normal Earth humans have no idea, and of which they do not ever dare to dream.

52. The entirety is thereby a well-thought-out psychological network on which the progress of the entire weapons industry and the power of the military, of the federal leadership, the finance sharks and the industry businesses as well as the secret services can be built up ever further.

53. To this end angst, terror, hysteria, hate and revenge is sown in regard to all foreigners from outer space.

54. So the Earth humans become duped and financially exploited by the responsible ones of this dangerous group and their small groups and are deliberately driven to abhor and to hate the extraterrestrial foreigners.

55. Corresponding cinema and television films serve as especially suitable means for that.

56. The foreigner-angst, respectively, alien-angst, which is thereby produced surpasses all normal angst and the responsible ones of the group know that precisely, for which reason they can also thereby calculate that all necessary finances flow to them, which they require for their weapon research, their weapon manufacture, their leading of wars, and desires for power, as well as for unrealistic cinema and TV films which demonize the Earth-strangers.

57. The creation of an supposed threat from extraterrestrials as well as the alien-angst is, for them, a profitable matter which is operated under the shabby cloak of a federal, respectively, country security and of world peace.

58. For the entire machinations of the group, the meanest machinations are quite good enough which, as said, were already operating since the 1920s and to that also belong highly developed electronic weapons systems, futuristic flying discs, Earth humans who are hypnotically and surgically converted, as well as converted in their consciousness, to robots*, whereby some have an appearance like the being which is called the "Little Grey".

59. On one hand there is the dim-witted paradox that the extraterrestrial flying devices are denied and the strangers to Earth are made ridiculous or made out to be monsters by means of psychological propaganda, while, on the other hand, a financial exploitation of the peoples results through the inciting of angst, terror, hate and revenge and indeed thereby in that a simulation results in regard to a supposed threat from extraterrestrials.

60. A paradox without compare, to which the question must be put, how far are the Earth humans imbued with reason and understanding that they do not recognise this paradox.

61. The entire pre-arranged game of the group and their small groups, as already said elsewhere, also includes faked encounters with alleged extraterrestrials, whereby these are truly nothing other than normal Earth humans or those who have been transformed into "aliens".

62. In order then to affirm the improvised "encounters with those foreign to Earth" psychologists and other experts are pulled in into whom the wildest stories are hammered for so long until they believe the entire swindle and nonsense and employ "verifiable" and "genuine" analyses which are recorded and published in books and documentation as well as in cinema and TV films.

63. And since, as a rule, the supposed extraterrestrials are described as horrible villains, just according to the plan of the group and their small groups, the picture of the extraterrestrial threat is powerfully incited.

64. Thereby, not only is the slandering in regard to the real strangers to Earth always more exaggerated, as also more and more finances flow into the cash box of those who stupidly and dimwittedly earn as a result of the entire tissue of lies and slander and thereby come by the means to reach their criminal goals.

65. A certain part of the group has also fallen to a Christian sectarianism and to the supposed "End Times" in such a way that hope is directed at a malicious invasion of extraterrestrials resulting on Earth, and thereby the prophesied Armageddon will become reality in which Jesus Christ celebrates his official return and God the father will exercise his judgment.

66. Their delusion is therefore bound with a biblical end of the world, which, as they believe, rests on the terrible badness of the Earth humans.

67. And in order to accelerate this divine judgement as well as the return of Christ they do everything in order to make the way free for that.

68. The monstrous power of the worldwide group and their small groups as well as the religious fanaticism, together with the cultic maintaining of the secret of the entire underhanded, degenerated and deceptive as well as criminal and felonious machinations, lead to malignant effects which could not be worse.

69. These are the facts which I have to name in regard to your question.

Billy:

... Some time ago, Professor James Deardorff from the USA wanted to know a few things about the cake-ship that landed on our parking lot between the shed and the residential building. The story concerning the striking similarity of the hull of the cake-ship with a barrel cover form or with a barrel lid and its origin from storage barrels in our possession is mentioned in the 254th contact report. Christian Frehner therefore had to take several photos and indicate the size of the ship and the distance between me with the camera and the cake ship. For my part I know that the diameter is about 3.50 metres, which is what I told Christian. But can you tell me the exact size, but also how many people can fit in this small ship?

Ptaah:

...

4. The lowest outermost diameter with the flat rim was 3 metres and 52 centimetres, but the outermost upper outer rim diameter was 3 metres and 20 centimetres.

5. The entire outer rim structure on which the oscillation accumulators were mounted was 37.6 centimetres, while the dimension from the lower rim ring to the plane of the oscillation accumulators was 32 centimetres, as with these.

6. And the space in the flying apparatus was designed for one person in a seated position, although three people could be accommodated in a crowded manner if necessary.

7. However, this type of flying apparatus was not suitable for the earthly atmosphere, which is why they were removed from earthly space after only a short period of use.

Billy:

I was not aware of this. The oscillation accumulators probably mean the silver bullets, I suppose, right?

Ptaah:

8. That is true.

9. Their diameter was 32 centimetres, as I said.

{Billy, Kabul, Afghanistan, 16th September 1964:}

... In this way also the traditional prophecies of the signs in the sky have become reality, because for years these have been seen and observed at all hours of the day and night and in all parts of the world, but unfortunately they are often misinterpreted and ridiculed. But the signs of the times are fireballs, explosions of rays in the atmosphere, earth-electromagnetic-atmospheric phenomena, strange clouds and misty phenomena, which appear by the hundreds like small flying objects. But there also appear jet ships or space ships from foreign planets, which are steered by foreign people, who come here in order to indirectly enter into the evolutionary process of consciousness and into the action of consciousness through a proclaimer and his teaching of the spirit as well as through the teaching of truth and through the teaching of life, to intervene in the actions and work of earthly humanity because necessity demands it, because the man of the earth with his still limited consciousness forces the basic and structural elements of nature and life to react, in order to destroy in his insanity myriad life and the climate of the earth. ...

And what is to be said further: The ray ships resp. spaceships of foreign intelligences from distant worlds are no fantasy, because they exist like you and me – they are not cloud agglomerations, balloons, lightning, flocks of birds and the like, as they are so gladly called by scientists and leading authorities, by opponents of the truth or by laymen, who do not want to make themselves ridiculous with the recognition of the existence of the so-called UFOs. These unknown extraterrestrial flying objects – if they are not, as is often the case, top-secret earthly-military aircraft and planes -, they are real, as thousands of very good photographs, films and reports prove. And there is no shortage of real contacts – even if there are very few of them worldwide and only a small handful in number – who have spoken with extraterrestrials. They all testify to the real existence of the extraterrestrials and their objects, the beam ships. They and everything else testify to the effective existence of the extraterrestrials – even if this existence is ridiculed by the terrestrial authorities and evil antagonists as not being proven or simply presented as a hallucination or even a lie. But for what reasons do the denying and denying authorities and antagonists maintain very secret UFO reconnaissance groups etc., which have the task to clarify the origin of the UFOs from space and to arm them for a possible space war or a sudden invasion from space? An idea, by the way, which corresponds to a complete nonsense, because the space men do not control our earth in order to conquer or subjugate it, if they wanted to, they could have done so long ago, because their technology reaches to the fantastic compared to the earthly one – and the earthly weapons of all armies would be nothing more than a toy for them, which they would throw away as rubble and useless junk due to unworthiness and uselessness. Moreover, their very highly developed technology goes back many centuries and millennia, so that, if it had been in their will, they could have conquered the earth when it was still in antiquity or in the dark Middle Ages when it was growing towards its present state. But why are the authorities so eager to find out the secret of UFOs and especially the unsolved mystery of the radiation propulsion, which makes the extraterrestrial aircraft or UFOs fly through the earth's atmosphere at speeds of up to 100,000 kilometers per hour and more, neutralizing the gravity? So why these secret researches under exclusion of the public, when everything is supposed to be only lies and deceit? Why that? The authorities are afraid, frightening, deadly fear, for they fear an attack from space, and for this purpose it would be urgently necessary that they themselves be in possession of ray ships and ray weapons, so that they could counter the enemy attack already in world space itself. Others, however, fear panic and rampage of the population, if they should really become aware of the existence of the extraterrestrial UFOs and their crews, because panic and rampage already rolled over the population of different countries, when UFO sensational reports, so-called 'direct reports from the place of the event' were broadcasted over the radio stations. Direct reports, however, which did not correspond to the truth and were only sensational radio plays. The number of deaths of the population running amok went into high figures.

However, the authorities, who stop practically all UFO reports – if they have real backgrounds – do not consider that the panic of the masses will be much greater one day, if the extraterrestrials should really come in masses, in order to prevent perhaps the greatest insanity of the earthly humans and to change the face of this world for the better, if the revolutionary events, which are caused by the humans of the earth in a responsible way, roll over this world. But it is questionable whether extraterrestrials ever interfere in earthly matters in this respect, because they have directives which would only allow them to intervene under certain conditions. A real contact person, as well as reconnaissance planes and simple observers of really extraterrestrial flying machines resp. UFOs are dealt with by the authorities as well as by the people and by malicious adversaries and slanderers, who insult lies and fraud and may even be imprisoned for many years in a mean way or interned in insane institutions, because as already mentioned, the authorities are unwilling to reveal the profound truth – they do not shy away from publishing denying notes and treatises in the newspapers or from having them published by bought-in laymen, critics, opponents and so-called 'experts'. For these reasons, in various countries, a real contact person – of which there are not even a handful – an observer or enlightener plays with his freedom when he takes his task seriously and tries to create enlightenment. And the few people who have or have had contact, not even a small handful, have a very difficult position, because they encounter hatred, mockery, disbelief, official intrigues and partly church-destroying statements, as well as slander and much more.

Ptaah:

12. In any case, those were none of our flying apparatus because ours are protected from every perspective, even from all advanced technical and fluidal, i.e. fine-material, vibrational-tracking capabilities, both in relation to those that are terrestrial as well as those that are foreign to the Earth.

13. Only if we deliberately make our aircraft visible, capable of being detected, or in any way recognizable, can they be sighted or detected, such as with demonstrations, as we allowed these as proofs for you, in terms of photographic and film work or for group members and your friends.

14. Even by all technical and fine-material-detecting apparatuses of those who are foreign to the Earth – also for the foreigners who are unknown to us, with whom we've searched for contact in vain – we have never been and never are able to be detected, since a detection of our aircraft automatically triggers an alarm, which is why we've always had to make ourselves recognizable in certain cases and will also have to continue to do so, should it be necessary.

15. We have never been detected in such a way in the earthly air space by any who are foreign to the Earth and who don't belong to us – not to this day – and this will also remain so.

16. Also with regard to our foreign unknowns – i.e. those who are foreign to the Earth and whose presence in the earthly air space has, already for a long time, led to their observation by the Earth-humans again and again – these haven't been able to locate us yet; therefore, they have no proofs of our presence, that is, apart from your evidence, which they have been made aware of in some circumstances.

17. But they certainly do not have real proof of our existence, because they cannot possibly locate us and our flying apparatuses, not even if we make ourselves visible to you, the group members or your friends for a short time, which we will not do for some time anyway, as I already told you some time ago.

18. As for our foreign unknowns, whose origin, technology, and task are likewise unknown to us, as you know, it is to be said that at present, they continue to appear again and again all over the world and can be observed more frequently.

19. Also, we cannot fathom why our signals, if we aim for them, are dissolved or reflected back to us and, thus, do not reach their aircraft; consequently, we cannot establish contact with them, which we also have not tried to do for quite some time.

20. With absolute certainty, it is also to be said that the foreigners do not maintain any contacts with the Earth-humans because our worldwide, all-encompassing detection devices, with which we can also detect the presence of our foreign unknowns, would identify such contacts.

...

23. And that we can be sure that our flying apparatus have not been detected by the foreigners so far is due to the fact that our highly advanced detection-technology indicates to us every detection process in every direction, immediately and without delay, no matter what technology is used for detection.

Billy:

You spoke of that once and said that this technology, which is unusually high and very futuristic for us Earthlings, is not a development on your part, and neither are your protective shields, which immediately convert all energy hitting them into their own energy, and through this, the protective shields strengthen instead of weaken. If I remember correctly, these forms of technology come from Asket's friendly people, the Sonaer in the DAL Universe, who are more than 4,000 years ahead of you in relation to your technological development.

Ptaah:

24. The technology mentioned does, in fact, trace back to the Sonaer, who have already assisted us for many years in every technological development; consequently, we have a variety of technologies today that we did not yet have at the beginning of our contacts approximately 30 years ago.

...

Billy:

Then another question about the foreigners, who have already circled around here on Earth for a very long time, as you say, and with whom you cannot enter into contact: is it possible that these unknowns may come from the future, perhaps from other planets or even from the Earth itself or else from another dimension?

Ptaah:

30. We have also thought about that and have come to the conclusion that this may very well be possible, both the one and the other possibility.

Ptaah:

4. These are the foreigners unknown to us who operate in the terrestrial airspace.
5. We have not been trying to get in touch with these foreigners for some time now, as I explained to you some time ago.
6. Nevertheless, this did not and does not prevent us from fathoming their origins and their efforts here on Earth.
7. I also told you that these foreigners have a variety of flying apparatuses that can be observed again and again by the Earth-humans.
8. I must now explain that our ongoing research into the foreigners has revealed something that throws a somewhat different light on the whole thing.
9. Only 12 days ago we were able to find out that all the different types of flying apparatuses which we had assigned to the foreigners are not only applicable to them, because parts of the flying machines are in fact related to two other groups of extraterrestrial origin.
10. But even with these it was and is impossible for us to get in contact with them.
11. Obviously it is also the case that all three groups have nothing to do with each other and therefore have no contact with each other, as well as certainly no knowledge of our presence.
12. It is true that all three groups have technology which does not allow us to make contact with them, but we have found out in this respect that this is because their technical devices and equipment are not capable of receiving our signals.
13. But it is also otherwise because the material alloys of their flying apparatus reflect our signals and do not reach their tracking devices.
14. In addition – and we have recently discovered this again – the entire technology of all three foreign groups is far inferior to our technology, which means for us that we must exercise a certain caution, because we cannot judge the attitude of the foreigners.
15. The low level of technology of the foreigners is obviously the reason why they have not been able to locate us with absolute certainty, and the low level of technology is also a sign for us that they are not yet capable of contacts in high form and therefore not yet able to contact us.
16. According to their technology and evolution of consciousness – we have to assume – they could not cope with our level of evolution of consciousness, which could lead to very dangerous reactions if contacts were made anyway.

17. But as far as the three different groups of foreigners are concerned, it must be said that, according to our extremely intensive and precise investigations, they have no contact with each other and probably do not even know about each other.

18. Various of our investigations point this out.

19. And it is also absolutely certain that all three groups of these foreigners have no open contact whatsoever with any human being on earth or have had such contact during the last 350 years or so.

20. In this respect we have carried out detailed investigations in the form of extremely extensive and precise research into the past, which has yielded no results whatsoever of any contacts between these three groups of foreigners for us and any Earth-humans.

21. In this respect, our apparatus and equipment etc. are very accurate and infallible, so that we can say with absolute certainty that no contact whatsoever has taken place between these three foreign groups of extraterrestrials – or perhaps future earthlings, which could also be the case – and Earth-humans.

Billy:

So there are three different groups of extraterrestrial or terrestrial futures here on our world besides you, who are wandering around. Your surprise has succeeded. But are they really all of them, or is it not possible that there are others who are roaming around here?

Ptaah:

22. No, other Earth foreigners are certainly not here, because our very highly developed apparatuses and devices work flawlessly, so that we would be informed by them about other present extraterrestrial or Earth-future forms without doubt and with absolute certainty.

23. The fact that we only discovered a few days ago that the foreigners are three different groups is due to the fact that things have come to our attention which have only now made us aware that the various flying apparatus do not belong to one group alone.

24. So we went back into the past by investigating the whole thing far or about 350 years, and we came across the fact of the three groups and were able to base our present research on it, which gave us and continues to give us the proofs of the three groups of foreigners.

...

Ptaah:

32. So she made her flying apparatus light up faintly and sent you an impulse so that you could look up and see it.

33. When you then tried to make the flying apparatus light up a little brighter, because you thought it was a control device, she explained what you just said and then, at your request, made the flying apparatus light up brightly and extensively.

34. And that you have never seen this shape, size and intensity of light before, that is because it is a completely new flying apparatus with many innovations, including the type of light.

35. This new type of flying apparatus allows us to use the recently launched dimension gate, as you call it and which we have been calling it since its completion, as we have adopted your term.

36. So we can with this new technology penetrate into other dimensions and other space-time structures and thus also move into the future and into the past.

Billy:

So, what do these new ships look like?

Ptaah:

37. The outer form has remained the same, only the entire inner technology has changed.

Billy:

And what about the dome structure that can be pushed up and used as both shower room and toilet, is it still the same? I ask this question because Michael Horn asked me about the dome structure. How he knows about this extendable or retractable dome structure is not known to me, because I did not ask him about it.

Ptaah:

38. No, that has changed as well, because the new aircraft have another upper level which can be used for various purposes, such as a small preparation room for food and as a dining room and working room for research purposes.

Billy:

So two levels, or two extendable or retractable floors. But that's certainly only true for ships of 7 and 14 metres in diameter, isn't it? In the case of the ships with a diameter of only 3.50 metres and the next larger ones over 14 metres, I cannot imagine an additional level that can be pushed up, or am I wrong in this respect?

Ptaah:

39. Yes, you are mistaken about the larger flying apparatus.

40. For the smaller flying apparatus with a diameter of less than 7 metres, there is no level that can be pushed up.

41. There are two levels that can be pushed up only in the 7 and 14 metre diameter flying apparatus.

42. But as I said, you are mistaken about the larger flying apparatus, because even those with a diameter of 21 to 28 metres have levels that can be pushed up, but only in a simple way.

43. All bigger flying apparatus beyond that do not have an additional extendable level, because they are big enough to accommodate all necessary rooms for all purposes without extendable levels.

Billy:

Although the extra upper level in the new ships is probably the same size as the lower level, I suppose.

Ptaah:

44. That is true.

...

Billy:

... Now the question is, do you have any devices or apparatus that enable you to perceive and analyse not only the coarse-material vibrations but also the fine-material vibrations? In this I also include deposited human fluidal forces.

Ptaah:

56. Such analysis devices belong to the standard equipment of every flying apparatus, but also to every person who carries a small device of this kind in his clothing when doing research work etc. in foreign areas.

Billy:

Then it is a warning device as well, I suppose.

Ptaah:

57. Yes, that is the case.

...

Billy:

What I would still be interested in regarding the three foreign groups of extraterrestrials or future earthlings, or whatever they may be, is the following: Do you have any information on how many different flying apparatus each group has? And secondly, have you gained knowledge about what these three groups are doing here on Earth? And thirdly, it would be interesting to know why you have only now come to the conclusion that three different groupings exist? Fourthly, why did not you establish this fact when you went about 200 years into the past and researched everything concerning the first group of foreigners?

Ptaah:

73. The fact that these are three different groups was only discovered a few days ago, because we received new devices and apparatus through the Sonaer, through which we were able to scan and examine their airplanes unnoticed by the foreigners.

74. These new devices also serve to scan the airspace much more precisely for all kinds of objects than was possible with our previous devices.

75. How ...

Billy:

Excuse me, if I am interrupting you. By probing and examining, I assume you mean scanning, as we call it here, right?

Ptaah:

76. That is what it means, yes.

77. Well, we were able to scan the aircraft with the new devices and equipment, and we also noticed that the foreign aircraft have three different basic techniques, which differ from each other in such a way that they could clearly only be assigned to three different technical development stages.

78. In the end, it also turned out that the crews of the aircraft of each of the three types of technology are so fundamentally different that they have no relationship whatsoever to each other.

79. In part, we were able to fathom the state of the evolution of consciousness of all three groups, whereby this state has three different and from each other blatantly striking evolutionary levels.

80. In doing so, we also fathomed the fact that the three groups have no knowledge of each other and therefore no contact with each other.

...

84. As far as the number of aircrafts registered by us of the three groupings foreign to us is concerned, the total number registered by us amounts to 216, although we do not yet have any data as to how many flying apparatus belong to which grouping in each case.

85. However, we do know the number of different flying apparatus, whereby this amounts to 74 of them, and this in total in relation to all three groupings.

Billy:

And again, a question on this: These ships or aircraft, by your designation, are they in the airspace all the time?

Ptaah:

86. No, that is not the case, because they disappear again and again, although we cannot determine where to.

87. Then they just suddenly return without us being able to find any coordinates.

88. And as far as the question of what these three alien groups are doing here on Earth is concerned, I can only say that we do not know.

89. We have made one observation, however, and that is that at least one group is doing atmospheric and geological research.

90. But as far as your question is concerned, why we did not recognize during our first investigations up to the time of about 200 years ago that the for us foreigners are three different groups and completely different human life forms, that is because we were not yet in possession of the scanning devices and scanning apparatus, by which we could have clarified everything more exactly.

91. Only on our request did the Sonaer agree to make their high technology available to us, which enabled us to clarify everything.

92. Although we have been in possession of scanning equipment for a very long time now, it was not possible to scan the aircraft and their crews with this equipment due to certain radiation from the foreign aircraft, because our scanning pulses were always reflected.

93. Today we know that the reason for this is the material alloy of the foreign aircraft, and strangely enough, all three groups of aircraft, although they are clearly not connected to each other and obviously have no knowledge of each other.

94. Also, before you ask, we couldn't find out if the three alien groups maintain any stations on Earth, because even with our best and newest equipment we couldn't find anything like that.

Ptaah:

11. The object you observed was one of a small armada of a total of 18 flying apparatus belonging to a group of strangers carrying out atmospheric and geological experiments and research, using sound waves generated by atmospheric explosions.

12. They use atmospheric gases and electricity, which, when made to explode, produce popping noises, which also result naturally from pure atmospheric and atmospheric-electrical as well as earth-electromagnetic energies, whereby gas agglomerations form, which look like small, individual clouds, which are stationary or whirl wildly around, as these can be observed particularly in the South American area.

13. The banging noises of this kind can hardly be distinguished from the banging noises caused by exploding meteorites and by the explosions of strangers.

14. And as for the altitude of the flying apparatus you observed, which you estimated to be between 20,000 and 22,000 metres, this was almost 23,000 metres, as we know from our records and observations.

...

17. The activities of all three foreign groups are apparently increasing again worldwide, after having restricted them for the last few years.

...

Billy:

... You said that you received new scanning devices from the Sonaern, through which you could scan the foreign aliens or future earthlings, or whatever they are, and find out that these are three different groups, which are foreign to each other and have no contact with each other. It makes me wonder whether there aren't some other foreigners wandering around in the earthly airspace which you might not have been able to locate?

Ptaah:

20. This is definitely not the case, because our new and extremely accurate devices, which we received from the Sonaern, are much more advanced than ours, but even with these devices we could not detect any other extraterrestrial or Earth foreign flying objects of any kind in the entire terrestrial space.

21. The new devices also work in a very extensive range of fine material as well as dimension-jumping vibrations, but even in these areas we could not detect any other Earth visitors.

Billy:

So now it is absolutely clear by your latest technology that apart from the three groupings of foreigners on Earth respectively in the airspace you mentioned, there are no other extraterrestrials or future Earth visitors? But I would also like to ask you whether there are any new developments concerning unknown earthly flying machines?

Ptaah:

22. I can now answer this with absolute certainty, because our latest devices, which we received from the Sonaern, are absolutely infallible.

23. With regard to earthly secret flying apparatus used for flight testing, we continue to see the same kind of secret aircraft that have been used for a long time, dating back to well before the mid-twentieth century.

24. Since then, these have been the most diverse and sometimes quite futuristic and even strange forms of flying apparatus, which can be secretly created and tested and often observed.

25. But these flying apparatus I am talking about now are exclusively flying objects of purely earthly origin and that was also in the twentieth century.

Billy:

And in regard to the three groups that have been traveling around our world, do you have any new insights on that?

Ptaah:

33. As I mentioned before, we are no longer concerned with them.

34. They are indeed active in the whole earthly airspace and also in the outer Earth envelopes.

35. Furthermore, it seems that they have no knowledge of each other, as I explained to you before, just as they have absolutely no knowledge of our presence, although we leave it at that, because, as we could clearly see with our latest technology, which we received from the Sonaern, their technology and their behaviour as well as their evolution of consciousness is still very much in need of development, and this although they are masters of space travel and probably also of time-travel.

36. Therefore, it would not be good if they became aware of our presence and our home worlds.

37. Although they are apparently aware of our contact with you, as we have found with them, they have no proof of this, because we are not recognizable to them, so they cannot locate us or our flying apparatus, which irritates them.

Billy:

And when you are with me, like you are now, they cannot track that either?

Ptaah:

38. This is completely impossible, because our technology does not allow any tracking in relation to our flying apparatus and ourselves.

39. Our present technology is shaped in such a way that we can only be seen and located if our protective belt can be penetrated, which we can prevent.

40. Only when it is in our will can we be seen and located, as is the case right now with you, who are in my direct protection zone and you can see me.

Billy:

Aha, I suppose that is the technique I experienced with you outside Bernadette's room when we suddenly found ourselves facing each other without me noticing you before.

Ptaah:

41. Yes, it is actually that technique.

42. When you are standing outside the screen, which cannot be located by any lower technique, you only see what the foreground and background and the surroundings make you perceive.

43. Only when you can step inside the screen, which I have to make permeable, then you can see me.

44. But even in the state of making it permeable, the protective screen cannot be located, nor of course the person inside it.

45. On the other hand, all our flying apparatus have been equipped with the same system for quite some time now, because the old shielding technology was not as perfect and efficient as the new one.

Billy:

But you could not be seen or located with the old shielding.

Ptaah:

46. That is true, but the newest technology of the Sonaer is much more efficient.

Billy:

I have been approached again and again from all over the world about sighted unidentified flying objects and whether they have come to you.

Ptaah:

47. It cannot be about our and our Federation's flying apparatus, because as I explained to you several times, we do not allow any more sightings in this regard, which will continue to be the case.

48. So such observations can only be natural phenomena and earthly flying apparatus or those of the three foreign groups.

Billy:

I also think so, and if you could be sighted and photographed by any earthlings, as for example by our group members, then this was especially arranged by you, as it was when I could take the proof photos according to your order.

Ptaah:

49. That is correct.

50. Further photos of our flying apparatus will undoubtedly no longer be possible, because the earthly computer technology does not allow any more proof photos as you could still take them, because the technology that now prevails makes it easy to falsify such pictures, which was not possible at the time when you were ordered by us to take the films and photos.

51. Also as a favour to any group members we will not allow any more photography.

52. We will no longer make any exceptions, not even with regard to observations.

53. Everyone has to accept that.

54. And when you are no longer, then this rule will apply definitively anyway, whereby we will then also withdraw from the earth and never come back here again to get in contact with a person of this world again, because when you leave, then our mission with regard to the earth and its humanity will also be finished.

Billy:

{Note: The following excerpt is in regards to the April 21, 2008 Phoenix "lights"}

Now the question whether you have any knowledge about this matter? Were these lights ships from your Federation or from the three different foreign groups?

Ptaah:

61. Since we only sporadically include the three different foreign groups in our observations, I cannot say anything about it, because at that time the area mentioned in the report did not fall within our closer observation range.

62. As I judge the whole thing according to this report, it must have been the flying apparatus of the three foreign groups.

63. The whole thing with the formations and the flight movements and the disappearance of the flying apparatus clearly indicates that.

64. In any case, we have not registered any flying apparatus other than those of the three alien groups for a long time, not even with regard to flights into terrestrial airspace.

65. We would certainly have registered alien new visitors, and moreover, such entries are very rare, because many alien life forms of foreign and distant worlds do not have space travel at their disposal, while others are not yet able to cover the universal distances.

66. For this reason alone it is an absolute rarity that strangers from other worlds of the Milky Way or even from other galaxies come to Earth.

67. Very big exceptions are the three alien groups and those few you know of who have joined our Federation, which is why we naturally no longer consider them strangers.

68. Those also belong to our Federation today, whose expedition ship was destroyed over the Tunguska Plain about 100 years ago.

Billy:

... But now I have a question: You fly at a single and multiple speed of light in your spaceships, and our earthly scientists claim that this is impossible and that a spaceship can never reach this high speed, because the friction with matter, or with material space and ether prevents this.

Yes, it cannot be the electromagnetic radiation by which you protect yourself from the cosmic influences and the so-called cosmic ether in order to reach the speed of light and beyond. Yes, electromagnetic radiation of all kinds has the same speed, so about 300,000 kilometres per second, so it is probably not possible that you can use it to prevent friction, so it must be something else that you can use to prevent any friction with the ether or any matter. Is there something very special that you can name, that allows you to go one and multiple times the speed of light? Is that a secret or are you allowed to say something about it? I have never asked about it before, but I am always being asked questions about it that I cannot answer.

Ptaah:

8. It is not a secret, and when I talk about it I do not give away anything with which the earthly scientists can start something, because their knowledge and ability is far from being sufficient for them to make use of it at the present time and thus cause harm.

9. So I can say that we use the photons resp. the light particles and time radiation to shield our spaceflights from the material and antimaterial environment.

10. So, we wrap our spaceflights in a photon force field and in a time radiation screen and protect them from friction against the material space.

11. The photons do not have any weight, but the mass 0, as it is also the case with respect to the time radiation, because they are both pure energy without any medium of their own, which is why they are neutral against any matter and are repelled by gravity.

12. So we make use of this, namely by enclosing our spaceflight devices in a photon and time radiation screen, so that no friction with the material space can occur, which enables us to reach the speed of light and even to exceed it by a very high multiple, because no resistance by any matter appears.

13. To explain details would be irresponsible, because Earth-humans are not yet allowed to possess these, because they maliciously use all special achievements for weapon systems and war purposes etc., which would also be the case with regard to photon technology.

14. And as far as the ether in world space is concerned, it truly does not exist, because this is a mistaken assumption of the earthly scientists. {Note: See Aether.}

15. That what they assume to be ether is indeed pure energy, a radiation, and this does not have its own medium and therefore no mass.

Billy:

Explained briefly and concisely. Thank you. Time radiation – could one perhaps also call it tachyon matter, which must also be without medium? Ether thus does not exist, but only radiation, which is pure energy without mass. However now the question how you can do it, to shield your spaceships against view and make them invisible for eyes and radar etc. Are you allowed to say something about this? But I think that now finally something becomes clearer to me. If you shield your flying apparatus against any material friction by a photon shield or photon protection shield, then it is probably so – so I assume – that these always light up when you have switched on this photon shield. Is that true?

Ptaah:

16. This corresponds to the actual situation, and the term tachyon matter can be applied in a certain way, but it is a time vibration or time radiation and has nothing to do with matter of any form.

17. And regarding the invisibility of our flying apparatus:

18. We can actually make our space flight apparatuses, as well as those we use in planetary airspaces, invisible to any view of any kind, by using special metallic alloys, the basis of which is, among other things, silver, as you know from the metallurgical analyses of the material of our flying apparatuses made in the USA.

19. The materials used in our flying apparatus and space flight devices are transformed and superordinate composite materials, the composition and manufacture of which I cannot mention, but I can say that we obtain everything through cold fusion processes, as Marcel Vogel in the USA already discovered through his metallurgical analysis when you gave him the metal samples we received for analysis.

20. So, when a flying apparatus, a spacecraft, a human or any other object is made invisible, it is by directing light around it.

21. The light waves are not reflected, but flow unbroken and uninhibitedly around the object, so that it becomes invisible to any natural or technical eye of any kind, also radar etc., and simply allows the background to be seen unchanged.

{Billy:}

... his is also evident in alleged UFO sightings, where smaller or larger groups of human beings fall into a kind of visionary delusion and see UFOs even though there are none; and this is only because a single person believes to see something and thereby triggers a nocebo effect. As a rule, the symptoms of nocebo start with one individual being for no apparent reason, but they affect others through imagination and cause an epidemic according to the domino principle, because more and more people are drawn into the maelstrom of the nocebo effect in rapid succession. ...

Ptaah:

6. Our flying discs are not shielded from sight by us, and also not in those moments when the static energy is illuminated or dissolved.

7. With our manned flying apparatus, it is that we usually shield them against sight when it seems necessary to us, in order not to frighten Earth-humans.

8. However, the shielding prevents us from being able to make certain recordings, which is why we only use the privacy screen when we consider it advisable for the aforementioned reasons.

9. So it is possible that our flying apparatus can be observed both day and night ...

Ptaah:

46. However, the fact that UFO observations are repeatedly reported around the world is that these are usually natural phenomena which can also be photographed or filmed under certain circumstances.

47. Illusions and optical irritations are also common.

48. Those photos and films, however, which are sensational in UFO circles, are usually deliberate fakes produced by computers.

49. It is not uncommon for your photos to be falsified and misused for this purpose, whereby photomontages and animated films are produced.

50. Only very few pictures show real objects, which can be interpreted as flying apparatus or as UFOs.

51. Since the 1980s, when computer technology emerged and can be used in a private way by anyone who can handle it, there have been countless fake pictures and films concerning UFOs or unknown flying objects respectively, which circulate in UFO circles and are found to be real.

52. Today, computer technology is so far developed that fakes can hardly or not at all be recognized.

53. But when you took your pictures in the 1970s, these computer possibilities did not exist yet, because only years later computers were produced that could also be used in private life.

Billy:

... But I am now interested in whether, since my last question regarding other extraterrestrials who do not belong to you Plejaren or to your Federation, any other extraterrestrial flying apparatuses have flown into earthly space in the meantime?

Ptaah:

27. Since we completed our surveillance technology for objects entering or entering the Earth's space years ago and are therefore able to locate and register even the smallest objects, there have been no entries of unearthly flying apparatuses that do not belong to us Plejaren or to members of the Federation.

28. It is also not to be assumed that there will be any more such foreign incursions in the foreseeable future.

29. And what has happened in the last 300 years with such flights into the earthly space has found its reason in the fact, as we have clarified in the meantime, that really all extraterrestrials who came to earth found their way to earth by some unforeseen coincidence or in two cases by coordinate information.

30. The fact that the way from extraterrestrials to the SOL-system and finally to Earth led in some cases, was either due to uncontrollable coincidences or due to coordinates received etc.

31. Some also came to Earth through curiosity, aberration or by accident, after they unintentionally or intentionally entered the SOL system.

32. However, most of the entries took place because of uncontrollable coincidences and also because the Earth was discovered.

33. There were also flights into Earth from the Alpha-Centauri area when the SOL system was approached, and of course Earth was discovered and explored.

34. So it was usually a rare coincidence that extraterrestrials other than us, the Plejaren and our federated ones, came to Earth.

35. Only in two cases aliens came to Earth via the coordinates given by very distant Nokodemion descendants.

36. There were not any other strangers to the Earth other than those who came to Earth through the coordinates and uncontrollable coincidences.

37. So the visitors were not those who flew to Earth as a special destination, with two exceptions.

38. But we Plejaren and our Federation and the ancient Lyrians are excluded from this, because even our very distant ancestors knew the SOL system and the Earth, and so they visited the Earth millions of years ago.

Billy:

This is familiar to me, because they came to the SOL system because of the Moon, whose path they followed when it blasted out of their space-time structure through a dimensional gate into our space-time structure and settled on Earth. And it is also clear to me that there is not extraterrestrial-human life at every corner of space and that extraterrestrial human beings are not to be found in every corner of the universe, as the human beings on Earth are led to believe by science fiction films. There are indeed billions of solar systems in which there are also planets, but those that carry human life, which is also highly developed and capable of space travel, are very rare in our DERN universe. That is why, as you once said, your Federation is spread out over hundreds of millions of light-years in your space-time structure, because the human beings are scattered in the vast expanse of space and it is not densely populated with humans. Often there are dozens, hundreds or even thousands of light-years between human inhabited worlds, and also only a few of the human beings on these inhabited planets are capable of space technology. The same applies to our space-time structure, and consequently also to the fact that there are not masses of human beings on the planets, but only a few of them in the vastness of our own or any other galaxy. For this reason alone, it is crazy to claim that aliens from this or that constellation would come to Earth from this or that constellation, simply to make some nonsensical religious and sectarian speeches and conversations and to give divine advice etc. This apart from the absurdity of the fact that there is no evidence of such alleged contacts between aliens and the human beings of Earth, neither material nor photos and films.

Ptaah:

62. And all those Earth-foreigners who came to Earth by the coincidence of the coordinates of the ancient Nokodemion peoples belong to our Federation today, and they too do not maintain contact with Earth-humans.

63. The only contacts that have ever existed and continue to exist relate to us Plejaren, our Federation and you.

Billy:

So that in relation to the last 300 years?

Ptaah:

64. That is correct, because it is for that time that we have been making our inquiries.

Billy:

But what if unknown flying objects are observed?

Ptaah:

65. If they are Earth-foreigners flying apparatuses, then they can only be those of us Plejaren or of our federated ones.

66. Otherwise they are exclusively earthly unknown flying apparatuses, like secret aircraft of futuristic design etc., as they are constructed in secret aircraft construction factories, mainly in Area 51 in the USA, but also in South America, Russia, China and Canada.

Billy:

Is this really all clear and real?

Ptaah:

67. Absolutely.

Billy:

This once again triggers angry cries and howls among the UFO believers, the ufologists and the alleged contactees, which in turn makes me a snail again.

Ptaah:

68. This will be so, because the deceivers, liars, swindlers and charlatans regarding alleged contacts with Earth-foreigners as well as the UFO believers in general and especially those who boast of being experts in ufology, do not want to understand that apart from us, the Plejaren and our federated ones, no other Earth-foreigners come to Earth, and also that those who came here in former times found their way to Earth only by means of old coordinate records which led back to connections with old Nokodemion peoples.

69. Only such Earth-foreigners and future Earth-followers have come to Earth, but never any others from foreign galaxies and solar systems that did not have the coordinates handed down.

70. So others did not reach Earth, as alleged contactors lie and claim.

Billy:

This apart from the Skrills and the bioorganic flying objects and the future of Earth from other dimensions, as you say. If all the many claims about contacts between the human beings of Earth and extraterrestrials were true, then Earth would be teeming with extraterrestrials.

Ptaah:

71. That is correct.

Ptaah:

13. Nevertheless, it is a fact that top-secret flying apparatus is being created and tested in Area 51, not only in the area of that base, but also in other areas and even worldwide.

14. But this is also true of other states that work on and test secret flying apparatus, which are then referred to by uninitiated populations as UFOs and even as extraterrestrial flying objects.
15. And it is precisely this fact that is used by all the secret bases where futuristic flying apparatuses are built, Area 51 in particular, to keep their secret products relating to all kinds of flying objects and aircraft from becoming public knowledge.
16. The secret services involved have been stirring up the UFO hype for many decades and are doing everything they can to make people observing such flying apparatus believe that they are extraterrestrial flying objects, which are then generally called UFOs.
17. This is also a reason for the paradox that, especially in the USA, those in charge of military and air force intelligence and other intelligence agencies involved in the case are denying that an extraterrestrial flying apparatus has crashed, as happened in Roswell.
18. Of course, this also vehemently denies the secret research and machinations that are being carried out in Area 51, as well as the constructions of secret flying apparatus made there.
19. And this did not only happen during the Cold War period, but it also applies equally to the present day.
20. Thus the belief of the population in the multiple existence of extraterrestrial UFOs continues to be fuelled.

Billy:

Then let me ask you again about the fact that you said some time ago that you Plejaren and your Federation are the only aliens who have contact on Earth, and only with me. You also said that there are not other aliens flying in and out of Earth. But somehow I can't get along with that, because you have also mentioned on several occasions that there are three groups of strangers on Earth besides you, who came or are coming, but who are unknown to you and with whom you cannot or do not want to come into contact. At least that is what you told me several times in private conversations. Your daughter Semjase and Quetzal have also explained the same thing. These things were not recorded in the contact reports, because they were private conversations, but I think that this is why we should talk about it again. As I said before, I simply cannot deal with this matter.

Ptaah:

...

81. The UFO and UFO contact hysteria should not be evoked again, which is why I did not speak of those strangers who have probably been in earthly space and unknown to us for a long time and with whom we also have no connections.
82. But when I think about it now, I find that the whole thing is perhaps advisable to be mentioned in the above-mentioned respect, because apparently you too have misunderstood my statement as well as that of my daughter and of Quetzal.
83. It is indeed the case that no new Earth-foreigners known to us have come and are coming to Earth other than those who have been operating here for a long time or those who have joined or belonged to our Federation.
84. Only in this respect my speech was intended and should have been understood in this way.
85. But apparently I was not precise enough in my statement, which led to misunderstanding or misunderstanding.
86. What I explained was meant, then, if I am to repeat what I said and make it clearer that in recent times no new Earth-foreigners have come or are coming to Earth.
87. Thus, only those foreigners who have been approaching the Earth for a long time and who are not under our control are and remain.
88. Excluded from my statement, therefore, were those Earth-foreigners unknown to us with whom we do not or do not wish to come into contact.

89. And as these fly in and out of earthly space, they are therefore not newcomers, but rather those who have been coming to the Earth again and again for a very long time, and who also stay in this space for a long time.

90. These three foreign groups are therefore not included in my statements, nor are the future earthlings, who form a further group and with whom we also have no connections.

...

Billy:

Then it is also possible that sometimes not only your flying objects can be observed, but also those of the Earth-foreigners unknown to you and of the future ones? You, for your part, do not let yourselves be observed as often as it used to be the case, so therefore, unless they are the secret terrestrial test objects of military form, sometimes they must be those unknown to you and the future ones who are seen.

Ptaah:

92. That is correct, but if they are already Earth-foreigners or the future ones, then they are not those who appear again, but only those unknown to us, as I will again state.

Billy:

So they are not newcomers from the depths of space, flying in and out of Earth, but only those of whom you have spoken in each case, but who were not mentioned in your last explanations. Consequently, it follows that while it is correct that you and your Federation are the only ones known to you as Earth-foreigners, and as such visit Earth. But since those unknown to you and those to come are not known to you as Earth-foreigners, you have only spoken of those extraterrestrials that you know – thus of you Plejaren and your federated ones. This misunderstanding is stupid, because this is again material for the know-it-alls, critics and adversaries, who are too stupid to understand that just by incomplete statements and explanations also misunderstandings can appear. Perhaps it is also our mistake if we discuss some things only privately without writing up reports about them. It is also not uncommon for misunderstandings to arise from the fact that some of your statements and explanations are not complete. ...

... But the whole thing does not say anything about the fact that through those strangers to the earth who are unknown to you and through the future ones, short touches and so-called examination contacts might have taken place.

Ptaah:

93. That is clear and correct.

94. And what is to be said regarding contacts of fate and examination contacts is that some of the strangers unknown to us may indeed have touched the earth, but we neither have any control over this nor have we been able to observe such contacts ourselves.

95. If, in the course of time, we have spoken of possible touches respectively short contacts, then these have been related to those that have unintentionally or intentionally taken place with us Plejaren or with our federated.

96. However, we do not know and are not interested in what happened to those unknown to us and those to come.

Billy:

This is a clear and unmistakable statement. But the fact of the many atmospheric phenomena and the test flights of secret military flying apparatus that have been observed in various countries but could not and still cannot be identified as a whole, and which are called UFOs, remains, doesn't it?

Ptaah:

97. Of course, because this cannot be denied, so also the fact of secret test flights of futuristic flying apparatuses cannot be denied, although this is nevertheless constantly being attempted by denials.

Ptaah:

8. The difficult issue with the control device required Quetzal, Zafenatpaneach and I to create a completely new apparatus together some time ago, because the old one had been disturbed by the earthly space debris to such an extent in its function with regard to very precise recordings that a lot of data was not recorded.

...

Billy:

Aha, and may I ask whether the size of the small control disc is still the same? ...

Ptaah:

...

11. No, the dimensions of the micro device are now 6x6x6 millimetres and now has a storage capacity of 280,000 terabytes.

Billy:

Man, that is a multiple of the old control panel.

Ptaah:

12. There are also many more factors that are monitored and registered by the device, but I do not want to give any further details officially.

...

Billy:

... But what I am still interested in is to what extent the strangers on earth, who are obviously divided into three groups, behave towards you, since you do not want to have any contact with them?

Ptaah:

33. According to our directives we have kept away from them until today and will also do so in the future.

34. Just as we shield ourselves from all earthly locating equipment and locating devices of any kind, if I may say so in such simple terms, so we also shield ourselves from the Earth-foreigners.

35. The protective shields of our flying apparatus are designed in such a way that they cannot be penetrated in any way, and therefore our aircraft cannot be located.

36. This is also the case when we keep the screens of our flying apparatus open so that they can be seen.

37. But that is never enough to be able to take bearings on our flying apparatus or even register them.

38. So far, the Earth-foreigners operating in the terrestrial space, who form a unit despite their tripartite division, have not been able to find a way to determine our existence, because all their technical achievements are not sufficient and are far inferior to ours.

39. This is of course also true of all the terrestrial technology in this field, which is still far below that used by the aliens.

40. But since they, like the Earth-humans, know through the terrestrial media such as television, radio, newspapers and magazines, etc., that you are in contact with us because this has been so reported, you have been observed for a long time both by the Earth-foreigners and by the earthly military, authorities and secret services, probably in the hope that they might thereby prove to themselves our existence and our contacts with you.

41. They have not been able to do so to date, and they never will, because they are not capable of such a technique and are therefore not able to reconcile the discrepancy in this respect.

42. Just as all their efforts to find out about our existence have been in vain and useless to them, so it will remain.

Billy:

Then some of the unknown flying apparatuses we have observed throughout the decades above and around our center could have been from those Earth-foreigners, as was also the case at my former place of residence in Hinwil and the surrounding area?

Ptaah:

43. This was indeed the case several times, and if you had asked us about it, we could have given you information about it, just as we always did when our flying apparatus was being observed in the center area or elsewhere and you asked about it.

Billy:

... Here is the further question: Photons are light particles, but they are weightless. But I do not understand how it is possible to move or stop things by a very strongly bundled light, to melt metal with a laser beam and even to propel flying objects in space. Even if the weight and mass are zero and practically cannot be determined, I think that somehow something must be present that can produce the effects in the above-mentioned respect, perhaps a mass of light and a weight of light or something like that, but everything is so small and weightless that a single photon, for example, cannot be measured in any weight and mass.

Ptaah:

20. What you say is correct, of course.

21. Explained in a simple and easy to understand way, is the following to say about it:

22. Every single photon is not measurable in relation to its weight and mass, at least not with earthly apparatuses, therefore mass and weight always result in 0.

23. But if the photons are bundled millions of times, like with spotlights or especially with lasers or photon engines, then in their constant movement at the speed of light, a so-called 'moving mass' becomes visible, which can be registered and also measured in terms of weight.

24. However, about 400 million photons together make up such a tiny mass, which contains less than the smallest atomic nucleus component.

25. Photons appearing in unimaginably enormous masses, however, which without exception are always in motion at the speed of light, and as these are generated by suns and all other photon-producing structures in the universe and are hurled out into space, the 'Masses in motion' increase to enormous weights, which can only be calculated in millions of tons.

Billy:

And this, although the individual photon is weightless and massless, so to speak, but in this respect can only be measured in a very large mass. Really phenomenal.

Billy:

So now I also understand your explanation of 2001, when you said that the new control disk of 4 millimetres surface area and one (1) millimetre thickness, which you stationed at several hundred kilometres altitude, has a capacity of 74 exabytes, that is 74 trillion bytes. There is a generator or something similar built into this tiny control device, as well as an observation system, a transmitter and receiver. There is also an image recording device installed, with which something can be captured on Earth extremely clearly and sharply to the centimetre, as you once said privately

Ptaah:

16. That is also correct.

...

Billy:

... Various people do not understand your statements regarding extraterrestrials which fly in the terrestrial air space – or not. So I want to once again come to speak about unidentified flying objects, but not about those, which are from those extraterrestrial origins about which we have already spoken several times, and what you have determined is that all these were located as a result of historical records of the Nokodemion-peoples to Earth. For this purpose, you have also explained that eventually these planets peoples to whom the spacecraft belonged, have joined your federation. There are diverse UFOs observed all over the world of which different large and small objects belong to secret terrestrial developments in various countries, but this cannot be officially proven because their existence is denied and covered up, although detected by many witnesses. Hence, that's not all that is said, because there are still also the various large and small dimension-change-capable flying objects from the Earth's future. All of which, you have spoken of openly or privately, as well as your daughter Semjase and Quetzal occasionally said something about this. But on that point, now to the question: for years some spectacular UFO observations have been variously made worldwide, which were also confirmed by the military, air force and other airplane pilots, police-units and private individuals. However, you had said that except for those which you mentioned, no more extraterrestrial flying devices were flown into the airspace of the earth, or would fly in.

Ptaah:

40. You mix something up or have misunderstood something, dear friend, because what is correct, is the fact of my views regarding this, that no further unknown Earth-foreigners, to us Plejaren, fly in the earthly space.

41. In addition, I also spoke thereof, that we do not maintain any contacts with these unknown-to-us Earth-foreigners which move in the earthly space, or that there is no possibility for us, that we can get in contact with them.

...

43. So if I have spoken about this, that no further Earth-foreigners known to us, come to the Earth, then this is referring exclusively to newly-appearing Earth-foreigners, not however to those whose existence here on Earth has already been known for quite some time.

Billy:

Again a misunderstanding, but now this would also be clarified. So those unknown to you are still present, whereby these also fly in and fly out. That really was totally misunderstood, both by various readers of the contact reports, as well as by me. But how does it stand with your investigations regarding contacts between Earth-humans and these foreigners moving in the terrestrial air space of whose existence you know?

Ptaah:

44. As we have seen through extremely accurate investigations, no touches, i.e. no contacts took place up until the present moment between these Earth-foreigners unknown to us and any earth-humans.

Billy:

It is simply maddening that misunderstandings creep in again and again because you do not speak in detailed enough plain language if you are not specifically asked for it.

Ptaah:

45. This corresponds to a mutuality, because you always answer only to direct questions, without giving further details thereof.

46. And so, as you keep to in this regard, we adhere to this as well.

47. This form of questions and answers is indeed also correct in principle, because thereby one does not go adrift into hardly important details.

Ptaah:

23. Such observations are not only made in England, but around the world in practically all countries, whereby, however, there is silence about it as usual.

24. And I will say this before you ask, that all these unknown flying objects are on the one hand secret terrestrial flying apparatuses, but also on the other hand those of the future inhabitants of the Earth and of those who are unknown to us and with whom we maintain no contacts.

25. Our own flying apparatuses – except in seldom cases our telemetric discs – are shielded by us from sight and radar etc. in such a way that they cannot or only extremely seldom be seen by human beings of Earth.

26. This, however, only if in that relation certain causal foreordinations result which are under our control.

27. It is not possible to locate us by radar, nor by other technical means, hence we remain also invisible for the ones foreign to the Earth who are unknown to us, who so far obviously are unable to detect our presence here on the Earth, which also applies to the future inhabitants of the Earth.

Billy:

Thank you, by certain causal foreordinations you probably mean that such a causal foreordination takes place, if it is inherent in your will that you want to be observed, as has also been the case on various occasions with FIGU members in the last decades since 1975.

Ptaah:

28. Right.

Billy:

... You told me on my Great Journey that you all have to equip your space flying apparatus with equipment so that you do not age faster than on the homeworld. But you only mentioned this briefly, so I would like to ask what your statement at the time actually refers to. But please explain something simply so that it is also understood

Ptaah:

195. In world space there are different physical laws than on planets.

196. A certain radiation, which occurs on a large scale only in open world space, but not on the planets, on which it is much less effective, requires special shielding in relation to the spaceflight devices to protect the occupants.

197. This is precisely because the strong radiation affects any biological life-form much more than is the case with the low radiation of the same species on planets.

198. This radiation, which penetrates all materials, has the property that biological life-forms, when they travel through space, age much faster through it than on planets.

199. The stronger the radiation affects a biological organism, the faster it ages.

200. This also says that also on planets, depending on their size and mass, this radiation varies in its intensity, so the normal age limit of similar life-forms is different on planets of different sizes and more or less mass.

201. The size and mass of a planet therefore determines how strongly the radiation affects a biological organism, which means that the weaker the radiation is, the longer the organic body remains viable, whereas with strong radiation the life span is reduced, which can be the case especially in spaceflights, if they are not protected against the very strong radiation in space by a radiation-repellent shield.

Billy:

Aha, that is to be understood. And since you live on worlds that have little of this radiation, you also have a long life. ...

Billy:

Now however I would like to turn the discussion once again to those UFO sightings and UFO photos, which militaries and police as well as also pilots substantiate and which indeed in the last few decades are hundreds. About these I mean those, which have nothing to do with all of those UFO nut-cases, who deceptively falsify images and films or even maintain, that they – in a mostly Christian esoteric and sectarian way – would have personal or telepathic contacts with extraterrestrials. Especially, I want yet to speak about the occurrences in regard to the appearances in Phoenix in the USA respectively the 'Phoenix Lights' in 1997, which last January, thus 2013, is said to have happened again. In 1997 these UFOs have been observed in Sonora, Nevada and Mexico, as well. Then there is also still the case of Rendlesham Forest in England at the beginning of the 1980s, as well as however also in 2006 the case of O'Hare/Chicago as well as the appearances in Anchorage/Alaska and the case of 1989 in Belgium with the prolonged wave of UFO sightings. Further sightings in world-wide form by pilots, militaries, police and private individuals run into the hundreds, whereby it is said, that approximately 800 or even more observations are seriously to be considered. I know from you, that a number of these observed UFOs lead back to your beamships, but many hundred always still remain unknown. Thus I assume, that it, with all of these unexplained UFO appearances, on the one hand, probably has to concern secret terrestrial-military flight machines etc., of various nations to which even also China belongs, like you told me last time. Additionally, you have once spoken of those from the Earth's future, which are also to be considered. On the other hand, it concerns at the same time, however, probably also about those three groups unknown to you, who have no information regarding you and therefore are also unable to attain information about you.

Ptaah:

19. This corresponds to actuality, because all of the appearances of unknown flying objects mentioned by you – as well as hundreds of others – lead back only very rarely to we Plejaren and to those of our Federation, who sometimes regarding the fact that they are seen, are those of the Federation who are somewhat less careful than we.

20. As a rule everything leads back to the three alien groups to us as well as to secret terrestrial-military flight machines of various nations.

Billy:

Then this is clear, and apparently, if I take notice of your words, then nothing has changed between you and the three alien groups?

Ptaah:

21. That is actually so, and we will ourselves also not try to come into contact with the aliens, and in regard to them we also do not know from where they come, which also does not interest us which is why we also do not try to clarify their origin.

22. Also everything indicates for us that – if we speak of their technology as a starting point – which compared to ours is relatively still very much underdeveloped –, and that also their consciousness development still leaves much to be desired.

Billy:

I can comprehend that. However, you once said years ago, that you have carried out clarifications and studies in detail and that since 1947 no more Earth foreigners have flown into terrestrial airspace. How is it then with the three foreign groups?

Ptaah:

23. We have spoken about them already many times, and I have explained, that these groups who are aliens to us are not therein to be included, because we have known about them as aliens for a long time.

24. Our clarifications were and are valid only for new foreigners from the year 1947, and such have not flown into the terrestrial space since then.

25. And as we see the matter, the three foreigners unknown to us belong to groups that did not enter the earthly realm recently after the year 1947.

26. Hence it is possible, that they even come from the Earth itself or already long ago as Earth-foreigners were here, before we undertook our new mission on the Earth.

27. Admittedly since that time we have registered activities again and again in the terrestrial airspace, and I mean up to the present time, but in connection to this we see the three alien groups to us, as those who are truthfully already here for a long time or even belong to the Earth, perhaps also in a future dimension.

28. From this follows, that we also do not concern ourselves about them and also do not try to come into their range, because we do not want to bring about any conflicts with them.

29. Solely, this is forbidden to us already by our directives.

30. What it is however with all the observations in the USA, England and Belgium mentioned by you and also many others elsewhere, this we do not know, because already we no longer try for a long time to make clarifications of such occurrences.

Billy:

From your words I gather, that you therefore do not know, whether with the three groups alien to you concerns Earth foreigners, thus extraterrestrials or from the Earth's future, or whether it concerns with the USA, Belgium and England etc., observed large unknown flying bodies perhaps secret terrestrial-military machines?

Ptaah:

31. This is correct such as you say, and we have also no interest to explain about them, because our tasks do not relate directly to such interests, but only and alone to your mission as well as to certain matters, which arise from terrestrial-climatic and planetary development as well as with population-, political and science- as well as technology development.

32. With everything it concerns only clarification- and observation tasks, however not one iota more.

33. An intervention into any terrestrial interests therefore, according to our directives, in no way whatsoever is permitted to us.

Billy:

However, you nevertheless have a technology hardly to be surpassed — at least as seen by we Earthlings – by which it would be possible, to make clarifications and examinations unnoticed, regarding those who you could examine closely. These even in connection to, from where they come, who they are and what their motives are, to function mysteriously in the terrestrial area without identifying themselves.

Ptaah:

34. This is quite correct, but our directives forbid such actions, except if there would appear such unknown aircraft to our homeworlds.

35. It would be permitted to us additionally also only then, if the aliens themselves approach us and would seek contact with us.

36. However this is not only questionable, that they will do it, because as far as our directives permit, we are able to clarify, that the three alien groups to us up to now send out signals in no way whatsoever, which would indicate that they would know of our existence.

37. So then as we see everything, our presence is therefore not known to them, which certainly therein is based on the fact, that we always protect ourselves against them from an open contact, as a result they can have no awareness of our presence in the terrestrial area, because we protect ourselves against them from any awareness.

38. Thus, regarding our presence only assumption can be given by them – if at all.

39. However this does not mean, contrarily that we from our side are not able to perceive them, because their activities are indeed such, that these also are apparently undisputed for Earth-humans and again and again are able to be observed.

40. These are our certain discoveries, which our directives permit us to be able to gain clarifications.

41. This also means for us thus, that we ourselves already for considerable time in no way try to obtain more about the three alien groups to us, as a result we also have no knowledge about their time and time again occurring activities.

Billy:

Then it is also senseless, if I perhaps were to ask you once again, when it concerns a UFO which was observed? Anyway – as a realisation – therefore it also would not be permitted to you, to help Earth if some foreign extraterrestrials came in power to the Earth and would display ambitions of conquest?

Ptaah:

42. That is absolutely correct, because since we no longer concern ourselves about these interests, no more are we able to deliver information and explanations.

43. Clarifications in the mentioned connection are for us not of interest and they also never were, but we endeavoured ourselves to obtain always simply only about clarifications, which fell within our own interests and will fall in the future.

44. What we have done further regarding, that which goes beyond our own interests, this we have carried out only, in order to be able to deliver certain data to you and the group members.

45. We no longer do this for considerable time, as you know, because in no way whatsoever did it bring usefulness in any connection.

46. This also applies to many other things and also private interests of persons etc., which in their regard we no longer endeavour ourselves to obtain clarifications for them.

47. And what you say regarding foreign extraterrestrial powers, then this would actually be the case, as you say; we permit ourselves in no way to interfere.

...

Billy:

... Than once again a question regarding the three alien groups: Do you assume perhaps, that these could turn out to be a danger for you?

Ptaah:

49. We do not assume this, because according to our discoveries their technology is still extremely underdeveloped compared to ours, which is to be concluded from their flight manoeuvres and from their total behaviour.

50. And what arises with the technology of their aircraft, this applies with certainty also to their possible weapon technology, consequently we would have a great and not to be surpassed advantage over them.

51. If they would be in possession of ray weapons, then would a use of these be the same in every case to our favour and to our great advantage, because we absorb all kinds of radiation and know how to use for our own energy production.

52. Radiations appearing to our protection shields and similar energies are absorbed and to our own energies adapted, accumulated and from them strengthened.

Billy:

I know this, because you have already earlier explained to me, that your protection- and weapon systems in your ships do not work the same, as those in science fiction movies – like Star Trek, etc., – on the Earth is shown, that the protection shields just become weaker by energy – and radiation bombardment etc., but that you absorb the on to your protection shield appearing energies and as a result the energetic all around cloaking shield of your ships is strengthened. Thus it is such, that the more radiation energy etc., is fired onto your ships, the stronger their protection shields become.

Ptaah:

53. That is correct.

54. However also if solid projectiles, respectively solid materials are shot at our protection shields, we are able to transfer their kinetic energy into an energy usefulness while the projectiles change and becomes useless.

55. If the projectiles contain explosives of any kind, then these will become neutralised and become a harmless mass.

Billy:

And how is it, if it would concern asteroids, meteors and space rubbish or missiles with atomic warheads?

Ptaah:

56. These also would be neutralised and present no danger for us.

...

Billy:

Let's get back to the three alien groups: So you do not suppose that you could be in danger from aliens. But what about the fact that danger for the Earth resp. for terrestrial mankind could come from them?

Ptaah:

61. For all of the last 200 years nothing has indicated that such a danger could come from foreigners to the Earth, but we do not know their intentions and hence cannot say with certainty, whether it might not be the case that some strangers to the Earth have evil intentions.

Billy:

Not exactly a consolation. So we can only hope that these foreigners are as peaceful as you Plejaren and those of your Federation. If the Earth and terrestrial humanity were threatened with disaster by the extraterrestrial foreigners or by those from the future, how would you then react?

Ptaah:

62. You know, that our directives would forbid an intervention, as I already mentioned.

Billy:

I know, however also this is indeed just not exactly comforting. It is only to assume, that everything turns out peacefully, if someday official contacts come to take place with Earth aliens or those from the future, which in fact certain prophecies have announced already from time immemorial.

Ptaah:

47. The basic condition for space travel inevitably requires the mastery of gravity, so that appropriate space flight devices must be equipped with devices that give them their own gravity.

48. Without a spacecraft having its own gravity, which protects space travellers from weightlessness, they suffer life-threatening organic changes which lead to death.

49. Long-term weightlessness in Earth orbit alone is harmful to the human being's health, because severe organic changes occur in the body, including brain shrinkage etc.

Billy:

So without a spaceship or any space vehicle having its own adequate gravity, which must be produced by apparatus and equipment etc. to protect the human being from weightlessness, effective space travel is not possible? If there is no gravity in a spaceship, then in the long run health damage will occur, which also leads to death.

Ptaah:

50. That is correct.

51. Mastering gravity is a fundamental requirement, but so is mastering and neutralising the effects of the acceleration forces inside and outside the spacecraft.

Billy:

You are probably referring to the acceleration forces which, on the one hand, do not create any pressure forces for the human being inside the spaceships and which, on the other hand, can distort the material on the outside?

Ptaah:

52. Yes, but I am not allowed to talk about how these forces are neutralized.

Billy:

But it is correct that you absorb these forces with your technical possibilities?

Ptaah:

53. Yes, that is correct.

Billy:

Please, one more question: I have been asked why you still come here on the usual route, which takes seven minutes, when you have had the opportunity with the transmitter gate for quite some time?

Ptaah:

52. That is no secret.

53. The fact is that we probably developed the technology so far years ago that we have been using this transport possibility for goods ever since.

54. In the first time, however, there was a regrettable loss, because we lost some androids when we transported them through the gate.

55. That was the reason why we – despite first attempts with human beings, which all came off to our satisfaction – had to refrain from these attempts again, when for then indefinable reasons suddenly goods and then also three androids disappeared through the transmission gate again.

56. Only after a long time could the real faulty cause be found and eliminated.

57. Since then, however, the Transmission Gate has only been used for the transport of goods and artificial-organic life-forms in a test manner.

58. These tests will be completed this year, after which animals and human beings may and can also be transported through the Transmission Gate.

59. If that is the case, then we who are visiting you will also use this means of transport from Erra or from my wide-bodied flying apparatus.

...

Billy:

... But what about the beamships, can a transmission gate also be used by them, or do we still have to beam from them, like when Florena or Enjana come here?

Ptaah:

63. This will not yet be possible, but our technology is also being developed in this respect, so it will also be possible in this way in the foreseeable future.

64. However, the technology for this is still under development and should take several months.

Billy:

... So the four groups have been active for a very long time. This also explains all those UFO apparitions etc. that have taken place for a long time and are still happening today, and which have not yet been clarified from the earthly side. But what about the secret military flying objects of various countries, which you also mentioned; are they so futuristic and highly technical that they can be mistaken for extraterrestrial flying objects by the average citizen?

Ptaah:

54. That is undoubtedly the case.

Billy:

But then again a question in relation to these various secret flying objects of various states, which are also called UFOs and which can also be observed again and again by many people. Since you are concerned with the military interests of the earthlings, you should know which flying machines they are and which states construct them and let them buzz around.

Ptaah:

55. That is indeed so, yes.

Billy:

You let yourself be asked everything again before you say more. What kind of machines are they, and to which countries do they concern?

Ptaah:

56. To answer this openly would be against our directives on the one hand, and on the other hand it would be unwise, because it could lead to unpleasant machinations and hostilities among the different states.

57. It would also be dangerous to expose these things.

Billy:

While we are on the subject of the four groupings: This grouping of those foreign to Earth is obviously again and again allowing itself to be observed by the Earthlings, that is to say, their various flying machines are being seen again and again. At least, I assume that these observed flying objects belong to those foreign to Earth, don't they?

Ptaah:

20. These Earth-foreigners are indeed relatively often active worldwide, which is why their flight movements can also often be observed.

21. Apart from these Earth-foreigners flying apparatuses, however, there are also secret earthly flying apparatuses with strange constructions, which can also be observed sometimes.

22. These flying apparatuses, however, which we are now talking about, are a matter of concern to Earth-foreigners, who move in all airspaces around the world.

Billy:

They are also observed from time to time in Europe, sometimes shining down beams of light to the ground and making vehicles and the human beings shine. Just this week I was told of such a case in Germany, where a truck driver was suddenly blinded at night by such a flying object hovering over his truck and radiating a strong light, the light being, as the driver explained, extremely harsh, while in addition no sound could be heard from the object itself, so it was completely silent.

Ptaah:

23. We are familiar with such light patterns from silent flying apparatus on vehicles and human beings, as well as on buildings, animals and the ground, and they are typical of the Earth-foreigners I mentioned, about whom we have gained much more information since my last visit on the 9th of December.

24. This has been made easy for us thanks to our new technical equipment, although we run no risk of being noticed by these Earth-foreigners because their technology is still inadequate compared to ours in general.

25. And just as it has been up to now that they have not been able to detect and register our presence, it will also remain the same.

26. In those days when we made ourselves or our flying apparatuses visible for your photographic work or, exceptionally, sometimes also for group members so that photos could be taken, we always shielded ourselves from any other view, so that only a wedge of sight remained open from our flying apparatuses to the cameras.

27. The same was true for eye contact or normal observations, so that in this respect too only one wedge of sight to the eyes of the observers remained open and the flying apparatus was also shielded against any technical detection etc.

28. As a result, it was never possible for other observers, such as Earth-foreigners or Earth-humans other than those for whom we made ourselves visible, to see or locate our flying apparatus, and this will also continue to be the case.

Ptaah:

31. With regard to both these announcements, if it does not concern charlatantry, as unfortunately is often the case in such announcements, such as by falsifying pictures, how this can be done today and very easily without any major machinations with computers, which is also very frequently the case, or in order to simulate UFOs just for fun or charlatany by using hobby-based models of balloons, zeppelins and other flying devices, then probably unidentified flying objects can be spoken of, if they cannot be identified.

32. Natural phenomena as well as secret terrestrial-military flying devices also belong to UFO observations.

33. Next, however, the four foreign-to-us groupings must also be taken into account and considered, which could be responsible for UFO appearances.

...

37. In our point of view, the aforementioned foreign-to-Earth grouping is indirectly connected with many unidentified flying objects, which since time immemorial, have repeatedly appeared and have been observed on Earth and about which, also many records are noted in our annals.

38. The explanations are interesting which say that Earth-foreigners have been observed from our side in the terrestrial airspace for more than 5,000 years and ascertations were made regarding this, which are consistent with the observations made by us in the last few decades.

...

Billy:

... You've never said anything, as well as your daughter Semjase and Quetzal have never spoken of it, therefore the whole thing is completely new for me and I also knew nothing of it, that since time immemorial, so for more than 5,000 years at least, there was a foreign-to-Earth grouping. And that these probably stand perhaps directly or indirectly connected in some way with the Earth-strangers functionings around the Earth today, that really is a piece of news. ...

Billy:

Recently, various television programmes have been reporting on earlier UFO observations and also on various strange UFO encounters. To my knowledge, at least as you told me earlier, all these observations and encounters are not connected with you Plejaren in one single case.

Ptaah:

82. We on Earth have never been involved in such observations and encounters since ancient times.

83. However, we are well aware that incidents concerning observations and encounters have taken place in connection with Earth-humans and unknown flying objects or UFOs, as the common name is.

84. But we only know this since we have had the opportunity to do so in the last one and a half decades through the technology of the Sonaer.

85. Before that we were unfortunately deceived in many ways by many imaginative and imaginative Earth-humans through lies and deception as well as charlatanism and also fun.

86. Only with the technology of the Sonaer we were able to clarify that many Earth-humans, who reported alleged observations and encounters or even alleged contacts with Earth-foreigners, only told lies and charlatanism, as well as fraud with fake pictures and films.

87. Others, on the other hand, invented alleged experiences and even inflicted strange little injuries on their bodies, which they described as marks and signs etc. added to them by Earth-foreigners.

88. Many of these people were addicted to the desire for renown, as is also the case today, along with religious and sectarian motives and financial-profit motives.

89. But when Earth-humans have observed flying objects or UFOs unknown to them and encounters with such flying apparatus have taken place, and are still taking place around the world, then these refer today and in the future only to the four foreign groups and in no way to us, the Plejaren or our federated ones.

...

94. The reason why core-group and passive group members were able to take pictures of our flying apparatus was that we opened our screens wedge-shaped especially for them, so that the members could expose their films.

...

96. However, we only allowed such pictures from a certain distance, so pictures could never be taken in the quality you were able to take according to our instructions, in order to have proof of our existence and your statements.

97. But even in this way we were always careful that we could not be observed, so that there was also only a wedge-shaped channel of vision from the flying apparatus to your picture or film camera, and thus open to your eyes.

98. Accordingly, our flying apparatus could also not be observed by other persons, even if they were standing right next to you.

Billy:

What I would like to talk about officially, however, refers to the four groupings that function with their flying objects on Earth. You said recently during one of our private conversations that I was allowed to tell a lot about it when I was asked about it.

Ptaah:

24. That is correct, but only within the framework that no details are given which I have explained to you.

Billy:

I don't mean that either, because it's just that you know that at least two groupings definitely come from outside of our present, one of them being earth future and the other parallel space dependent. I don't want to say any more about it, but just that, and that's only because I'm asked again and again whether you really don't have any more information about it.

Ptaah:

25. Of course, we have more profound information, but our directives do not allow us to communicate it to Earth-humans.

26. If, however, you answer the questioner in such a way that one grouping refers to the future earth and another comes from a parallel space, then this information is allowed and does not reveal any important details.

...

Billy:

The questions have always mainly related to the observations of the unknown large flying objects that have been seen in Arizona and Belgium as well as in England and that yes – and I think this may be said – fall into the two groups mentioned.

Ptaah:

28. This may be said, but it should be mentioned that certain of the observed flying objects were also of absolutely terrestrial origin and, seen for the public, secret military aircraft.

Billy:

On Monday, I answered a letter question which I formulated as follows: Are the external shape and colour of the jet ships 100% determined in terms of use and do they not have to satisfy any aesthetic requirements? I have written the following to the questioner according to what I know from your explanations:

Now to your question concerning the outer (also inner) forms and colours of the Plejaren beam ships, which I can answer with the fact that they have no aesthetic background, because they are purely useful in every respect. The following may serve as an example: Some jet ships have a kind of metallic, wide, coloured and slightly wavy ring band at their outermost rounding (some also on the surfaces), which produces a change of colour depending on the type and density of atmosphere. Also the windows are of the same kind, because also these consist of a very hard metal, which is transparent on the one hand like glass, on the other hand however also according to the kind and density of the atmosphere the colour changes. In our earthly atmosphere and near the ground we get a red colour of the windows, but if we look from the inside to the outside we get a yellowish-green effect. As I was told, these colours determine the protection of the outer beam ship material, which in any case consists of a special, very hard and resistant alloy. The colours thus have an effective protective effect that spreads over the ship and the windows and repels any foreign bodies that may appear in the atmosphere of a planet and hit the beam ship. The colours also indicate the state of the atmosphere, etc., as I was told. So colours and shapes are purely useful.

Billy:

... Then I now have a question concerning your beam ships and other flying apparatuses, which can actually float as if weightless in the atmosphere and are not dragged by the gravity of the Earth, as your father Sfath already said. Can you tell me the reason for this in simple terms, unless this concerns a secret? If you are able to explain it in simple words, so that the whole thing can also be understood by the technically and physically uneducated human being, then it will be useful.

Ptaah:

6. In all our flying apparatus, an antigravity state is created for the outer hull, wherethrough it becomes as if 'weightless' for an external, that is to say planet-related gravitational force and thus does not have to withstand any force of attraction.

7. This, while in the interior area of the flying apparatuses a permanent and adapted to our living conditions gravitational force prevails.

8. Furthermore, our flying apparatuses generate an anti-gravitational force that is adapted to any external gravitational force, through which it is made feasible to neutralise the latter, wherethrough, from a standing position, very high speeds can be reached, without the passengers suffering harm, because they are protected by the inner gravitational state, consequently they are also not exposed to a gravitational pressure, as is the case, to the contrary, e.g., with human beings of Earth in relation to earthly vehicles, flying apparatuses, that is to say aircrafts and rockets, which are exposed to a gravitational pressure.

9. Therefore, with all our flying apparatus, as a result of our highly developed gravitational technology, there never comes about a gravitational pressure, just as you have experienced it yourself.

Billy:

... What I want to ask you now relates to the four groupings of which you have spoken on various occasions, whereby you were able to identify two definitely. But then there are still the other two, and what about them, have you also gained insights on them?

Ptaah:

10. That is so, yes, one relates to those foreign to the Earth and the other to earthly-human activities, to which I however do not want to give a more detailed explanation.

Billy:

Then a question regarding what you once told me, namely that in the United States there is a grouping resp. a secret organisation, that is very well concerned with the things about extraterrestrials and their flying apparatuses etc., but which, in terms of its machinations, knowledge and experiences, is, however, shielding itself not only from the public but also in relation to the US President and the senior rulers, so that they are all left in unknowledgeness and not informed. Is that still the case today?

Ptaah:

103. Yes, and this corresponds to an undisputable but extremely secret fact, whereby the responsible ones of this grouping are also anxious to deny and conceal their machinations, cognitions and experiences about non-terrestrials, the way these are given regarding non-terrestrial existences, activities, relations and incidents etc.

104. This grouping resp. secret organisation also poses a great danger to persons who make certain observations regarding so-called UFOs as well with regard to secret activities that originate from the grouping.

105. Particularly when observing persons want to get to the bottom of the matter and thus create elucidation, they run the risk of getting caught up in the cogwheels of the secret organisation and being gone after or even harmed – should it end with nothing but harming.

Billy:

What do you mean by “great danger”, must it be understood as danger to life and “disappearing from the scene”?

Ptaah:

106. That corresponds to what I mean.

Billy:

Aha, then we are, as in the past, back with the dark dressed ones {see Men In Black}, who also followed Gilgamesha. ...

Billy:

... Every object and everything, a planet or a flying machine resp. everything that has its own natural or artificial electromagnetism has its own magnetosphere, which means that on the one hand an attraction force and on the other hand also a repulsion force is given, whereby the latter is called 'Lorentz force' in our physics. Is this force decisive for the fact that you can accelerate your aircrafts in Earthly atmosphere with very high speeds, because the 'Lorentz force' works against Earth magnetism, or rather, puts it out of action in relation to your aircrafts, so to speak?

Ptaah:

18. That is correct, but I am not allowed to give further details, because it is forbidden by our directives.

{Sfath, 1947:}

12. The world space is also traversed by dark and mighty world space wanderers with great gravitational force, through which time streams are created, so that those who travel the world space can get into such time streams, although we are protected against their effects.

13. This is because our spacecrafts have their own gravitations and are therefore protected against external time influences – as well as against matter and radiation.

14. And we are also protected by our gravitational technique against the effects of speed, so that time does not slow down for us in the spacecraft when we move through space at very high speed.

15. And in order to compensate for the flow of time outside the spacecraft, which is caused by high speeds, we have a special technique of time travel, which allows us on the one hand to remain in the so-called normal time despite high speeds, but on the other hand also to travel into the past and future.

Billy:

... We have repeatedly spoken about the so-called UFOs and the four groupings that just turn around in Earthly space with 'unknown flying objects'. And to these four groupings belongs also the group of the 'Earth-future ones', which are however actually two groupings in themselves, as you already told me at the beginning of our contacts with private conversations. Your daughter Semjase, but also Quetzal and yourself talked about it, but it was never published in discussion reports, because it was always private. So it was not until more recent times, when you made certain observations and gained unambiguous insights and came to important evidence, that there was a halfway open discussion about it. I would now like to ask to what extent it is permitted to talk about this in an even more open way now, as well as with regard to the fact that the grouping of the 'Earth-future ones' actually corresponds to two groupings and why you call them so and only as one grouping, because they are actually two of them?

Ptaah:

...

48. And we call these groupings 'Earth-future ones' because the one grouping is effectively Earth-future or exists in the distant future on Earth and comes through time bridges into the present time.

Billy:

Excuse me, by time bridges you mean time-travel, as we say? In this case, the future Earth-humans are those Earthlings of the distant Earthly time who already live on Earth in the distant future and who, through the possibility of their time travel technique with their various small and large futuristic flying machines, have been coming into Earthly present since time immemorial and also into our present today. However, this is also done by the other group 'Earth-future ones', which has its state in a certain underground area of Earth, has a general futuristic technology and therefore also very highly developed aircraft. These aircrafts, which I call so in your sense, are an Earthly-technical development for today, which is completely futuristic resp. progressive, innovative, progressive, trend-setting, ahead of the present time and therefore trend-setting etc.. With regard to this second grouping, which you also call 'future Earth-humans', it must be said that these are not, however, descendants of extraterrestrials from the distant future of Earth, nor are they direct, but indirect, very distant descendants of extraterrestrials. These people live deep underground under Earth's surface, and with their futuristic flying machines they also turn around in Earth's airspace, as I already knew from Asket, because she had already initiated me in this regard in the 1950s, but she was ... spoke. Also your daughter Semjase, Quetzal and you explained a lot to me, but you always said that I shouldn't talk about it officially because it's not the time yet. It is mainly this group of the future that makes a name for itself again and again, especially in the western world. And this happens very often, and interestingly enough most often in the western hemisphere, which we call the geographically conceived western hemisphere with this term, as a counterpart to the eastern hemisphere or hemisphere. If I remember correctly, the two imaginary hemispheres are separated by the 0° reference meridian at Greenwich and the so-called antimeridian at 180°. Accordingly, the areas west of London, West Africa and the entire regions of North and South America, Patagonia, Greenland and Canada belong to the western hemisphere, where most sightings of various small and large and even gigantic UFOs or futuristic flying objects of the 'inner terrestrials' appear. Especially the UFO appearances in Arizona, in Belgium and in England, which were probably traced back to these 'Earth-future ones', caused a huge sensation in the worldwide media. I would be interested to know why these 'Earth-future ones' are so frequent in the western hemisphere and still are today, because in the eastern hemisphere such futuristic aircraft or UFOs are observed less often, i.e. in the majority of Europe, Asia, Australia, New Zealand and Oceania, which are counted to the eastern hemisphere. ...

Ptaah:

49. What you say is correct, and the reason why the inner terrestrial and also Earthly future 'Earth-future ones' operate especially in the western hemisphere is to be justified with this ..., about which, however, silence is required.

Billy:

But why, this is the question, do you call these inhabitants of Earth also 'Earth-future ones', of whom we have already spoken before and whom, with a few exceptions, you have always named only in this way, without giving an explanation? That is simply not clear to me, nor is it clear to me why you have never said anything more specific about it or defined the term exactly.

Ptaah:

50. The reason for our name 'Earth-future ones' is based on the fact that the entire technology of the inhabitants of Earth's interior state corresponds to a future Earthly technology, which will only find its beginning in the near future and also will only become reality in the distant future.

...

Billy:

All right, we don't have to talk about that, because you answered my question, so you don't need it anymore. Then again a question: Are the three that I have in ... I met, as well as the two in ..., so relatives of this ... what you call her by her real name? If so, then they live in the subterranean state structure in the area of ..., but they also go under the people on Earth's surface, but despite ... remain unrecognized or are replaced by the surface Earth objects in ... because they may know a lot about you.

Ptaah:

54. That is also true, but there is a duty of secrecy about it, because our directives do not allow us to officially divulge our findings, because it would inevitably result in warlike and conquering actions.

55. This would be the case if predictably and inevitably certain power-hungry statesmen of certain countries, with their military forces and secret services etc., were to break into the underground state structure in order to protect the far-reaching futuristic technology of the ... to get your hands on it.

Ptaah:

184. As members of our Federation, the Druans perform certain incidental activities for us, which are within the framework of also certain observations that are related to two of the Earth-foreigners.

...

Billy:

... You have already said several times that you no longer care about these Earth-foreigners and also no longer about the earthly groups that are always talking about themselves all over the world in terms of observations; but why do you do it recently nevertheless?

Ptaah:

188. Now that belongs in your 'trappings', which I am not allowed to state openly, as I said.

...

Billy:

What I am interested in now, though: If, as in 1983, the Druans let their ship appear as a mirror image somewhere, as it was 26 kilometres away from our centre as the crow flies, whereby the mirror image also appeared at an altitude of 36 kilometres, then I ask whether the ship is also visible at its location, from where the reflection is emitted, or not.

Ptaah:

190. Of course it is not visible because it has to remain invisible.

Billy:

Interesting, then the whole thing with the mirror image probably serves as camouflage and misdirection, so as not to be able to fathom and locate the actual location of the real ship, I think. Clever thinking and action.

Ptaah:

92. Another phenomenon of light phenomena is marsh gas, which is produced as a naturally occurring mixture of methane and carbon dioxide, usually in the marshes of swamps by fermentation of plant parts with the participation of bacteria.

93. However, it is also possible that swamp gases are formed over fields, floodplains, fields and meadows – which can also appear as luminous formations – where no swamp can be seen at first glance, but where one or more swamp bubbles exist somewhere underground, allowing the gas to escape upwards into the open air.

94. Another possibility of light phenomena is based on visible and moving, luminous spherical or disk-shaped electromagnetic light formations, which are very small but can also reach a size of more than one metre.

95. These luminous structures rise to a height of one or two metres, float around in irregular orbits, only to collapse and dissolve again, or rise high into the air and disappear.

96. The whole thing can be compared to ball lightning, as you know it from personal experience.

97. Other things concerning light phenomena and unknown flying objects around the worldwide crop circles are the result of Earth-humans and private pranks on the one hand, but also of military and espionage research achievements on the other hand.

Billy:

... But now I want to ask my questions, the first of which relates to your daughter Semjase's beamship, the corrugated iron beamship or washboard beamship. Semjase once told me that this was her personal beamship and that it was 300 years or so old and that she had owned it almost all her life.

Ptaah:

4. That is correct.

5. This beamship is a personal possession of my daughter Semjase, and she received it from me when she turned 14, and has also been piloting it ever since.

6. This beamship is a first model approved for interdimensional ranges in the known universe of the multiverse for youngsters.

7. This beam ship model was also equipped with special new techniques that also made it possible to reach into the past and the future, etc.

8. However, the basic model was more than 1,100 years old, but it was redesigned about 400 years ago and was also approved for youngsters.

Billy:

... But something else again: Sfath already said that you Plejaren do not come to Earth alone as Earth-foreigners, but you make yourselves invisible just as much as those others who go around the world in their ships. In your case I can understand this very well and understand your explanations for it, but why the others also do this is a mystery to me, which is why I want to ask if you know their reasoning.

Ptaah:

37. Not all of what can be observed in alien and unidentified flying objects in the global distance refers to Earth-foreigners or to Earth-future, because certain of these objects correspond to purely Earth-man-made and military-secret flying apparatuses.

38. However, as far as invisibility is concerned with regard to those others who are Earth-foreigners or Earth-future, we have no knowledge of this, because we do not maintain any contacts with them, nor do we endeavour to enter into such contacts with them.

39. Our interest is exhausted by trying to find out their origin, which we have not yet succeeded in doing.

40. I have also not been able to find anything so far that would indicate anything more than observations and explorations by these Earth-foreigners and Earth-future.

41. And as far as the secret military flying apparatus is concerned, our directives forbid us to openly mention any knowledge gained about it ...

Billy:

... But as far as Antarctica or the South Pole is concerned, which you are also interested in, Kolkos, I can tell you that Sfath, Ptaah's father, took me there as early as the 1940s – then Quetzal too in the 1980s – where they let me see many interesting things by diving with their beamships. ...

Billy:

... But now I have something that relates to your energy transmission, which I know that in your beamships, you, Ptaah, in your Giant Spaceship, as well as in all your various flying apparatuses and on Erra, you use in every way and for all necessities an electromagnetic resonance energy transmission that is practically limitless in its extension and is based on a technique that in some way touches the attometer realm. However, I can neither imagine nor understand anything about all this. Is it possible that you can explain something to me in this regard that would also bring progress for our earthly technology? The only thing that is clear to me is that in all your energy-using achievements you do not use any cable connections etc., as is necessarily the case with all earthly techniques today and is practically unavoidable. Florena and Enjana recently explained to me that through your electromagnetic resonance energy transmission – which you call something completely different and which also corresponds to something other than a simple wireless energy transmission – you can even transfer energy transmissions from Earth into your space-time structure or into your dimension over practically unlimited distances.

Ptaah:

127. In order to be able to explain this technique to you in detail and to make it understandable to you, you would need, on the one hand, many years of factual training, because the whole thing is futuristic for you too, in spite of all your knowledge, which does not refer to the things of wireless energy transfer.

128. On the other hand, your knowledge of electromagnetic technology reaches such a high level that its connections, possible uses and far-reaching forms would still be completely incomprehensible to Earth-humans.

129. But they could learn very quickly.

130. But if at the present time or in the near future they were capable of understanding this knowledge and using it, then a catastrophe would result, because all boundaries would be opened to them in universal breadth.

131. But this must never happen, for the prevailing attitude of the majority of Earth-humans towards their sinister and completely degenerated barbarism, as well as all the resulting malicious and pejorative attitudes and behaviour towards all life and every creation-given existence in general, does not permit such knowledge.

132. The rampant and far-reaching destructive, dangerous, insidious and sinister, as well as deceitful, vile and disgusting degenerations in Earth-humans, which are founded in ideologically shaped false and erroneous teachings in relation to a sectarianism based on religious faith, are absolutely geared only towards destruction, ruin and annihilation.

133. This fact results in our not being allowed to give clear and open information nor explanations to your question, because our directives do not allow an open explanation in this respect, for an announcement would be connected with a knowledge in regard to details which must not be officially mentioned, and this because they would push earth-technical progress too far and drive Earth-humans into a catastrophe which could not be stopped.

Ptaah:

130. We call the Earth-foreigners spoken of 'immature', 'primitive', as well as 'low-minded', 'cruel', 'inhuman' and 'unapproachable', calling them 'unfeeling', and, in our judgement, as uncompromising creatures and 'brutes', because they are of an inhumane disposition and behaviour, consequently dominated by contrary impulses with regard to humanity, compassion, empathy, peace and freedom, etc. are dominated by contrary impulses.

131. This is the reason for our strict restraint towards these Earth-foreigners, against whom we have always shielded ourselves from sight and from their analytical swinging waves and techniques in such a way that they can neither locate us nor perceive us in any other way, while we, on the contrary, can penetrate their flying apparatuses by vibration and observe and study them very closely.

132. I am therefore also very well informed that they are of an inhumane disposition and incapable of positive action in the sense of fulfilling nature-given creative laws and commandments or recommendations.

133. The technology necessary for this, which our early ancestors adopted more than 30 million Earth years ago from the Sonaern of the DAL creation area, was thus applied very early for the purpose of complete shielding from all Earth-foreigners on Earth, who truly correspond to 'immature' and 'primordial' and whose technology has been stagnating for a long time.

134. So even at the present time they are not sufficiently developed and not advanced enough for them to be able to locate or otherwise perceive us, even if we were standing right next to them at the shortest distance.

135. It is undeniable that their technology is very advanced, but they are still no match for ours.

136. Consequently, when we openly discuss all these facts since the beginning of our contact and mention our presence here on Earth and sometimes also make ourselves visible to Earth-humans with regard to an observation concerning our flying objects, it also follows that these Earth-foreigners are not and also will not be able to realise our presence.

137. This is because they cannot fathom our shielding technology and can neither locate nor otherwise perceive us even under the best of circumstances, for in spite of their high technical possibilities they are helplessly inferior to our still many times higher developments in every relation and respect.

Billy:

And our earthling secret service, military and other supervisors with their primitive, antediluvian techniques, radar apparatuses, the still secret and all other surveillance devices are even more so. But it is interesting what you say regarding Earth-foreigners' surveillance technology, but what about when Earth-foreigners can observe your beamships, isn't there a danger and possibility that these extraterrestrials will also pick up on it?

Ptaah:

138. There is no problem in this respect, for our technology is such that such sightings can only take place if the Earth-foreigners or Earth-future, as well as the secretive Earth grouping with the progressive flying apparatuses in South America, have no possibility whatsoever of locating or otherwise perceiving our flying apparatuses on a technical basis.

139. Our security technology is configured in such a way that an automatic fuse shields everything and makes it impenetrable to any kind of detection with regard to all possible swinging waves, but also with regard to light waves and energies, etc., which are directed towards our flying apparatus, other of our achievements or towards us as persons ourselves.

140. This is also the case when visual observation is made possible as a result of a screen opening, for even then no locating of any kind can take place, either by the Earth-foreigners or by any earthly technology.

141. And this is also the case when there is absolute certainty that we are present at a certain place.

142. So all our flying apparatus, as well as all our persons and all our achievements with regard to safety and freedom from localisation, are in every respect so perfectly developed that in every situation everything is always absolutely shielded from counter-vibration, and consequently no localisation or any other kind of perception can take place.

143. And this is because our security system neutralises any locating vibration of any form within a yocto-second, consequently we as a person, our flying apparatuses, achievements and swinging waves etc. are absolutely not locatable.

Billy:

I know this because your daughter Semjase has already explained this to me. It is not even possible to locate your life vibrations when one is standing close to you, because the vibrations are neutralised directly on the body and are therefore not radiated outwards, as is also the case with your beamships etc. So you have a neutralisation technique in your body. So you have a neutralisation technique with regard to locating vibrations, locating rays and locating light of all kinds, as well as with regard to all kinds of special locating energies, etc., consequently our earthly radar and other locating methods are no more than primitive kindergarten experiments for you. But that you have just mentioned the earthly grouping in South America etc., that irritates me a little, because up to now this was not allowed to be mentioned openly.

Ptaah:

144. You can call it that, as you have explained it.

145. But as far as my statement is concerned concerning the grouping keeping itself secret, it is now no longer necessary not to mention this, to which, however, I will give you a personal explanation later, which will be only for you.

Billy:

Good, then so be it. However, I have also experienced that this is the case, that your technique is absolutely perfect, as for example when you took me to the bear in Graubünden on the 16th of July 2005, the first bear to reappear in Switzerland in about 100 years. At that time, you attached a tiny pin to me, which shielded all my life vibrations, so that I could not be perceived by the bear either, and when I went up to him, he even touched me on my trousers without being able to perceive me. Nevertheless, as I know, it can happen that you let out swinging waves under certain circumstances.

Ptaah:

146. This is indeed the case, but only if there is absolute certainty that neither Earth-foreigners nor Earth-future are to be located within a certain safety radius.

147. Earthly life-forms, on the other hand, do not fall within this security perimeter, consequently they can sense certain swinging waves from our flying apparatus if they are not shielded.

Billy:

I see, that also explains to me some incidents where swinging waves have emanated from your beamships and unexpected things, happenings and situations have resulted.

Ptaah:

148. I am aware of that, also that unfortunately there have been disadvantages and damage as a result.

Billy:

Unfortunately, that was indeed the case, but it was the fault of the Earthlings concerned, because they ... But now I want to continue with what I was saying. Certain abductions of human beings from Earth for various purposes, and thus of course the corresponding contacts, which have taken place again and again since time immemorial, have always belonged to the behaviour of the old Earth-foreigners and Earth-future, as well as to the newer ones who fly in and out of Earth and back again. But the fact is – in spite of abductions, etc. – that none of these Earth-foreigners and Earth-foreigners have, up to the present time, conveyed any messages and the like to the Earthlings, precisely messages with regard to how they would have fallen, or would fall today, within the framework of the 'Teaching of Truth, Teaching of the Spirit, Teaching of Life' and thus within the sphere of the Nokodemion and my Mission. Likewise, like the Earth-foreigners, Earth-foreigners are at times to be observed in earthly space with their futuristic flying apparatuses, though the Earth-foreigners have just as nothing to do with them as you Plejaren have nothing to do with them, nor with the Earth-foreigners. You Plejaren yourselves have always shielded yourselves from the Earth-foreigners when you appear on Earth, who have also been working on Earth for a long time. And your shielding from them is such that you cannot be perceived by them in any way, neither visually, nor can you be located or registered by any apparatus. Your general Plejaren technology, so also space technology and space-time bridging technology etc., have been so highly developed for millions of years, through the help of the Sonaer from the DAL universe or the DAL creation, that the Earth-foreigners functioning on Earth have never been able to locate, detect or otherwise register any flying apparatus of Plejaren origin or also only any Plejaren activities since their existence in prehistoric times up to the present time. So the Earth-foreigners, who work on Earth and are observed again and again, have nothing to do with you Plejaren, just as you have nothing to do with the Earth-foreigners and Earth-future, whereby, as explained, you are in no way to be located, otherwise recognisable or registerable for them. Moreover, you did not and do not interfere in any way with any earthly political, military and economic concerns, but have endeavoured over all the past millennia to develop in many ways all fields of knowledge and development by transmitting impulses to certain scientists, inventors and researchers etc.

Ptaah:

149. That is correct.

Billy:

Good, then my question regarding the 'Phantom Airship Wave 1896-1897', after which I asked you to clarify what it was about.

Ptaah:

99. There is not much to say about this, but only a little, namely that these were demonstrative manoeuvres of Earth-foreigners who have been working on Earth since time immemorial and whose present descendants are also still here today and can be observed again and again all over the world.

...

102. For our part, with the help of the Sonaer, we have recently fathomed their technology and many of the possibilities etc. that arise from it, and have come to the realisation that these Earth-foreign entities are in fact still the same in their mentality and in their ways of acting and behaving etc. as they were recognised by our early ancestors as dangerous to us Plejaren.

103. Dangerous precisely in the sense that this danger also exists for us through Earth-humans, that we would lapse into the old forms, such as were still peculiar to our ancestors more than 52,000 years ago – our years are approximately identical with earthly years – with regard to extremely evil degenerations in mentality, action and behaviour.

104. Even after 52,000 years we are still in danger of relapsing into the old degenerate forms, as a result of which we can fall from the good and positive to the evil and negative in every respect.

105. And in this connection it must be explained that this backsliding is given in the human life-form – as you yourself know and also teach – as long as it still possesses a physical or material body.

...

108. And with regard to our directives, these also actually ensure that we are spared from relapses into old behaviours, actions, deeds and into a degenerated mentality.

109. In accordance with our senses and aspirations and our directives, we cannot and must not enter into any contact with Earth-humans and Earth-foreigners and also not make ourselves recognisable to them.

Billy:

... But now I have another question, regarding the many sightings of unknown flying objects around the world, which have been observed again and again for centuries. This was particularly the case in the last century, as well as in the new millennium, but I must not forget the Foo Fighters during the last world war, nor the objects that we have been able to observe here in the Centre over all these years and also at the present time, but which were not from you. The question is whether you Plejaren ever had anything to do with all the other objects that have been observed again and again around the world? I am thinking particularly of the objects that were observed in the USA, in South America, throughout Europe – and specifically the triangular objects that became known in Belgium – but also in 1976 in Persia, where the military pilot Jafari Parvic and in 1984 or so in Peru the military pilot Oscar Santa Maria chased after the objects.

Ptaah:

15. No, we Plejaren never had anything to do with it, because without exception these flying apparatuses observed everywhere – called UFOs by Earth-humans – did not belong to us, but to the aliens who have been working on Earth since time immemorial.

16. If we could be observed and photographed, then we deliberately allowed this to happen only to members of your groups or to persons who were friends of yours, while we specially commissioned you to take pictures and films of our flying apparatus.

17. In doing so, we were also always careful that the strangers could not gain any knowledge of this and make absolutely no observations, because we did not want to give any encouragement for them – as we do not now and will not in the future – to record our presence, because we do not want to endanger our homeland and therefore we are not allowed to make any contact with the strangers.

18. Establishing contact with any strangers always means insecurity and danger, even if a good relationship is established under certain circumstances, because all life-forms are susceptible to overt or subterranean indoctrination, as a result of which a great deal of harm can come about.

19. Under certain circumstances, connections can also result from contacts that can lead to attacks, conquests and wars, which is why our directives forbid us to make contact with the aliens working here on Earth or even to make ourselves recognisable to them.

20. If we were to make ourselves recognisable to them in any way, then on the one hand we would violate our directives, on the other hand we would run the risk of betraying our space-time structure and thus also our homeland and, in addition, under certain circumstances we would relapse into the old behavioural patterns of our early ancestors due to the influences of the strangers.

21. We Plejaren are also human beings and still burdened in our deepest character with unpleasant impulses, even though we have been making great efforts for more than 52,000 years to work them out and to dissolve them, but this takes a very, very long time and always means that there is a danger that through indoctrinating influences of other mentalities, in one case or another, relapses into the old patterns of behaviour could occur.

22. This is fundamentally the fact of our strict restraint in every respect towards foreigners.

23. What you asked about the flying objects of all kinds and sizes of the aliens, which have been observed by Earth-humans again and again for centuries, even in the present time and also by you in the Centre and by members of the Association everywhere, that therefore never had and never has anything to do with us Plejaren, because we have no connection whatsoever with the aliens.

24. It is true that they have a very high level of technology, but it cannot be compared with ours and is still very much in need of development.

25. This does not mean, however, that their mentality is also at a higher level of development, which, according to our long-term research, is not the case either.

26. In the end, it must be said once again that all observations of unknown flying objects, etc., since all times – as is also the case at the present new time – can only be traced back to the strangers with whom we have no contact whatsoever and who are also unable to perceive our existence and presence.

27. Our highly developed technology denies them any possibility of being able to locate us in any way or perceive us in any other way.

...

Billy:

... also deliberately false results of the acquired knowledge are disseminated to the public. This is also the case with regard to official, secret service, military and air traffic disclosure lists concerning observed unknown flying objects or UFOs worldwide, because in total only about 10% have been disclosed to the public to date. ...

Billy:

... But one more question: What about when I leave, because a few days ago we talked about the strangers, and you clearly said that you would not let them locate you. How is it then, if you appear here in my office or somewhere else or go away again, which would also be like this with me? Somehow, when you come and go, there is a small dimensional gate through which you can pass, and I wonder if the foreigners – you used to call them Earth-foreigners – cannot detect this, because there are energies involved that are certainly detectable, or?

Ptaah:

28. Of course it is correct that energies are important, but as we know, the foreigners cannot detect them because they are of a completely different nature than all those who exist in this space-time structure and in its past and future.

29. The energies we use correspond to far higher values and are therefore also not perceptible with any techniques from this space-time present as well as its past and future, which is also the reason why the strangers cannot locate us in any way.

30. I am also unable to detect our present here, because we use the same kind of energy for our personal protection, to be protected against sight and to be imperceptible in every way through our physical, psychological and consciousness swinging waves.

...

33. The energy I referred to, its use and the Protection Technique were given to our early ancestors by the Sonaern some 27 million years ago when first contact with them occurred in the DAL Creation.

Ptaah:

23. Eduard, dear friend, with regard to the observance of the directives, this also concerns, for example, everything around the Earth-foreigners, the future ones and the earthly ones, who have always appeared with their flying apparatuses since ancient times, are doing so at present and will continue to do so.

24. Neither about the Earth-foreigners and Earth-future ones nor of the Earthly ones was exact information found in the annals {of Sfath}, just as no information was contained therein with regard to many of your questions.

25. This was also true with regard to abductions of Earth-humans by Earth-foreigners, whereby such abductions were foreign to us, because we have always not cared about them, and never made ourselves recognisable to them, and only in the course of the years were able to clarify these things through your questions, and so on.

26. And we did not let ourselves be recognised by them all because already at the beginning of my father's annals it was clearly warned against ever coming into contact with the Earth-foreigners and the future ones, just as we should also never penetrate into the direct range of their flying apparatus.

27. Likewise, he warned in his annals not to come into contact with the earthlings and with their equally futuristic flying apparatus, just as we are also to keep away from all their underground bases and underwater stations.

28. And that my father has recorded much in his annals, but has also warned us against contacting the aliens, who probably also do not maintain contact with each other or have no knowledge of each other, as it seems to us, but there is no mention of this in the annals.

29. The fact is that three groupings of aliens are on Earth, and that all the occurrences and certain related occurrences that have taken place since time immemorial and the appearance of innumerable unknown flying objects of alien life-forms correspond to reality.

...

47. But just as we have restrained ourselves with regard to your person, so we have also done in other respects, such as, for example, towards the Earth-foreigners and rare Earth-future beings, who since time immemorial have made themselves known on Earth again and again with their flying apparatus, just as the earthly powers in this respect have also done.

...

Billy:

... and also I may still reveal to you a few things in relation to the three different forces, as you call the strangers, that are circling around in earthly airspace.

{Billy}:

UFO sightings have been innumerable around the world since time immemorial, with such observations largely effectively traced back to flying objects that are the result of the various groupings of aliens that reside on Earth.

Otherwise, many observations can be traced back to some kind of earthly-natural phenomena, which can be extremely diverse and which are also referred to as UFO sightings.

Furthermore, sightings can also be purely earthly-fabricated futuristic flying objects, which are referred to as UFOs due to their modern or unusually alien forms, simply as Unknown Flying Objects.

... What it means that there are three different groups whizzing around in the earthly airspace, I can say that on the one hand the traditional Earth-foreigners, on the other hand the Earth-future are meant, while the third group are Earthlings with their futuristic vehicles, but I am not allowed to say more about that ...

Billy:

... lately I have been receiving UFO reports by telephone, e-mail and also in writing from all over the world, about some strange flying objects being observed for up to 15 or 20 minutes, passing by one after the other like a long chain high in the sky, and completely silent. I am sometimes allowed to publish these reports of sightings, while other observers, both men and women, wish me to keep quiet about them and not to disclose their reports or names. Obviously it is about those unknown flying objects, which we have talked about together several times, because you also have these UFO phenomena or UFO activities in your focus and you have told me various things about it, also in relation to what the reason for the whole of these UFO operations actually is or what the ultimate background for it is and what is intended with it in the end.

Ptaah:

53. I also told you to keep quiet about that and not to make any statements about it when asked.

Billy:

I also adhere to this, Ptaah, for I do not pass on a word of what you have explained to me, what you have just investigated concerning the origin of these flying objects, which are 'UFOs' for the earthlings. I am also silent with regard to your explanations of the tasks, aspirations and purposes as well as the meanings of these 'UFOs' and their increased flights, etc., which you have found out with your much higher technical possibilities than are proper to the satellites and fellow satellites of this grouping. What I have answered in each case was only related to the fact that these flying objects do not belong to you Plejaren and in no way correspond to your Plejaren techniques. These are satellites, which according to your information, despite their higher earthly technology, are still extremely primitive, just like the objects of the other two groups, which are also still very poorly developed compared to your technology. Consequently – as you explain again and again – these two foreign groups with their 'UFOs' are also not able to locate you Plejaren, your presence and your beamships, and just as they, at least the one in spite of their higher earthly technology, are also not able to perceive and therefore not able to determine that they are being observed, investigated and 'screened' by you in their secret machinations. And that you are only allowed to tell this realisation to me in confidence and obliged to silence, I can fully understand, because ...

Well, various telephone calls and letters from different persons from Germany, Austria, Switzerland, as well as from England, Belgium, the Netherlands, the Czech Republic and Poland, etc., contain questions as to whether these persons are in fact the same as the others. These telephone calls and letters include questions as to whether these observed 'UFOs'/objects are Plejaren beamships, which I of course always deny, as I have already said, which is effectively true, because the observed 'UFOs' are in no case flying objects from you Plejaren, but on the one hand earthly vehicles as well as satellites and flying apparatuses of other origin.

The observed earthly 'UFOs'/objects, which are only called such because they are also unknown to the observers – who have nothing to do with the satellites –, belong on the one hand to a special grouping, about which I am not supposed to give any information, while on the other hand further observations refer to another and moreover traditional grouping in a completely different context. I have also been receiving reports of sightings of these for decades, whereby these 'UFOs'/objects, however, refer to a traditional grouping that has been circling around in the earthly skies for a long time, i.e. already in the last century and the century before last, and partly even much longer ago. They are still doing so today, causing fear in some earthlings and euphoria in others, especially when they are generally misled about this grouping by their own fantasies. About the other grouping, however, precisely those whose 'UFOs', as they are called by the ignorant observers, I am not supposed to explain anything in detail, because on the one hand you advise me against it for good reasons, on the other hand – well, because for another reason it would also be irresponsible to say anything, irresponsible in fact towards my security, which I am not supposed to put at risk anymore, as you said. So I just keep quiet and let the earthlings wonder one day.

What the UFO fairy lights are really about, which stretch across the night sky, that can well be explained and said, but you have obliged me to keep silent about what the ultimate purpose will be in reality, when ... And if we talk somewhat mysteriously about these 'UFOs'/objects and their operators as well as about this grouping itself, which is connected with these objects, then this may appear mysterious to outsiders, although it is not mysterious, but it would not be good for me personally to say anything more about it, but simply to let it be known that the earthlings will still be surprised when ... But perhaps you could say something about it, which may be said and which is also openly circulating on the Internet. The unpleasant things that the earthlings will be surprised about one day do not have to be mentioned. But if you can perhaps say something more about it?

Ptaah:

54. I can do that, because officially the convoys of lights in the night sky are objects that correspond to a so-called Starlink project of the US space company SpaceX under Elon Musk and Gwynne Shotwell, as part of a planned world-spanning satellite network that is to provide comprehensive internet access in the USA from mid-2020, but will then also be used worldwide in 2021.

55. The purported objective of SpaceX's Starlink project is to create a global broadband internet belt around the Earth, to be assembled on a fleet of between 12,000 and 42,000 satellites.

56. What will ultimately become of all this, however, would be unpleasant, although in this respect there are only concrete ideas but no firm plans as yet, which, however, according to our view of the future in this respect, make it clear what will develop out of all this, namely exactly what I have explained to you and about which you are to remain silent.

57. 2 years ago I confided in you that such satellites would be placed in relatively low orbits around the Earth and that they would receive data from ground stations and transmit them to each other by laser.

58. To this I also explained that for the time being this satellite network is to provide wide area fast and at the same time low cost internet access in the USA, but that if the whole enterprise can be carried through to the end and completed to the last, something very unpleasant will result from it, as I explained to you privately on the 1st of January 2017.

Ptaah:

... But the projections were also chosen because a strong insolation from the beamships would have destroyed the trees, whereas such an action would be contrary to our directives and is therefore not allowed, because these directives tell us that we have to protect all genera and species of life-forms and only take defensive action against them when there is an effective necessity to do so. But such a necessity never existed in the film and image project work, consequently projections were carried out.

Billy:

I can understand that, but you are using a term to explain a destruction of the trees, which I actually only know from physics and which cannot be explained as simple radiation. 'Insolation' is the term I am referring to, and I do not understand what insolation has to do with radiation in relation to the beamships. If you can please explain it to me in simple terms, because I cannot make sense of it with the best will in the world, because the beamship is not a sun and also not visible like one and does not radiate heat.

...

Ptaah:

... What you say is correct, for the radiation of our flying apparatus is a sun-like heat radiation which is produced at certain moments and has a dangerous and destructive effect on everything if a flying apparatus comes too close or even directly into contact with any living thing. But since you have not been enlightened in this respect, you cannot also know that various of our flying apparatuses, like that of my daughter Semjase at that time, were necessarily still effective in terms of heat radiation. This means that our flying apparatuses, which we still used 40 years ago in earthly airspace, were equipped with heat radiators on their outer hulls, which produced a temperature of 276 degrees heat. This corresponded to a precautionary measure by which all poisonous gases in the finest aggregate states, which were floating in the Earth's atmosphere, and which are still present today and will be in the future, were neutralised and burnt around our flying apparatus, so that they could not adhere to the outer hulls and become a health hazard to us if they were to dissolve again in our hangars and we inhaled them. ...

...

The toxic fine gases in the atmosphere, which are just as unknown to earthly physics as the fact that they settle on everything material, just as it would have been directly on the outer shell of our flying apparatus, could have endangered our health if we had come into contact with them, consequently we eliminated them by thermal radiation. And this radiation was also dangerous for all living beings, so my daughter Semjase was not allowed to come into direct contact with those trees which were used for the purpose of film and image work and which were consequently projected. Our technology in the flying apparatuses produced a heat radiation which has the same effect as solar radiation on the surface of living things of every kind and species, but only more intensely and therefore dangerously and destructively. You know that if we start from solar radiation, the insolation forms the flux that falls on a part of objects and irradiates them. ...

...

Billy:

When I told Semjase all about Mr. ...'s request, she somehow enjoyed it and agreed, explored the place in Maiwinkel from where he and I were to take the film and photographs. She also told me to explain to him, which I of course did, that he and his colleague could rest assured that their beamship could not be observed by the population, because for our cameras, for us and for the pilot she would only open a viewing wedge, as she often did, so that the beamship and everything around it could be seen, filmed and photographed normally, but outside these two viewing wedges the beamship was not visible. As I said, Semjase had already done this on other occasions. ...

Bermunda:

That was really no problem, because I can clarify such things in my flying apparatus, because all your conversations with any of us are stored in every apparatus original verbatim, which are recorded on this planet in connection with you since the beginning with Sfath, and not only thousands of conversations, but millions. With Sfath's voice, however, only as far as his records have been processed, which means that there is still much work to be done before they can all be recorded in our flying apparatuses that are used in connection with you. So every word that you or any of us have spoken is recorded. This also concerns your notes or your written works that you have produced, which have been recorded as originals and can be retrieved at any time. ...

Billy:

This also made the whole thing with that part of the foreigners, the ones from ..., unnecessary, that a contact should be attempted with them, who have been circling around in the Earthly skies since time immemorial, but who have never been able to detect your presence, and indeed still not up to today, although your ancestors came to Earth some 25 million years ago and you can still come here unrecognised from them and do your work. It is quite something that you Plejaren have been able to move and stay away from the foreigners in such an unrecognised manner for 25 million years, by which I mean those foreigners who ..., and who, according to your explanations, came from ... The other foreigners, we can leave them out, because ...

...

Both the earthlings are keen on your technology, which also includes the second group of foreigners, as well as the foreigners from ..., who could optimise their highly developed technology in such a special manner that they could locate things that are still unlocatable even for them, get hold of you, copy your technology and then unexpectedly penetrate into your dimension. As it is now, however, their aeroblitzers remain UFOs, which, however, certain Americans ... This, however, is of course disputed, denied and kept secret, just like, of course, the military, secret service and governmental machinations, which would be so monstrous for the ordinary citizen that, if he/she knew, they would pull out all their hair or kill themselves.

Billy:

But what is also to be said, beyond the faith in mendacious religions, is that many earthlings are so arrogant and overbearing that they hold the insane view that they are unique and alone in the whole universe, which is why they also deny the foreigners and their flying apparatuses, the so-called UFOs resp. Unknown Flying Objects, or simply silently doubt their existence. Although the excitement about them has largely died down in recent years, now and then I am asked about them by all kinds of human beings from all over the world, as a result of which I have to deal with them. Unfortunately, I am not allowed to give information about what it is all about, where the foreigners with their UFOs and their occupants come from, what they actually are and want, because in doing so I would not only endanger myself and everything around me, but also you Plejaren. You also shield yourselves from the foreigners, as we call them, because you must not be discoverable for them. The reasons for this should be understandable to all those inquirers who think things over and think for themselves, consequently they can work out for themselves what would happen if you Plejaren could be located by the UFO occupants.

Billy:

... But this, this is again from Yasuhiro – again photos that he takes and doesn't want to understand that these 'orbs', as they are called, are nothing more than different sized balls of natural gas that float up from or through the Earth. The origin is that there is bubbling magma in the Earth resp. underneath the mantle, which is about 600 kilometres thick, which of course also produces gases that penetrate upwards to the Earth's surface. This has nothing to do with volcanism, where lava is ejected through fissures in the earth or volcanoes and gases are also released. However, as I learned from Sfath and also saw for myself, gases are also simply propelled up to the earth's surface from the depths of the planet, which then move like balls of mist, hovering above the earth's surface until they dissolve in the atmosphere and disappear. The same thing happens as I was able to observe in the canton of Aargau in the 'Turbenmoos', as it was called at that time, because the same phenomena occurred in the moor there, except that it was not Earth gases from the depths of the Earth, but moor gases. At that time, these gas lights were simply called 'will-o'-the-wisps'. Orbs', however, are the natural gas phenomena that look like these photos of Yasuhiro, who has been harassing me for years, claiming that they are the 'souls' of the deceased. Many 'orbs' occur especially in the areas of the 'ring of fire', Japan being part of it, so this is not only an earthquake area, but also underground gases drift up and appear as 'orbs' and as transparent gas balls that can be photographed.

{Note: See also Contact Report 478:81-84 regarding "orbs" which are another type of "Rods" ("bio-organisms of electromagnetic form").}

Vincent van Gogh death

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vincent\_van\_Gogh#Death

Billy:

Then a question about the Dutch painter Vincent van Gogh. He was a maniac and plagued by depression. He is said to have killed himself, was reported earlier, but today this is denied by forensicists who say that everything indicates that he was murdered. According to testimonies, Van Gogh dragged himself back to his accommodation, seriously injured, where he was questioned by the police, including whether he had sustained the gunshot wound himself, to which he is said to have replied: "I think so". That does not seem to me to indicate that he did it consciously, because he might have been in some kind of delirium and didn't know how he got shot. Anyway, I don't think it sounds like murder or suicide to my ears. Something just can't be right about the whole thing. ...

...

Ptaah:

29. Everything is based on empty and false assumptions, which are very unfortunate.
30. The fact is that van Gogh neither committed suicide nor was he murdered because the incident was the result of an unfortunate accident.
31. My father Sfath clarified the matter at the time and found that Vincent van Gogh suffered not only from the onset of insanity, but also from a strong persecution mania, which was the reason why he obtained a weapon and always carried it with him in a hidden way.
32. On the 27th of July 1890, when he went out to the surroundings of the village in which he had found shelter, he set up his easel, to which he had attached a small self-made tray, and placed his weapon on it so that it could be quickly at hand should someone attack him.
33. What then happened was that the gun had a misfire and the bullet hit van Gogh as he stepped carelessly in front of the barrel of the gun, explicitly at the moment the misfire occurred.
34. So he did not want to kill himself, but the whole thing resulted from an unfortunate coincidence based on carelessness.

Billy:

That probably explains his answer, "I think so," when he was questioned by the police. The handguns at that time weren't foolproof yet, so it's easy to imagine that van Gogh's gun suddenly had a misfire or self-ignition and the shot went off, which hit him, which he died of almost 30 hours later.

Semjase:

39. The Flood 10,079 years ago (related to the year 1975) was caused by a gigantic comet, which has already caused a lot of damage and has been traversing the universe since time immemorial.
40. We call it the "Destroyer", and we know that it has already been racing through outer space for millions of years.
41. According to your calculation of time, this dangerous comet has an orbital period of 575½ years and in the year 2255 of your calculation of time it will again enter the realm of the Earth in a very dangerous way, unless its orbit is changed or even destroyed by some cosmic circumstances or by our planned efforts. ...

46. The last major catastrophe that emanated from this comet was about 3,500 years ago, as I have already mentioned.
47. To be precise, it was 3,453 years ago according to your calculation of time.
48. Due to this comet, an event took place, which is very rare in the universe, namely a planetary transplantation:
49. By the monstrous Gewalt of this giant comet, a planet, just developing life in a very distant planet system of the SOL system, was flung out of its orbit and driven out into the outer space, in a trajectory parallel to that of the destructive giant comet.
50. For more than 130 years this planet then trailed far behind the giant and deviated only infinitely slowly from its path.
51. Then, 3,453 years ago, the Destroyer penetrated the terrestrial solar system and brought the planetary orbits into disorder by its gigantic forces. ...
60. The comet, however, shot through the terrestrial solar system and raced around the Sun again off into the outer space to return in 575 ½ years.
61. But the slower following planet, carried along in its wake, which was about the same size as the Earth, shot past the Earth at a distance of about 600,000 kilometres and was captured by the attraction force of the Sun.
62. By its tremendous power, it forced the new planet into an orbit between its closest satellites, namely between Mercury and the Earth.
63. And since then, this "transplanted" and "immigrated" planet has been known to the Earth-humans, and s/he calls it "Venus."

Semjase:

74. Millions of years ago a giant dark star in another space-time configuration destroyed half a planetary system in many light-years distance from the earthly system.
75. After the destruction of that distant system, the wanderer rushed out into the vastness of space, entered the space-time structure of the Milky Way of the DERN universe, and set course for Earth.
76. By large and small planets and by the Sun it was forced into a new course, which consequently had to bring it again and again into the SOL system.
77. Known as the Destroyer, it stubbornly followed its new course and over the course of millions of years created a firm path for itself.
78. But this orbit often led the Destroyer uncontrollably to planetary systems or other wandering stars or comets, which were pushed off course by its gigantic size or attracted by its attraction and destroyed or abducted.
79. This also happened only a few thousand years ago when this gigantic Destroyer tore an object into its tow and brought it many millions of kilometres outside of the Earth's range, to the earthly planetary system.
80. The destroyer itself passed very far out of Earth's range, while the object in tow, however, came dangerously close to Earth and caused devastating disasters.
81. The whole solar system got into disorder at that time, and all planets were pushed into new orbits.
82. But the harmony destroying object was forced into an orbit between Earth and Mercury by the gravity of the large planets and the Sun and was unable to leave the system.
83. And as the brightest planet of the SOL-system, the dragged object orbits the Sun since then and is called Venus by the Earth-humans.
84. This event, when Venus was introduced into the terrestrial solar system, took place thousands of years ago.
85. Due to the events of that time, the planet was steered into a very quiet orbit, thus it has one of the least eccentric orbits.

86. This is the actual consequence of the very close flyby of the Earth at that time, which also influenced the rotation time of the planet Venus.

87. Due to the gravity of the Earth, the invading Venus was torn around and began to rotate retrograde.

88. And as a consequence of the very short transit time through earthly gravity, the rotation of the intruding planet [the future planet Venus] could not increase again, so that it attained only an extremely slow rotation time and thus has the slowest rotation time of the whole solar system.

89. Thus a day on Venus lasts 117 earthly days, whereby the rotation time around the 3 degree inclined axis of the poles amounts to 243 Earth days.

90. The Earth's gravity robbed Venus of its own rotational energy during its passage thousands of years ago, and a very large frictional heat was generated. ...

Semjase:

55. Venus was torn out of Uranus' system by the gravitational-pull effect of the Destroyer and by various other factors and drifted on the Destroyer's trajectory, in its wake, so to speak, apart from the fact that the comet giant was much faster and left its appendage far behind.

56. When Venus was torn out of the system of Uranus, it was very slow in its initial speed.

57. This happened about 8,590 years ago from the present time, i.e. during a Destroyer passage through the SOL system, before it had reached the constant of 575.5 years again.

58. In this run, the orbit of the comet was 632 years, 57 years above the constant of 575.5 years, which is so puzzling to us.

59. Venus moved on an extremely slow elliptical orbit away from its original system and made a dangerous orbit between the other planetary systems, and thus also around the central sun and the system sun.

60. This orbit paused Venus until 7,957 years ago, thus over 632 years [cycle duration], when the Destroyer came again and changed its orbit again and brought it on course towards Earth, while the giant itself came into dangerous proximity to the Earth and caused violent destruction and flooding. ...

62. Through these events, the Destroyer once again changed its orbiting time and went through the SOL system on the next run, without causing any damage, passing very far away from the Earth.

63. Already at the next passage, however, it had the constant of 575.5 years again, namely 6,906 years ago, and again Venus got into its orbit and changed its course again, but now so much that it got into orbit near the Earth and around the central star.

64. It stayed there until 4,058 years ago, when it was affected in its orbit again during the next passage of the Giant comet. ...

66. Torn from its previous course, Venus now took a course that slowly but surely had to lead directly to Earth, which actually happened.

67. Exactly 3583 years ago, Venus had reached a very slow orbit, which would have led to Earth even without another appearance of the Destroyer.

68. But then, 3453 years ago, the Destroyer, which had regained the 575.5-year constant, came back, shot past the planet that was constantly thrown out of orbit at a distance of a few hundred thousand kilometres and finally tore it into its orbit, which Venus now inevitably and finally had to bring to Earth.

69. After a short time, the Destroyer shot past the Earth, in its wake Venus, which came very close to the Earth and caused the Santorini catastrophe. ...

Billy:

That is more than grandiose, but now tell me, since when has Venus been in its current orbit?

Semjase:

78. That is included in my explanation:

79. After passing near the Earth, it was channelled into its present orbit.

Billy:

Oh, yes, of course. One thing is not yet clear to me about the whole thing: You have now talked about planetary systems on several occasions, but I have noticed that in our SOL system you talk about several planetary systems, for example a planetary system of Uranus. On the one hand, this is a question that I wanted to ask you anyway, but on the other hand it is also a question in response to your recent remarks on the subject, because I do not fully understand all that. We are here in the SOL system, and we do not have any planetary systems other than our individual planets here.

Semjase:

80. You see things from the wrong perspective:

81. A planetary system is described as such when a large planet has smaller planets gathered and orbiting around it.

82. The SOL system, however, is called this because SOL is the central sun and thus forms a whole system with all connected planetary systems.

83. You can see from this that any major planet with a minor planet orbiting this planet is called a planetary system with the minimum number of one, which is called a planetary system by us, while a central sun has at least one such planetary system orbiting it.

84. Such a central sun usually has a certain name for all human life forms, like your central sun is called SOL for example, while you also name the planetary systems like Jupiter or Mars, etc.

85. But SOL means that this is a central sun, a sun that has gathered several smaller planetary systems around it.

86. All other planets or large planets belonging to this central sun are called planetary systems if they have at least one smaller planet of their own orbiting them, because for the smaller planets the large planet holding them is the mother system.

87. So their sun is the shining one, the shining one and the mothering one.

Billy:

Man, oh, man, now I have made a mess. You know, you should have told me that before, because those things led to misunderstandings. According to your explanation, Jupiter and Saturn, for example, are planetary systems, right? And the planets of the planetary systems are probably the moons, right?

Semjase:

88. Sure, that is so.

Billy:

Man, oh, man, that is what is causing trouble. We do not call these planetary systems, but simply planets. A system according to us is a sun, a SOL, which has different planets of different or uniform size, regardless of whether they still have their own satellites.

Semjase:

89. This is very illogical, but according to your values, you may go along with it. ...

Billy:

... But again a question concerning the planetary systems that the Destroyer hastens through: What do they mean? Are they somehow planetary systems of other fixed stars?

Semjase:

97. No, not at all.

98. When I speak of distant planetary systems in connection with the comet, I mean the distant systems of the SOL system, because other fixed stars outside the SOL system cannot be reached by the Destroyer in its orbit because they are much too far away.

Billy:

So you really mean only our planetary systems like Uranus, Neptune, Jupiter and Saturn, etc.?

Semjase:

99. Certainly, I am not talking about any other systems than these, according to your terms, planetary systems of the SOL system, if you understand it better that way.

Billy:

Today, I first have a question about your space-time configuration, which is practically another dimension, but which is equally directed to ours and, therefore, is therefore equally material. Our universe is called the DERN universe, how is it with our dimension and your dimension, what do you call these?

Quetzal:

1. We denote your dimension with the term Goran, while we call ours Siras.

Billy:

Aha, and these two dimensions, respectively these two different space-time configurations, are materially identical in their buildup and existence?

Quetzal:

2. That is of correctness.

Billy:

And as it stands with the Destroyer, then, it would also have to consist of matter, as this is also existent in our space-time configuration, right?

Quetzal:

3. That is also of correctness.

Ptaah:

613. Your assumption is correct, because my daughter did not give any information about an event, so that the events around the entry of Venus into today's orbit were not completely explained. There was already another planet in its current orbit. ...

614. Yes, a planet with a diameter of 6,100 kilometers orbited the sun on today's Venusian orbit.

615. It collided with the destroyer and was thrown from its orbit directly towards the sun, torn into it and destroyed.

Billy:

Then it dissolved into gases, so to speak, while Venus took it or a similar orbit around the sun, and has been orbiting our mother star ever since.

Ptaah:

616. So it happened.

Billy:

Then the planet was about twice as big as our Earth moon, or in other words, it was about half as big as the Earth.

Ptaah:

617. You can make these comparisons, yes.

Billy:

You could also say that it was about 1/7 smaller than Mars.

Ptaah:

618. That's also true.

Billy:

So, did you have a name for this planet, too?

Ptaah:

619. In our records it is called Skill. ...

620. ... skill means nothing other than 'desolation' in the sense of the language evaluation handed down to us.

Ptaah:

731. Today's planet Venus, as it is called by Earth-humans, is still a very young planet, only 3.04 billion years old, although the uppermost layers of the planet's surface are only 976 million years old.

732. This is because they were and are formed by the ancient, permanent and still present volcanism of the planet.

733. As a former satellite of the solar system URANUS, 8330.5 years ago, calculated backwards from today, it was torn out of its orbit by the traveling planet destroyer and brought in tow by the giant to its present orbit around the sun, as my daughter Semjase explained to you in 1975.

Billy:

Semjase told me pretty much at the beginning of our contacts that the destroyer has been doing his mischief in our solar system since time immemorial and destroyed about 22 million years ago or so old homeworlds of the Lyrans. To my knowledge, however, these lay in a different space-time structure, shifted by a fraction of a second to our space and time. How is it there that the destroyer came after the destruction work with the old Lyranern into our space-time-structure?

Ptaah:

164. The Destroyer then broke through a space-time barrier created by the ancient Syrians, as we still use it today, but in a modernized form, as you would say.

165. At that time, these passage or dimensional gates, as we call them, were constructed in such a way that they opened as soon as any object approached.

166. This also happened as the Destroyer approached, who through unfortunate circumstances came to one of these dimensional gates, shot through and entered this, your space-time continuum, then found his way into this solar system.

167. Today this would no longer be possible, because our passage gates from one dimension to another or to the DAL universe have already been constructed and secured for several million years in such a way that they are probably constant in one place, but only open in response to very specific impulses emitted by our spacecraft.

168. So today it would no longer be possible for a world body to pass unintentionally through one of our many dimensional gates.

Ptaah:

... the Destroyer, which came out of our space-time-structure through a dimensional gate into your space-time-structure and caused a lot of trouble in it, which is why we removed it from the SOL system some years ago and made it harmless.

Ptaah:

64. Except for the planet Venus, all other planets in the SOL system have formed within the system itself and have remained on their original orbits.

65. The planet Venus, however, as you know, was dragged into the interior of the SOL system by the destroyer, as a result of which the direction of rotation also changed, and this was counter-clockwise, as you call it.

... Venus is an 'unfinished' planet, one that could develop into a flourishing planet over millions of years, if all the necessary requirements are met. And it is to be said that Venus can become a flourishing planet, just as another planet has been in almost the same orbit around the sun. About a billion years ago, there was a slightly smaller planet in the same place in the habitat zone as Venus today, but it was torn away by an elemental cosmic event. This planet was not Venus, of course, but a planet not much smaller than Earth, and it was this planet that was swept away by a much larger wandering star (the wandering sun) drifting through the system, but with another small planet already in its wake, but which freed itself from its wake and settled in the orbit around the sun in place of the small planet that had been swept away, which was already bearing its first vegetation. This cosmic catastrophe, however, changed the state of the torn away planet to such an extent that many volcanoes erupted and devastated the surface, after which the wandering star and the torn away and towed planet came into the direct range of SOL gravity and plunged into the sun. Another event that took place about 3,700 years ago was that Venus, which at that time was still a satellite in the ring system of the planet Uranus, was torn out of its home system by another large wandering planet passing through the SOL system and was brought to its present location in its tow more than three and a half millennia ago. This very large wandering planet, called the 'Destroyer', which was about 1.72 times larger than Earth, traversed the SOL system for a very long time and wandered out into the Kuiper Belt, until it returned to the interior of the SOL system at an average rate of about 575.5 years, but this dangerous light-emitting wandering planet was finally taken out of the SOL system by the Plejaren towards the end of the 20th century. ... Thus, in the orbit of the former vegetation-bearing sister planet of the Earth, which had mountains, valleys, fields, forests, lakes, oceans, blue skies and light clouds, Venus was dragged there, but it was a volcanic planet. The first volcanoes that erupted from the surface of the ice planet dragged away by Uranus - today's Venus - created an atmosphere composed mainly of carbon dioxide and water vapor. ... According to the Plejaren, about a billion years ago or a little more, the planet that used to be on the site of today's Venus and was then torn away by a wandering star, is said to have had a vegetative appearance similar to that of the Earth at that time. A slightly blue sky and clouds of water vapor were also part of the planet's appearance, as were rushing rivers and lakes and seas that burst their banks. Green ferns and mosses were present in their original form, and so the first living unicellular organisms also existed from which higher life could have developed. But this was not to be the case, because the action of a wandering star from the depths of space destroyed all harmony and turned the flourishing planet, which had once been on the site of today's Venus, into a volcanic hell. Its mother star, the sun was also affected when the wandering star tore the planet out of its habitable zone and plunged into the sun together with it. ...

102. In the catastrophe, 18,976 human beings were killed.

103. The eruption of Vesuvius produced six pyroclastic flows, respectively clouds, which raced at a tremendous speed down the mountain and across the country and which suffocated all life beneath them.

104. In particular, it was the fourth pyroclastic flow that wiped out so many human lives, while the fifth and sixth just did the remaining.

Billy:

18,976 human beings. – Monstrosity. Was that the whole population?

Quetzal:

105. No, at that time, 25,411 human beings lived in those areas that were destroyed by the volcanic eruption.

Billy:

Then there were still about four fifths who lost their lives.

Quetzal:

106. That is of correctness.

Billy:

What is a pyroclastic flow?

Quetzal:

107. It is a rapidly spreading cloud of hot ash, dust, and air.

Billy:

Aha, then the human beings suffocated and burned when the pyroclastic flows swept over them, destroying everything under themselves.

Quetzal:

108. That is, once again, of correctness.

... Then there was the president George Washington, who actually started the First World War with the Seven Years' War from 1756-1763, which means that three world wars have already taken place and not just two. Although your father Sfath already told me that, but I had completely forgotten it, so I only stumbled upon it again through this chronicle here. Well, Washington, as a military leader in the War of Independence, as a liberal thinker, was also a shrewd leader of state when the Constitution was being drafted. At the age of 22 he was still a British officer in the American colonies. He was thereby then involved in an incident that was fundamentally the cause of the real First World War, which shook the Earth. With 160 soldiers, in 1754, he patrolled the Ohio Valley between British and French territories. In May of that year the French sent a diplomat to get Washington out of their territory. However, the latter ordered the firing on the diplomatic corps, where through the French negotiator and about 13 of his soldiers who went with him were deliberately murdered, with Washington's hope of driving a wedge between the French and the British, because only such a conflict between the two colonial powers could lead to the success regarding the American War of Independence. This felony led to the triggering of the so-called French and Indian War, from which, two years later, emerged the bloody conflicts between the great European powers and thus the Seven Years' War, which was fought in America, Europe and Asia and therefore was worldwide, which is why this was the real First World War which, however, something which is however concealed from the world's population. ...

the murderous machinations of George Washington – the later first US president – who was then still a British officer in the American colonies and had a French delegation of negotiators assassinated. ...

Ptaah:

60. The conspiracy was staged by the slave owner Augustine Washington, born in Great Britain in 1693 and deceased in 1743, the father of the later first President of America George Washington.

61. The conspirators counted several thousand colonists, who secretly called themselves 'Americans' in their circles and who strove to establish their own form of government, which, however, was kept secret from the outside under threat of death, which is why nothing in writing was ever recorded and nothing was ever written to the outside, so that the whole thing could always be kept secret, even to this day.

62. In 1732 his son George Washington was born, who then became the first president of the United States of America and died in 1799.

63. Early on he was involved in the conspiracy of his father, to whom he was completely addicted, following with his followers also the goal of his own 'Americans' state formation and did not omit anything to achieve this goal one day.

64. Although he lacked a good school education, as well as a valuable general education, because he was very uneducated, unread and ignorant, which he could later improve with the help of a decisive woman.

65. Overall, however, he was able to cover up the whole thing to a large extent, to which his origin as part of the economic and cultural elite of the slavery plantation owners of the state of Virginia came in very handy to him, because through his origin he also came into contact with a wealthy and influential and very cultivated nobleman named Lord William Fairfax and won his trust and help.

66. He also owned large estates in Great Britain.

67. At the age of 16 George Washington met the pretty daughter-in-law of Fairfax, Sally Fairfax, with whom he immediately fell in love and established an intimate adulterous relationship with her, which both secretly entertained.

68. Both kept this adulterous liaison alive, but of course secret.

69. This woman was the one who taught him in diverse knowledge and also improved his very weak general education.

70. The secret conspiracy was maintained by George Washington and all co-conspirators.

71. When his half-brother Lawrence Washington married Fairfax's daughter, Anne, he was of course also part of the family and was treated as a family member by her, which made the liaison with Sally Fairfax much easier, which was never known either in the family or to the outside world, because both were absolutely silent about their intimate relationship.

72. George Washington was commissioned in the autumn of 1753 by the Deputy Governor of Virginia, Robert Dinwiddie, to carry out a diplomatic mission, namely that he, as the issuer, should send a letter to the French asking them, on behalf of the British Crown, by Dinwiddie and other representatives of Virginia to give up and leave their outposts in an area disputed between France and England.

73. Washington set out on its mission on 31 October, after which he and his companions were received politely and courteously by the French and treated accordingly, but who were not prepared to make any concessions.

74. This mission, however, brought George Washington public attention for the first time, even though he had failed as an issuer.

75. Nevertheless, in the spring of 1754, when he was only 22 years old, Governor Dinwiddie entrusted him, with the approval of the Virginia House of Representatives, to take command of a small militia troop of 160 men in the spring of 1754, with the task of observing the French outposts located in the western territories as well as the strategically important points.

76. So Washington got a military position of power and gathered the Indian allies around him and had makeshift forts built in order to defend itself better against possible attacks of the superior French forces.

77. In this episode, Washington saw itself in a position to put its and its co-conspirators' conspiracy idea of striving for its own state 'Americans' into the limelight, even if the realization would still take years and it would use great military means, because it now had the opportunity to do so and it could gain great military power.

78. So, in May 1754, the Washington troops and a French troop engaged in combat because he ordered an attack, even though the French troops were under the command of a Joseph de Jumonvilles, who was on his way as an emissary.

79. Washington – his troop, of course, in principle – emerged victorious from the provoked struggle, which was effectively a raid in which the French commander capitulated, but which George Washington, shortly after the battle, had executed in his delusion of power.

80. Less than a month later Washington himself and his troops were captured by superior French soldiers, capitulating after many of his troops had been killed.

81. The French described the Füsilierung of the commander Joseph de Jumonvilles as what it actually was, namely as murder, which Washington also confirmed in a corresponding document, whereby the French granted mercy before justice and released him, after which he then denied the murder he had committed again.

82. And it was these incidents – triggered by George Washington, who was full of hatred and thoughts of revenge against the French and who saw himself as 'Americans' and thus as American – that led to the war from 1754-1763, which from the American point of view is called the French and Indian War, which is regarded as a partial conflict of the Seven Years' War, which then broke out in 1756.

83. And since at that time the entire origin of the First World War began with the machinations and triggered armed conflicts of the aforementioned 'Americans' or early American George Washington, by whose provocation the whole thing could come about in the first place – in the background together with his thousandfold 'Americans co-conspirators' – it is clear to us that the First World War was triggered by the USA with its first citizens, who secretly called themselves 'Americans' or 'American' in a later sense.

84. So George Washington's coping strategy worked, but his and his co-conspirators' intentions did not actually materialize until he became one of the founding fathers of the United States as Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army from 1775 to 1783, with the first states emerging from the 13 colonies in 1776.

85. In 1789 to 1797 he became the first president of the United States of America.

...

Billy:

... But what is interesting is that to this day nothing has ever become public about this 'Americans' conspiracy.

Ptaah:

92. Every announcement, however small, has been punished with death.

Billy:

Are you saying that that's why people were actually murdered?

Ptaah:

93. Yes, there are 73 people in my father's annals who were hanged by the conspirators.

Billy:

This is typical for the USA, even in those days when it was not called 'United States of America', but was called 'Americans' by the conspirators, which is equivalent to 'America'. And that you judge and describe the thing 'World War I' – in which Europe was also involved and which was effectively global – as originating from the USA, that is really plausible, logical and therefore to be understood, because the conspirator George Washington was just as much an 'Americans' – as his co-conspirators were – and his insidious warlike murderous machinations led to war.

Ptaah:

94. As you say, this assessment is logical.

Ptaah:

83. And this was already the case at the earliest and most fundamental times, when George Washington, before he advanced to become the first US president, had a white-flagged French negotiating troop treacherously shot dead.

Sfath {1947}:

138. Even George Washington, who held the presidency as the first president of the United States of America from 1789 to 1797, was a murderer, war criminal and traitor.

Billy:

... And the fact that the American rulers are naïve in their obsession with power – but the US president is particularly naïve – and do not notice that they, the rulers, i.e. the supreme boss and his satellites, are secretly influenced from the outside by the 'dark leadership', does not break the camel's back, but it is enough for everything to slowly get more and more out of hand. Moreover, the whole thing is common practice in the USA, and has been since time immemorial, ever since the first president, George Washington, came to power after the American War of Independence following a murder he committed in 1781 and was called the 'Father of the American Nation'. ...

{Note: The year "1781" must be referring to the year in which Washington "came to power" rather than the year he committed murder, 1754.}
